Democrats Who Are Anxious to at Once Reorganize Senate Elective Officers.

THEY PLACE A TICKET IN NOMINATION

Result of Yesterday's Cancas-Influential Members Who Oppose the Proposition at this Session - Distribution of the Patronage of the Senate.

Washington, D. C., March 2! .- The democrats in the senate met in caucus at noon to consider the subject of the reorganization of the elective officers of the senate. There was a large attendance. At preceding conferences Messrs. Peffer, Kyle and Allen, despite the fact that they have been given committee chairmanships by the majority, were not recognized as being democrats, and were not invited to attend. At the previous caucus the whole matter of whether or not the party should attempt reorganization at this time was left to the steering committee, of which Mr. Gorman is chairman. The report was made and, to the surprise of the junior senators at least, contained no recommendations. The committee held a number of conferences, but were unable to agree upon a report that should be positive in its character. Some of the members were for reorganization, while others opposed it as being a violation of the precedents; among the datter rumor places both Mr. Gorman an i Mr. Cockrell, two very powerful moving spirits of the democratic side of the chamber. While the committee submitted a report that was deciredly negative and non-committal, it had prepared for any contin-gency that might arise. The list of employes of the senate and the approximation of the senate and the annual pay roll had been gone over very thoroughly and the condition of the roll as it exists today compared with the roll of the Forty-sixth congress, when the democrats controlled this branch. Since that time there had been an increase in the force of men, especially under the sergeant at arms. It has been the custom to permit a certain number of employes to remain at the disposal of the minority and this custom will not be departed from by the democrats.

Nominated a Ticket.

The caucus adjourned at 4 o'clock, having, during the four hours of its session, come to the determination to nominate the elective officers. The ticket so nominated is com-posed of William R. Cox of North Carolina an ex-representative, for secretary of the senate; Richard J. Bright of Indiana, ex-sergeaut-at-arms, for sergeant-at-arms; Rev. W. H. Milburn, present chaptain of the house, for chaptain of the senate. This re-sult was not reached without a protracted debate, for there was a considerable element of the party that opposed the idea of anything that would be a violation of the precedents of the senate and give cause for opposition on the part of the republicans.

No time was fixed for the presentation of the necessary resolutions, and they may be deferred or may come up early for action. A leading member of the committee stated that the chief reason why the caucus took this course was to get rid of the importunities of candidates and to enable the senate to go about its regular work.

It was supposed the matter of the admission of the three senators who appeared with credentials under appointment by gov-ernors of the states of Montana, Washington and Wyoming would come up for discussion, but the subject was not broached. This question will come up before the senate on the report of the committee on privileges

The patronage of the senate under the officers agreed upon today was considered for some time, and a list made of the em-ployes of republican faith who will be retained. The patronage, however, instead of being under the control of the officers, will be parceled out by the party caucus.

Might Try to Violate Precedents. After the caucus was over one of the leading members of the democratic committee said that it was the intention of the party to make the attempt to elect the nominees. Just when this would be done he could not say, but the resolution, he thought, might be introduced in the senate at any time now. If in their efforts to prevent a reorganization at this session it may be that the democrats will desist and let it go over. There appears, though, to be no probability of an abandonment of the idea to make at least an

Another story in connection with the caucus.

Another story in connection with the caucus was that the senate would adjourn without day by the middle of next week.

This was denied by several senators, who said that the subject had not been mened, and that the day of adjournment depended entirely upon the pleasure of the

The republican senators look upon action of the caucus as a declaration that the democrats intend to inaugurate a contest over the organization and to hold another caucus to decide upon the plan of campaign. Other senators who took a prominent part in the last cancus say that the republicans would not stand idly by and see the precedents of the senate violated without a protest, and intimated that if the ocrats precipitated a contest there was no teiling when it would end.

POINTERS ON HOO RAISING. Statistician Dodge of the Agricultural Department Gives a Few Timely Hints. Washington, D. C., March 21. - Statistician Dodge of the Department of Agriculture includes in his monthly report the latest official statistics of the principal crops of foreign countries. The present conditions are very favorable. The world's wheat crop for 1802 was 2,347,908,035 bushels, an aggregate slightly lower than the preliminary estimates of 1891. "In Great Britain," says the report, "the most striking, if not the most important change indicated by the returns of 1892, is the great reduction in the stock of live hogs. decrease in the totals in Great Britain is over 1,000,000 head. shortage in Ireland is estimated at 1,200,000 head, The abnormally high price of bacon and pork, as contrasted with other meats, will, it is thought, greatly stimulate hog breeding. It is a most noteworthy fact, well worth the consideration of American farmers, that the hog products that command the highest price in the that command the highest price in the English markets come from countries not noted for the production of corn namely. noted for the production of corn namely, England, freland and Deumark. The quality and consequent high price of English, Irish and Danish bacon is due, first, to the feeding of the hog, and second, to the manner of curing. The best quality of bacon is produced by feeding barley, rye, wheat and peas, boiled potatoes, skimmed milk, buttermilk and whey. The hogs should range in weight from 180 to 220 pounds and should be long and lean, with well developed hams, thick, straight with well developed hams, thick, straight bellies, and the fat on the back should not exceed one and one-half inches in thickness. exceed one and one-half inches in thickness. The shoulders, sides and hams are cured in one piece. The overfat, corn-fed hog does not make the finest bacon and does not bring the highest price. By attention to these requisites the Danish farmers have increased their sales of bacon in England from 4,000,000 pounds in 1881 to about 200,000,000 in 1892, and the price has steadily increased. The bacon hog is best produced in conjunction with the dairy."

MORTON'S WATCHFULNESS.

He Will Not Lose an Opportunity to Economize in His Department.

Washington, D. C., March 21.—Secretary Morton is still keeping a watchful eye on the expenses of the Agricultural department. He recently communicated with Assistant Secretary Willits, asking for certain information regarding the exhibit of that department at the World's fair.

In connection with the employes to be sent to the fair the secretary said: "Let me suggest that only experts and men skilled and specially fitted to properly establish, maintain and explain the exhibit ought to be taken there from this depart-ment. There is plenty of assistance not requiring such qualifications to be had on the grounds. It seems to me important that those who have transportation from the government should go there perpanently, and under no circumstances should manently, and under no circumstances should this occasion be used so as to take employes of the Agricultural department to the exhibition to remain a few days at the expense of the government, and I cannot see the propiety of paying the regular salary, plus transportation and subsistence. But as I desire to do no injustice I await a full statement from you as to all possible expenses."

ment from you as to all possible expenses."
In reply Assistant Secretary Willits said that he had contemplated that transportation should be given to the fair and return to but one expert for each division repre-sented; that the others detailed should pay their own transportation; but that all should have reasonable subsistence while on

CHINESE EXCLUSION.

Justice Brewer of the Supreme Court Talks on that Subject.

Washington, D. C., March 21.-At the weekly meeting of the Congregational club Justice Brewer of the United States supreme court discussed the question, "Is the Nation Just in Its Relative Attitude Toward the Chinese and Other Nations?" He started out by saying that he was a little hampered in speaking on the subject because of the fact that some questions would come to the court, and he could only refer to things that had already been settled and not likely to be right and the duty of the country at certain times to prevent hurtful immigration, just as men were in duty bound to keep out of their own homes any men were in duty bound to keep out of their own homes any persons who would be hurtful to the members of their family. Congress had passed a law looking to the exclusion of certain classes belonging to all nations. Prior thereto it had passed a law excluding Chinese latorers—not the Chinese as a race; not the merchants or professional men, but only the laborers—and the real fact was that they were excluded because they were so induswere excluded because they were so indus-trious and saving and economical in their habits that they could do work at lower prices than our own laborers, and by doing so lay up money. Those habits of economy and industry in our people were considered virtuous and to be commended, and it seemed strange and unjust that we object to their virtues rather than to their vices.

SCRAMBLING FOR OFFICE.

Pressure Upon Mr. Cleveland Has Not Been Relaxed in the Slightest Degree.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 21.-The pressure exerted by congressmen at the white house for appointments has developed into an individual scramble. At first congressional delegations were in a measure united. They would agree as a whole upon some appointments and the entire delegation would endorse the applicant. The president has effectually disintegrated the delegation en-dorsəment system and now each man is go-ing in for himself and pushing his individual friends.

One result which the president has achieved, and which was his design, is the breaking up of ring politics in the delegations. Patronage which heretofore has been considered the sacred property of senators— for instance, the selection of marshals and district attorneys—is now declared free for ali, and the humble members of the lower house, a even a group of private citizens, may present the names of candidates with some degree of their success. Congressional delegations do not come to the white house together now, but the members drop in alone and render their own solos.

Five Thousand Resignations on File. Washington, D. C., March 21.-Robert A. Maxwell, whose nomination as fourth assistant postmaster general was yesterday confirmed by the senate, was at the Postoffice department this morning and expressed his purpose to take formal charge of the office tomorrow. It is learned that there are on file in the department more than 5,000 esignations of postmasters, many of them resignations of postmasters, many of the fourth class, and these cases will be of the fourth class, and these cases will be considered and disposed of before any cases of removals are taken up. Very few of the cases where resignations have been received are ready for action

It is probable that very much of Mr. Maxwell's time during the next few weeks will be taken up by callers, so that it will be some time before the work of making changes will have actively begun.

Objectionable Features of the New Schedule as Submitted - Efforts Being Made to Fill the Places of the Strikers.

Lincoln, Neb., March 21.- | Special to THE Bun |-Thirty-five journeymen tailors, including nearly all the needleworkers in the city, walked out this morning. Some have gone back to work, but the majority are still out. Saturday a schedule was submitted to the employers, which was a general raise in prices of from 20 to 33% per cent, so the employers claim. All the employers but Clarence Heffley and L. H. Meyer refused peremptorily this morning when their answer was demanded.

These firms asked for certain concessions. and after discussing the matter in open meeting it was decided to compromise with these two. The men went back to work, the two employers named signing the scale. The otners are still out.

Besides an increase in prices a number of extras were demanded. As an instance, under the present schedule the number of pockets in a suit makes no difference in the wages of the men, while the new schedule provides that all over four pockets shall be paid for extra. There were two bills sub mitted, the one for houses making the finer grades of suits, and the other for secondgrades of suits, and the other class ones. The strikers insist that the in-crease is only 10 per cent, but the employers say it is larger, and they will shut up shop first before they pay it. Telegrams have been sent to Omaha and other points to secure nonunion tailors.

Will Wait Awhile. John T. Dorgan, charged with obtaining money from the state under false pretenses in connection with supplies of coal furnished the asylum, and his brother, W. H. Dorgan, charged with embezzling funds from the cell house appropriation, illed pleas of abatement in district court today, setting up that the grand jury which indicted them was illegally drawn. It is said that the county attorney will not call the matter up until after the legislature adjourns.

Two Serious Accidents.

Jacob H. Hummel, a member of the street cleaning gang living at 210 C street, was painfully injured this morning while at work in an alley between Eleventh and Twelfth and L and M streets. Byron Schick, the young son of Lawrence Schick, a well known traveling man, was badly scalded today. It was washday at the family home at Thirty-first and O streets, and the domestic happening to set a boiler filled with hot suds down on the floor, the little fellow, who was playing about with some comrades, tumbled over backwards. He was pulled out speedily, but is lying in a precarious condition. Both arms and legs are badly scalded. are badly scalded.

Playing a Waiting Game.

The mandamus suit by the independents to compel the city clerk to put the names of their candidates for city attorney, police judge, water commissioner and city engineer Judge, water commissioner and city engineer on the Australian ballot at the coming election has been abandoned. This move on the part of the independents is troubling the republicans greatly. They think they see in it an attempt to get the offices without the formality of an election. The scheme, as they unravel it, is, if Mayor Weir is reelected, as now seems probable, to permit the matter to rest until after election and then bring suit. If successful, the mayor will appoint men to fill the vacancies which will appoint men to fill the vacancies which would then exist.

R. B. Graham, the republican candidate for mayor, positively declines to withdraw from the ticket, and the effort to force him off and put up John B. Wright instead has been dropped. Instead a citizens move-ment has been inaugurated, which will endorse Weir. The fight promises to be

Bronchitis

"When I was a boy, I had a bronchial trouble of such a persistent and stub-born character, that the doctor pronounced it incurable with ordinary remedies, but recommended me to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. I did so, and one bottle cured me. For the last fifteen years, I have used this preparation with good effect whenever I take a bad cold, and I know of numbers of people who keep it in the house all the time, not considering it safe to be without it."-J.
