ASKED TO SHOW SOME SIGN OF FAITH

If Evidence of Good Intention is Afforded the Improvements Proposed for North Twentieth Street May Be Put Through in Time.

Some of the members of the city council think that the issue between them and John W. Paul as to paving North Twentieth street is not fully understood by the public. They do not wish to be looked upon as standing in the way of any improvement that would tend to the advantage of Council Bluffs, but have allowed the matter to hang fire in order that Mr. Paul might have time in which to show that he really meant bush ness and was not seeking to have the street paved merely in order to endance the value of his real estate in the northwestern part

"The statement that Mr. Paul has agreed to pave the street from Avenue G to the levee, if the city will order the paving done from Broadway to Avenue G and assess the cost up to the property owners, is not cor rect," said Councilman Smith yesterday. "He may have made some such premise of the outside in a general way, but the council has never seen anything of the kind in writeing, and the petition which was jusented about three months are ask ing that the street be paved is entirely silent on the subject. Besides, the the cost of paving, curbing and sewer on that part of the street between Broadway and avenue G, would amount to more than the abbutting property would sell for, and what is to hinder him from letting his lots go for taxes after we have put in the improvements! It is his property in the extreme northwestern part of the city that he expects to be most benefited by the paving and he might be willing to let go of all the lot fronting on Twentieth street if by so doing he could have the entire street paved.
"The cost of the intersections alone which

"The cost of the intersections alone, which the city would have to pay, between Broadway and Avenue G, would be $2.880, according to the estimate of the city engineer. That is a large amount to lay out for the benefit of a single property owner. If Mr. Paul would lay a brick, or show a contract with some manufacturing enterprise, or in any other way convince us that he was going be do something for the good of the city into do something for the good of the city in-stead of selling out his privileges to an out-fider, as he did a few years ago, most of the objections would be removed, and we should, in all probability, go on with the work as he

THREE CONVENTIONS TODAY. Political Parties Will Put Their City Tickets

in the Field. Today promises to be an interesting one from a political standpoint, as three conventions will be held between the hours of 2 o'clock p. m. and 10. The conventions are of considerably more than ordinary interest, for it is likely that resolutions will be pre-sented to one or more of them on the subject of the difficulty with the motor company with a view to putting the members of the party, and especially the men whom they choose as candidates, on record upon that all absorbing question.

The opinion seems to prevail that it is upon that line that the battle will be fought this spring, and that the voters will insist upon knowing how the candidates stand be-upon knowing how the candidates stand be-fore casting their ballots.

The republicans will open the ball this af-ternoon at 2 o'clock at the superior court room and choose a candidate for councilman at large and a candidate for park commissioner. The democrats will hold their convention at 8 o'cloca in the evening at the same place, and while they are transacting their pusiness, the payalists will meet at their business the populists will meet at their headquarters, 15 Main street, and place in nomination their candidates. With three tickets in the field the contest promises to be a lively one.

The republicans met last evening in the various wards and chose the men who will be the wards and chose the men who will be the wards and chose the men who will be the wards and chose the men who will be the wards and chose the men who will be the wards and chose the wards are the wards are the wards and chose the wards are the wards and chose the wards are t net as delegates in today's convention. BLESSING THE MISSIONER

Formal Welcome to Rev. Crapsey at Trinity Cathedral.

BISHOP WORTHINGTON ENJOINS A DUTY

Churchmen Should Attend Services with Receptive Hearts-The Missioner Discusses the Mission-Quiet Day

Services-Noon Meetings.

The mission at Trinity cathedral, in which all the Episcopal churches of the city will co-operate, was inaugurated last evening by the reception by Bishop Worthington of the herald sent to teach the Word. Interest in the mission has been on the increase, and it culminated last evening by a large audience of church people. The services were decidedly novel, as well as instructive, as huneds in the congregation had their first experience in the "office of the benediction of a nissioner." After a short service of prayer and song and the reading of the epistles by Canon Whitmarsh, Deau Gardner, addressing the bishop, said: Right reverend father in God, I present unto Thee this person, who desires mission and benediction for the work of an evangelist in this our city and cathedral.

Bishop Worthington-Let the mandate of is appointment be read.

Dean Gardner then read as follows: Receiving the Missioner.

I. George, by Divine permission bishop of "I George, by Divine permission bishod of Nebraska, having duly questioned Algernon S. Crapsey, priest, who is desirous of devoting himself to the work of preaching and teaching the word of God, and having satisfied myself of his soundness of dectrine, godliness of life and sufficiency of knowledge and zeal in the work of the ministry, hereby appoint and authorize him to labor for the furtherence of the gospel in this our city and cathedral."

Then the bishop addressed the candidate "Dost thou in the sight of God and this congregation accept this appointment to abor in this our city and cathedral?"
Missioner—I do!
Bishop—Dost thou promise steadfastness.

faithfulness and zeal for souls therein!
Missioner—I do so promise, the Lord being

Bishop. The Lord be with you and with thy spirit. Let us pray. Almighty God, who didst send Thy only begotten son into the world for the redemption of mankind, and that the gospel of His kingdom might be made known through the preaching of His apostles, send, we pray Thee. Thy Holy Spirit upon this, Thy servant, whom Thou hast called to labor in Thy vineyard. Anoint him to preach the gospel to the poor, send him to heal the broken hearted, to preach deliverence to the captives and re-covery of sight to the blind, to set at liberty them that are bruised, and to preach the acceptable year of the Lord, and grant that he may follow after righteousness, godliness, falth, love and meckness through Jesus Christ, our Lord, Grant, O Lord, to this Thy servant, aptness to teach and to these. Thy people, willingness to learn Thy blessed will, that the hearts of the disobedient may be turned to the wisdom of the just and we be an acceptable people in Thy sight. Through Jesus Christ, our Lord. After the singing of a hymn Bishop Worthington preached a short sermon outlining the work to be done during the conrinuance of the mission and what would be expected from church people. His text was taken from Ezra x, 4: "Arise for this matter belonging unto thee."

Bishop Worthington's Exhortation. "Ezra," said the bishop, "had been sent, much like the present missioner, to tell people of their sins, of their violation of the law of God. He had exhorted them to repensance, he had spoken to them collectively and as a congregation to arise and go to their Father. While Ezra was one of the earliest Father. While Ezra was one of the earliest of the missioners, we have through the providence of God been sent a messenger to exhort us, to point out the way that leadeth toward heaven. He is to unfold to us the whole counsel of God during these services. Recognize, I beseech you, the character of the person who has come to us as a missioner. He is come to lift you up from your dead selves to the heart of God. If you thus recognize the mission and the missioner if you are as you have been exhorted, then will be an outpouring of the divine spirit such as this city has not seen; a blessing will be given us that we will not have room to receive it. Those who are careless will arouse themselves, those who are penitent will hear the words of tenderness and love and all hindrances will be removed from the pathway that leads toward holiness.

"When the herald whom God has sent is speaking to us it is the duty of every one to trim the search lights within, and, after due confession is made, to cry aloud for mercy and forgiveness. And this personality that characterizes our work is not con fined to the primary character of the work but to other obligations which are placed upon us. It is our duty to bring under the influence of the gospel those persons who are yet outside the foid. You are your brothers' keeper. You are asked, then, to go out into the highways and search for those who do not know the sweet, sad story

Therefore, let me exhort you earnestly "Therefore, let me exhort you earnestly to individual endeavor toward perfect holinesss in this mission which is now inaugurated. Realize the personal obligation, the individual duty placed upon you and your faithful attendance upon these services. If you do it cannot fail to have an effect upon your neighbor, and we will in this way do the duty we owe to God and this mission. Whether this mission shall be a blessyer to Whether this mission shall be a blessing to this church, city and diocese depends not wholly upon the missioner, faithful as he may be, but it depends upon the church peo-ple of this city, upon you and those belong-ing to you. Realize that you are here not as critics upon these services but are sinners who have come to hear a message from God." Then, turning to Mr. Crapsey, the bishop

"I hope, dear brother, you will have courage to tell these people of their sins. Tell them of the holiness of Gou; bid them repent lest it be too late. I give you my blessing."

Explaining the Mission. Mr. Crapsey, although he had preached five sermons to the clergy during the day, told the congregation what his idea of a mission was. He had been asked to come to Omaha to preach a mission. The main thing to be guarded against was overconfidence in himself. Was it possible for a man by himself to save a single soul? On his way here from the east he had gone through the Sarnia tunnel under the St. Clair river. How was it possible for man to bore through the earth like that! The engineer had studied the matter, brought the forces of nature to his aid and directed the men who did the work. By himself, with one pair of hands, he could not have done it. So the missioner could not of him-self save any one. He would have to bring

God to direct his aid and then he would One of the main objects of the mission was instruction in Christian doctrine. To this end one service a day, at 10:30 a.m., had been set apart during the mission, and he expected during the twelve days that it lasted to go over the main points in the realm of Christian doctrine.

He appealed earnestly to the members of the congregation to lend him their assistance in making the mission a success, and he felt sure that if they did so God would make the mission a blessing to Omaha. This closed the reception of the missioner, and Dean Gardner announced that the noonday services for business men would com

Instructing the Clergy. Yesterday the "quiet day" services in con-nection with the mission were held in Trinity cathedral. They were for the clergy of the diocese of Nebraska only. The service commenced with morning prayer and the litary at 9 o'clock. At 10 Rev. Crapsey began the first meditapart of the ministernal career which is spoken of generally as preaching.

At 1 o'clock there was an interval for lunch, which was served in the crypt of the cathedral. At 2:30 Mr. Crapsey conducted the third meditation, the subject of which was the priestly office. The subject of the fourth meditation was the kingly office, and of the fifth the pastoral office. Mr. Crapsey spoke in a very clear and forcible manner, which was very much enjoyed by those present.

church affairs of Council Bluffs:

Be it resolved That the Temple Baptist church accept the resignation of their pastor. Rev. L. A. Hall to take effect March I. 1893.

We recommend to the Temple Baptist church that our services be discontinued after February 26, 1893, until such time as the pulpit committee, nereafter to be appointed, may deem wise to call the church together.

Be it further resolved, That in accepting the resignation of our beloved pastor. Rev. L. A. Hall, we do so with feelings of the deepest regret; that we fully appreciate the loyalty, the faithfulness and the great self-sacrifice that he and his beloved wife have manifested in organizing and putting upon a firm foundation the beginnings of a prosperous Baptist church. We will not endeavor to express in words the feelings of kindness and sympathy that we have for you.

May God bless you and build you up in your future work. And may God bless us as a church and build us up in such a way that we may all feel that this work has not been in vain, but that it is for the best interest of the Baptist cause.

The little ones of the kindergarten observed Washington's birthday yesterday. A number of the mothers and friends were present, who enjoyed the exercises greatly The songs and games combine instruction with pleasure in so charming a manner as makes one wonder why more parents do not avail themselves of this privilege of putting their children under such excellent influcuces. Yesterday's evercises were in the main only such as characterize the every day work of the kindercarten, rather than any holiday attempt to show off the children. It is astonishing what feeble and misshapen conceptions are held concerning the work being done by the kindergarten. Such op-portunities to get truer ideas of the work are very helpful, therefore, as well as enjoy-able. Visitors are always welcome, and Mrs. Hardman, Miss Baldwin and assistants are so enthusiastic in their work that the gladly grant all information possible. It i marvelous what development the children gave in their ideas of color form, figures, etc., and the amount of general information concerning natural history, morals and bi-ography, while seemingly at play.
