Joel R. Shaffer, secretary of the Iowa State Agricultural society at Des Moines, sent a letter to Attorney General Stone not long ago which seems to indicate that there will be no state fair held in 1893 on account of the World's fair. In it he asks if the statute which governs the State Agricultural society it would be possible to do away with the regular annual meeting next season, it being the betief of the directors that the World's fair would cut such a swath in the profits of the association that the fair would not be a success in either financial or other respects. The reply of the attorney general is that there is nothing in the stat-utes to provent the association from letting the fair go by the board, and the probability is that this will be done.

Henry Hartz, a gentleman who occupies the position of watchman for the Hammond Packing company at South Omaha and bears a striking resemblance to the lithographs of Ole Oleson, one year over, blew out of the Pacific house yesterday morning at 7 o'clock with a full grown grievance. He had come over from South Omana immediately after getting through his work for the night, and proceeded to bowl up with great vehemence, in company with a friend who managed 'to keep several laps behind him in the race toward total intoxication. After the effects of his jag nad worn off he found that his friends had taken advantage of his intimacy and had made off with $17 in cash from his pockets and a cracker box full of clothes. He reported the case to the city marshal about 2 o'clock but in the meantime the thief had all the opportunity he could have asked for to get to Nebraska. Hartz said he had a wife five children at home who would anxiously await his return, and he sent a message to them to send aim 15 cents at once so that he could come home.

ENTERPRISE PLACE.

A Phenomenal Move in Suburban Reat Estate by Mr. Toft.

Located within easy reaching distance of both Omaha and Council Bluffs is the celebrated farm, formerly owned by Judge Scott, now of Omana, and containing about 400 acres. Whatever may be thought of Judge Scott's eccenshowed sound judgment in picking out this tract of land for a country home, it being one of the most beautiful and highly fertile tracts in all of western Iowa. On his re-moval to Nebraska he sold the farm to Mr. M. Toft, who is equally well known as a capitalist and successful business man. There has been no attempt to sell property in that vicinity, much less any attempt to boom it, and yet there has grown up a demand which has become so strong that after much consideration Mr. Toft has decided to do the very thing he has up to this time steadily refused to do-plat a portion of the land in five and ten-acre lots and offer it for sale. This opens up a rare opportunity for those who want to secure suburban homes with ample facilities for garden and fruit. The location is peculiar in that it combines all the advantages and conveniences of the city, with the comforts and quiet of the coun-A neat little church is already established there, the daily papers are delivered there each morning, and two mails a day are already established. It takes but twenty minutes to reach the electric motor line, so that in forty minutes one can reach the center of Omaha. Mr. Toft himself has for three years been doing business daily in Omaha, going over every morning and returning every evening, so that the practicability of such an arrangement is no longer an experiment. Fruit growers and gardeners at even a further distance on that road take their products to Omaha every morning. There is a fine highway, level and firm, and the drive is a beautiful one. The scarcity of such property, and the wonderful advantages of this peculiar location, will make the property sell like hot cakes, and the prospect is that an almost as if by magic. The wonderful prosperity and steady profits gained in fruit growing and gardening in the vicinity of Council Bluffs makes it practically a certainty that

The Event of the Season at the Boston Store Yesterday Afternoon. There never has been a larger crowd at the Boston Store or any other store in Council Bloffs at any time in its history than gathered there yesterday. There were two attractions, a glove and soap sale. It opened in the morning with the finest castile soap to be had in the market selling for Ic a cake and gloves at corresponding prices. The crowd filled the store and the various bargains were snapped up as quickly as the clerks could hand them out. In the afternoon, however, the proprietors concluded to add a little to the excitement and reduced the price of soap to five bars for a cent. This suited the crowd immensely, and in half an hour the sidewalk was block was blocked. At 3 o'clock another move was made that created an uproar little short of a riot. It was the announcement that every lady in the store and every one that could get in would be given ten cakes of soap free. This announcement was apparently spread by telephone, and everybody seemed to be selzed with the belief that the thing they needed most this world was soap, and they came in platoons to get it. Many ludicrous things occurred. One woman who had by an oversight of the clerk only received five cakes became loud in her complaints until she received the other five. During the afternoon the immense quantity of 14,400 cakes of castile purity were given away, enough to wash the whole town. The crowd that wanted soap had no respect for the handsome Lincoln monument, but laughingly assisted in tearing it down and carried away the bricks of scap of which it was composed. There is no doubt but that was the greatest sale of the kind ever run in the city.

PRUITS AND VEGETABLES.

The Annual Meeting of the Pottawattamie County Growers. The fruit growers and gardeners of Pottawattamie county met in annual session yesterday afternoon at their rooms in the court house. The program, as already pubished, was carried out, the papers read being very interesting. The desired discussion was limited, owing to time being short. The election of officers resulted as uel Avery: secretary, E. H. Sylvester; treasurer, B. S. Porter; executive committee, B. S. Porter, O. J. Smith, L. O. Williams, H. C. Raymond, B. A. Bonham.

Arrangements were made for having the society represented at the annual meeting of the Western Love. the Western Iowa Horticultural society, which is to be held at Corning, December 13. L. O. Williams of this city is the president. One important matter was brought up by President Wood yesterday, it being the necessity of organizing a grape-growers shipping company. In a carefully prepared paper he showed how that for several years past the grape shippers had been at the mercy of the middle men, commission men and others. He held that if grape growing was to be carried on here at a profit in the future some method must be adopted whereby the producer and consumer could be brought nearer each other. He scouted the idea that such an organization would tend to increase the price of grapes to consumers, and illustrated his claim by citing the case of a basket of grapes which was traced this fall from a Council Bluffs vine vard to Denver, where the consumer paid 45 cents for it. When the returns came in the grower got 18 cents for it. Here was a dif-ference of 27 cents. If the grape grower could get 10 cents out of this 27 cents one could afford to drop on the price to the consumer and still be ahead. It was stated that within a few weeks pre-iminary steps would be taken to organize such a society. Mr. L. O. Williams gave a very interest ing historical review of the society, with an argent appeal for more interest and a better attendance. The society was organized four years ago, A. S. Bonham being elected presi-dent and M. E. Myers secretary. Fourteen charter members were enrolled, and the list increased to fifty before the close of the first been made each year, one at the Blue Glass palace at Creston. The farmers congress had been entertained here and an exhibit made at that time. The Mills County society had been entertained here, and the

The draft is missing, and Maher is likewise. The detective was in the city for the purpose of getting some trace of Maher.

The body will be placed in the casket this afternoon. After the services Monday the family will be given a last look at the dead features and the casket will be sealed. Tuesday morning the remains will be taken to Woodlawn cemetery and interred in the family vault beside those of his wife. In accordance with Gould's w shes everything in connection with the funeral will be very plain.

The mystery as to the ailment which wrecked Mr. Gould's health was one feature of his last lilness. Mr. Gould was a victim of neuralgia and nervous dyspepsia, and the announcement that the cause of his death was consumption will be received with a great deal of surprise. But the statement is true. It is further said that the disease is true. It is further said that the disease was of several years standing; that Mr. Gould was aware that he had it and his instructions to his physician, Dr. Munn, were that it should be kept a secret between them ns long as possible. The secret was well kept, and until a couple of weeks ago Mr. Gould is said to have had confidence that Dr. Munn's efforts to delay the progress of the disease would he standed with some the disease would be attended with some measure of success and that he would be able to keep up and get around for some years. But when he came down from Iryington some weeks ago he was not so confident. A slight hemorrhage was followed by several more. "Every one must realize," said Russell Sage, "that in Jay Gould's death the country has sustained a loss which is irreparable. He was universally acknowledged to be one of the leading minds of the age. No one has done so much as he in the development of the resources of the country and the splen did railways constructed and maintained by him will ever be regarded as monuments to his genius and energy."

Dr. Chauncey M. Depew said: Gould's death will have hitle or no effect on the stock markets. He was too sharp a business man to make any mistake about the future. He told me eight weeks ago that his affairs were all adjusted and should be drop dead at any time his business was so arranged that his sons could take charge of his interest at once." Henry Clews said: 'Jay Gould has un-doubtedly been one of the wonders of the world. Abrormally great among money affairs, he had many good qualities. He was generous to a fault, and was invariably true to his friends, but bitter and unforgiving to his enemies. Much of the spread of ratical transportation is due to his remarkable enterprise, sagacity and organization audity."

Dr. Norvin Green would not make an estimate of Mr. Gould's wealth, but he said: "I know that Mr. Gould held $20,000,000 worth of Missouri Pacific, $20,000,000 of Manhattan Elevated railroad and $20,000,000 of Western Union. He always had great faith in these companies and told me some time ago that be wanted them to be retained in his estate. He believed that Missouri Pacific stock would go up to 120, Western Union to 150 and Manhattan to 200. It was always his dea that this part of his fortune should not be dissipated. I do know this in regard to Mr. Gould: He never carried a dollar's worth of life insurance in his life."

Ex-Judge John F. Dillon, who was Mr. Gould's confidential lawyer for many years, and who is said to have made up his will "Yes, there is a will. I can tell vou that. I know that personally. able to tell you anything more about it. The Tribuno says: "It is the impression that Mr. Gould's political sympathies during the recent campaign were largely with the democrats. He is said to have sent small contributions to the republican fund. Some politicians place the amount contributed by Mr. Gould to Cleveland's campaign as high

Flags on all the hotels in the neighborhood of the Gould residence are at half mast to-day, and all the engines on the elevated roads and the Western Union buildings are dressed in black. The directors of the Western Union met this morning and adopted and placed on record a statement setting forth the salient features in his life and the points which contributed to his success. The central point was that he had full faith in the development of this country and risked everything on his judgment. Instead of investing his money in lands and buildings and idly taking the proceeds, he put it into properties which required all the process to develop. His industries his great energies to develop. His industries gave employment to more than 100,000 men. His enterprises contributed more largely to the development and opening of western and southwestern country than that of any other man. The statement further records his modest demeanor in the exercise of an almost unlimited power, and the warmth and steadiness of his friendships and model character of his parental and domestic virtues, and his deeds of disinterested generosity.

The director of the Missouri Pacific and the Manhattan elevated roads also mit and passed appropriate resolutions.

Sorrow at New Orleans. New Orleans, La., Dec. 3.-On Monday the day of Jay Gould's funeral, there will be a holiday of all employes of the Texas & Pacific and Missouri Pacific railways, ex-cept the force usually necessary to run the cars. The offices of the Texas Pacific in this city have been draped in mourning. At a meeting of general officers today resolutions of regret were adopted.

English Comment on Gould's Death, LONDON, Dec. 3 .- In commenting on the death of Jay Gould, the News says: It was Mr. Gould's ambition to be the richest man in the world, but he died disappointed. The Vanderbilts, Astors and Rockefellers head him. Yet all honor to the greatest moneymaker of any age or clime. Napoleon's combinations were never taster and there were many points of resemblance between the two men. It will be impossible to explain one phase of civilization without a frequent mention of Gould's name, therefore he is sure of a place in history.

The Chronicle says: Gould was the pest of scelety a dynamiter of finance; a man with the ethics of an alligator.

The Times says: Mr. Gould's death means the removal of a disturbing influence of vast and incalculable force. The man and of vast and incalculable force. The man and the position be held were products of American life. Such a career could hardly have been possible anywhere but in America. Money is raised in America to a rank higher than it can usefully occupy owing to the absence of class distinctions.

The Times, in a long obituary on Mr. Gould, says he was one of the most remarkable men of the last half of the century. "No other man, unaided by family influence, friends or luck has written himself se deeply into the financial history of the republic.

No other man exercised such a baneful influence on the moral character of the community. Yet the side which he kept hidden from the world was in many ways a striking contrast. He was never accused of extentation and all acquainted with his home life bave but one opinion to express that it was a very kindly one."

Union Pacific Offices Will be Closed. As a mark of respect the offices in the Union Pacific headquarters will be closed on Monday, the day set for Mr. Gould's funeral. The shops will also close during the day. The buildin at headquarters states that Mr. Gould was for many years a member of the board of directors, and all business will cease as some slight recognition of what the decoased did for the Union Pacific. The building is being hung with the emplems of woe and by the time of the funeral will be

There will be no formal 8:30, the principals being men long past middle life. For years there has been a quarrel browing between C. Hosseff and W. J. Crane, who are both well known citizens of this place, and only the diplomacy of friends kept them from "getting together. The bard feelings between the two are of ancient origin and grew out of business relations which they had years ago, Hossoff, feeling himself aggrieved, threatened many times to shoot his old enemy, but circumstances did not present themselves until this morning when Hossoff and Crane met in front of Marshall Brothers' store. A few words passed between the two and then, without warning, Hossoff pulled a revolver and fired three shots in rapid succession, one bullet taking effect under the arm, the other two fly ... wide of the mark.

A crowd instantly gathered and the wounded man was carried into the store, where a physician began proping for the ball, but without success. The doctor would not hazard a prediction as to the man's con-dition until he had further determined the course of the ball, but he believes Crane will recover although his ago, about 60, and the shock which his system sustained are largely against him. Hossoff was arrested at once but refuses to talk now that the deed is done.

LA GRIPPE AGAIN.

The Russian Influenza in the Country - Probable Epidemic.

According to the latest advices we are about to suffer another epidemic of la grippe. The Russian influenza has manifested itself in New York, and the ndications are that it will be prevalent this winter, as it has the previous two. People suffering from any disease of the nose, throat or lungs are more in danger of being attacked by the grip than those who are not so affected. Those who have weak stomachs also invite the disease. Now is the time to prepare for winter. If you are at all inclined toward taking cold or if you suffer from a catarrhal affection do yourself the justice to have your trouble removed by careful medical treatment and avert sickness, suffering, and possibly death. Perhaps no disease that has ever visited this country has been as fatal as the grip

CATARRH SINCE CHILDHOOD

Mrs. Waish Had a Sad Experience With This Powerful Disease-Her Story.

Few people seem to realize the serious esults of catarrhal disease when allowed to run clot through the general system. It impairs the lungs, the stomach and bowels, the kidneys, the blood and the nerves. It weakens the system and thereby invites other diseases. Mrs. Lina Walsh, 25th and Blaine streets, South Omaha, wife of P. J. Walsh, with the Cadahy Packing company, has this to say:

MRS. LINA WALSH.

When I was a little child I in some way con-acted catarrh, and have had it until now. I did of notice it much at first, but it steadily grew or me until I was in a miserable condition indeed. For the past three years my head, at times, nearly set ne crazy -on top and in the back and down my nees. My throat choked up with polyonous matter which dripped backward from my stepped up nose-I would swallow the matter without knowing I, and this trought on disease of the stomach. I always wanted to voint after calling and there would be a feeling of pain, oppression sources, and beiching. The enterchal poison reemed to go all through my system. Nothing seemed to do me a particle of good, but when Drs. opeland and Shepard began treating me 1 imands me truly a new woman. I have gained in strength and flesh and am free from pain. My did gestion is splendid and I know the catarrhis en o tirely out of my system after having poisoned y
