Dr. Wuertz of Omaha tried to economize by circulating a lot of hand bills about the streets of Council Bluffs instead of making the fact that he needed business known to the public through the newspapers. He sent a man named Mitchell to this side of the river to circulate the bills. The man was arrested, of course, and was fined $14.60 in bolics course. in police court yesterday for distributing hand bills without a license. Wuertz came over during the day and paid the fine.

The railroads continue to be overburdened with tramps. The Northwestern yards swarmed with them last evening and freight trains had to be stopped twice in order to put off a number whose anxiety to leave town exceeded their figureial ability. The patrol wagon was called and eight seedy specimens were gathered in through the aid of a gun fired off in the air to impress the bums with a due sense of the majesty of the law. One of them managed to take leg bail without permission of any court while on his way to the patrol box. Five more tramps were run in from the Burlington yards. Return of Madame Pollard to Push Her Libel Suit Against the World-Herald.

TWENTY THOUSAND DOLLARS ASKED

That Sum Wanted as Balm for Her Wounded Feelings, Because of the Publication of an Item Reflecting on Her

Madame Nathalie Pollard has returned to Council Bluffs. This statement will be read with a great deal of interest by the many people who became acquainted with her in a way a year or two ago through the coupling of her name with that of a young man named A. Z. Bowen, who traveled with her as business manager. Mrs. Pollard has been engaged in her business of lecturing ever since leaving here and her success in getting her name before the public and keeping it there has been hardly less marked than while she was here. She achieved a national reputation by having introduced into congress, a bill providing for abolishing all divorces in the District of Columbia. The member of congress who introduced it would not father it, but disclaimed any interest in its passage. When it passes congress and the senate and becomes a law its success will be owing to the untiring efforts of Mrs. Pollard and her powers of fascinating the men who stand at the wheel of the national government. Mrs. Pollard states that her bill is bound to become a law, and, as an indication that others think as she does, she points to an overwhelming crop of divorce suits instituted in the District of Columbia since her bill was introduced by the property of the control of the contr wise plan to lay in a good supply of divorces in view of the impending famine. Inherited a Vast Sum of Money. Since leaving here Mrs. Pollard has fallen heir to an almost fabulous amount of money through the sad death of a brother. Her object in coming here now is to look after the welfare of a $20,000 damage suit which she commenced in the United States court i this city about a year ago against the World Publishing company of Omaha, by reason of certain damaging statements that appeared in one of the issues of the World-Herald. She says the attorneys whom she engaged when the suit was started have been neglecting their business and she has come back to administer a desc of forked stick to them, and arouse their interest by showing them that she still has money. When she leaves here Monday she will go directly to Chicago, where she has accepted an invitation to de-liver a speech on the subject, "Foot Free in God's Country," on the 19th, before one of the sessions of the woman's congress. August 5 she will deliver another lecture at the same place on "Bubbles."

Omaha Sewer is Emptying Its Filth Into Water Used for Drinking Purposes A matter has just come to light which deserves the immediate attention of the city council of Council Bluffs. A new sewer has recently been built in Omaha, intended to drain a large portion of the northern part of the city. The district it covers is 4,940 acres in size, according to the plans drawn by City Engineer Rosewater of Omaha, and the main outlet is at Florence, a few miles north of the city. This throws the filth from the of the city. This throws the filth from the entire district into the river at a point above the place where Council Bluffs gets her supply of drinking water.

This state of affairs is one that should not be allowed to exist a day longer than is necessary. The attention of City Physician Macrae has been called to the matter and he intends to give it his immediate attention. He states that from what he has been decided.

the states that from what he has heard he thinks the outlet of the Omaha sewer is so far above the source of the water supply that no danger need be apprehended. The sewer is not used as yet to any great extent, but as North Omaha builds up it will go on pouring out a constantly increasing amount of fifth into the stream and pollute the water until it becomes a breeding place for water until it becomes a breeding place for disease. By requiring the water works company to move its pumping station above Florence this trouble can be done away with. It is probable that some action will be taken as soon as the city physician has time in which to make a report. Another improvement to the popular

John W. Templeton, a farmer residing in Garner township, is missing and his friends are considerably worried over his long absence. He came to Council Bluffs a week ago today and stopped at Neumayr's hotel. During the day he called at the First National bank and left some money in his wife's came, remarking while there that he was thinking of starting for a trip to his old home in Scotland on Monday. No trace could be found of him at any of the depots, and it is hardly thought that he can have started on such a trip, for he had made no preparations for it, although he had been taiking of it at times for a long while back. Some incline to the theory that his mind was unbalanced as the result of a sunstroke, which he suffered about a year ago, and that he has wandered off without knowing where he was going. sence. TENNIS TOURNAMENT.

Interesting Doubles Contest in Which Den Ise and Wilbur Gain the Mastery.

Notwithstanding the fact that only one match was to be played last night in the Omana tennis tournament there was as large a gathering of spectators on the ground on Harney street as off any day during the week,

It was nearly 7 o'clock when Denise and
Wilbur entered the courts to do battle with Wilbur entered the courts to do battle with Hart and Richard Young for a place in the semi-finar round of the doubles. Denise's success in the singles against Hart gave interest to the smatch, and when the game started its slocked for a while as if Hart, would have his revenge. It was perfectly evident that Denise was less formillable at doubles than at singles, and his printer. Denise was less formiliable at doubies than at singles, and his partner was weaker than himself. Time after time, however, was a ball sent to Wilbur and if he got it back it would be returned down Denise's side-line as a winning stroke. By this means Hart and Young, whose combination was far superior, won the first set at six games to four, and had won three to their opponent's two in the second. At this point, however, there was a change. For several games Denise returned every ball that came to him on the volley and thirteen consecutive points were scored by his side.

This altered the aspect of affairs altogether and Hart and Young, both of whom seemed to become less and less accurate as their opponents improved, took only one their opponents improved, took only one game out of the last ten. Though again beaten, Hart played a more accurate and more ambitious game than he did in the singles, but the greater number of the balls, especially toward the end of the match were directed to his partner's side of the court, and Young was given a little more work to do than he could manage successfully. It should be said that the volleying on both sides was first class and, at times, even brilliant.

Denise and Wilbur will next meet McKell and Brown in the semi-final round. In the upper half of the draw Brown and Haskell will oppose Fosbenner and Lawrence in the will oppose Fosbenner and Lawrence in the semi-final, and both these matches, the committee has decreed, are to be played by Monday night. Fosbenner and Lawrence have got thus far without any play. They had a bye in the first round and should have met Young and Cookson in the second. Cookson, however, as stated yesterday, was called out of town, and the committee last night decided that it would be impossible to keep the event open for his return. By this keep the event open for his return. By this decision he and Young, who defeated the state champions (Cullingham and Battin), are parred from further efforts toward winning the prize, and Fosbepper and Lawrence are given a walkover.

Tonight Cullingham will play Denise in the final of the singles at 6p. m. sharp. Mr. W. G. Doane, formerly tennis champion of the state, will umpire. The two matches in the semi-final round of the doubles must be played tonight or Monday night and the final of the doubles on Tuesday. Score: DOUBLES-SECOND ROUND.

WILL KEEP THEMOOFF THE ROOF. Visitors to the World's Fair Will Have to Forego One Pleasure.

CHICAGO, July 14. Great precautions will be taken to make a repetition of Monday's awful disaster an impossibility. Every official is aroused and in the fu-ture firemen, employes and visitors will be given full protection. In order that nothing more may be said concerning the danger of the promenades on the roofs of the buildings, the administration yesterday instructed Director General Davis to keep the people from the roofs. This will most affect the Transportation, Administration and Manufactures building. The order met with a vigorous protest from the eleva-tor people, who bave a concession for carrying people to the root, but the protest was not considered. The exposition company receives 65 per cent of the gross receipts and it has been a highly profitable concession from the start. The magnificent view afforded from the roofs of the buildings attracted an immense number of visitors every day, and while it was both a profitable and admirable feature of the fair, it was one fraught with danger which is now recognized and will be avoided. An indication of the possible danger was given the night of Decoration day. It was the first extremely large crowd at the fair. Four or five thousand people had gone on the roof of the Magufactures building to see the fireworks. There was a plank sidewalk around the parapet of the roof simply to make walking upon the roof unnecessary. One of the planks slipped a little, so that when it was stepped on the other end flew up. There was no danger, but there was a crowd. Some one screamed. There was an incipient panic. Everybody made a rush for the elevators. Fortunately the strong forces of guards were able to control the crowd and restore quiet. No one was hurt, but it simply shows what might happen in case of fire. The chances are that in such a case exit by the elevators would be cut off the first thing. What would follow with a large number of people on the roof can scarcely be imagined or described. As the concession is such a valuable one there is a possibility that the concessionaires may sue the exposition company for thus summarily cutting off their concession. They probably have a legal right to damages. Still there is an element of such frightful danger lurking in the concession that the concessionaires may be willing to forego their legal rights.

The elevator toy appeared at the bottom of the shaft and, not knowing Thompson was above, started the cage down. Thompson was caught between cigo and the floor of the building and terribly crushed. TIGHTENING UP COMMISSION FIRMS

Sweet Singer of the Cooler-Stole Skeleton Keys - Grantham Still Keeps People Guessing-Among the Musicians -Magie City Gossip.

A passenger on the west bound Union Pacific train was taken in for $20 yesterday while the train was stopping for passengers. The tourist was standing on the platform and seemed anxious that every one should know that he was aboard. He was well dressed and was jingling some silver in his pocket when two men approached the car and asked the fellow if he could change a $10

"I should smile I could," replied the passenger, and he pulled out his well filled purse. The first bill he got hold of was a $20. He held this between his fingers while he started to fish out something smaller. One of the two men snatched the $20 bill and the two ran away, dodging behind box cars and making good their escape. The traveler was dumbfounded for a moment, and his train pulled out before he had time to make any complaint. Some of the depot men say the transaction, however, and the matter was reported to the police. The yards were searched from end to end, but the thugs had gone and will probably never be caught.

Tightening Up on Commission Firms. It is only recently, in fact within the last few days, that the live stock commission men have felt the effects of the stringent condition of the money market. One of them said yesterday merning: "This money question is getting more serious every day. It works a hardship on both the shipper It works a hardship on both the shipper and the commission man. tA Jail Bird Nightingale. Bill Foley is a character who is best satisfied when in a jail. He is an immaculate faisifier and at times acts as though he had a Ferris wheel in his caranium. At other times he appears to be smart enough to earn an honest living. But Foley will not work. He has been arrested in South Omaha a number of times. He was in again Thursday night and yesterday morning was sent to the county jail for fifteen days. He imagines he knows more about law than the average at-torney, and every time he gets before a judge he demands a jury trial and pleads his own case. He claims to be a blacksmith, tailor, shoemaker and several other things but about the only line that he stars in is petty thieving and begging for hand-outs. As a jail bird singer he is a coo-co.
