FRIGHTFUL ACCIDENT AT THE FAIR

Koung Andrew Hill Fatally Injured by Horse on the Race Track-William Lindsey Killed by a Train Near New Fort Crook.

A shocking accident occurred at the fair grounds shortly after 10 o'clock yesterday forenoon, by which Andrew Hill, an 11-yearold boy, received fatal injuries. The lad, in company with a number of others of about the same age, had been skirmishing over the grounds taking in the various sights of interest, and after examining the large oven at which the big balloon is inflated in the open space back of the judges' stand, started toward the amphitheater on the other side of the track. When the fence on the inner side of the track was reached young Hill and one other boy jumped over, not noticing the approach of a horse, which was being rapidly driven down the stretch, close to the pole. The down the stretch, close to the pole. The other boy was slightly behind Hill, and saw the norse just as he alighted on the track. He drew back close to the fence, at the same time shouting to his companion to "Look

The boy looked up and seeing the horse almost upon him, turned to run back to the fence. Had he continued on his way without turning back it is probable that he would have escaped unburt, but there was no hope of escape in the other direction. He barely managed to get out of the way of the horse, and the near shaft of the sulky struck

Probably 100 people who had heard the shout of warning looked up just in time to see the unfortunate boy knoked headlong, while the horse, thrown back upon his hind legs under the tremendous pull of the driver, who was powerless to avert the catastrophe. jumped over the body and passAd on, being pulled to a standstill a short distance farther down the stretch.

Zeino, the crippled aeronaut, was standing near by, and, dropping his crutches, hurried forward and picked up the unconscious form. Other assistance was quickly forthcoming and the body was removed to a shady place under the amphitheater, whence it was again removed to one of the floral halls and placed on a cot, and then taken to the home of the boy's parents at 1915 North Twentyseventh avenue in a police ambulance Beyond Human Ald.

The metal tipped shaft had pierced the skull, making a hote the size of a silver quar-ter, from which the brain matter began to ooze, even before the nearest bystander had reached him. Medical assistance was tele-phoned for, but although it was nearly an hour before the patrol wagon arrived there was no response to the doctor call. Policemen and stablemen offered such help as was in their power, but it was apparent at a plance that the injuries were fatal. The little sufferer lay in an almost comatose condition, rallying sufficiently but once or twice to seem to feel the pain. Officers kept the curious crowd away, and within an hour the crowd of sight-seers had apparently forgotten the sad occurrence and its vividly impressed lesson.

J. W. Beadle, the driver, was placed under arrest by Sergeant Ormsby and ordered taken to the station to await the examination of the coroner. Beadle was very much affected by the accident although it does not appear that he was in the least responsi-ble for it. Just before the accident occurred he had turned his borse, the 3-year-old pacer, Attempt, and had started around the right way of the track at about a 2:40 clip. The boys were on the other side of the fence and he did not see them until they jumped over onto the track almost under the nose of his horse. It was impossible to stop or alter his course. He took his herse tack so hard that the girth was anapped under the strain, while the force of the collision a moment later broke the shaft short of about eight inches from the end.

The horse is owned by I. D. Clark of Papillion, who was on the grounds at the time, but did not witness the accident. Some of these who were eye-witnesses of the sad affair were disposed to criticise the fair management for not having a sufficient guard on the track to keep it clear while speeding was in progress. It seems, however, that two of the employes of the association were engaged in sweeping out the amphitheater at the time, and they state that they had twice warned the boys to keep off the track. asmuch as this is Children's day at the fair, the grounds were covered with the little folks even at that hour, and as many of them were without guardians of any kind they roamed wherever they pleased, and it was little less than a miracle that more of

William Lindsey Mangled by a Missour

Pacific Train Near the New Fort. At 4 o'clock yesterday morning William Lindsey, a grader, was run over by a Missouri Pacific train at Fort Crook flag station and instantly killed. Through a mistake the body was brought to this city and turned over to Coroner Maul. Lindsey has been doing some work for O'Keefe at the new fort and last night procured a keg of beer and a few friends and started in to enjoy bimself. They were all sitting on the plat-form at the station drinking and just before the train came along Lindsey got down onto the track for a moment. No one seems to have heard the train and the man was horribly mutilated before the engine could Jim Conners and Dick Short who were the saying that a man had just been killed out near the fort. Maul supposed that Fort Imaha was meant and directed that the Omaha was meant and directed that the body be brought here. Later on he found out the truth and at once sent for the coroner of Sarpy county who will arrive at 4 o'clock and hold an inquest.

Lindsey was a married man and lived in South Omaha. An inspection of the body at the morgue shows that the head and breast are badly crushed and that both feet are cut off above the ankles.

breast are badly crushed and that both feet are cut off above the ankles.
Yesterday afternoon Mrs. Lindsey called at the morgue to look at the remains. She said that her husband was paid Saturday and had been drinking hard since then. In conversation with Mr. Maul she said that she did not have a dollar and begged that her husband be not interred in the potter's field. Coroner Maul assured her that he would not, and at once gave orders for a grave in Forest Coroner Man assured her that he would not, and at once gave orders for a grave in Forest Lawn cemetery. Mrs. Lindsey felt greatly relieved and then left for the Missouri Pacific offices to see if the company would not do something to relieve her immediate neces-

The starting theory of murder is the latest phase of Lindsey's death. It is hinted that he was killed by some person or persons and his body was then placed across the railway track to create the impression that he was the victim of an accident.

Opened last Tuesday, August 29. The attendance was remarkably large and the school is in every way the most prosperous it has ever been. Along early in the summer there was a rumor that the financial condition of the college was not the best, but these matters have all been arranged and we are assured from the most reliable sources that the financial condition of the Highland Park College is entirely satisfactory, and that the school is the solidest financially that it ever has been. This together with the very large attendance at the opening of the school this year, and the many improvements and additions that have been made to the school during the past year and past summer, will certainly commend this great Institution most favorably to the public. The enrollment last year was 1314 and it is confidently believed there will be 1,500 students enrolled during the com-

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

The Mormon Tabernacle choir of Salt Lake City, which is now on fits way to compete for the World's fair $5,000 prize at Chicago on Friday next, is meeting with ovations at every city through which it passes. On Sunday evening last the choir gave a grand sacred concert in the exposi-tion building at St. Louis, and turned people away from the vast edifice. The receipts, at cheap prices, reached the enormous sum of cheap prices, reached the enormous sum of $2,250. On next Sunday evening this superborganization will give a grand sacred concert at Boyd's new theater. The Tabernacle choir is ranked by musical judges as one of the greatest choral organizations of the world, and its chances of winning the big prize at the World's fair are excellent.

Manager Burgess will present to the Farnam for four nights next week, commencing with the usual matinee Sunday, the popular "Ole Olson." This piece was the father, that is, the original of all the Swedish-American plays, and the hit it made as a novelty prompted numerous persons to launch upon the theatricat fea a number of imitations. Despite this fact "Ole Olson" continued its triumphant career and put many shekels in the manager's pockets. The success of the play last senson was so pronounced that the owners resolved to make a special production this season. With that end in view they had the play rewritten, the characters strengthened and many other improvements made. Then a company of exceptional strength was engaged and new and special scenery painted. An additional feature will be the appearance of Ole's brother, Mr. Olaf Olson, the biggest little manson earth, 28 years old and twenty-nine inches high, who will appear in many very clever specialities. father, that is, the original of all the very clever specialties.

CITY HALL CULLINGS.

Prospects that the Board of Education Will He Arrested Today. Today the time of the notice served on the school board by the Board of Health to put in a better system of closets will expire and it is barely possible that the members of the Board of Education may be treated to a ride in the patrol wagon. The Board of Education has ignored the order of the Board of Health and the Board of Health is determined to enforce the law regarding the system of dry closets which are in use at several school buildings. The members of the Board of Education disclaim any responsibility and lay the blame on Contractor Smead, with whom they contracted for healthy, clean buildings with the best of sanitary arrangements. The contractor says the closets are not a menace to the health of the school children, while the health commissioner says otherwise. Thus the matter stands and Dr. Somers of the Board of Health is confined at his home seriously ill. He is the man whom the Board of Health looks to Board of Health and the Board of Health is man whom the Board of Health looks to take the initial steps in enforcing the law, but in his unavoidable absence it is not un but in his unavoidable absence it is not un-likely that other members of the board will file complaints against all the members of the Board of Education and cause their arrest. The case will be contested under the city ordinances.

Some of the health commissioners are in favor of securing an injunction to prevent the school beard from constitution to the school board from opening the houses which are supplied with dry closets for school next Monday. The city attorney does not think this advisable, but says that citizens whose children contract disease while attending these schools will have recourse for damages in the courts against the The matter promises to develop into Barbers Want More Law.

A committee of three from the Barbers union and State Labor union waited on Mayor Bemis yesterday morning to influence him not to veto the ordinance passed at the last meeting of the city council, for the purpose of closing barber shops on Sunday. The members of the committee said they relied on the mayor's judgment as a law-abiding citizen to sign the ordinance and make it a law. The committee referred to the Des Moines, Ia., ordinance as being constitutional and in full force and effect.

The question was discussed for quite a while by the mayor and committee. Members of the Barbers union to the number of 150 have signed a petition for passage of the ordinance. There are 250 barbers in the city.

City Attorney Connell said the ordinance would be merely an addition to the state law. He says if the state law was enforced the shops could be closed without any ordinance. The mayor would not make known his intentions regarding this ordinance,

Fishermen Find a Body in the R.ver Near South Omaha. The decomposed remains of a young man were found in the river below South Omaha about 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon by some boys who were fishing. The authorities at South Omaha were notified and the body was taken to Brewer & Sloan's undertaking establish-ment in that city. They notified Coroner Maul who left for the Magic City at once. Although the remains have not yet been positively identified, it is thought that the body is that of young Friedman who is supposed to have fallen from the Jones street dump last Friday while standing on a pile of rubbish which caved in with him. The mournful spectacle is presented of infants pining away and dying from causes which might be avoided if mothers knew more about the great advances of science in infant feeding. Physicians and nurses who have had
