The principal effort visible on the surface was to secure delegates favorable to the nomination of Brooks Reed to succeed Aimself as county treasurer and to secure a Second term for Sheriff Hazen. In the First precinct of the First ward an anti-Hazen del-sgation was returned. The First precinct of the Second ward, Hazen's own ward, en-dorsed him and instructed their delegates accordingly, but the Second precinct of the same ward selected a majority of delegates opposed to him. W. H. Knepher was work-ing against Reed in the Second ward and seems to have carried his point, but the other wards returned strong Reed delega but the tions. Yesterday when seen by a reporter she was Yesterday when seen by a reporter she was comfortably and neatly clothed and apparently happy. It is needless to say what would have been the final result in this case out for the interest that was taken in her welfare by the mission Mr. DeLong when seen said the credit for supplying this child and hundreds of others with comfortable apparel belongs to the good people of Council Bluffs, who have responded to the mission's call for clothing for the poor. Nearly every one has articles of clothing about the house which may be good, and yet of no benefit to the owner. If such person will pack up what they do not Pant and send it to the mission they will aid in a good work.

BEE NEWS FROM COUNCIL BLUFFS

NO. 12 PEARL STREET | People Wonder at the New Levy Made for School Purposes.

SOME FEATURES OF THE LAST FUND

Enough Money Raised in One Year to Last the Board for Two-Who Reaps the Benefit of the Move.

The school tax in Council Bluffs, according o the levy just made, amounts to 1914 mills. This comes as a surprise to the conservative taxpayer, who cannot remember the time when the tax ever exceeded 14 mills. Why he sudden jump! For seven years past the chool tax has run from 19 to 14 mills, and he average has been about 12 mills. The acrease this year is therefore so marked as demand an explanation.

One of the reasons given is that there has en such an increase in the attendance f the schools as to increase expenses nd consequently taxation. The conservative taxpayer is not altogether satisfied with this explanation, for the increase of school children is looked upon as the result of the natural growth of Council Bluffs, and there should be a corresponding increase in the assessed valuation of perty, there being many new houses and alidings, as well as many new children. Another explanation offered is that last ear no levy was made, or rather an attempt ras made, but frustrated by those who de-ected a flaw in the proceedings, and thereore had the alleged levy declared void. is consequence the levy this year had to be made large enough to make up for the failure to get a levy last year. This satisfies the inquisitive taxpayer a little more readily. but still there are some who are pressing the inquiries further, and the result reveals a queer state of affairs.

dust a Suspicion of Profit.

It seems that for years past it has been ne policy of the school board to keep about one year's funds ahead, so that the levy it any one year would bring in an amount school board has for years had from $60,000 to $90,000 more on band than there was any possible need for. This may account in part possible need for. This may account in par-for the unseemly plotting and scrambling which has for years characterized the elec-tions affecting the public school system of Council Blufts. There has not only been a big pot of money on hand to meet the expenses of the year, but a balance in addition equal to a whole year's levy. One large taxpayer, who has just gotten his eyes open to the situation, asks the very porti-nent query: "Why should the people be taxed a year ahead in order to let some one have the use of $75,000 a year of the people's money?" The conundrum seems unanswer-

The failure to make a levy last year brings to light a remarkably bloated condition of the school fund. Although last year was a very expensive one, and many building improvements were made, additional teachers employed, etc., yet there was enough in the school fund, left over from the excessive levies of the previous years, to pay all bills in cash, and there is still cash enough on hand to run the schools late into the fall. In fact, after skipping one levy, there seems to be no lack of funds, the school board simply being obliged to use the surplus which has been carried for yerrs for the benefit of the banks or those who have had free use of the Causes a General Objection. The size of the levy this year indicates that this policy is to be continued, and there is to be gradually accumulated a fund of large propertions to replace the surplus which has been such a tempting plum for the politicians and bankers for lo, these many years. The taxpayers have just awak-ened to the realization that for years they have been taxed for schools while all the time there has been enough of their money lying idle at any time to run the schools for a whole year without making any tax. Whether they will be content to allow another such surplus to be accumulated for the benefit of a favored few remains to be seen, but the mutterings in the air indicate that there may be a halt called. Taxes cer tainly seem high enough without any in crease for the purpose of furnishing capital for private parties to do business with.

Council Bluffs Growing. The enrollment of scholars in the public schools of Council Bluffs at the close of the second week shows a wonderful increase, the total number of pupils this year being the total number of pupils this year being 3,580, while last year it was 3,207, the net increase being 373. This is the largest gain ever known in the history of Council Bluffs. The past year the board built two brick buildings of four rooms each, one on Madison avenue and one on Thirty-second street but the demand for school room has gone beyond all calculation. The High school has increased over 100, while Third street increases ninety-two. Pierce street forty-two. creases ninety-two, Pierce street forty-two, Eighth street forty, Harrison street twenty dve, and other schools report increased enrollment. She was obliged to leave the coast on account of inability to procure employment and has made her way this far, expecting to find better op-portunities where this are better. But her efforts to procure employment here have been fruitless, largely for the reason that people objected to the presence of her baby. She has advertised for situations, offering to do any kind of work and has tramped many weary miles where kindly disposed people have sent her in fruitless quests of employ-ment. Her little store of savings is now ex-hausted and for the last week she has lived hausted and for the last week she has lived on 50 cents, and from that meager sum she has been obliged to buy with s been obliged to buy milk twice a day for her baby People who are blessed with abundance and

The twenty-sixth annual report of the bu reau of industrial statistics of Rhode Island states that the work of the bureau last year was chiefly devoted to the building trades and to abandoned farms. Four hundred and seventy-four employers responded to the in-quiries addressed to them. They report the employment of 5,679 workmen, including ap-prentices. Wages paid men average from 85 cents to $5 s day; to boys and apprentices from 50 cents to $2 a day. Six hundred and seventy-three returns from employes were received, each stating the amount of wages received, the amount paid for rent, the cost of living, whether money was saved or lost during the year, and other particulars. annual wages average from $100 to $1,200 the cost of living from $200 to $1,400; the amount paid for rent from $36 to $260. Out of 566 reporting, 158 own their homes; 408 do not. Only one-fourth belong to a trades union; thirty-eight report an increase of wages, fifteen a reduction. Less than one-haif have accumulated money during former years, while 156 have run in debt during the last year.

Mornings I would rag and vomit up quantities of the stuff and have a feeling of stomach sickness for three or four hours afterward. This, in time, diseased my stomach till I couldn't eat at all without a feeling of pain, distress and bloating afterward.

"But my worst sufferings were from asthma. The air passages seemed at times to contract and tighten so that my breath would come and go painfully and labor, ously and with a wheezing and whisting sound. It got so I coundn't walk a block without having to sit and pant for air. In damp weather and on windy days the air passages would seem to close completely, so that I was in constant dread of suffocation.

"My chest would seem squeezed in a band of iron so tight as to smother me. Sometimes these choking spells would be attended with paroxysms of courbing that would wrench and strain my whole system till my body would seem all drawn into a knot in my convulsive stringgle for air. In bed I would have to sit propped upright to avoid strangulation and was completely worn out from lack of sleep.
