Rev. S. Wright Butler delivered an excellent sermon of particular interest to Grand Army men, in which he reviewed many prominent features of the late war and stated that the success of the union soldiers not only saved the nation, but laid the foundation of Christian unity in this country.

He also rejoiced in the fact that this country was governed by a national ad-ministration and that state sovereignty had received its death blow. He thought that had state's rights been successful and national control been obliterated, the country would have been a hotbed of discontent, quarrels and rivalry, weakened in power. and the development of resources made prac-tically impossible. The eloquent divine complimented the bravery of the Grand Army men during these trying days. It was with graat diffi-culty that the old warriors could restrain their applause in the church during Rev. Mr. Butler's remarks.

About 120 members of the Grand Army of the Republic were present-twenty comrades of Custer post No. 7, under Commander John P. Henderson; eighty veterans of U.S. Grant post No. 110, Dr. R. M. Stone, commanding; a score of comrades belonging to George Crook post No. 262, Commander J. D West. The veterans were particularly gratified at the pains the church officers had taken for their convenience, and cspecially prized the beautiful souvenir pro-gram of the service, which bore the Grand Army symbols printed in colors.

MEMORIAL DAY EXERCISES.

Program of Prsyer, Speech and Song at Hanscom Park Tomorrow Afternoon. Tomorrow is Memorial day, the day of all the year set apart by the American people when they can go forth together to every city cemetery and countryside God's acre and lay on the graves of their soldier dead bright emblems of a grateful remembrance and renew their heart thoughts of the men whose strong arm and sublime self-sacrifice secured their children in the heritage of a united nation and liberty for every citizen of whatever creed or color. At Hanscom park at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, the sev-ral posts of the Grand Army of the Republic will assemble, and a program belitting the occasion will be entered on. This is the order of exercises for the whole day:

"Along toward the close of the war there "Along toward the close of the war there were no stragglers. The boys in blue all wanted to be in it at the finish. Now we can't afford to desert the standard of Christ, because we shall all want to be right there because we shall all want to be right there when the trumpet is sounded on the last day and reap the reward due us for working for Jesus Christ. And there is a reward for all of the Grand Army of the Republic. The very consciousness of having done a duty well is a reward for the veterans, and besides this the government gives pensions, not enough, of course, but still a slight reward for noble services. All bonor is due those who fight the battles of the Lord, and they will reap their reward in the end—the they will reap their reward in the end—the same as did those who fought so nobly to de-fend the honor of our flag.

"During the war there were too many men for all to become distinguished, but the old soldier who fought under the colors will surely receive his crown of glory and honor on Judgment day.

"What a great rejoicing there will be on that day, when all our battles are over and we can lie down to rest. It will far surpass the shouts which went up when Lee laid down his sword.

Physicians were summoned, and shortly "It makes me feel sad when I think of how "It makes me feel and when I think of how the members of this grand old army are thinning out. Veterans are dying at the rate of thirty a week or 1.500 a year, and it won't be long until they all lie molding in afterward he relapsed into a comatose state, from which all efforts failed to arouse him. He died at 7:45 without regaining conscious mother dust.

"Services on Decoration day are always touching. These old gray-headed men strew-ing flowers on the graves of those who marched side by side in those troublous days, but how sad it must be for the wife or who lies in an unknown grave. Hundreds of graves in the national cemeteries are marked 'unknown,' but God will watch over that dust until judgment."

AFFAIRS AT SOUTH OMAHA.

Memorial Day Services-May Day at St. Union memorial services were held at the Baptist church yesterday morning and there were many who were deprived of enjoying them on account of the church not being large enough to hold all the people. The church was decorated profusely with palms, bunting and flags. As the veterans of war entered the building they were ushered along to the very front seats and their sons and daughters came next. There was a good sprinkling of the Woman's Relief Corps, good sprinking of the woman's Rehef Corps, as a matter of course. On the stage were seated Rev. C. N. Dawson, Rev. Thomas Stevenson, Rev. Robert L. Wheeler and Rev. Speck. The sermon was by Rev. Dawson, and his effort was an excellent one. The

FIGHTING THE GOOD FIGHT.

Rev. Tindall Preaches to Veterans and Urges Them to the Higher Victory.

At the Seward Street Methodist Episcopal church last night the pastor, Rev. D. K. Tindall, preached a Decoration day sermon to the members of George Crook post No. 262 of the Grand Army of the Republic.

Between sixty and seventy of the veterans occupied the front pews reserved for them and listened intently to the sermon. In honor of the occasion the church was decor-ated with American flags, and the pulpit draped with the national colors. The Grand Army banner of the post occupied a conspicuous place at the left of the lector. The Rev. Mr. Tindall began by sketching the history of the Grand Army, "the grand-est army that the sun had ever shone on." and then he spoke of its organizer and the noble principles of the men who having fought side by side and having won each other's love and confidence in the dark days during the '60's had banded themselves to and listened intently to the sermon. In during the '60's had banded themselves together to stand by each other during sickness and trouble

"Now that the war is over," said the preacher, "there will be no more fighting of man against man, and we can now turn our whole attention to fighting the devil. The old methods of savage warfare are rapidly passing away and I am glad to see it. Bat-tles used to mean victory or death, but it is pot so now in Christian counties so now in Christian countries, the north wanted when it its thousands of armed men not sent its thousands of armed men toward the land where slavery was in exist-ence was to subdue the south and bring it back into line. The siege of Vicksburg very forcibly illustrates my idea. There the union soldiers fought for weeks, and when the rebel flag was at last hauled down the wearers of the blue not only opened their haversacks and fed the starving confeder-ates, but they opened their pocketbooks and gave the enemy all the aid in their power. These actions showed that there was no malice on the part of the north; it only malice on the part of the north; it only wanted to whip its fractious brother of the south back into line. When God chastises us he only wants to get us back into the right path that will finally lead to heaven. It should be the same with parents when they punish their children. They should not punish for revenge-such persons are not fit to have children-but chastise, as God does, to get the youngsters into the line of obedience.

"Jesus Christ won a victory over the devil in the wilderness. Paui had it out with his Satanic majesty on the way to Damascus and he won a glorious victory. Daniel, Jo-seph and Abraham won. So did Martin Luther and John Wesley. So can we all win the great victory over the devil, if we only have faith in the Lord Jesus Christ and put our trust in Him.

put our trust in Him. "When the war broke out many of the soldiers enlisted for three years. Today we enlist in the service of Christ for life, and I am glad to see that we have so few desert-ers. Speaking of deserters reminds me of war times, when so many who did not have the patriotism to stay at the front left the lines and ran away. I was only a boy then, but I can remember how the deserters used to hide and always be in fear of the officers of the law. No man has as hard a time as

At St. Agnes' church yesterday afternoon May day was celebrated in a beautiful manner. The seating capacity of this large edifice was tested. The altar was decorated with flowers and white veiling. After the procession, which was headed by a choir of girls, the act of consecration to the Virgin was read by Miss Teresa Desmond. While the choir sang a hymn Miss Lillie Storm placed a crown of roses on the head of the statue of the Virgin. Rev. Father McDevitt delivered an interesting sermon on the mis-sion of the Virgin, after which fourteen new members were received into the sodality They were: Gertrude Snyder, Katle Boyle, Katle Desmond, Katle Noone, Helen Pinne, Agness Ryan, Mary Rafferty, Katle Cuff, Labble Dwyer, Minnie Humpert, Maggie Lavelle, Mary Kratsky, Maggie Downs and Anne McGleaber Anna McClosky.

It is officially announced that Commander-in-Chief Weissert will be pres ent, and for this reason the coming encampment will be an unusually interesting one The teuts for the old veterans will be pitched on a fine plateau just north of the city, good walks connecting the camp with the city and with the opera house, where the meetings for the transaction of business will be held.

An effort is being made to induce the Sloux Indians at the two adjacent agencies to come to the city during the encampment, and it is certain that a large number of them will be present. Upon their arrival they will be instructed to camp in the vicinity of the veterans' tents, and the old soldiers and their families will thus be enabled to visit and inspect an Indian village and see the indian mode of living.

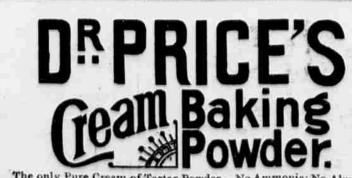

Opposite the city is an island park con-taining hundreds of acres of fine timber, and the visitors during the encampment will no doubt enjoy rambles in the shade of the mammoth trees. The timber will be es-pecially enjoyed by the people from the prairie towns. The island is connected with the city by a pontoon bridge, making it easy of access. No efforts will be spared to make the visit of the old veterans pleasant.
