Fourth Annual Convention of the State Association Formally Opened.

MANY DELEGATES ARE IN ATTENDANCE

Almost Every One of the Fifty-Six Counties Represented-Mayor Bemis Welcomes Them-Reports from the Officers-Committees for the Session,

The fourth annual convention of the Nebraska State Business Men's association was called to order in the old Mercer building last evening. President L. D. Davidson held the gavel. There was a large attendance of members from all portions of the state. The session will continue three days, during which time questions of commercial importance to the state will be fully dis-

President Davidson at 8:15 6'clock introduced Mayor Bemis as "the chief executive of the pivotal city of the new world." The mayor was accorded an enthusiastic welcome as he advanced to the front and delivered the following address of welcome:

His Second of the Sort. Mr. President and Members of Nebraska Btate Business Men's Association: This is the second time I have had the pleasure of addressing you upon the occasion of your annual convention. Personally, I am very glad to see you here and, as the executive of the metropolis of the state, I extend to you a hearty well-come to our city, realizing, as I do, the great weight which attaches to a gathering such as this. It is a matter of considerable importance to Omaha to be honored by the meeting of a body representing the commercial interpretations.

ance to Omaha to be honored by the inter-of a body representing the commercial inter-ests of the entire state, and I believe that be-fore you have completed your business here and adjourned you will have reason to think that the people of this city appreciate this fact.
I congratulate you upon the success which least.

I congratulate you upon the success which has attended your association during the past year. While your increase, in point of numbers, may not have been phenomenal, I am informed that the character and business standing of the new members has been such as to materially strengthen your organization and raise it to a higher plane. The work done by your association during the three years of its existence has given it an enviable standing and it is recognized as being the best organized association of retail merchants in the union.

The credit system which is an important feature of your organization, is one of the best known to the commercial world and it must inevitably tend toward making your members more conservative in business matters.

If you will permit me, I wish to admonish you against a danger which is sure to menace every organization of this kind—that is becoming too narrow in its sease, through a misapprehension of its possibilities. It is within the province of your local branches to broaden their plan of work and take up matters of local or general interest. For instance, I have noticed that your Trade Journal has been systematically agitating the matter of good roads.

Right here I wish to congratulate you upon noticed that your Trade Journal has been systematically agitating the matter of good roads.

Right here I wish to congratulate you upon having such a representative piper as the Trade Journal, which is recognised as being the leading trade paper of the state.

But to return to the question of good roads: There is probably no class of people in the state who are more concerned in having good country roads than the retail merchants. With good roads the farmers can get to and from town in all kinds of weather and you all understand what that means. Consequently you should agitate this matter thoroughly and systematically, and support the position taken by your trade paper on this question. This is a subject which has been taken up by legislatures and by congress and has attracted attention all over the country.

There is another matter which I wish to suggest to you now and which I spoke about a year ago. That is, the idea of working in unison with the Manufacturers and Consumers association of this state. It seems to me that the interests of the two organizations are identical to some extent, and both should work in harmony to accomplish a common end. I seeds that many of your members are bow giving home-made goods the preference, but there should be united action on your part in this matter. You will reap the benefit of such action. An increased demand for homemade goods will cause an increase in the amount of help employed, and will also result in other industries being established in our state, all of which will be followed by an increase in your trade.

The second annual exposition of the Manu-Crease in your trade.

The second annual exposition of the Manu-

The second annual exposition of the Manufacturers and Consumers associaton is now going on, and you should visit it and fill up your stores with home made goods.

There is one thing in particular for which your association should receive the hearty thanks of the entire state, and that is the exhibit trains which you have sent through several eastern states. These trains have been the means of advertising our state more thoroughly, perhaps, than any other means which have been adopted.

Again I extend to you a hearty welcome in have been adopted.

Again I extend to you a hearty welcome in the name of the city and wish your association abundant success.

Response from the Capital. N. G. Yates of Lincoln responded in a happy mood, in behalf of the delegates. He assured the mayor that the freedom of the city would not be abused, and thanked him heartily for the welcome extended. Among other things, Mr. Yates referred to the aims of the association and alluded to it as a "trust" formed by the business men of Nobraska to promote commercial development braska to promote commercial development and protect mercantile interests.

President Davidson made a brief address reviewing the growth of the organization and its benefits. The subjects of cash and credit, relief from peddlers, collections and failure to secure a repeal of the garnishee law, were presented to the association as subjects for discussion during the session In conclusion, the speaker referred with enthusiasm, to Nebraska's prosperity and the fact that the wave of business depression that had swept over the country had not engulfed the commercial interests of Secretary R. F. Hodgin submitted a verbal report in which he stated that seven new counties had been organized during the past year, and that fifty-six counties in Nebraska now enjoyed membership in the association. There was some apathy in the thinly set-tled counties, but otherwise the reorganization of the association had met with great

The third round opened with some light sparring. In the middle of the round Hall landed both right and left on his opponent's head, then gave him a stinger on the jaw and stood away. The men fooled about the ring, missing repeatedly when they came to close quarters. At the end of the round the referee warned them if they did not fight there would be no purse for them. The warning had little effect, The fourth round was a scrambling one.

Not a single telling blow was struck and the fooling of the previous round was repeated until the spectators hissed and leered The fifth round was somewhat better. It ended with Slavin's going down from a right-hander on the jaw. Nothing was ac-complished by either of the men in the sixth

The seventh round had hardly opened be-fore Hall floored Slavin with his left. Slavin was soon up, but hearing somebody call time, he turned towards his corner, Hall instantly shot out his right. The blow landed squarely on Slavin's jaw and sent nim down for good. The spectators hooted Slavin as he was carried to his carner. Disappointment and dissatisfaction with the fight were generally expressed. Slavin was seconded by Jack Start and Jim Bevan, and was attended also

Going at Gravesend. Donizetti

The children from five of the Omaha schools put in yesterday afternoon at the exposition. All of the public school children have now been admitted excepting those of the High school, who were granted a holiday, but the order was rescinded on account of the Decoration day exercises.

The business men who are attending the convention in the city are taking much interest in the exposition and many of them visited it yesterday afternoon and evening. Today has been designated as merchants' day, and all the visiting merchants will be provided with tickets and attend the exposition. sition in a body this evening. All the jobbers and manufacturers in the city are especially requested to be present and assist in entertaining them. Both the Man-ufacturers association and the Commercial club made a great effort to bring into the city during the time of the exposition the large body of retail merchants now here and the management of the exposition is anxious that the business men and citizens of Omaha should turn out this evening and help to make the vistors feel that they are being well entertained.

Cooking by Electricity.

In this day and age of the world, when so on this day and age of the world, when so much progress is being made in the science of electricity, anything new in that line is of particular interest. For that reason the electrical cooking apparatus on exhibit is receiving a good deal of attention. Ladies are shown the method of baking, frying, boiling, etc., by means of electricity. A Most Creditable Exhibit.

One of the most attractive exhibits at the exposition, which no visitor should pass without a careful examination, is that of the W. A. Page Soap company. The booth is carved out of soap of different colors so arranged as to produce the most artistic effect. An expert carver was employed a good many days in carving from solid blocks of soap the columns which support the booth. So attractive is the booth that few people realize at first that it is made entirely of soap. In-side the booth there is an attractive exhibit of the different kinds of soap manufactured by the W. A. Page Soap company and no housekeeper or merchant can inspect these goods without making a resolve to patronize home industries from that time on. Besides the display of goods there is a machine that shows the process of stamping and pressing the bars of soap while a young lady, said to be the fastest soap wrapper in lady, said to be the fastest soap wrapper in the country, puts the jackets and wrappers on the soap and packs it in the boxes. The whole exhibit is very instructive and will give one a very fair idea of the work in a soap factory. In addition to their old and well known brands, the company is intro-ducing two new brands that promise to be very popular, the Silver Leaf and the Polar Star. The last mentioned is a floating soap of great excellence.

half pint bottles, all with their neat colored labels, the arrangement is such as to be a very pleasing sight to housekeepers as well as merchants. Extensive as is the exhibit only samples of each kind of articles can be shown. Though only in business for three years the Gedney Pickle company's goods are well known throughout the state. The difficulty in procuring cucumbers, onions, tomatoes and the other vegetables required which was encountered at first, has been overcome, and the raw ma-

CHAMPION AND RAY'S AVENGERS. They Are Determined to Kill All Johnson County Cattlemen.

Douglas, Wyo., May 29.- [Special Telegram to THE BEE.]-Evidently the self-appointed avengers of Champion and Ray, the victims of the Johnson county war last spring, propose to kill off the cattlemen whether invasionists or not. Reliable information from the north tonight brings details of an attempt to kill H. H. Remington near the D V ranch last Friday. The gentleman saw a man mounted on a black horse near the ranch, and as the stranger seemed to be waiting for some one, Remington rode ou and asked him if he was nunting horses. The unknown drew his gun, and with the reply, "You are the fellow I'm after," began shooting.

The first shot hit the horn of Remington's saddle, who wheeled his horse and sped towards the ranch followed by several more shots, one of which pierced the cantle of his saddle and grazed his thigh Remington was unarmed. The stranger did not pursue him, but after emptying his gun at the flying cattleman wheeled his horse and rode north.

NEW YORK, May 29.-R. C. Kerens of St. Louis, member of the republican national committee from Missouri, is at the Fifth avenue hotel, and announced today that Hon. Joseph H. Manley, secretary of the committee, had been empowered to open republican headquarters here next September. Mr. Kerens said to a reporter: "No better man could have been found for the place. He is methodical, does not lose his head, and he knows nearly all the republicans in the country. As to details, we have left them all to Mr. Manley. In his own good way he will perfect things, and I believe as his work progresses every republican will see the wisdom of his selection."
