Facts and Figures Placed by Omaha Men Before Chairman Day.

ARGUMENT WITH NUMEROUS GOOD POINTS

Commercial Club Committee Hopeful that the Showing Will Produce Good Results-Present Schedules Proved to Be Unfair to Omaha.

The Commercial club of this city is making a fight for better rates between Omaha and Texas points. The following argument, sent to Chairman Day of the Southwestern Traffic association is self explanatory and will doubtless be of keen interest to Omaha

"OMAHA, Jan. 26, 1894. L. F. Day, Chairman or the Southwestern Traffic Associa-tion, St. Louis, Mo., Dear Sir: In compliance with your request we are pleased to present the following facts and figures in support of our claim that Omaha should have St. Louis rates on Texas and other southwestern business: (Statement of dis-tances between Omaha and Texas points compared to those of Kansus City and St. Louis is here given.) The rates be-tween Omaha and Texas are the same as tween Offiana and Toxas are the same as those applied to Cuicago, St. Paul, Milwau-kee and Cheinmati groups and are the fol-lowing differentials higher than cities in the St. Louis group named in the above distance 1 2 3 4 5 P. Joseph and Omaha.

"Rates are the same between Grand Island and most points in Nebraska and Kansas City and Omaha. Note the difference in rates between Junction City and points in Kansas that bear the same relative position to Kansas City that Grand Island and Nebraska points bear to Omaha; that these braska points bear to Omaha; that these differentials beginning in Kansas are maintained beyond, through Oklahoma. New Mexico and Texas, while the basis of equal rates to Missouri river cities, beginning with Nebraska, is extended through Wyoming, northern Colorado and Utah, Montana, Idaho, Washington and Oregon. "It is true the existing conditions produce the same lumber rates. It is equally true the commercial exigencies are as strong on all, and stronger in some of the above in-stances cited for the application of the same rates to Omaha as the other Mississippi and Missouri river cities enjoying St. Louis group rates. It must be admitted (otherwise we would have no contention) distance is not a determining factor in making rates, and that they are based largely on commer-cial necessities. * * * * The table of distances cited shows that

Omaha, on a general average, is fully as near to Fort Worth, Galveston and El Paso as St. Louis—considerably nearer than Davenport, Moline, Rock Island, Fort Madison, etc., and very much nearer than Chi-cago, Cincinnati and Milwaukee. If, there-fore, your tariffs were made on the plan of equal rates for equal distances it is evident that Omaha would be on the same basis as St. Louis and lower than the other cities named in proportion to their respective mileage.

"In addition to the favorable position we occupy in point of distance we claim that we are also entitled to the rates for which we ask by reason of commercial necessities, which are now more potent factors than distance in the adjustment of rates and differentials. In discussing commercial conditions we must in some instances make our comparisons of cost with other cities than St. Louis, because such markets are Omaha's real competitors in the commotities com-pared. This, however, should not affect our general argument, inasmuch as these various cities already have as low or lower rates than St. Louis, and we seek only the same recognition

HOW PACKERS (ARE AFFECTED. "In packing house products St. Louis packers have about abandoned Texas trade, except on a few specialties, thus leaving that fleid to Kansas City and South Omaha." An examination of the private records of the actual purchases made by the two largest packers of hogs in Kansas City and South Omaha, who buy nearly one-half the entire receipts, shows the following results: "During 1891 Kansas City paid for packing hogs per 100 pounds 14c more than Omaha hogs per 100 pounds 114c more than Omaha. During 1892 Kansas City paid for packing hogs per 100 pounds 85c more than Omaha. During 1893 Kansas City paid for packing hogs per 100 pounds 4 4c less than Omaha. During twenty-three days of January, 1804, Kansas City paid for packing nogs per 100 pounds 4.9c less than Omaha. ounds 4.9c less than Omaha.

"The character of business and style of hogs used by these two houses are almost identical; the comparison is a more just and accurate showing of the relative cost of packing hogs in the two markets than can be obtained from any other source. We wish to call special attention to the fact that the hog meducits which go to the last that the hog products which go to the south outheast and southwest are made from heavy packing hogs, such as constituted most of the purchases covered by the above comparative statements. We submit that the prices of light weight hogs bought for shipment to eastern points, or by local packers who chiefly make high-priced export goods have no heaving with results. port goods, have no bearing whatever in the adjustment of rates on products made from an entirely different grade of animals.

"In addition to these higher prices for hogs, Omaha pays on Kansas fine sait 3% cents per 100 pounds, or 67 cents per ton more than Kansas City; on coal, 40 cents per ton more; on cotton seed oil, 5 cents per 100 pounds, or $1 per ton more; on sugar, 3 cents per 100 pounds, or 60 cents per ton more. It requires to kill, cure and make into marketable shape 500,000 hogs 25,000 tons of coal, 5,000 tons Kansus fine salt, 3,500 tons cotton seed oil and 400 tons sugar. The extra freight on these four items amounts to $17,000, or an average of 3.42 cents per hog, equivalent to 1.37 cents on each 100 pounds of live weight. This, added to the average excess in purchase This, added to the average excess in purchase price, makes the total excess cost on live weight during 1893 5.57 cents, and for twenty-three days of January, 1894, 6.27 cents. The entire merchantable product of hogs, including fertilizer, is 80 per cent of the live weight, and this 80 per cent of course bears the whole excess cost, which makes the product of 1883 from heavy hogs cost Omnha nackers 7 cents per 100 pounds above Kansas packers 7 cents per 100 pounds above Kansas City, and for twenty-three days of 1894 nearly 8 cents per 100 pounds in excess.

NEEDS NO FAVORITISM. "Surely this advantage in cost should enable Kansas City to successfully compete with Omaha without any favoritism in rates of freight. Omaha's nog supply territory is comparatively limited. On the north she can only go half way to Sioux City, or say fifty miles. From the east very few hogs have come to us since the interstate commerce decision of two or three years ago, making equal rates on hogs and packing house pro-ducts from the Missouri river eastward. On ducts from the Missouri, river eastward. On the west and southwest, in what should be our local territory. Kansas City is granted equal rates for nearly double our distance, and thus draws a portion of the stock which is naturally tributary to our market. Omaha, on the other hand, cannot go into Kansas City local territory and get live stock without paying a higher tariff. Dur-log veges of large hog crops, low prices and ing years of large hog crops, low prices and light competition Omaha has secured the necessary quantity of hogs at a trifle lower than Kansas City, but with the short crops of the past one and one-half years and with the limited country from which to draw, competition in Omaha has been more active than in Kansas City, and hence the increased cost above mentioned. "We beg to cite two additional illustrations of the comparative treatment accorded Omaha and Kansas City by the railways. Both cities have the same rates to and from Cheyenne and Trinidad, the distance in the former case being in favor of Omaha in the former case being in favor of Omaha and in the latter favorable to Kansas City. If we go beyond Cheyenne, to Utah, Montana, etc., Kansas City still has the Omaha tariff, but if Omaha wishes to snip products to or draw supplies from territory beyond Trinidad, say New Mexico, Arizona, El Paso and Oid Mexico, she must pay a heavy differential over Kansas City competitors. Again, Kansas City can ship north through Omaha to St. Paul at about the same rates, and to Montana at exactly the same as Omaha. If Omaha ships south over the same rails and distance Kansas City uses to come north she pays from 7c to 20c more per 100 pound.

"A matter of the greatest importance to

"A matter of the greatest importance to South Omaha packers is to secure during the spring and early summer a supply of range or canning cattle from the southwest, which at that season cannot be obtained elsewhere. These come into market prior to those from western and northern ranches to those from western and northern ranches and are absolutely necessary to enable our packers to continue their operations without intermission throughout the year. Two years ago an Omaba committee appeared before the Texas association, which preceded the present organization, to plead for rates on cattle from the southwest to Omaha that would enable our packers to make canned meats and other beef products at something near the same cost as their competitors at Kansas City. * * " (Statistics on discrimination against Omaha on southern cattle rates.) * * After the movement of Texas stock is over Kansas City draws cattle from the west and northwest for eight or nine months at the same west for eight or nine months at the same rates as Omaha, notwithstanding the haul to the latter market is much shorter. Kansas City being thus allowed to enter the northwest on equal terms with Omaha when she needs cattle from that region, we think we are fully justified in asking the same con-sideration on Texas cattle when the necessities of the two cities are exactly reversed. * * * (Summary.)

The argument was accompanied by enclosures, including an address made by John S. Knox before the Southwestern Railway and Steamship association, letters from American Glucose company, and miscellane-ous papers containing industrial statistics. Nothing definite has been heard from Chairman Day, but the committee feels san-guine that the argument will result in a re-vision of rates favorable to Omaha shippers.

Bargain for Sale of Heyman Clothing Store Results in a Quarrel.

LAWYERS AND POLICEMEN GIVEN JOBS

Charity Concert Gratifying in Character and Proceeds-Schoolboys Steal Fish-Bound Over for Robbery-Other Magie City News.

Constables, lawyers and policemen hustling about in the vicinity of H. Heyman's clothing store on N street yesterday afternoon drew a big crowd of citizens to the place and for a time the sidewalks were

The difficulty grew out of a trade Mr. Heyman made or started to make Wednesday. Harris & Cooper, gentlemen who hail from Crawford, entered into a bargain to buy Mr. Heyman's clothing stock, the consideration being $7,000. Part of the amount was to be paid in cash, part in land and the balance with time deposits in a Crawford bank. The papers were drawn up and the goods in the store were boxed. Mr. Heyman went to Omaha with the time deposits and received information that the bank was not as good as gold, and he returned to South Omana and handed the documents back to Mr. Harris, informing the gentleman that the deal was off.

Harris was not in any mood to back down, and, claiming that everything was just as he had represented it to be, secured Attorney Doud's assistance and proceeded to go ahead Doud's assistance and proceeded to go ahead with the trade. In the meantime Heyman had locked up his store and gone to lowa. Harris had left his overcoat and overshoes in the store, and securing a replevin sent a constable after them. The scheme was to once get inside the building and take possession. This he did, but Miss Betty Heyman was up to snuff and immediately secured a warrant and had Mr. Harris placed under arrest on the ately secured a warrant and had Mr. Harris placed under arrest on the charge of "breaking in with intent to steal." Harris was taken before Judge Fowler and released on $500 bonds. In the meantime he had ordered men to move the stock and the fellows succeeded in getting away with two big boxes and started off toward Papillion. Miss Heyman replevined the balance of the stock and when Mr. Hey-man comes home this morning there will be more fun.

Messrs. Harris & Cooper are said to be responsible men. They claim that the paper they tendered Mr. Heyman is good and they will insist on closing the deal. The stock was last night in the charge of Constable Eddy.
The South Omaha National bank filed an attachment on the stock for $1,200, alleged to be due from Heyman. Charity Concert.

Bauer's hall was packed to the doors last night with people who had turned out to patronize an entertainment that was for the benefit of the needy. The fact that the affair was a charity benefit no doubt drew out a great many persons who would not have gone otherwise, but this fact did not lessen the excellence of the entertainment. The program was compiled by Mr. E. M. Bonnell, one of the best all around musicians in the west. He secured the assistance of splendid talent, and when the concert was over all went away feeling perfectly satisfied that they had received double the worth of

The first number was a piano solo by Sigmund Landsburg of this city. The gentleman is a splendid performer on the instrument, and he was heartily applauded. Next was a vocal solo by Mrs. Cook, which was charmingly rendered. Mr. A. V. Kinsler and Mr. Charles Moriarity gave the quarrel scene between Brutus and Cassius from Shakespeare in good form. Messrs. McKenzie, Buchanau and McDougall gave selections on the bagpipes in native costume in a pleasing manner. The club swing-ing by Charles Meyers was excellent. E. M. Bonnell sang "The Brave Sentinel" so well that he was called out for another song. An original song and dance, "When Michael O'Grady Comes dance, "When Michael O'Grady Comes Home," by Miss Ella Wright, won nearty applause. Mrs. Stefeson rendered a piano solo in a skillful manner and was followed by Mr. Edwin S. Thompson in pleasing character sketches. Messrs. Bonnell and Fritts sang to the pleasure of all. T. F. Bullock and Harry Hamming gave a pantomime acrobatic turn in a manner that would make a regular circus man envy them. Miss Ina Kennedy sang sweetly. Mr. A. V. Kinsier gave a recitation and Mr. E. G. Rozell completed the program by singing a bass solo. The majority of the talent on the program came from Omaha. McMurray and His Lodge. Mrs. Dave Murray read in THE BEE that warrant had been issued for the arrest of her husband, and yesterday she brought him to this city and gave him up. McMur ray was treasurer of a Workman lodge in Omaha. The complaint alleges that he embezzled $70 of the lodge money. Mrs. McMurray says that her husband did notembezzle the money. That she offered to pay it herself. She claims that the mat-ter is pretty well mixer up, but declares that there is or has been nothing criminal on the part of her husband. Liquor, she says, has been the greatest trouble, and she has been the one to suffer most. Mrs. Mc-Murray is not slow to give her opinion of some of the men who used to call her hus-band "brother" until he got into trouble, and then they wanted to send him to prison. The lady declares that every penny her husband owes to the lodge or any individual will be paid.

McMurray was taken to O.naha, where he will have his hearing.

Tried for Robbery,

P. O'Malley and Barton Lawler were ried before Judge Fowler yesterday on the charge of robbing a drunken man. The drunken individual has not been seen since the alleged robbery took place, and both the men firmly denied their guilt. Several wit nesses testified to having seen both the men in the company of the man who was robbed, and one witness says he saw O'Malley take the money. Lawler was dis-charged and O'Malley was bound over to the district court.

Daily Gets Thirty Days. "Sergeant" Jim Daily was before Judge Fowler yesterday on the same old charge. 'I am just on my way to Blair," said the sergeant, "and if you will let me go this time i will never touch another drop of liquor. I will take the gold cure in Blair and never come back to South Omaha again. I am not in a physical condition to stan 1 a jail sen-tence, your honor, and if you—" tence, your honor, and if you—

Considering Points' Report. The city council has at last concluded to pay some heeds to the exhaustive report it paid Expert Posts to get up for it almost a year ago. Last evening Members Wyman, Schultz and Brace got together and looked the document over. It is said to contain some valuable advice. The committee will report on the matter at the meeting of the council next Menday night.

He Was Barred from Smoking. "As long as the street car company is so particular about a man smoking a cigar in one of its coaches," said a man who rides a great deal on the South Omaha line, "I should think they would occasionally scrub out the rear coach of these trains. There is enough filth on the floor to stille a swine and frequently great gobs of grease can be found on the seats. The fumes of tobacco smoke are a luxury in the nostrils of a man who is compelled to ride in some of these coaches and this is one of the best patronized lines in the city. No gentleman will smoke in the presence of a lady where smoke is objectionable, but a lady who is so delicate that a little tobacco smoke would disturb her could never stand a very long trip in the rear coach of a South Omaha

With this the disgruntled rider left the rear coach and entered the front car.
