Albert Fredericks Suddenly Develops Symptoms of Hydrophobia. Albert Fredericks, who lives at 1718 South Tenth street, was taken to the county jail at an early hour yesterday morning suffering from what at first glance appeared to be incipient hydrophobia, but which is believed by many to be merely a fit of temporary insanity due to nightmare or nervous ailments.

There was some difficulty found in arresting Fredericks, who is a powerful man, and the officers were rendered wary by the fact that he was frothing at the mouth, hugging and biting the bed clothing and occasionally barking like a dog, indicating that he was suffering from hydrophobia. Reinforcements were sent for, and Dr. Towne came in re-sponse to a telephone call, and after a hard struggle the handcuffs were put on the man and he was conveyed to the wagon, where a pitiful scene occurred.

Fredericks appeared to become conscious of his position, and, after calling for and rapidly gulping down a glass of water, screamed frantically: "Mamma! Mother! Alice, darling! (his wife) what have I done

It required the efforts of three policemen It required the efforts of three policemen to hold Fredericks in the wagon until the jail was reached. Arrived there, he became somewhat rational, stating that he had had a bad alghtmare, as the result of a hearty supper, and that there was nothing the matter with him. "I know this place," he said, looking that him will a present of the prisoner. about him, "I've proached to the prisoners here several times." He asked the officers to let him go to his wife and baby, to whom he referred in the most touchingly tender terms, and when told that he had been choking and maltreating his wife during his frenzy he refused to believe it.

From Fredericks himself and from neighbors it was learned that he was bitten by a dog about a month ago. Whether the bite has resulted in hydrophobia or whether the man has so worried over it as to become insane it is hard to say.

Dr. Towne believes the latter theory to be the correct one, the fact of the man's drinking water tending to disprove the hydrophobia idea.

Fredericks has been in the city about eight months, during which time he has been doing various kinds of odd jobs. His father is said to be an officer in the British army and his mother a native of the West Indies, which latter statement is somewhat here and the Fredericks' complexion and borne out by Fredericks' complexion and features. His wife, of whom he appears to be very fond, is an English woman

Yesterday morning Fredericks appeared perfectly rational and talked about his affairs in a commonplace way. His friends claim that he is subject to fits. Physicians did not examine him yesterday, but when they do he will propably be allowed his liberty.

Chicago. BURKE'S SMOOTH GAME.

Pinkerton Says that the Real Diamond Thief is in Custody.

Advices have been received from Billy Pinkerton in which he denies that Frank Bruce, an alleged member of the Stratton gang, who was arrested for safe robbery at Terre Haute, Ind., is the man who held up Pollock on a Chicago, Burlington & Quincy train last fall near Logan, and, coercing the passengers with his revolver, relieved Pollock of $25,000 worth of diamonds. The story comes from Terre Haute that Bruce is identified as the robber by Robert Fleming, a saloonkeeper from Missouri Valley, In. Mr. Pinkerton disposes of this report and ex-poses an ingenious scheme on the part of gamblers, friends of the real robber, to prove an alibi for him. He says that James Burke, alias Frank Shercliff, a well known western all-around crook, discharged from Utah pen itentiary, is the rober, and District Attorney Rooditer, at Logan, Ia., who conducted the trial one week ago Friday, had plenty of witnesses from among those on the train to identify Burke as the robber, among them Fleming, who sword positively that Burke was the man. Burke made no defense and was held to the grand jury. A coterie of wealthy gambiers who are behind Bruce approached Fieming and seemingly retained him in their interests. It was part of the program to get Burke out on an alibi and Fleming was sent to Terre Haute, where he promptly identified Bruce, the safe robber, as the man wanted in the diamond robbery. Bruce's movements were followed from the time the description of the robber was made known and can prove that he is not the guilty man. Pinkerton says that he ascertained that Burke, alias Shercliff, was on the train and that he was the robber. Several witnesses have iden-tified him, and the cambiers' scheme to get Burkeout by swearing Bruce into the peni-tentiary will not work according to the opinion of the Chicago sleuth.

HIS MISSING BOY.

Julius Friedmann Thinks His Son Was Lost

" to the River. Julius Friedmann, who lives on Leavenworth street, just east of Fourteenth, and is an employe of Wallace & Co. of 514 and 516 South Thirteenth street, asks that the city authorities take steps toward recovering the body of als son; 15 years of age, who, he says, was the person drowned by failing off the Jones street dump last Friday, instead of a man, as was first reported.

Mr. Friedmann says that his son was try-ing to make a collection of stamps, and had gone to the dump to see what he could find on the many old envelopes deposited them on the many old envelopes deposited there. In going over the piles of waste paper he ventured too near the edge of the dump, despite the warning of the watchman, and was carried down by a cave-in of dumpage and drowned. Several fishermen who saw the accident made efforts to save the lad, but beore they could reach him he went down for the last time.

Mr. Friedmann cannot be convinced, excopt by actual search, that his son's body is irretrievably lost, but thinks that it will be found, if carefully sought for, somewhere near the scene of the accident.

Fatal Termination of a Mysterious Assault on a Fruit Vender.

Pedro Biaccio, the victim of a murderous assault committed one week ago, breathed his last at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the Presbyterian hospital. He died from the effects of injuries received upon that dark Saturday night.

The identity of his assassins is still somewhat shrouded in doubt. The police have arrested Charles Martin, known as "Creole Charley," and Pearl Brown, a disroputable white woman. Martin and the woman are charged with the nwful crime.

charged with the awful crime.

When the case was first reported to the police Detective Vaughn visited Biaccio several times with an interpreter, but the sick man, being in a semi-unconscious state, was unable to identify his assailants.
Five days after the assault was committed a son-in-law of Biaccio appeared at police headquarters and formally lodged the com-plaint against the alleged murderers. Both of the suspected parties, however, stoutly maintain their innocence. The police have ascertained that Biaccio and another Italian exchanged some hard words early in the evening upon the Satur-day when the deed was committed, but they have been unable to find the mysterious man with whom Biaccio quarreled. The wounds that resulted in Biaccio's death, were inflicted with a sharp instrument which penetrated the skull and caused inflammation of the brain. Surgeons made post mortem examination of the dead man last evening but the result will not be announced until this forenoon, when an inquest will be held by Coroner Maul.

New Church Organ. Workmen are busily engaged at the Westminster Presbyterian church, Twenty-ninth and Mason streets, in creeting a fine, two manuale pipe organ, which the ladies of the congregation recently purchased from Steere & Son of Springfield, Mass. The organ has been in the city for two weeks, but the men who were to erect it were delayed in reach-ing Omaha until Saturday. The work will now be pushed, and it is believed the instrument will be in place by Saturday next. It is the intention of the ladies of the church to give an organ concert just as soon as practi-cable after the instrument has been tested, probably some evening next week. Prof. Tabor will preside at the organ on the open-ing, and a vocal program will be furnished by a quartet of the First Presbyterian church Miss Reeder contraits of Westein church, Miss Roeder, contralto of Westmin-ster, and Miss Harriet E. He said that any of the children that wanted to go would be excused, but no organized effort had yet been made to have a majority of them go. majority of them go.

Should Have Sold Here. Another evidence that top prices are paid for stock at the South Omaha yards was demonstrated a few days ago. A man from Oregon came here with a train load of cattle. One of the buyers here offered him $2.55 for his stock. He refused the offer and went on to Chicago with his stuff, where he had to sell for $2.65. It is estimated that it costs at least 20 cents a hundred to convey the stock from here to Chicago, so the man lost 10 cents a hundred on the deal by not selling at this played. at this market.

The Case of Ora Battreall Related by Her Parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Battreall. Well Illustrates the Excellent Results of Thorough Treatment.

Mr. A. T. Battreall lives on North 24th street, South Omaha, between F and G. He is employed at the Union Stock Yards. Speaking of their daughter. Ora, a bright school girl of 14. he and his wife give these facts:

14. he and his wife give these facts:

"When we took our daughter to Dr. Shepard a few months ago we did not expect to realize the great changes that have taken place in her condition. A long time ago we began to notice that a slow catarrh was getting hold of her system. It was not instell a little trouble in her nose and throat, but it affected her in many ways so seriously as to rob her of health entirely. The disease blocked her nose with tumors and spread to her eyes so she could hardly see to read at all. Her voice became boarse and the throat constants sore. Later on her hearing began to fall: in fact, hardly any sense seemed to escape. After eating she was subject to headache and indigestion and she was steadily growing weak and losing flesh. A large part of the time terrible headaches were present, which took her strength and vitality and made her nearly an invalid.

ORA BATTREALL. ORA BATTREALL.

"Since Dr. Shepard has had her case in charge she has got rid of all thesu troubles. Hereyosight is perfect; her hearing is also perfect. She is strong and hearty, free from path, and we can gladly state that her health is restored. Our experience with Dr. Shepard is in every way satisfactory and through this trying case he has been successful at every point. We heartly commend him to our friends and neighbors.
