Mayor Weir Left in Undisputed Possession of the Lincoln Field.

Results of the First Canvass Not Materially Altered by the Recount-Something as to the Cost of the Suit.

LINCOLN, June 29 .- [Special to THE BEE.] -The mayoralty contest, in which each side has charged the other with all the crimes on the electoral calendar, came to an abrupt ending in county court this morning, when the recount and inspection of the ballots was completed. The totals showed that Weir had received on the undisputed ballots 2,708 and Graham 2,608, with 139 disputed ballots. Of these seventy-nine were for Weir on the face, and sixty for Graham. The latter was then confronted with the disagreeable alternative of either dropping the contest or going ahead and piling up costs. The Weir men insisted that if the entire 5,600 ballots were counted by the court they should insist on each being received and marked by the court as an exhibit. As the court is entitled to charge 10 cents for each, it would cost Mr. Graham about $600 to find out the exact plu-rality of his opponent, and he promptly de-cided to give up the ghost then and there.

Tried it with Morphine. Mrs. Henry Small, wife of a painter living at Sixth and F streets, attempted suicide by swallowing some morphine this morning, but thought better of it and called in assistance. The woman, her sister and several brothers indulged in a little jubilee with a beer keg as the central figure the other day, and when her husband discovered it he berated er soundly. She took it to heart, and took dose of morphine as scheme of vengcance. Another story is to the effect that her hus-band looked too fondly upon a neighboring woman, and she took the morphine method to restore his oblique morals to a perpendicular. Case of Self-Destruction.

Coroner Crim held an inquest today over the remains of Louise Meyers, alias Jessie Adams, who was found dead in her bed yesterday afternoon. The evidence showed that the woman had frequently stated that she intended getting rid of herself, and the resolution was crystalized by the desertion of her lover, a bridge builder. Dr. Graham, who had attended her, testified that the girl had frequently requested to know what was the easiest method of killing herself, and the coroner stated that the glass by her bedside had evidently contained a solution of morphine and strychnine. A verdict of belf-destruction was rendered.

City in Brief.

Frank Weber, William Snyder and Frank Robinson, three boys of about 18, were arrested this morning on the charge of burglary. On the night of the 9th inst. the bicycle rooms of Hooper & Marshall were broken into and two wheels stolen. The theft was traced to the boys and their arrest followed. The long-expected $1,525 estimate on the viaduct contract, which the Burlington and Union Pacific railroad companies had once refused to pay, was paid today. The two engineers employed by the city on the work were ready with drawn warrants, and swooped down on $200 of the money, while the contractor took in the balance. It is expected that some more trouble will ensue when the railroad company hears of this action, as it had announced its intention of refusing to pay for any superintendence by the city.

The Axtell Cot Pipe company of Axtell, Neb., filed articles of incorporation with the secretary of state today. The capital stock is $2.500.

The Board of Public Lands and Buildings had another meeting today, but did nothing so long as The Bee representative lingered in the vicinity.

The following cases were filed in supreme Court today: State against Daniel Mc-Aleese, appeal from Cheyenne county; William D. Mead against George J. Nebraska Crop Prospects, LYONS, Neb., June 22 .- [Special to THE BEE. ]-The crop prospect was never better at this season of the year than at present. Corn has made a wonderful growth within the last week. Small grain of all kinds promises a big yield. Potatoes in some localities need a little rain. Good rains localities need a little rain. Good rains have fallen in many sections about here within the last ten days. Farmers say they only need one more good rain on the small grain. The straw will be very heavy this year. Tame grasses need rain in some localities, but the pasturage is good and all kinds of stock are looking well.

Oak, Neb., June 22.—[Special Telegram to The Ber.]—Crops in this section of the pountry are looking fine. Fall wheat harvest will be commenced about July 5. Corn is leeding rain.

PRINCE'S PLAN.

Replies to a Criticism on His Idea for s Working Girls Home.

The subject of establishing a home for working girls has created considerable interest and discussion. Speaking of the matter yesterday to a BEE reporter Sol Prince said: "My conversation with a representative of THE BEE has been the cause of some com-ment, and the World-Herald in an editorial calls my attention to the fact that such a home is already established by the Women's Christian association and urges that there should be no rivalry but a unity of interest In answer to this I desire to define my plan and position exactly.

"I do not decry or underrate the ef-forts of our noble women who are engaged in the good work of ameliorating human suffering, be they members of the Women's Christian association, the Creche, the Open Door, the hospitals or the Hebrew La-Open Door, the hospitals or the Hebrew Lades' Aid society. God bless them all. They are all exemplifying the teaching, 'The greatest of these is charity.' Their existence is necessary, but not for the women to whom I refer in my plan for a working woman's home. This home should be so conducted as to remove all idea of charity, of religion or of any dependence whatever in connection therewith. Now, let us look into the matter, first as an investment, and second as to practicability. I propose that a lot should be purchased, not too far from the business center, on which should be erected a building containing 200 sleaning rooms parlor both ng containing 200 sleeping rooms, parlor, bath rooms, spacious during room, kitchen, etc.

"This building would cost to build, with ground, approximately $50,000. Of the 200 rooms 100 should be double, to accommodate two people each, and 100 single. Thus, we have a home capable of caring for 300 boarders. Now, as to the expense of running such an institution and providing good meals, clean beds and bright, cheerful, surroundings. As an old hotel man, I claim that this can all be done at a cost of $1,500 per month, including all expenses. Now, let us add to this a fair interest on the money invested—say 6 per cent on $50,000, or $250 per month, which, added to $1,500, will make $1,750 per month. To provide for all contingencies let us call it $2,000 per month. This would require a charge of a little less than $7 per month for each ten-ant. The parlor should be nicely furnished and provided with a good plane, and during the winter months, at least once a week, pleasant entertainment could be readily afforded the guests by local talent, who would, I am sure, volunteer their services. would, I am sure, volunteer their services. No objection should be made to any lady receiving gentlemen callers in the parlor, and I opine, that this alone would have a salutatory effect on the morals of some men who would learn the lesson that a girl who works for her living, however humble that work may be, is none the less a lady for that.

"To conclude, my idea would be to make this not a charity institution by the rather a

this, not a charity institution, but rather a working women's co-operative association, where mutual assistance could be rendered. All the comforts of home could be enjoyed, and incalculable benefits could be mutually secured to the poor working women of this Lecture on the Art Exhibit. Mr. W. E. Curtis, formerly of Chicago, but now a resident of this city, delivered a very interesting lecture on the "Art Exhibit at the Fair," to a small but appreciative audience at Young Mens' Christian Association hall last evening. The speaker dealt more especially with the display of liberal arts. His description of the exhibits of the various nations was the next thing to a personal view of the galleries.

The artistic arrangement of the buildings and landscapes of the White City received some attention in the opening sentences of the address. Mr. Curtis stated that the art exhibit at the World's fair was fully 50 per cent larger than that at the Centennial, but he was disposed to criticise the arrangement. The pictures were scattered all over the but he was disposed to criticise the arrange-ment. The pictures were scattered allover the galleries. Those represe ting the United States were displayed in eleven different rooms and the French exhibit was scattered through nearly twenty apartments. The catalogues were so arranged that it was im-possible to tell in which room various paint-ings were located and the visitor who wanted to find a certain picture had no reconverings were located and the visitor who wanted to find a certain picture had no recourse except to search all through the exhibit.

One of the striking features of the exhibit was the absence of many of the works of the old masters. The exhibition was designed to represent the work of the nineteenth century and but few of the paintings were of an earlier date. According to the judgment of the speaker, Germany, the United States, Great Britain and France ranked in the order named in the comparative excellence of their exhibits.

Indifferent to Danger. Complaint was made to the police last night that the one-story frame dwelling at 1515 Harney street was unsafe on account of the undermining of the foundation in excavating for the new hotel at Fifteenth and Harney streets. The excavation reaches to Harney streets. The excavation reaches to the side of the house and the bank is cut straight down for nearly thirty feet below the stills of the building. The bank is now caving away, leaving the east side of the house without proper support, and it is feared that one of these June days it will come tumbling down into the excavation.

The house is occupied by a colored family named Fields, who refused to move when their dangerous situation was explained to them. The building inspector was notified of the circumstances and will investigate the matter today.

AMBITION OF YOUNG HEARTS

Gladdened by Promotion from the Eighth Grade to the High School.

FAREWELL TO FIELDS OF FORMER STUDY

Program of Exercises at Kellom School-Large Class and Evidence of Proficiency-Dr. Duryea Gives the Pupile Some Candid Advice.

The eighth grade class at the Kellom school gave a very pleasing and creditable program yesterday afternoon. It was a farewell to the teachers and pupils of the school prior to their taking a step higher into the High school at the opening of the

The principal of the school and Miss Lucas, teacher of the eighth grade, had both taken special pains to have the preparations complete, and the event was very much enjoyed by the visitors. After the exercises by the class, Dr. Duryea was introduced and delivered an admirable talk. He said, among other things, that he hoped he members of the class would go to the High school next year, rather than be sent. Young people who were sent to school rarely did as well as those who went. He then touched upon the central thought in work and recreation, saying he had known work and recreation, saying he had known people who really enjoyed work, although as a rule, it was natural to shrink from that which required the exercise of the will and a good deal of energy to accomplish. He hoped the young people before him would learn to love mental work. When that had once become the habit of life, then the possibilities for improvement were simply limitless. The doctor struck some of the fobles of fashionable society a few vigorous blows, and advised the girls of the class to put in but very little time before the looking glass or in the hands of the fashion makers.

Education Before Crimps.

"We used to hear a good deal about this alleged overeducation," said the enthusiastic divine. "When I look at fashionable society and consider how light and trifling it is I am persuaded that it will be a very long time before we need to fear anything like overeducation. No man can be too well educated to be an honest man and a good father. No woman can be too highly educated to be a true and useful woman and a good read to be a true and useful woman and a good matter. good mother.

He cautioned the boys that they should not set their mark too high. Their chances of being president of the United States were, to say the least, rather slim. Neither was it by any means certain that the young men before him would ever become rich. If they did they would probably have to go through the same experience with nearly every other man in the country who had grown rich, "they would have to fail once or twice." But there is one thing that they could be. They could be honest and useful men. This, he held, should be their aim. He wanted to see each of the young people before him resolve to make his or her mind a kingdom in which they would have enjoyment of that substantial and enduring kind that no disaster or failure in life could deprive them of. In closing he expressed a hope that every member of the class would come to the High school next fall filled with a desire to make the most of all the opportunities there pre sented for developing their minds and enlarging their fields of usefulness.

Chimes of a Chestnut Bell. Notorious Bell Brandon, whose euphonious title has appeared on the police record at regular intervals for many years, is again in trouble. This time it is a charge of shooting with intent to kill. The crime was committed in one of the cells of the city jail, where the pugnacious Bell was confined for intoxication and disorderly conduct.

"Dude" Gibson, one of the immates of the Brandon resort, was arrested yesterday afternoon for disturbing the peace. About 7 o'clock last evening the Brandon woman ap-peared at police headquarters for the purpose of liberating her friend. She was ac-companied by a "jag" of liberal proportions and had no sooner explained the object of her visit than she began to make things ex-ceedingly lively around the jail. Jailer Havey finally put her out and she continued her performance on the sidewalk outside. After the matinee had continued a few minutes Segregary Whales were not After the matinee had continued a few minutes Sergeant Whalen went out and arrested the exhibitanted female, who greeted him with a volley of profanity that was audible a couple of blocks away. She was locked in a cell with the Gibson woman and loudly called to Whalen to come down stairs as she wanted to kill him. Nothing was thought of it at the time, but it afterward transmired that the time, but it afterward transpired that the woman meant business, as she had a 38 caliber revolver leveled through the bars ready to insert a bullet in the officer as soon as he made his appearance. Being disappointed in the appearance of the officer, she turned her attention to the woman whom she had come to release. She accused her of being responsible for all her trouble and finally leveled her weapon in her face and fired. Luck-ily the Amazon was too much in-toxicated to win a prize in a shooting contest, and the builet passed through the dress of the Gibson woman without inflicting any serious injury. The shot brought down a couple of officers, who disarmed the unruly female and locked her in a solitary cell.
