has acknowledged that Miller was murdered and that Clara Allen told the truth when she testified in the police court that during the afternoon of December 4, 1892, she saw the two men while in the act of firing the fatal shot. Either this, or else the county attorney has experienced a change of heart and has decided that he does not want the woman put behind the bars of the state penitentiary for having sworn falsely when she went upon the witness stand and declared that she saw of the old matters in the criminal court that the business of the next term might start in with a clean docket, and, as was his duty, the county attorney was on hand to take such action with regard to the disposition of the cases as he might see fit. Judge Keysor presided and called the docket. When the case of the state against Clara Allen, charged with the crime of perjury was reached, Mr. Kaley without offering an explanation and without saying another word, remarked "I desire to enter a nolle in that case." The order was entered and Clara Allen was a free woman and in a posi-tion where never again can she be prose-cuted on the charge of the commission of the same crime. Owing to sickness which confines her to her bed Clara Allen will remain at the Jail for a few days, after which she will go out into the wide world to carve out her future fortunes. At this time she expresses a desire to depart from the sinful ways of her past and iniquiteous life. If she is honest in her desires to reform she will be assisted, as the ladies of several of the Christian associ ations of the city have called upon her offer-ing to furnish her with a home until she can find some honorable employment where she can provide the means for supporting herself and her child.

In the case of the state against Frank P. Kitchell, charged with having swindled the Casey hotel by getting the proprietor to cash a bogus check for $300, the county attorney entered a nolle. Kitchell was convicted in the district court during the administration of ex-County Attorney Mahoney, but the case went up to the supreme court, where the verdict of the jury was set aside and a new trial ordered. The matter was settled outside of the courts and the second trial was never called.

A polle was what made Thomas Armstrong a free man and at the same time re-moved the case from the court docket. Armstrong was a Kearney man who came to Omaha and bought a large bill of goods from the M. E. Smith Dry Goods company. The goods were shipped, but there was no money forthcoming. An investigation revealed the fact that there was fraud connected with the transaction and an arrest followed, which resulted in Armstrong's friends effecting a settlement.

Injunction Case Subm tted.

The case of Otto Beals and some fifteen other plaintiffs has been argued and submitted for the consideration of Judge Walton. In this case the plaintiffs were seeking an injunction to restrain the city from grad-ing Pierce street at the point where it intersects Twenty-fourth. City Attorney Con-nell holds that if the injunction is granted it cannot amount to anything as the work which the plaintiffs seek to have enjoined has already been performed. He also says that there is an ordinance before the coun-cil to change the graids of Plages steed and ell to change the grade of Pierce street and make it conform to the established grade of Twenty-fourth street. The terms of the new ordinance, he says, are satisfactory to all of the plaintiffs, and nearly all of them have agreed to the change.

District Court Cultings.

The county commissioners went out to the county hospital yesterday to examine the walls of the north wing of the building and also to decide whether or not they are strong enough to carry the new wing which it is proposed to construct. A report had reached the members of the board that the construction of the walls was faulty and that it would not be safe to use them in the recon-struction of the wing.

Yesterday Judge Ferguson granted a new trial in the case of Haman against the Omaha Street Rallway company, and the re-hearing is fixed for the May term of court. This is the case in which Juror Van Alstine was accused of fixing the jury and upon being tried was convicted and fixed. On the former trial Haman recovered a verdict for $100, but was not satisfied with the amount, claiming that if he was entitled to anything claiming that if he was entitled to anything he should recover $10,000, the amount for which he sued.

Judge Scott was upon the bench yesterday for the purpose of listening to the arguments for a new trial in the case of Amanda Carlock against Millionaire fom Murray, the new acca against Millionaire for Murray, the new trial being demanded by the plaintiff, who, at the last term of court, recovered a judg-ment of $1, and that at the hands of a jury. The plaintiff alleged that a couple of years ago, when she was employed as the house-keeper in the Harney street row, Murray as-saulted her, and that for that reason she was entitled to recover $10,000 of his wealth.

Union Depot Injunction. City Attorney Connell was busily engaged yesterday in preparing a notice to be filed with the courts asking for an early date for the final hearing of the union depot injunction case. He anticipates that in about two weeks the final hearing will take place, and in case the court decides unfavorably to what the council and himself believe to be in the interest of the city the case will be immediately carried to the supreme court. "We will see what the supreme court has to say upon the matter," said Mr. Connell, "and see whether the city is to be bottled up forever, as Mr Howe says, with only the cork to prevent us from seeing the light of day, and emerging from the darkness."

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

The Bostonians present "The Ogalallas" for the first time this evening at the Boyd. It is the latest of their operas. Its subject is American and book and score are the work of two young Americans, Messrs. Waller and Allison. That the Bostonians accepted it and put it in their repertoire is guaranty sufficient for its excellence. Tomorrow afternoon and evening "Robin Hood" will be re-peated, and for three long years its melody and mirth will be heard not again in Omnha.

Jack McAuliffe in Dancan B. Harrison's "The King of the Turr" at the Farnam again tonight and twice tomorrow.

The first two nights of the coming week the Boyd stage will be occupied by Stetson's Boston company, presenting the English ver-sion of Dumas' "Le Demi-Monle," which was favorably received at the same theater two months ago.

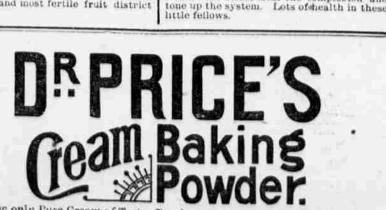

"A Pair of Kids" comes to the Farnam for the first half of next week. It is well known in Omaha and should be well patronized.

Next Monday evening has been set apart at the Boyd as a testimonial to that theater's most popular manager and will afford a fitting occasion for the public to give expres-sion to its appreciation of the universally recognized qualifications Manager Boyc brings to bear upon his direction of the theater. "The Crust of Society" will be the bill and, as played by the Stetson company, in itself should attract a full house.
