IN ENGLAND'S PARLIAMENT.

Further Debate on the Home Rule Bill-A

Little Excitement. LONDON, Aug. 7.-There was considerable excitement among the conservative members who were present at the opening of today's session of the House of Commons. The report stage on the home rule bill was reached at an earlier hour than expected and Mr. Balfour, the conservative leader, who had an important amendment to offer to the bill. was not present to submit the amendment. Mr. Balfour's proposed amendment is intended to prevent the Irish members who shall be retained in the Imperial Parliament from voting on any questions except motions that are offered to amend the home rule pill after the bitl shall have become a law. The conservatives were exceedingly desirous of having the amendment submitted. Mr. George Bartley, who represents the northern division of Islington in the conservative interest, requested to be permitted to act as his substitute in offering the amendment.

Speaker Peel ruled that at this stage supstitutes could not be allowed. A number of conservatives, who had expected that there would be a prolonged debate on Mr. Bal four's proposed clause, had taken advantage of their expectations to absent themselves, intending to be present when notified that a vote was about to be taken upon Mr. Balfour's proposal. By their absence they also lost their chance of moving amendments to the bill. Among those who had important amendments to offer but who were absent were Sir Julian Goldsmid, Viscount Wolmer, Mr. Edward Hencage and Major General Goldworthy. Search was made for them, but they could not be found. A number of clauses were then proposed by other mem bers of the opposition, but the speaker ruled them out, on the ground that due notice had not been given of their submission or that the proposals did not comply with the rules

The unionists stood against as they saw the report sweeping through with lightning speed. Their fright was alrayed, however, when Mr. James Parker Smith (liberal unionist), member of the Patrick division of Lanarkshire, after having eight new clause proposed by him ruled out, obtained the speaker's sanction to move that the boundary commission under the bill be instructed to inquire as to the b Irish electoral districts. to the better division of the

The debate on this motion was taken up and this gave the opposition time to breathe. The conservative and liberal unionist whips were at once dispatched in search of the absentees to summon them to immediate atendance in the house

Messrs. Balfour and Heneage and other members of the opposition appeared in the house in time to take part in the debate on Mr. Smith's motion. Eventually the motion was defeated by a vote of 196 to 152.

Mr. James Parker Smith moved two further clauses, dealing with elections in Ireland. After some debate each clause was rejected, one by a majority of 43, the other by a majority of 49.

In the House of Lords. In the House of Lords today the earl of Northbrook, for some time governor of india, called the attention of the house to the existing obstacles to the importation of manufactured silver from India arising from the compulsory hall marking law in England. He said that the silver in the hands of the people of India was estimated to amount in value to from £130,000,000 to £150,000,000 Owing to the stoppage of free comage of silver by the Indian government the people were unable to find a market for their metal and were sustaining enormous losses. The abolition of the hall mark law in England, together with free trade is articles manufactured from silver, would, he declared, milligate the evils brought about by the stoppage of free coinage.

The earl of Kimberley, secretary of state for India, admitted that it was desirable to change the law. Silver manufacturers in England, however, are opposed to the abolition of the law compelling their goods to bear a hall mark. He saw no reason why the various standards of manufactured silver ought not to exist in England the same as in other countries.

Lord Herschell, lord high chancelor, said he had been advised that there were no large hoards of silver in India. During the famine, vast quantities of silver ornaments famine, vast quantities of silver ornaments had been sent to the mints which had been converted into rupees.

INTERNATIONAL SOCIALISTS.

Yesterday's Meeting at Zurich Marked by Much Excitement. Zunien, Aug. 7.-Today's session of the international socialist congress was marked by a great deal of excitement. First there was a heated debate on the question whether anarchistic and independent socialists, duly certified as delegates, should be permitted to attend the congress. Mr. Cahen of the United States advocated the exclusion of the French and Dutch delegates. Finally a resolution was carried to admit delegates only from societies recognizing the necessity of the organization of labor concurrently with political action. The adoption of this resolution, which was tantamount to the exclusion of the anarchists, led to a great uproar. The avowed anarchist delegates positively refused to withdraw; several of them had to be ejected by force. In the midst of excitement Herr Landauer, a Berin anarchist, used a stick and precipitated a hand-to-hand fight, in which he was at length overpowered by bystanders. When order had been somewhat restored, the congress proceeded to the discussion of the agricultural and other items on the program. Committees were appointed, consisting of three representatives of each nation to systematize each day's work. Herr Singer of Berlin was elected chairman of the congress. Recruiting in Canada.

Ottawa, Ont., Aug. 7.—A large poster in a store window here causes much comment. It is a notice signed by Recruiting Officer Lieutenant Archer Yates, second lieutenant of the Ninth infantry of Ogdensburg, N. Y., holding out strong inducements for recruits to join the United States infantry and cavalry. A conservative paper, referring to the matter, says: "That such a poster should be displayed in a Canadian city is most extraordinary. By some citizens its exhibition in Ottawa is regarded as a brazen piece of effrontery. It ought to be hauled down."

THREE ROUNDS WERE ENOUGH FOR HIM

CONEY ISLAND, N. Y., Aug. 7 .- Never since the Coney Island Athletic club commenced its pugilistic exhibitions has such a throng gathered at their commodious arena as the Pierce-Dixon bout attracted here this evening. Every seat in the house was occupied by the time the opening bout was put on. Every one seemed fairly wild with excitement and tin horns were being tooted in every part of the building. Pierce is a great favorite in New York City and vicinity and his admirers came down in full force. There were many tallyho coach loads of members from the various athletic clubs of New York and Brooklyn. It is estimated that there were between 8,000 and 10,000 spectators in the building.

Jim Corbett was given a great ovation when he walked into the building, accompanied by Manager Brady and several other friends. They were shown to one of the private booths. The majority of the big betting men fancied Dixon and they were rather liberal in the odds they offered.

Clever Lads to Start It.

The first bout was between Murphy and McBride and was foren purse of $1,000, of which $200 went to the loser. It opened in a tumultuous uproar, the large audience were yelling like madmen to those in front to "sit down!" Finally the crowd was organized and at 9 o'clock the men put up their hands for the first round. Both men showed great leverness, especially at infighting.

McBride appeared to have a trifle the best of the hard hitting up to the fourth round, when he drew first blood. Murphy returned the compliment by almost immediately smashing Mac in the nose and spreading it almost over his face. It was give and take until the tenth round, with McBride in the better condition. The referee awarded the fight to McBride.

Promptly at 9:30 Tom O'Rourke entered the ring, followed be George Dixon. He was given an ovation, but it was a mere nothing in comparison with the storm of applause which greeted Eddie Pierce when he marched down through the hall from his dressing room and elimbed upon the stage. It was regular pandemonium, as there were fully twenty Pierce men present to one admirer of Dixon. It was ten minutes to 10 when the men begun their battle. The purse was $6,500, of which the loser received Dixon wore nothing but a white supporter and brown shoes, while Pierce were blue trunks, a white belt and dark canvas shoes. Dixon's seconds were Tom O'Rourke of New York and Jack Havelin and Morris Kelly of Boston. The men who looked after Pierce were Charley Norton; Con Riordan, Nick Dunn, John White and Sammy Kelly. Mike Brashy held the time for Dixon and Jim Lavelie for Pierce.

Dixon's from the Start.

Round 1-Dixon led with his left after a little feinting and caught Pierce in the wind. He visited the same spot again. After some cautieus sparring, in which Dixon showed up to the best advantage, the men clinched on the rapes, but broke away of their own accord. Dixon then smashed Pierce with his left and again with his right. A clinch followed and Dixon showed he was a good hand, at the game of inlight caught Pierce again and the round ended.

Round 2—After a short feint by Dixon, Pierce led heavily on Dixon's face and then ducked a righthander cleverly. A sharp rally followed, of which Pierce appeared to have the advantage. Dixon endeavored to land his right, but he was met and stopped very cleverly. Pierce appeared to have gamed confidence in himself as the round Round 3-Dixon started in for business He sent in his left and drove Pierce to the ropes. Then followed such a volle rights and lefts that Pierce must thought there was a shower of arms and hands. First he became dazed, tried to recover and then went down in a heap, Struggling up before the time limit he was met with lightning-like jabs in the face and jaw that would have settled a bigger and stronger man than Pierce. Colons and Vigilant Sall Their Maiden Race Off Glen Cove.

NEW YORK, Aug. 7. Off Glen Cove, the rendezvous of the New York Yacht club, the commodere's cup, donated by Commodore Morgan, was sailed for today. The race today held, however, is of unusual interest from the fact Two of the strongest amateur kid nines of that the probable America's cup defenders the Colona and Vigilant, satisd their maiden races and gave the public an idea of their worth as sailers and how they compare in speed. The Queen Mab took part in the race and attracted much attention on account of her recent rough Stein, Angel and Wilkins playing their positions, splendidly. The score stood at the end voyage and almost miraculous escape from being wrecked while crossing the At-lantic, and the fact that she is the first large of seven innings: center-board yacht built in England for a number of years. Other starters were the May Flower, Constellation, Dauntiess, Lasca,

Good Dream or Good Story. In February, 1891, John P. Elmborg of St. Paul was injured while boarding a cable car. He sued the company and lost his case. A few nights ago he dreamed that he met a friend who told him that the names of the witnesses of the accident would be found on the back of a letter received two days before the accident occurred, together with a statement that the easualty was the result of the gripman's carelessness. He also dreamed that all the witnesses against him would commit suicide. Yesterday Elmborg found the letter described, and on its back were the names of ten wit-

Alligators' nests resemble haycocks more than anything else to which they can be compared. They average about 4 feet in height and about 5 feet in diameter, and are constructed of grasses and herbage. First the mother gator deposits one layer of eggs on a mortarlike floor, and, having covered this with a stratum of mud and herbage about eight inches thick, lays another set of eggs upon that, and so on to the top, there being commonly from 100 to 200 eggs in a nest. With their tails the parents then beat down the tall grass and weeds to prevent the approach of unseen enemies. The female watches her eggs until they are hatched by the heat of the sun, and then takes her brood under her own care, defending them and providing for their subsistence.

Old and New Deals.

Games of cards have been the rage, have declined in popular favor, have faded into virtual extinction and have been suddenly revived over and over again. Lansquenet, piquet, vingt-et-un, ecarte, triumph, prime, flux, matri-mony, basset, boston, spadille, manille and basto, together with ember, which was only an ancient form of whist, with many more games than even the voluminous Hoyle dreamed of, succeeded one another in society and by turns enjoyed their epoch of patronage; but the cards themselves have scarcely changed pic torially for more than 200 years.

The historic old Hartford, Faragut's flagship at the battle of Mobile Bay, which has been moldering in "Rotten Row," at Mare island, for four years past, har been docked and found in a comparatively good state of preserva-tion. She will be rejuvenated by receiving a battery of modern high-power guns and a new rig similar to that of the Chicago. In her new form she may not exactly prove a terror of the seas, but there is no quarreling with the patriotic sentiment which calls for her preservation.

Mathematical Combination Wonders. If you want to know to what mazy depths mathematics can take you just begin to figure on combinations and keep it up industriously for an hour or One of the most wonderful examples in this line, perhaps, is that relating to the various combinations in dominoes. Dr. Bein, a Frankfort, Ger many, mathematician of international reputation, has calculated that two persons playing the game ten hours a day and making four moves a minute could continue 118,000,000 years without exhausting all the combinations of the game, the total of which is 248,528,211,-

HEROIC MORALS.

A Panting and Pantiess Bather Forced to Swim or Give Up the Ship.

The two boys who were caught while bathing at Ocean Grove with short sleeves on their bathing shirts discovered one of the curiosities of seashore morals in this locality, says the New York Sun. Three places are in a row and quite close together just here. They are Deal, Asbury Park and Ocean Grove. At Deal, which was a coast resort during the revolutionary war, the boys could have gone naked into the surf, for there is no one to say them nay. Asbury Park Mr. Bradley says that all bathing suits shall be such as those he rents, which are of the Reckaway pattern, adopted there by the Irish, the most modest of moderns. But the particular requirement at Asbury Park is that the legs of the trousers shall be long-at least to the knee, and furthered by stockings in the case of women bathers. It is enough for Mr. Bradley to know that in France the women have disearded stockings. It's wear stockings or go dirty in Asbury Park. At Ocean Grove the young lads were driven away to complete their bath elsewhere, because their sleeves were too short. That is the main point at Ocean Grove. The trousers legs are a minor consideration, but the sleeves must be long.

A story is told of a young man who went bathing at Ocean Grove last summer and stayed in so long as to attract general attention. Hour after hour he remained in the surf, further out than the general crowd of bathers, and even when 6 o'clock came and the others left the water to dress for dinner, he still stayed out there, blue and wrinkled and shivering. The bathing master at last swam out to him and asked him why he did not come ashore.

"I am waiting till dark," said the bather. "I have lost my trousers. I cannot find them anywhere on the bottom, so I must stay here till dark."

"That is too bad," said the bathing master. "If you had merely lost your shirt, you could swim up to Asbury Park, where they don't care about whether you have a shirt or not, and go ashore and borrow a shirt, but the rules here at the Grove are so strict that you will be arrested if you show yourself. "But I will drown," said the young man.

"Oh, for God's sake, don't do that," said the bathing master. "Your body would come ashore and make an awful scandal. Elder Stokes would have you put in a felon's grave." "Oh, what shall I do? What shall I do?" the young man waited. "I'll tell you," said the bathing mas-"Swim down to Deal Beach; it's only about a mile, and there's no law or decency there. It's a wicked place. where they sell beer. Go there and wade ashore, and I'll send some one to you with a pair of bathing drawers."

Thus the young man's life was saved

Horsey Superstition. To ride a horse that has more than three white feet, according to English superstition, will bring ill luck to the day's plans, but the four white feet are a mark and token of consideration with orientals, who do not fail to mention the fact in the pedigrees of their horses There is a proof in the certified list made by the elders of the countries which accompanied the present which Abd'el Kader, in July, 1854, made to the French emperor of a certain number of valuable horses. Thousands of such proofs might be cited. The country where the Arabian steed has his home is plentiful in superstitions, too, but did not invent anything but good luck following after four white feet.

In his petition Fritz states that he and Augusta were married in Holstein, Germany, in 1881, and that in August, 1891, his wife wilfully deserted him, wherefore his petition. The whole glass from of Hans Schuman's saloon at Thirtieth and Spaulding streets was demolished by a young man about 18 years old, early this mo ning. The fellow broke most of the glas ware on the bar and was captured after a nard struggle by the firemen at the engine house across the street. The young man fought like a marine and seemed to be crazed by liquor. No one knew him and he refused to give his name.
