Judge McGee Promises a Decision on the Motor Company's Charter Today.

CONFERENCE ON THE FARE TO BE ENDED

Citizens' Committee Will Meet the Conneil and the Directors Again and End the Matter One Way or the Other Forever.

For several months past Judge McGee has had under advisement the suit brought by Spencer Smith to have the motor company's charter declared null and void because of the refusal of the company to operate under The announcement is now made that the decision will be rendered this morning at 10 o'clock, and notices to that effect were sent around among the interested attorneys yesterday afternoon. This is a case in which the public is intensely interested, and the decision of the court will be watched anxiousty. This afternoon at 2 o'clock the directors of the motor company, the committee of seven citizens and the city council will have another meeting for the alleged purpose of arriving at some conclusion with regard to the differences now existing between the motor company and the citizens. The council held a meeting yesterday afternoon and discussed the matter from its standpoint, but what they decided to domand from the company could not be learned, as they all maintained a clam-like silonce. One of the committee of seven stated yesterday that this will be the last meeting at which the com-mittee will be present. If no settlement can be arranged now, none ever can be, they

TOO STRONG TO WORK.

One Case of Destitution that Will Hardly

Be Relieved. Rev. Henry Delong runs across some queer specimens in making his customary rounds mong the poor of the city, and so he is not surprised at much of anything. Last Sunday, however, he found a case that for genuine shiftlessness almost capped the climax of his year's experience. Two little girls called at his mission that morning and asked for something to eat. They were miserably clad, their feet being wound with rags, which took the place of shoes and stockings. Mr. Delong began to question them and learned that they lived in a tent in the eastern part of the city. Taking it for granted that no one would choose a camper's life of his own free will and accord when the mercury was hustling its livelist to get down into the bulb, he started off with the girls to visit their home and find out for himself just what they needed most.

When he reached the place he found that he family had dug a hole in the side of the bluff and had spread their tent out in front of it so as to form two rooms, a reception room and a bed room. Mr. Delong did not stay in the reception room, but pushed his way back into the bed room, The whole place was a miserably poor excuse for a human habitation. There was a bed numar habitation. There was a bed covered with dirty clothing and this, the man and his wife said, was occupied by them. Underneath the bed was a lot of rags and waste stuff on the floor, which was used by the two little girls and the baby as a sleeping place at night. A rickety chair, loaded with dust and dirt, was in the room and this the housewife. in the room, and this the housewife hastened to clean sufficiently so that the reverend caller might not soil his clothes in the act of sitting. At the time of his entrance the man and his wife were sitting on the bed enjoying a social game of high five, but they stopped the game long enough to explain that they could not get enough to eat nor to

The man of the house displayed no anxiety to get any work, although both he and his wife looked plenty strong to do work of a much more arduous kind than playing high five without feeling it seriously. When asked why they did not hunt some better place to live they said they only expected to remain in Council Bluffs a little while and they thought it would hardly pay to take he trouble to hunt a house. Mr. Delong wisely concluded that they were not so badly off as a good many other families in Council Bluffs, and he kept the supplies that were on hand for some more deserving

No Tit for Tat There. COUNCIL BLUFFS, Dec. 27, 1893,-To the Editor of THE BEE: A great deal has been said of late by a certain evening paper published in this city with reference to Su perintendent A. K. Stone of the motor company. Much of it has been so extremely hitter as to show that the man who writes it is actuated, not so much by a desire to so an improvement in the management of the road as by a fixed determination to have Stone ousted from the company's ser vice in revenge for some real or fancied slight given by him to some at-tache of the paper. While I am not especially friendly toward Mr. Stone, I nevertheless like to see justice done every man, and with a view to showing the thankless spirit of whoever dictates the policy of the paper I want to tell you some thing that came under my personal knowledge and for which I can fully vouch. Not long ago, your readers will remember, Charles Nicholson was suspended from his position as chief of the fire department, awaiting the investigation by the city council of a charge of drunkenness while on duty. Among the witnesses against Nicholson was a conductor on the motor in which Nicholson returned to Council Bluffs on the night of the alleged de-bauch. His testimony was understood to be very damaging to the fire chief, and there was consequently a strong desire on the part of the men who were engineering his defense to get this man out of the way. The conductor himself was very willing to be gotten out of the way, but he could not leave the city on the day when the investigation was to be made without absenting himself from work. One of the men cor nected with this evening paper accordingly visited Superintendent Stone, and as a favor to himself and to the paper he represented asked him to let the conductor off for that day in order that he might get out of testifying against Nicholson. Whatever the newspaper man in question may have to say about the accommodating spirit shown by the superintendent on other occasions, he at any rate found him accommodating enough that The conductor left the city until after the investigation was made and Nicholson was reinstated, a thing which could hardly have been done gracefully, even by the present council, had it not been for Mr. Stone's desire to please. Drivel thought they be, remarks of so vandictive a nature come with very poor grace from a paper which could not possibly have protected its pet from the consequences of his own misdeeds without the assistance of the man whom it now proposes to have removed merely because of a personal matter. The people of Council Bluffs are not particularly interested in the quarrels between Stone and any newspaper. What they want is to have the company which Stone represents brought to its milk, and the sooner the Globe finds this out and gets off the track the less likelihood will there be of smashup, in which a certain newspaper will be one of the chief corpses.

Carpet Co., 407 Broadway. Magnificent Offices. The curious part of the public that drops in occasionally to watch the work of remodeling Masonic temple hall, changing it from its quondam use as the arena for all kinds of public events into suites of offices for the United States Masonic Benevolent and the Guaranty Fund Life associations. get a last opportunity to realize the immense magnitude of the great hall. It was the largest hal! in the city and one of the largest in the west, perfectly lighted and ventilated, and it is with sincerest regret that the people see it closed to public use. But the demands of business are inexorable, and the growth of the great Masonic Life Insurance company and its vigorous young associate the Guaranty Fund, has been so rapid that the entire building is required for the transaction of the business. The work of transforming the hall into offices has been going on for a month and is now so nearly finished that they will be ready for occupancy by January
3. With the completion of the work the finest suite of offices in the state will be at the disposal of the officers of the companies and the force of clerks which takes care of the vast volume of business. The west front of the hall has been divided into three apartments, 20x25 feet each, which open into an eighteen-foot ballway. The firs room will be occupied by Secretary W. J Jameson and will communicate with the old suite of offices by a private doorway leading through the mailing room. The second apartment will be for the use of Medical Examiner Dr. T. B. Lacey, and the one adjoining it, fronting south and west, will be Judge J. R. Reed's office. These offices, with their eighteen-foot ceilings and homerous improvements of the second control of the control of t and numerous immense windows, are as nearly perfection as any man could desire. At the end of the hallway is a smaller room fitted up for the exclusive use of the agents. The remainder of the hall, with the exception of the southeast corner is in one big from and will be occupied by the desks of the clerks and assis ants. The corner re-ferred to contains one of the most important features of the change. It is the ingrest and best vault in the state or in the entire west. It is 15x20 feet in size, with eighteen-

large window in the south end lights up the massive strong bor. The window is pro-tected by double from profit doors opening from the inside. Only half of the wall space is covered now, but this gives nearly 1,000 pigeon holes for filing, papers and books. With the vault doors and window open it with the valit doors and window open it will make a pleasant room to work in, and it is the only valit in the country where ref-erence work can be done in the sunshine without taking the gooks and papers out of the vault. The remodeling involves important changes in the old offices, which will greatly facilitate the work of the clerks by centrating everything on the one floor. old vault, which was the largest in the city will still be used. The old rooms will be used for the cashier's office and the mailing and supply departments.

It will perhaps give the best idea of the extent of the entire suite of offices to say that the floor area occupied is 8,320 square feet. It also best indicates the growth and popularity of the great Masonic Life Insur-ance company, for less than six years ago the business was all transacted in one little room less than twenty feet square.

The academy listened to President Pammel's address this morning. It was a scholarly treatise on "Bacteria," showing the relations of bacteria to modern medi cine, art and scientific industries. The addi tional papers by L. W. Andrews on the "Assumption of a Special Nascent State," presented some original calculations and evoked much discussion.

Will Probably Be Sustained. CEDAR RAPIDS, Ia., Dec. 27 .- [Special

Telegram to THE BEE. ] - Arguments were oncluded today on the merits of the temporary injunction issued by Judge Giffen restraining the city officials from making a tax levy on the new assessment of real and tax levy on the new assessment of real and personal property based on its cash value. The court made an important ruling on the matter of the time of completing the assessment. Though the law requires assessments to be completed before the first day of June, he stated that it was not mandatory and that the question would not invalidate the questioned assessment and levy. The only question that re-mains to be decided is whether or not the assessment was regularly and lawfully made, and from remarks of the court it is inferred that he will sustain the validity of the assessment. The contestants asked per-mission to file an amended petition and were given until 2 o'clock tomocrow to prepare Final decision in this important matter is
