ing board, the following protest:

Lincoln, Neb., May 5.—To the Honorable State Board of Public Printing of the State of Nebraska: We, the understance citizens of the state of Nebraska, hereby give notice that we will file a profest within five days showing that there was collusion and pooling in bidding on contracts for state printing and supplies on May 3, 1893, by the various bidders, with the intention of defrauding the state out of large sums of money, and we respectfully ask your hemorable body to investigate said bills.

Respectfully submitted

L. W. Eldergod and nine other job-

John McIntosh, proprietor of another joi printing house in Lincoln, also filed a writ ten protest with the auditor, charging no only fraud and collusion, but that all of the prices named were exorbitant.

The state printing board will investigate the matter, and it is not improbable that all bids will be rejected. The Festner printing company has also telegraphed that it wishes to have a protest heard. The board will take the matter up tomorrow afternoon.

District Court News,

A number of the criminals indicted for Anamore of the criminals indicted for various offenses were arraigned before Judge Strode this morning. The following pleaded not guilty: Ed Perrin, burglary; Henry Miller, crime against nature; O. Martin, assault and battery; county attorney entered nolle prosequi; Belle McGulgan, assault and battery, trial set for Monday; John Gilbert. robbery; Charles Stahl, alias Smith, burg lary; Joseph Middlesworth and Peter Han sen, grand larceny, set for hearing May 11. C. W. Tracy, one of the hackmen arrested for roobing a passenger, was released on $300 bail to appear for trial May 15.

Judge Strode yesterday afternoon finished up the hearing of a $10,000 damage suit brought by Charles C. Cox against the Lin cola Street Railway company for damages caused by a trolley wire breaking and fall-ing upon him. This morning the jury re-turned a verdict for plaintiff of $800.

Charles E. Finch asks judgment for $2,500 against the Rock Island. He owns property at Nineteenth and S streets and avers that the proximity of the track, with the at-tendant noises made by passing trains, and the shutting up of P and R streets, have damaged his property to the amount named. Susan E. Hill, who lives at Nineteenth and U streets, brings a similar suit, fixing her damage at 81 500. damage at $1,500.

City in Brief.

Contrary to expectation, the grand jury made but one presentment today. The in dictment was against John Hussey, alias O Brien, the tramp who shot and killed Tom Moore, a fellow tramp, in a drugken fight some weeks since. The jury adjourned at-o'clock until 2 o'clock Monday afternoon. The 'Joseph McGraw, stockman,' ported in the Omaha papers to have been robbed at the Travelers home Wednesday hight, is believed to be County Commission Joseph McGraw, who left here Tuesday for Omaha and has not been heard of since J. C. McNemey, a prominent attorney, was before Judge Waters this morning on the charge of using bad language to and before a neighbor woman. He was discharged. The recent rains have caused Salt creek to change its course toward the ditch started some time since for that purpose, thus saving the state several thousand dollars.

SPECHT DIDN'T PAY.

His Auxiety to Obtain a Contract Involves him in a Lawsuit. Judge Odgen listened to the evidence yesterday in a case in which Ed Williams sues Councilman Chris Specht to recover payment for two suits of clothes that the defendant had ordered for William Canada and Herb Leavitt. It occurred at the time when the letting of the contract for the work on the new union cornice was under consideration. depot It seems that Specht coveted that contract, and believing that Canada and Leavitt were possessed of sufficient "pull" around Union Pacific headquarters to get it for him if they really set their hearts on doing him a good turn, told them that if they would get it he would make each a present of a suit of Matters progressed for a time, but the award of the contract was not forth-coming. Specht then apparently made up his mind that the desired work was not his mind that the desired work was not being done, because the parties were afraid that the promise made by him would not be fulfilled after the work was done, so he went to Williams and left an order for a $50 suit for each of the individuals named. He saw them soon afterward and told them to stop at Williams' and leave their measures. This at Williams' and leave their measures. This they did, and in due time the clothes were divered. All this happened in September delivered. All this happened in September, 1890, and up to the present time the ciothes have not been paid for.

The interesting part of it is that the contract was never awarded to Specht, and he utterly refuses to pay for the two suits that were ordered by him to grace the backs of these two Union Pacific attaches. He goels to avoid recommend that seeks to avoid payment on the ground that he cannot be held for the obligation unless he received something in return, and he asserts that as he received neither clothes, contract nor material assistance in the way of getting it he cannot be held for the jug-

Traded Time Checks for Beer. The jury in the case of Humfert against the Nebraska Savings and Exchange bank returned a sealed verdict Thursday night and it was opened in court yesterday. The verdiet was not a finding for either of the parties, but was in the nature of special findings, on which the court will render the decree. This is the case where the bank collected the money coming to a contractor from the city of South Omaha to satisfy a a claim held by the bank, leaving the work men who had taken the contractor's time checks to hold the bag. The plaintiff is a saloon keeper, to whom some of the men had sold their time checks, but the issue was practically between the bank and the work-

When the case was submitted the judge prepared a number of questions to be an-swered by the jury, and in answer to those questions the jury submitted the following fludings. Mr. Gibbon the president of the Mr. Gibbon, the president of bank, talked with the men, but talked for himself and not as the president of the bank; he induced the men to work to finish he grading of the street, although the bank did not request it, and he gave it as his opinon that the men would be paid, but the mank did not promise to see that they were paid. These points cover the controversies n the case and in accompance with these special findings the court will prepare the Women's Missionary Convention. More than ordinary interest is felt in the neeting of the women's general missionary convention in this city next week. It is ten ears since this branch of church work was taken up by the United Presbyterians. Moreover, being Columbian year a special effort is being made for an interesting ses-sion. At the convention in Philadelphia, Pa., a year ago it was suggested that a spetal thank offering be made this year and, if possible, raise at least $75,000 for missions. It was estimated that if each member of the it was estimated that if each member of the various local societies gave I cent each day this amount could readily be raised. Small mite boxes were prepared and all through the church the pennies have been accumulating. In fact, the banks of Pittsburg, which is the Mexca of United Presbyterianism, have been complaining of the scarcity of pennies. From reports now consider it would appear that the required Twenty-first and Emmet

DISCUSSED FIVE-CENT FARES

Consider the Situation.

NO DEFINITE PLAN WAS EVOLVED

Council Bluffs People Want Omaha to Take the Initiative and Close Their Streets to the Bridge Company.

Yesterday afternoon a meeting in the interests of the 5-cent fare across the bridge between this city and Council Bluffs was held in Mayor Bemis' office. There were present Mayor Lawrence, City Attorney Hazleton, Aldermen Jennings, Smith and White, and Thomas Evans, Leonard Everett, Spencer Smith and Messrs Saunders and McCabe of Council Bluffs, with Mayor Bemis, City Attorney Council and Councilmen Howell, Wheeler, Saunders, Jacobsen and McLearie of this city. Beyond a pretty thorough discussion of the matter nothing was accomplished. The Council Bluffs representatives led in the discussion and did most of the talking in the interest of the reduced fare. Mayor Bemis presided at the meeting. The discus-sion was started by Mr. Wheeler, who inquired whether the question of a 5-cent fare had not entered into the late municipal election in Council Bluffs.

Mayor Lawrence replied that it had, and that a victory was won on that ground, as the people believed that it was only just to ave a 5-cent fare. Mr. McCabe of the citizens' committee of 100, said that the company had refused any concessions, and set up the claim that it could not afford to make any reduc-no sses. company nothing more than $80,000, as it was watered and had been issued to the stockholders. Upon that amount of stock an annual dividend of 3 per cent is declared. He believed that a cheaper fare would increase the recei its of the company and it would suffer no losses. He said that the company had vio-lated every agreement and understanding with the city, and was receiving an exorbitant tariff. Mr. McCabe cited the fact that the courts had decided that a corporation should receive compensation for its services, and that such compensation should be determined by municipal authority in this instance. He believed Omaha had more power in this matter, as no such company was known in Nebraska and had never been chartered or given a franchise. The company has no rights as a common carrier in Omaha and in his opinion the concerted action of both cities would

Mr. Howell said that the Council Bluffs company had no rights in Omaha and was using the tracks of the Omaha Street Railway company under a lease, paying for the privilege $500 per month. McCabe explained that one of his emedies was for the city of Omaha to stop the company from running its cars into Omaha, thus compelling them to come no further than the center of the bridge. An other remedy is for the Council Bluffs authorities to regulate the fares, making it not to exceed 3 cents on Broadway, which would bring the passenger to the center of esult in securing what was right.

Spencer Smith of Council Bluffs suggested that perhaps a 3-cent fare could be made on Douglas street from Fourteenth east to the bridge, and thus avoid the semblance of special legislation, which Mr. Connell sug-gested might be so held by the courts. Mr. McCabe thought that a street railway company was performing a function of government and was liable to any restrictions the municipal authorities might impose when given the right to operate its lines. In reply to Mr. Connell's query as to whether the regulations by the city would not be ininterstate commerce. Mr McCabe said he thought not, as the streets were the property of the municipality, and the municipality was vested with the absolute right to say to what use the streets should be put. Mr. Connell said he entertained the same views of the matter and believed the municipality had complete control of its streets. Want Omaha to Lead. Mr. McCabe said that regulating the fares of the company by the Omaha authorities would simply be a restriction for a concession. The right could be given the company to operate its cars in Omaha, under penalty of not charging any fares in the city, and then the Council Bluffs authorities, when the company possesses a franchise and is not occupying the streets by sufferance as in Omaha, could fix the fare at so many cents. Mr. Howell submitted figures showing fares over bridges in other parts of the

Spencer Smith replied that on the elevated road in New York City, which was practically a bridge eight miles in length, a fare of only 5 cents is charged. He referred to Judge Brewer's decision that there shall always be compensation above the fixed charges, which are the operating expenses of the road, and the interest on the bonds. Mr. Smith said that it was to the interest of both cities to have closer connection, and when that had been determined it must then be ascertained if a 5-cent fare will not work any hardship on the bridge company. He called attention to the action of the authorities of Providence, R. I., in grant-ing a franchise to an electric street railway company, in return for which the company mays the city for the first five years 3 per cent of its gross receipts, and for every year after five years 5 per cent. Mr. Smith submitted figures showing the expenses of conducting the Bridge Line railway. The daily expenses of running ten trains ten hours he estimated at $100, and to meet this would only take sev-

Omana people would visit Council Bluffs if the fare was reduced and the company's recipts would not be diminished.

Mayor Lawrence of Council Bluffs thought t would be vastly beneficial to bring the two ties closer together. Mr. Howell said the officers of the bridge company had expressed a desire to meet with the committee and discuss the proposition of a reduced fare. He had en-deavored to secure the attendance of Treasurer J. H. Millard of the Bridge com-

The committees adjourned to meet Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in Mayor Bemis office, and an invitation was ordered extended to the officers of the bridge company, to the subcommittee of five of the citizens committee of 100 of Council Bluffs, and to the committee of five named by the Commercial club of this city to be present.

said to a Bee reporter that it was surprising to him that the commissioners of Douglas county did not send more of their incurable insane to the state insti-tution. "I understand," he said, "that there are several incurables in your county hospital, and it seems to me that i would be a sensible thing to send them t the institution which the state has provided for that class of unfortunates. We have room for about forty more patients, although the appropriation for the support of the asylum will doubtless run short before the end of the ensuing two years. The Douglas county patients would have the same show for support as any of the rest, however, and I should think your county commissioners would send them to the asylum."

May Term of the Federal Court May Be Held After All.

CASH IN SIGHT.

There is now a prospect that Judge Dundy will hold a May term of the federal court after all. Ex-United States Marshal Slaughter has come to the rescue of the federal court officials in the matter of getting money for the term, and if the attorney general sees fit to accept the proposition whreat to him yesterday by District Attorney Baker the money for jurors fees will be supplied. As before stated in Time Bee, ex-Marshal Slaughter has in his possession several thousand dollars of United States funds awaiting a final settlement with the Treasury department. He says that when he secures a final settlement. ava that when he secures a final settlement it will be found that the money he now holds will hardly square the account and he is therefore unwilling to pay the money into the treasury and wait a year or two for the government to pay what it owes him. But, seeing that the chances of holding a May term are doubtful on account of the lack of funds, ex-Marshal Slaughter has agreed to turn over to Marshal White enough money to pay the jury expenses if the attorney gen-
