THEY'RE AFTER HIM.

Lawyers Want a Whack at Young Mr.

The young man from Boston, J. C. Leonard, alias Frank C. Howard, who came west on his wedding trip that he might see a sure enough city, and who fell by the wayside white taking in the town and learning some of the intricacies of the delusive game of

of the intricacies of the delusive game of stud poker, has jumped from the frying pan into the fire, so to speak.

Yesterday this young man was lappinness itself when he heard that County Judge Eller had ordered City Jailer Havey to pay into court $450 of the money which had been taken from the gamblers, that it might be on hand when the merits of the case were finally determined, but today Mr. Leonard, alias Mr. Howard, is a perfect picture of sadness and again he has refused to be comforted, as he has discovered that a goodly share of his hard carned wealth has gone a-glimmering, no matter which way the rone a-glimmering, no matter which way the

After the young man learned that his money had gone over the green and was beyond his control, his first thought was to hire an attorney to help his out of the bad job in which he had then caught. The more he thought the more firmly he became convinced that he could not do business without one of these students of Blackstone. At last one was hired, and through his aid the court order was made, but yesterday when the man from Hoston went up to the court house just for the purpose of once more gazing upon his ideliars, he was informed that the man of legal lore had filed a lien on an even $100 of the money that was taken from the possession of the gamblers. As he meditated over the new turn that affairs had taken he inwardly declared that affairs had taken he inwardly declared that if he got out of the country with a whole skin he would swear off on wedding trips and would never again venture outside the corporate limits of his native town.

SUMMER HARVEST OF SWELTERING SIN Charles Goode Has a Bad Record-Dingman Has Registered Again-Reeder Released -Galaxy of Theatrical Names on the Biotter.

Charles Goode seems to be a bad man. He was arraigned before Judge Berka on the charge of highway robbery, said he was not guilty and was sent back to fail to await the arrival of an important witness. Goode arrived in the city a few days ago and that sleuth, Sergeant Ormsby, arrested fellow on the charge of slugging and robbing M. D. Springfield of $162 on November 22, 1892. Goode is said to have become acquainted with his victim in Sioux City and persuaded him to come to Omaha, where he robbed him. The robber escaped, but ventured back and now will be tried if Springfield can be found. Goode has told many contradictory stories since his arrest, but he has been identified by several officers. He had a stranger in tow and was visiting tough saloons "blowing in" his companion for all he was worth when the arrest

Dingman's Regular Record. John Dingman, a constable from Justice Brandies' court, by hard work succeeded in getting his name on the police court records again yesterday. There are two new cases again yesterday. There are two new cases now pending against him, and John feels slighted if he cannot be arrested at least four times a week. This time John levied on the goods of R. O. Steinmarker, a tenant in the Cunningham block on Thirteenth and Jackson streets and after the eviction he piled the goods on the sidewalks, obstructing the passage. This is contrary to the peace, dignity and ordinances of Omaha and a po liceman swore out a warrant for John's ar rest. He appeared in court with three law yers and gave bonds for trial. He re-marked that if they didn't quit arresting him he would give them something to arrest him for before long. Time Fires.

"I got a gold watch for defending that fellow," said Pat O. Hawes to Chief Detective Haze yesterday in speaking about a thief who had been disposed of some time ago. "Well, you are the man I am looking for," answered the chief. "I have found the owner of the watch, and as it is stolen property you had better bring it into court." The smile which had been illuminating Patrick's genial countenance disappeared and his face became longer than a Milwaukee schooner as he said: "Well, some fools talk too as he said:

The county judge fixed Reeder's bond at $800 pending the arrival of Chief Scanlan or Council Bluffs with requisition papers. Reeder was released on his own cognizance through the efforts of Attorney Mahoney.

Fond of Jewelry. James Lee, who is charged with grand larcony, was arraigned yesterday afternoon and pleaded not guilty. His case was set for Tuesday at 10 o'clock, and Patrick Hawes will defend him. Lee is accused of stealing jewelery to the value of $120 from Birdie Mann's domicile. He was caught with a fine ring on his finger, which belonged to Miss Mann.

A. S. Collins, the clerical forger, was ar-raigned before Judge Berka yesterday afternoon and heard the several charges read against him. He demanded a preliminary hearing, and the evidence will be heard at 10 o'clock today. Collins' wife appeared in the court when he was arraigned.

Two more checks have turned up against S. A. Collins, the reverend forger. These checks are all drawn on the Ashiand, Wis., bank and one is for $18 and the other is for $25, cashed by James Ainsworth, the laundryman. Collins says he will make the checks good if the holders will not prose-

Dr. Patsey Havey assisted by Dr. Al Beebout have been attending the fellow and have succeeded in reducing his temperature.

Fay Templeton, Pauline Hall and Laura Ward were the names which appeared on the police court blotter yesterday morning. The people who assumed the names are denizens of the Tenderloin district, and they stepped up before the judge with a Bowery swag which cost them $5 and costs apiece. They were charged with immorality.

Court Officer Walker is in receipt of a let-ter from the district attorney of Gage county, in which it is stated that Taylor, the man charged with criminal assault against his stepdaughter, had been held by the Gage county grand jury for trial in September. The attorney expresses strong hopes of convicting Taylor.

The case of John M. Wilson, charged with not constructing a sidewalk in accordance with the plans and specifications of the city engineer and the Board of Public Works, was heard in the police court yesterday. The defense contended that the Board of Public Works had no authority in the matter, as the council had refused to accept the speci-fications since the new charter has been in effect. > Board of Public Works Directed to at Oace Proceed in Conformity to the Petitions and the Contracts-End of the Case.

On June 17 the question of whether or not Delos P. Beard could tie up all of the paying in the city came up for hearing in Judge Walton's court, and after being argued by the attorneys was taken under advisement, the point being as to whether the temporary restraining order should be dissolved or by the chiefs of the association gave little satisfaction.

About railroad offices yesterday morning bets were freely made that fifty round trip tickets would not be sold by the four roads directly engaged in World's fair business, the Burlington, Milwaukee, Northwestern and Rock Island, and several of the city ticket agents even placed the maximum at thirty tickets, which is mighty poor business at this stage of the game.

What is most remarked at this time is the position taken by the Central Traffic association. made permanent. Beard's attorney contended that the property owners had never been invited to sign a petition asking for the creation of paving districts; that the water, gas and sewer connections along the streets which it was intended to pave had never been made, and position taken by the Central Traffic associa-tion in making a 1-cent a mile rate to the nathat the council had advertised for bids for paving before consulting the property owners as to whether or not they wanted

City Attorney Connell admitted that it was true that the property owners had not been People have been educated to cut rates consulted as to the advisability of creating and rate wars and naturally expect to ride to Chicago for one fare or less, some even anticipating that the rate from Omaha to the White City would be about $5, but the lowest round trip rate yet made ($15) is only effective for one day, next Monday, and limthe districts, and that such a thing was unheard of in the history of any city in the land. If such a course was pursued none of the streets would ever be paved. In reviewing the case he expressed the opinion that the asphalt companies were benind the in-junctions and proposed to prevent the im-provement of all streets in the city, provided ited to return in seven or eleven days from date of issue, and then on a Friday at that. But there are other considerations attached to this special ticket which will make it particularly obnoxious to toucists, they were not given the work.

Granted the Injunction.

On the second day following Judge Walton granted the injunction asked for by Beard, and the result was the tying up of all paving in the city. Several attempts were made to be effective which will give persons intend-ing to visit eastern cities an opportunity of getting back to their old homes very much bring about some adjustment of the matter, with no avail. At one time the Beard of Public Works undertook to push the work in extent but by no means as general as the members of the Western Passenger associa-tion had anticipated.

The failure of this cheap excursion will deflance of the injunction, with the result that the members were hauled before the honorable court and roundly fined for con-tempt. As soon as possible the matter was taken to the supreme court, but owing to show passenger agents that it will take a much cheaper rate to move the business and taken to the supreme court, but owing to an unfortunate stipulation between the attoracys it was prevented from coming on for a hearing at the last term, and in the ordinary course would not be heard before September. This would have had the effect of preventing any but a small portion of the work laid out for the summer from being accomplished. To get around this difficulty the members of the supreme court. Chief Justice Maxwell, Justice Norval and Justice Post, agreed, at the expense of their vacation plans, to hold a special session for the purpose of determining the question at issue. Messrs, Dickinson and McConnell return from their western trip next week. question at issue. This session was held yesterday, and the case came on under the title of "State ex rel City of Omaha against Birkhauser and Others." Last evening the court handed down the following memorandum in the case with the statement that the opinion would be filed later.

Three Points Settled.

1. The mayor and city council of a city of the motropolitan class have no jurisdiction to create street improvement districts or to order the paving therein, unless a petition therefor signed by the owners of the majority of the feet frontage of the lots in such proposed district is first presented to the city council.

posed district is first presented to the city council.

2. Where an improvement or paving district has been formed without any petition therefor having been presented and afterwards a petition of the property owners representing a majority of the feet frontage of the lots or hads in said district asking for the paving of the streets and alleys in such district, and specifying the kind of material to be used, is presented to the city council, and they act thereon by passing an ordinance ordering the paving of the streets and alleys, all errors, defects and irregularities in the proceedings creating such improvement districts are thereby cured. Mich., for an outing before resuming his run Circulars have been received at local railway offices from the Interstate Commerce commission giving notice that all railways must adopt a standard height for draw bars on freight cars and fixing that height at on freight cars and fixing that height at thirty-four inches for standard and twentysix inches for narrow gauge roads with three inches of play between loaded and empty cars. The whole matter is in pursuempty cars. The whole matter is in pursu-nce of an act passed at the last session of congress and approved March 2. Railways are requested to change their drawbars to the standard height as soon as possible and are given until July 1, 1895, as the uttermost oured.

3. The kind of material to be used in the paying, repaying or macadamizing of the streets shall be such as the majority of the property owners in the paying district shall determine, and in case such owners fail to designate the majorial they desire to use in such improvement within thirty days the major, and council shall determine upon the material to be used. The proper city authorities may advertise for and receive bids for paying before such designation for materials is made, and it is not absolutely necessary that they shall again advertise for and receive bids after such designation.

4. Under the admitted facts it was held that it was the dury of the respondents, the Board of Public Works of the city of Omaha, to forthwith enter into a contract on behalf of the city with the lowest responsible bidder for the paying of improvement district.

What Astorney Ransom Says.

Mr. Frank Ransom, who appeared as special attorney for the city council in the recent case of the city of Omaha against the Board of Public Works, decided yesterday by the supreme court of Nebraska, was seen last night by a reporter and tion regarding increased charges for the seen last night by a reporter, and being asked to say something about the case and the decision he gave the following explanation of the situation and the status of the case: "I have not seen the court's opinion and cannot say to what extent the points raised were decided," said Mr. Ransom. "What I asked the court to dein fact endorsed it at a meeting of their own, but it could not do otherwise than work a hardship to other jobbers in other lines, who sold on longer time, as it would surely affect their collections. cide and the points presented were, first, that the city council has authority of its own motion to create a paving district and to order it paved. Second, that after a district has been created and the council delays making the improvement the property owners in that district may compal the city council to proceed with the work. Third, that any number of property owners amount, and then rustle up the remaining $50 before the check got back there for collection. In this way the jobber got his money, when, if the customer was compelled to buy Omaha or customer was compelled to buy Omaha or customer was the jobber would not get his money at that may petition the council to create a paying district and order the same payed without cost to the city for intersections. These questions were raised directly enough to call for the judgment of the court on each of them, but, of course, I cannot say whether time, or would only get part of it, and would have to wait, perhaps, another month for the balance. He said that the times were now too ticklish for the enforcement of an arbitrary rule, yet he objected to the banks the devision covers all of them.

"The writ of mandamus was allowed and the opinion, no doubt, is that the Board of Public Works must proceed with the improvement in the district mentioned in the case. There are a number of similar cases in other districts and the board will also have to proceed in them. This was a test case, and was de-signed to cover all similar districts. I have no doubt that the law disclosed in this case will make it an easy matter to have the in-junction in the Beard case dissolved. When the opinion of the court is published in full its scope can be more easily determined."

Pfles of people have pues, out DeWitt's witchhazel salve will cure them.

It is not frequent that the work of a biographer is to be found upon a silver certificate, but such a case has developed. Jerome Coulter, of the city treasurer's has in his possession a 😂 silver certificate with a biography written upon it. The biography is short and to the point, and perhaps it is a true one. Not only is the biography there, but the critic has getten in his work in very torse language. Here are the words of the biographer:

"Here is the last of $43,000—an ill-spent life-women, wine and cards have reduced me to poverty."

"The critic passes judgment as follows:
'What a h-l of a good time you must have.'
The silver certificate came late the possession of the deputy treasurer yesterlay, and was passed over the counter by a gentleman who paid his taxes. He did not know the history of the bill.
