NEWS FROM COUNCIL BLUFFS

Provan of Boy Burglar Worden Grows as His Trail is Cleared Up WAS NO TROUBLE FOR HIM TO STEAL He Passed Doors at His Will and Hypnotized Savage Bull Dogs When Encountered— Was Looking for a Typewriter When Taken.

The police spent a good share of the day yesterday in investigating the case of J. P. Worden, the young man whose exploits in the wholesale burglary business were recounted in THE BEE. Worden has insisted all along that he was the only one implicated in the transaction, but there is some very strong circumstantial evidence to show that he does not tell all he knows. At 10 o'clock Saturday night, the night on which the Spetman burglary was committed, Worden called at Kiel's hotel, next door to Spetman's store, with two companions, and bought some cigars. It was only a few minutes after 12 that the sound of crashing glass was heard by some of Spetman's neighbors.

A further examination into the young man's effects resulted in the discovery of a number of articles that were stolen from Brackett's local stores. Among other things there were a hand glass and a lot of books, some of them on the subject of short hand and others on bookkeeping. Worden had a friend who clerked in Brackett's, and these books were given to him by that friend. This makes two places where he has exercised his talents, while there may be others not heard from. Worden evidently expected to make a raid on some office where there was an unaided typewriter, for he had told the other boys he had a raid on the government office of the (Sullivan's) bull dog. "I've been finding that dog on raw meat to make him vicious," said he "for the past six months, and I've a great urgency to know how you managed him."

"Oh, I just jatted him on the head and he wagged his tail, and we were friends," the Sullivan is trying to sell his bull dog.

MAJORS AT SOUTH OMAHA

Major Walters and Mr. Wyman Have a Dispute Concerning the Liquor License Law—A Large Number of Bills Settled.

The city council met last night and transacted the usual amount of business. A little tilt between Major Walters and Comdaniel Wyman with regard to enforcing the ordinance revoking the license of Saloon-keeper Kitch was the only incident to vary the monotony of routine business. Wyman wanted the license law enforced and Walters said he was ready to enforce it whenever all other saloonkeepers wanted to be equally guilty of violating the law were served the same way, which caused Wyman to retort that no effort was being made to secure evidence against others. It looks as if the matter would not be dropped very suddenly.

The Missouri Pacific railway company presented a communication, offering to pay a portion of its taxes, $214.37, but not the interest on personal taxes, and presented a voucher which would be a receipt in full for all taxes. It was referred to the city attorney.

Dr. Carter stays here. The report that Dr. Carter had accepted a call to the pastorate of the Christian church at Creston appears to have originated in a simple fact that he supplied that pulpit for one Sunday. He says he has no intention of leaving Council Bluffs and the report is wholly without foundation.

People Pester Old Probabilities with Immaterial and Incompetent Questions. Last night a Bee reporter climbed the three long flights of iron stairs in the post-office building in order to call upon Captain G. E. Hunt, local forecast official of Jerry Reilly's weather bureau.

Notwithstanding the fact that the wind was blowing from the north at the rate of about forty miles an hour and the exposed thermometers were 'way down below zero, Uncle Sam's weather prophet was in a good humor and put in all of his spare time shoveling anthracite into a big heater regardless of expense.

A petition for an electric light and fire alarm at Twenty-sixth and F streets, and a fire plug at Twenty-fifth and E streets, was referred to the committee on gas and public utilities.

Wanted the Position. An item from Washington which appeared in THE SUNDAY BEE is reproduced here, as it is of special interest to many South Omaha people. It reads as follows: Applications continue to pour in at the Agricultural Department for the position of chief microscopist in the South Omaha packing plant. It is stated that there will not only be a number of these appointments made this season, but that on account of the decrease in poultry business many of these some of those already employed will be discharged.

The fire department responded promptly and succeeded in extinguishing the flames before they did damage. The ladies of the First Methodist Episcopal church will go into the restaurant business at the church Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of this week. Meals will be served and all are invited to eat at the banquet hall of the church. The object is to raise money toward building a church.

The National Live Stock exhibition at Lincoln, Neb. is expected to be the largest of Omaha, said he thought it was a good town, commercially speaking, but he did not think the market in the Third ward in the city had a great curiosity to see what kind of people they are at home.

Prof. Reynolds, the hypnotist, whose wonderful power has been exhibited at the Young Men's Christian association hall, Omaha, during the past week, will remain in the city for a number of days. Omaha people, including former students of Yale college, who witnessed the marvelous powers of his hypnotic influence during the past week, have dropped in on him, and all agree that his experiments are the most marvelous exhibitions of the power of man over his fellow creatures since the world began. Any one who wishes to spend an evening in unbroken laughter and at the same time add to his or her knowledge, should go to see Prof. Reynolds before the week closes.

head such a stinging blow that it died without a flutter of its wings. The snake seemed to have the wonderful power of lengthening its body out nearly double its normal length, and as small as a whalebone whip, the heavier part being next to the part wrapped around the tree. After killing the quail and rabbit the snake hammered the body into a pulp, bones and all, with its head, and then swallowed the whole business. The swallowing showed that the hammer part of the head could be laid back out of the way while the swallowing was done. Every effort possible with the appliances they had with them was made to get one of the snakes, but they failed.

Smart Washington Girls. The young women of Washington are not all given over to the social fascinations of the city. Miss Spofford, only daughter of the librarian of congress although one of society's favorites, is a member of charitable and scientific organizations and is a leading spirit in the Women's Anthropological society of America. Miss Emily Mason, daughter of the curator of the National museum, is one of the directors of the same association and a writer on scientific subjects. Miss Mary Dean Powell, whose father, Major Powell, is director of the geological survey, is both a remarkable pianist and a student of science.

Much Divided. The small town of Griffin, N. C., can probably lay claim to more divisions than any other small place in the country. The village is located, it is said, in two counties. There are two congressional districts, two senatorial districts and two judicial districts.

A Pastor Resigns. Rev. L. A. Hall has resigned the pastorate of the Temple Baptist church, with which he has been ever since he moved from the First church, a little over a year ago.

Rev. L. A. Hall has resigned the pastorate of the Temple Baptist church, with which he has been ever since he moved from the First church, a little over a year ago. He has had this in view for some little time and his decision was announced to the church at its Sunday morning service. Just what is the cause for his action is not stated but it is commonly understood to have resulted from the inability of the organization to support a pastor. The members have made vigorous efforts to raise the necessary funds, but they are few in number and have been unable to meet the running expenses of the church. Mr. Hall still retains the popular vote he had at first, and it was with intense disappointment that the announcement of his decision was heard by the church. Whether the resignation of Mr. Hall means the abandonment of the organization cannot be said yet, as the members themselves have not had time to form any plans for the future. The resignation takes effect March 1. Mr. Hall, it is said, has received a number of flattering offers from other churches.

Didn't see the joke. J. A. Buckley, who lives on Samuel Avery's farm at the head of Franklin avenue, ran a lot of corn thieves off his place last Friday night and chased them. He had an idea that he would find them lugging about Eric Gibson's saloon on South Main street, and so Saturday night he stayed at the saloon and saw several horns being lifted. He found that his horse, which he had left standing hitched to a telephone pole at the rear end of the building, was missing. Yesterday he came into town at the roadside and found that Sam Dobson had it. Dobson did not know how he came by it, but said that when he arrived at his home Saturday night he found the saddle in his sleigh. Inasmuch as he had found the horse, however, he refused to give it up. Buckley finally went to the city clerk and swore out an information charging both Gibson and Dobson with larceny.
