Warning Old Amos Shoused at the Indifferent Hebrews Expounded for the Edification of Modern Gentiles-His Talk to the Mothers.

The musical prelude to the sermon preached by Evangelist Mills last night was the very effective singing by Mr. Hillis of "The hand of God on the wall." The voice of the singer has a poculiar penetrating quality that reaches the every corner of the hall and in addition to this the tones are all sweet and agreeable.

lukewarm Christians. The people of Israel had become indifferent to the real worship of God, and it became necessary to have such men as Ames to sound the cry of alarm. Speaking of the Jewish race, Mr. Mills said that the Jews had suffered because of their unfaithfulness to God. They were warned by Ames and the prophets, but would not beed the warning. The history of the Jew-sish race had been written as prophecy cen-turies ago, but it would be well for people to keep their eyes on the Jews-during the im-mediate future.

But there were other classes of people to whom the warning of God had come. The trumpet call had been sounding in the cars of professed Christians, but many of them of professed Christians, but many of them were apparently dead in sin. One dead or indifferent Christian could do more harm than a score of acknowledged sinners. Nothing in the world could or did do so much harm as the lifeless Christian. God would hold many professed Christians responsible for the ruin of those who had stumbled and fallen by looking at the example set them by more who professed to live Christian lives. men who professed to live Christian lives.
"The meanest thing that crawis upon the earth," said Mr. Mills, "is the hypocritical Christian."

Some people held God responsible for their financial losses. Such men were not upon very intimate terms with God. Men who walked with God daily would succeed in every legitimate undertaking. If a man would fully trust God his business would never suffer. The thing that men should do was to dedicate their business to the Lord. Sidney Smith said one could tell what the Lord thought of money by looking at the people He gave the money to. When God found a man He could trust every day in the week and under all circumstances He in the week and under all circumstances He usually gave him plenty of money.

Shied at the Press.

Speaking of the average Christian busi-ness man the speaker said that when Sunday morning came along this man got up and turned the weekly sewer that came to his home through the Sunday newspapers into his mind for an hour or two and got his brain all full of secular and sinful things before church time arrived. He went to church and listened to a lot of music given in some-thing like a foreign tongue and he heard a sermon upon astronomy or geology or the fine scenery of the country. There was not enough spirituality in the churches. There was too much stupid in-difference and carelessness among church members. Christian people were too modest. too timid in presenting the claims of the gospel. The righteous man was like the palm tree, he would prosper at all times.

"It is better for a church to have one member who can do 365 things for the cause of Christ, said the speaker, "than to have 805 members who can do but one thing. Some people are a good deal like the steam-boat that Sam Jones used to talk about. It had such a large whistle and such a small boiler that every time the pilot wanted to blow the whistle he had to stop the boat. God have mercy upon the man who has only religion enough to take him out to church on

Bowing Their Stiff Necks.

After a closing exhortation in which Mr. Mills pleaded with his hearers to become carnest, active Christians, he extended the invitation to all who wished to begin the Christian life to stand just a moment. A large number arose, thus asking the prayers of the Christian people. The eards were distributed, and several hundred were signed and returned. A very interesting after meeting was held for the benefit of those who made the start last night.

Talked to the Mothers.

Yesterday afternoon more than 1,000 women, mostly mothers, went to hear Mr. Mills on the text, "Her children shall rise up and call her blessed." The preacher devoted his time to the setting forth of the great influence a mother has on her chil-dren. He told many anecdotes aptly illus-trating the points he made, and related his own experience and conversion as showing the power of a mother's prayer. The train ing of children is one of the gravest responsi-bilities that is laid on mortals, and the most of this work devolves naturally on the mother. She it is who may make or mar the whole life of her offspring. It is the noblest thing a mother can do to train her child so that in years to come the little one will rise up and call her blessed. The sermon closed with an earnest, fervent prayer for the wel-fare of the congregation and the families therein represented.

Revival Notes,

Wednesday will be a rally day in Omaha among religious people of the city. The en-tire day will be given up to religious meet-ings. The first thing in the merning will be neighborhood prayer meetings. These meet-ings will be followed by the meeting for men at the Young Men's Christian association, the regular services at Exposition hall in the afternoon and evening and the meeting for women at the First Baptist church Lehmann, 1508 Douglas street.

There are no collections taken up at any of the Mills meetings. The evangelist is too much of a business man for that. He never opens a meeting in a place until all the money needed to pay the expenses has been collected and placed in the bank.

About Little Tuesday.

Frank Lane, whose opinions of entertainments and entertainers should be good if long experience brings good judgment, said, as he stood looking at the happy face of a as he stood looking at the happy face of a sunny-haired, bine-eyed little miss, whose pictures have adorned the bill boards and dead walls of Omaha the past few days:

"There is the only child T have ever seen on the boards who does not make me want to get up and leave the theater. She is the only child I have ever seen on the stage that does not remind me of one of Edison's phonographic dolls. A parrot-like training that is painful to me is manifest in all of them. Not so with "Sweet Little Tucsday." She is a born artiste; not the creation of the teacher of elecution, the stage manager and dancing born artistic; not the creation of the teacher of elecution, the stage manager and dancing teacher. She is as pretty as a dream and as artistic as Modjeska. She possesses originality, in ingenuous and has the most charming personality. 'Little Tuesday,' though only 6 years old, is as well known and as popular in New York, Boston and other large eastern cities as many of the most popular estage people."

"Stiff Alarm" at Boyd's. People fond of melodramatic plays may see one of the better class in "The Still Alarm," which began an engagement at the Boyd last evening. The play is built on conven-tional lines with the usual rich old father in the power of a villain, the presty girl whose hand is demanded by the scoundrel and the poor but noble here whose course of true love Owing doubtless to the very disagreeable weather, the audience was not so large as upon previous evenings, and yet there must have been nearly 2,000 people present.

The merit of her performance is the grace and diableric of her gyrations, and as the dancing is all done in long skirts it at no time i in the slightest degree vulgar. ### FIRE AND POLICE.

Statistical Records of the Departments for November-Leaves Granted.

Chief of Police Seavey reported to the fire and police commissioners at their meeting last night that 1,820 meals had been served to prisoners confined in the city jail during the month of November at a cost of $182. The patrolmen lost 201 days last month eighty-two by sickness and the remainder on account of annual leave. On account of sickness and injuries the firemen lost nine days time during the same period. Officers Fahey and O'Brien were each granted ten days leave and the police matron five days. Captain George Blake of hose company No. 9 was allowed his annual leave feetive sidewalk and injured one of his legs, was allowed $50 from the police relief fund.

Henry Lake was appointed a special policeman to patrol Fifteenth street from Douglas to Webster streets.

The Hutchinson reward case came up again in the shape of a committee report. It will be remembered that Hutchinson was one of the parties who broke into St. John's church and was captured in Grand Island for a burglary committed there. The prisoner was turned over to the Omaha officers and later on to Rochester, N. Y., officials, who paid a reward of $200 for the man. Chief Dean and Officer Murphy of Grand Island wanted a slice of the reward and brought the matter before the commissioners. # DEAD IN RAMSHACKLE ALLEY

Against a Bed.

HIS PAL SUSPECTED OF HIS MURDER

They Were Bums Living in an Old'shanty-John Mack Tells Conflicting Stories of His Chum's Last Night.

The dead body of Jock Howland, a charneter well known to saloon loungers, was found in a timble down shanty in "Ramshackle" alloy yesterday morning, and circumstances seem to indicate that he came to his death some time last night at the hands of John Mack, his partner and roommate, during a drunken quarrel. The alley in question is situated between Fifteenth and Sixteenth and leads from Webster to Burt streets, and the shanty has been occupied jointly by the two men for some time. It contains one room and one bed, and when Howland's body was found yesterday morning he was sitting on the floor with his head leaning against the bed.

He had been addicted to the excessive use of liquor all his life, and his excesses had resulted in frequent visitations of "jim lams" and a chronic St. Vitus dance. It was believed at first that his constitution was believed at first that his constitution, undermined by protracted sprees, had finally succumbed to the alcoholic poison, and the body was removed to Swanson & Vallen's undertaking rooms, an inquest being con-

When first interrogated he told the officers that he had slept in a livery barn down town the night before. He could not tell whose barn it was or where it was located, and arn it was or where it was located, and imally he admitted that he had slept with Howland in the shanty. Sub-equently he told a number of different sto-ies as to the occurrences of the night. First he said he knew nothing about How land. Then he admitted that they had quarreled during the night and he had pushed Howland over to the other side of the bed. He afterwards said that he had pushed Howland out of bed and that was all he knew about it.

The officers questioned him until he confessed having dragged Howland in from the alley and set him up against the bed. He said that Howland was frothing at the mouth when dragged in but denied having hit him with any weapon. This was all that he would say, and he was locked up while the case was being further investigated. Both men had been burns about town for a long time. Howland had been employed as a porter in various saloons when sober enough to work, and Mack took care of a team for Abner Travis, a garbage hauler. Howland had a brother in town, who is em-

CATARRH SINCE CHILDHOOD

Mrs. Walsh Had a Sad Experi encs With This Powerful Disease-Her Story.

Few people seem to realize the serious results of cataerhal disease when allowed to run riot through the general system. It impairs the lungs, the stomach and bowels, the kidneys, the blood and the nerves. It weakens the system and thereby invites other diseases. Mrs. Lina Walsh, 25th and Blaine streets, South Omaha, wife of P. J. Walsh, with the Cudahy Packing company, has this
