Ormsby was tried by a court martial in California, in May, 1888, on the charge of "conduct to the prejudice of good order and discipline," and on being found guilty was subjected to six months' confinement. First, suspended from duty; second, suspension from rank; third, degradation for two years; fourth, loss of all pay, except $50 per month, and fifth, the official reprimand by the secretary of the navy.

Removals of Changes to Be Made in Affairs at Homestead.

New York, Jan. 23.—Among the passengers on the North German Lloyd steamship Emperor Wilhelm II, which arrived today were Mrs. Carnegie, his wife and Miss Whitefield, Mrs. Carnegie's sister, who had been abroad for some time. Mr. Carnegie and his party left directly after the ship was made fast in her berth and entering a coach they were driven rapidly away. At Mr. Carnegie's house, 3 West Fifty-first street, Henry Clay Frick met his chief and for several hours the two were closeted together. To all requests for an interview, Mr. Carnegie said that he had nothing to say for publication.

Before Mr. Frick left Homestead he was reported to have said that everything at the scene of the recent strike was just as he wanted it, and it would remain so unless Mr. Carnegie should "put his foot in it" when he arrived home. The long conference today was, it is said, caused by the lieutenant's efforts to keep Mr. Carnegie's foot out of it. A. B. Scott of Pittsburg called on his chief later in the day. At the time of the Homestead strike Mr. Carnegie was said to have decided to withdraw the offer he made to donate a public library for the city of Pittsburg, and Mr. Scott is here to make an effort to have the offer remain good.
