This precipitated a row and members sprang to their feet for recognition. Casper did not propose to espouse other men's quarrels, and would keep his nose out by not voting. McKesson made a motion to table Soder-man's resolution, and it was lost.

The vote on the resolution received only a few votes. Howe and others asked members to refrain from voting, as the difficulty oc curred outside the legislative halls, and the request was almost unanimously complied Soderman, in explaining his vote, said: "I know that matters pertaining to a row outside in the corridors have no right to intrude themselves on the attention of this house, but the placing of floral tributes on a member's desk for slapping his fellow man in the face is a change and discrete to this legislature. We shame and disgrace to this legislature. We have no right to allow this as lawmakers, and we should express our disapproval of any such a thing. Mr. Speaker, I insist on every member voting. They should show their colors, and not be cowardly and hide behind the pretext of not voting."

He Showed His Shame.

While Soderman was talking he looked write Soderman was taking he looked across the hall toward Sheridan and that worthy winced visibly. He knew that the sentiment of the respectable portion of the house condemned his method of righting his fancied grievances, and ne quietly slid down behind the withering flowers that told him that he had at least the sympathy of the Dorgan collusionists on the Board of Public Lands and Buildings. Just before the noon recess Sheridan sent up a written apology for his action of yester-day. It was very brief, and set forth the fact that, realizing that his conduct was not such as should come from the occupant of a public position, and had tended to cause adverse comment on the entire house, and without entering into a discussion of the causes that led to it, he desired to thus pub-

The apology was ordered spread upon the records of the house and the noon recess was then ordered

Other Bills on Passage.

The afternoon session was devoted to the passage of the bills. The following were Passed:

House roll No. 278, by Lingenfelter, for the relief of Scotts Bluff county, Neoraska, and to appropriate $7,495.73 to said county, by a vote of 67 to 10.

Nebraska entitled "Public Finances," by a vote of 71 to 2. House roll No. 120, by Ames, to provide for a state board of arbitration, and fixing the duties thereof, was recommitted to the committee for the purpose of substituting scuate file No. 42, which provides for the same thing, and has already been passed by the upper house, House roll No. 191, by Watson, to amend section 61 of title iv of the Code of Civil Procedure falled to secure the necessary fifty-one votes, and did not pass. House roll No. 380, by Gaffin, to repeal sec-tion 36 of chapter laxifi, Annotated Statutes of 1891 (by Wheeler) entitled "Real Estate"

Howe and Gaffin Disagree.

A little tilt between Howe and the speaker occurred before the roll was called. The Inter called attention to the fact that when was before the committee of the whole it was charged that the measure was a victous one and was drawn in the interest of Omaha parties. It had been stated that Chief Justice Maxwell declared it to be a vicious bill. He wanted to say that he had walted on the chief justice and had been assured that it was not a vicious bill and that certain parts of it, at least, ought to become

This put Howe on the defensive. He said had declared that bill to be a victous one on the authority of Judge Maxwell, and that it was now a question of veracity be-tween himself and the speaker and he was of the opinion that he would stack up as well in that respect as would the presiding Soderman Seared a Point.

Soderman refrained from voting on the bill, and when Oakley, who was in the chair, insisted on his voting, the gentleman from Pholps declared that a precedent was estabished at the morning session that would allow him to remain without voting. This reference to the action of members of the house in refusing to vote on his resolu-tion condemning the Sheridan formi tribute called forth applause. Gifford picked up one of the vases of flowers, which had been on Sheridan's desk, flowers, which had been en Sheridan's desk, and took it across the hall and deposited it on Sherman's desk, while several of the members again applicated. Sherman gained recognition by the chair to say that his action in refraining from voting was not because he desired revenge for the ruling made at the morning session, but because he did not know enough about the measure to vote on it intelligently. He insisted, moreover, that he had not slapped any one in the face, and picking up the vase of flowers carried it and deposited it on the chief clerk's desk.

Richetts' Civil Rights Bill.

A communication was received from the governor stating that he had signed the senate bill which was substituted for Rick-etts civil rights bill, and the members ap-plauded out of regard for Ricketts. House roll No. 352, by Watson, to amend section 485 of the Consolidated Statutes of ebraska, relating to insurance companies falled to pass with an emergency clause, and it was allowed to go over for a day in order that the constitutionality of the bill wight be inquired into. The bill is designed to allow ompanies insuring live stock to do business

House roll No. 411, by Smith of Holt, to prohibit the sate of school lands, failed to pass, the vote resulting 21 to 52. House roll No. 420, by Farnsworth, to more House roll No. 420, by Farnsworth, to more definitely describe the boundary of Keya Paha county, passed by a vote of 71 to 0.

House roll No. 425, by Jenkins, to prohibit the manufacture, sale, keeping for sale, giving or furnishing to any person cigarettes or the material for their composition, and to provide a penalty for the violation of the law, passed by a vote of 75 to 1. Van Duyn alone voring no.

Socked it to Colonel Kyner.

The special committee appointed to investigate into the conduct of Representative Kyner submitted the following report:

Your committee appointed in compliance with a resolution of the 16th inst. to imquire into the charge that a member of this house so far forgot himself as to insult a female employe of this house, as well as other employes, and to report its findings, seg leave to submit the following:

Vour committee after having carefully examined several witnesses find that on the 15th list, between 5 and 6 ociock n.m. Mrs. N. J. Boniware, assistant postmaster of this house, banded a letter bearing a special delivery stamp and marked "4 cents postage due," to Mr. James H. Kyner, one of the representatives from Bouglas county. Mr. Kyner received the letter and demanded to know why the postage due was required; also, noticing the special delivery stamp, impured why the letter had not been delivered sooner. I pon being informed that it had been received within the last few minutes, while the assistant postmaster was alone in the office and hence could not leave II, no, the said Kyner, became excitedly anary it, he, the said Kyner, became excitedly angry and used language both profane and indecent and wholly unbecoming a gentleman and a member of this house, and returned the letter.

Unsit for Publication.

The language used, in the opinion of your committee, was such that it should not be repeated in this report.

Your committee also finds that the following morning the said kyner paid the 4 cents due and received the letter, whereupon he renewed his angry, profine and indecent language, applying it to both the postmaster and his assistant. Still continuing in his ungentlemanly conduct after the postmaster had left. Eddle Fountain, one of the pages of the house, took up the matter in behalf of the assistant postmaster. The said Kyner then seized and threatened the boy, but was prevened from doing any injury to him by A. S. Cooley, another member of this house. Hence your committee is of the opinion that the said James Kyner should apologize in a public manner to the postmaster, Mr. N. W. Ross, to his assistant, Mrs. N. J. Boulware, and to the page, Master Eddle Fountain, who so nobly took the part of the lady, for his ungentlemanly conduct and indecent and profane language, and stand reprimanded by this house until he does so appoing it. A motion to adopt the report called forth an overwhelming response of ayes, and a call for those opposed did not cheit a response. Just as the speaker was about to declare the result of the vote, Goss of Douglas secured recognition and said that it was a very serious matter. He asked con-sent of the house to allow it to go over for one day, and it was so ordered.

Another Special Inquiry.

Goss then offered the following resolution: Whereas, Serious insimuations and charges have been made in the public press and in affidavits gravely affecting the honor and reputation of certain members of this house in relation to the insurance bill known as house roll No. 287; and Whereas, it is proper that the guilty be punished and the innocent acquitted from sus-

McKessen, Casper and Stevens, and said committee is hereby au-thorized to take evidence, to send for person and papers and do all other acts necessary to erry into full force and effect the purposes of

Goss moved the adoption of the resolution. Beal moven to table, but the amend-ment was defeated. The members of the old bribery investigating committee pro-tested against having any more work forced upon them, claiming that they had done their duty in that direction, and ought to be allowed to look after their own bills from this time forward,

The resolution was then amended so as to allow a new committee to do the work, and it carried by a vigorous viva voce vote, Sheridan standing in the afsle, with an expression on his face that indicated his wonder whether the resolution was not aimed in his direction and heavily loaded.

The speaker named Van Housen, Keckley and Olson as the special committee to confer with the senate committee relative to final adjournment, and the house then adjourned until 10 o'clock tomorrow morning, after an unsuccessful effort had been made to carry the adjournment over until Monday.

The senate went into com-mittee of the whole and corrected the error and the bill was again sent to the printer. A motion by Scuator Tefft directing the sceretary of state to supply for the use of the sonate 300 copies of the printed rester of union soldiers now living in Nebraska was agreed to.

Senator Mattes precipitated a vigorous discussion by offering a motion directing the secretary of state to notify the publisher now at work on the evidence taken in the penitentiary cruelty investigation to suspend work until the findings upon the evidence taken last evening could be made up. Sena-tors Mattes and Tefft favored the motion and claimed that an injustice had been done to a citizen of the state (referring to Warden Mallon) in the former report. The com-mittee heard testimony last evening, they claimed, which would very materially change the report. Senator Harris vigorously opposed the motion and denounced the whole proceed-ings as an effort on the part of several mem-bers of the committee to whitewash the penitentiary officials and turn the investigation into a farce.

The motion was finally agreed to and the senate took a recess until 2 o'clock.

Bills Recommended.

Immediately after the senate had convened Senator McCarty moved that the senate go into committee of the whole to consider senate file No. 128. Senator Dysart offered an amendment making the order to simply include bills on general file.

Senator Gray offered an amendment to the amendment providing that each senator have the privilege of calling up one bill and advancing it to the head of the file.

Senator Teff moved to lay the matter on the table and demanded a call of the senate.

The doors were closed and after several in-effectual attempts to raise the call all mo-tions and amendments were withdraws and the senate went into committee of the whole on the general file.

that the passage of the bill would make it al-most impossible for Nebraska farmers to borrow money from eastern money owners. Senator North said that such a law would practically confiscate the mortgaged prop-erty of the state, for the owners would never be able to renew their loans.

Senator Darner opposed the bill. He knew the money lenders would contrive to make the borrower pay the tax in addition to the interest. He believed the farmers of Nebraska would be much better off if all usury laws were repealed. Senate file No. 83, by Dale, instructing Nebraska's representatives in congress to vote against the repeal of the Sherman silver

OUTCOME OF THE LATE BIG FIGHT

He Caught Cold in Halt's Corner and Aggravated it by His Run Around with the Boys-No Hope of Itis Recovery.

New Orleans, La., March 17.-George A. Bird, better known as "Squire Abingdon," is in a very critical state and his death is expected at any moment

Ever since the day Mitchell and trall left the city the 'squire has been confined to his bed at the notel. Daily his condition has grown worse. At first it was believed that he was suffering from a heavy cold, which he contracted when he seconded Jim Hall in his light with Fitzsimmons. It developed shortly into pneumonia and high fever followed. For two days he has been delirious and scarcely cats any food. Today Drs. Miles and Fetch held a consultation, but nothing was agreed upon and they will hold another tomorrow.

Daily cables are sent to the 'squire's friends in England, stating every change in his condition. Mitchell has been telegraphed at Buffalo and he has sent word that he will be in New Orleans Monday. The squire has been unweil for months, but never seriously III. Today he had a bad turn and up to midnight he was in the same comatose condition. The 'squire, since his arrival in this city, has been leading a life of dissipation, and since Hall's defeat he hardly went to bed until he broke down in health. A physician is nearly all the time at his bedside and the best of attention is given the sick sportsman. There is little hope for his recovery. Mitchell Hears the News.

BUFFALO, N. Y., March 17,—"Fight in suffalo?" said Charlie Mitchell to a reporter tonight, "why, my dear boy there is not a place on the face of the earth where I would rather fight than Buffalo." Mitchell and Jim Hall arrived in Buffalo tonight from the west on their way to New York. When Mitchell registered at the hotel the clerk handed him a telegram. It was from the valet of his friend, Squire Abingdon, and read; Mr. Abingdon is surely dying. Three physicians at a consultation over him. You had better come immediately. Mitchell was very much depressed over the bad news, and during the rest of the evening talked of but little else than his sick friend.

"I'm feeling pretty blue tonight," said Mitenell, "for the best friend I have on earth is dying and I am not with him. 'Squire Ablindon is my becker. He is an English gentleman and has no end of money. He came over with me, and I am afraid that I will have to go back without him. 'Squire Ablindon is a sportsman. He has a lively interest in everything in the line of sport. He is well known in England and the news of his illness will be regretted there."

regretted there." How He Took Sick.

Asked what was the cause of Squire Abingdon's sickness. Mitchell said: "He has been troubled with asthma for years. has been troubled, with asthma for years, When Hall and Fitzsimmons fought he went into the ampitheater lightly clad. He was in Hall's corner. He was in a draught and he caught cold, but it did not seem to be anything serious and we paid no attention to it. Then it got so bad that he had to stay in his room. It developed into pneumonia, I guess. When I came away he was not very sick but the came away he was not very sick, but the telegram I got tonight tells me that there has been a consultation of physicians, and I am inclined to think it is all over with the 'squire. He was going to meet us in New York and we were all to sail for England to-

"Are you going to England soon?" "It all depends now on the outcome of my friend's sickness. We were going to sail in a few days. In any event I won't be in this country much longer. There are some de-tails of the fight I want to get settled and then I will sail and won't come back until I come back to train.

"So you will train here?" Same Confident Charlie.

"Oh, yes, I shall train in this country. I can't say how soon I shall come over, though. It depends a good deal on the selection of the place for the fight."

You and Sullivan are friends now, are 'Yes, John and I have shaken hands and we are the best of friends. I am very grate-ful to Sullivan for what he has done for me lately. It has changed the feeling of the people toward me. I know perfectly well that Americans had not much use for Charles Mitchell, but since the Sullivan episode I can see that all that is changed and that they don't feel toward me as they did

"How do you account for the easy defeat of Hall by Fitzsimmons?" "Hall was not fit by ten pounds. He was too fat. He had an idea that if he was fat he was strong, and when he got through with the third round he was tired. I am confident that I can take Hall and train him so that he will be in condition to whip any man of his class in the world. He is a great fighter." Mitchell would not say a word about Cor-bett. He refused to talk about his own chances. He said there was going to be a
