JURY BRIBING

Promise of a Sensation from a Suit Against a Railroad.

OFFERED TO FLIP A COIN FOR A VERDICT

Improper Proposit of the June Who Broad this Against the Pierra Who Favored a Verdict for the Pratutier.

There is another hery econotion in eight. genwing out of the triat of a case in the district court, and it is openly charged that one of the present was fixed.

A sample of years ago Frank J. Haldwin was employed as a switchman in the Mismust Pacific Railroad company's freight surde in this city. One day while he was surving in the line of duty, coupling cars and throwing them onto the side tracks, he was wanger and lost his left, leg by having it can neer. He at once sued the company, placing the damages at $15,090, alleging the imperfact condition of the track as the cause of the accident. At the last term of the court the same went to trial and after being out a few poors the lary returned a verdict find-ing for the plaintiff and placing his damages at $7.500, besides the costs of suit.

Alleging newly discovered evidence and the like, the defeadant secured a new trial and the case was put on in Judge Ferruson's and the case was put on in Jodge Forgussus a court had week. Every inch of the ground was fought and after several days the case went to the fory. The twelve men deliberated fifty-one hours and then returned a verdict stating that they were unable to agree. torneys, who stake their reputation that every word is true.

In speaking of the outcome of the case, flablwis yesterds, said:

"The trial just concluded was tried before the same judge and the following jury: Peter Stoels, Fred Meyer, Charles Waiz, John W Croft, Nels Johnson, George Johnson, George Rasmusson, Frank L. Fitchett, John Doll, Toney F. Fort, Jacob Hanson, Fred P. Dellone, A. Finey, of which Mr. Croft was the foreman, For over fifty hours this jury shoot eleven to one in favor of siving me a verdict. The one who was in favor of the railread company was Fred P. Dellone. This jurer, during the deliberations of the jury and after being out nearly fifty hours, offered to the releven would vote with him in favor of the railread company, and offered to return a verdict in my favor for $1 for the loss of my left lower leg, amputated just below the knee. After this insult to his fellow jurors and this evidence that he utterly disregarded his oath and his duty as a juror, he was directly charged by several of the means with being fixed or bought for a juror, he was directly charged by several of the jurors with being fixed or bought for

AGAIN A FULL BENCH.

Judge Walton's First Day in the District Court.

The bench of this, the Fourth, judicial district has now the requisite number of judges and once more the wheels of justice are turning after the same fashion as they did before Frank Irvine went up higher and took the position of a member of the supreme court commission.

Judge Walton of Blair, who was appointed to fill the vacancy, and who has accepted after much urging, put in an appearance yesterday and, until Judge Keysor's return from Sarpy county, will have charge of the

The new judge is a fine looking gentleman, just turning 50, and to all indications was cut out for the judiciary. He is of medium height, with black hair and beard, slightly silvered. In politics he is not a politician, though he has held office, having once been elected to the senate of the state and served two terms as county attorney of Washington county. He came to Nebraska in 1868 and since that date he has been continuously en-gaged in the practice of law. Although as stern as any justee, he is agreeable and has an unassuming manner that is intended to attract the public as well as the members of Yesterday immediately after Judge Walton's arrival, he went upon the bench in the large court room in the court house, where with Judge Hopewell he listenedto the reading of yesterday's court docket.

After that was completed he stepped to the floor and was introduced to the lawyers and court officers. Following the introductions Clerk Moores invited the new member of the bench to County Clerk Sackett's office where the names of the jurors who will serve dur-ing the next three weeks of the February term were drawn, and thus Judge Walton put in his first any upon the bench. Stenographer Heller and Bailiff Walker who served under ex-Judge Irvine were made happy by being informed that they would both be retained and that there would be no changes.

In speaking of his appointment to the position upon the judicial beach of this district, Judge Waiton said that when he was notified that he had been selected by Governor Crounse he at once forwarded the information to the executive that he would not accept. He felt that he could not afford to give up his practice for the honor and the salary of $2.500 per year. The refusal settled the matter up to the time when he notified The Bee. After that there was some telegraphic communication with the some telegraphic communication with the governor. "But still." continued the judge, "I feit that 4 could not afford to take the position. At last my neighbors got hold of the matter and urged me to accept. They argued that our county had never been given anything and that it was not right for me to refuse. Finally I reconsidered my refusal and went down to Lingelin, where I told the gavernor that I would coln, where I told the governor that I would accept the appointment. That settled the matter and here I am, ready to go to work and serve my constituency to the best of my

The judge was very emphatic in saying that at the time when The Bee published the statement that he had refused he had then fully made up his mind that he would not accept the appointment.

Councilman Bruner was summoned yester-Councilman Bruner was summoned yester-day for jury duty, but did not respond. When brought before Judge Hopewell by the sheriff he maintained that his official posi-tion exempted him from jury duty, and be-sides he could not serve without injury to the city's interests. The court took pity on the city and let him off without punishment.

The case of Schlank & Prince against the The case of Schlank & Frince against the city is on trial before Judge Ferguson. The plaintiffs were the proprietors of the Windsor hotel and alleged that before the building of the Tenth street viaduat their business averaged $4.800 a month including $1,000 from the bar. They assert that their besiness was greatly curtailed during the construction of the viaduet, and they sue for $10,000 damages.

Proposing an Independent Society for World

in the Northwest. The final proceedings of the Omaha district missionary convention took place last evening. Addresses were delivered by Roys John P. Roe and J. B. Maxileld. The former emphasized the need of greater missionary work in general, and the latter spoke of the needs of the church in Nebraska, which he said were brainy, hard working men and more money. He favored the organizing of an independent home missionary society for the northwest. He could see no need of going to Italy and China for converts when we had Italians and Chinamen in our own midst who needed salvation.

At the morning session of the Missionary society Rev. C. Snavely conducted the devocitomal exercises, Rev. J. P. Roe read an able paper on the work in Bulgaria, Elder J. W. Shank discussed the difficulties that pre-sented themselves in the South American mission field. Elder D. Marquette talked interestingly of the work in Liberia, Rev. Al-fred Hodgetts discussed the situation in Germany and Switzerland and Rev. H. D.

Frimany and Switzerland and Rev. II. D. Srown answered the important question, What of the Night?"
In the afternoon the feasibility of consolidation in Japan was discussed by Rev. D. C. Tindall, and Mexican missions were the theme of a neat little talk by itev. J. W. Green of the First Presbyterian church, Rev. J. P. Murray discussed india and its mission fields, and Rev. T. C. Webster had several interesting things to say about city evangelization.

Mr. John Francis, general passenger and ticket agent, has issued through the passenger department of the Burlington a neat little folder entitled "Nebraska's Yield in Ninety-two." CLAIMED HE WAS AN EARL. Visit of an Alleged Nobleman Who Turned Out to Be a Thief. A short, well dressed and high living looking little man entered the Murray hotel one day last week and, taking up a pen in a matter-of-fact way, proceeded to inform the clerk and the traveling public that he was a real, live earl by writing "Earl of Naversham, London, England," upon the register in a bold, round hand that eemed to defy anybody to prove anything to the contrary.

The "earl" called for the best room in the house and in every way gave the clerks and the proprietor to understand that he was a blue blooded Englishman. He depart-ed the next day for Chicago, or he took a train that was headed that way at least and today the folk at the Murray learned the sequel.

A Pinkerton detective called at the hotel to make inquiry about the hotel to make inquiry about the "Earl of Naversham," who turned out to be an embezzling cashier from St. Joseph, Mo. He was employed for some years by Swift & Co. and after appropriating a considerable sum of cash for his own use from the coffers of the firm he skipped.
