Captain Harry Sage took his rolling mill hands out to the Charles Street park yesterday afternoon and came within a bobtail of leaving them there, for the Rourke family simply made monkeys of them, ring-tail monkeys at that.

It was a go-as-you-please, pussy-wantsthe-corner sort of a game, and when it was all over the Rock Islanders looked as if they had just gone through a hard win-They fielded and ran bases like a lot of ancient women, and only hit the ball when Parson Whitehill, just for fun, floated 'em over big as bales of hay. I can tell Captain Sage right here, without going any further, that his gang won't do to bet counterfeit money on, that is, if they don't im-

Each man seemed over envious to get rid of a lot of old gold trimmings he had donned on the opening day, and the harder he tried, the greater muss he made of it. The Omahas, however, put up a spanking good article of the game and again demonstrated that they rank sky high above the is only a pity that they haven't a forman worthy of their steel in these, the opening games. However, it is hardly time yet to kick because we can't lose; remember Jacksonville will happen along here next Monday and she may show us a trick or two, Some people think the Jax are the strongest aggregation in the association, that is, in their stocking feet.

Again the day was superb. The sky was partly shrouded with fleecy clouds until along late in the afternron, and a refreshing breeze coming in from the north rendered a seat in the grand stand a pleasant situa-tion, indeed. Of course there was another big crowd on hand, possibly 2,000 or more, many of whom were ladies, and they kept the welkin ringing continuously with their laughter and beisterous shouts of joy.

Whitehill, the new man, was in the box for Omaha, and without exagg ration, he may pronounced a bird. He is tall, slender and rosy, and when he goes to pitch a ball has a fashion of reaching out with his left hand for the first baseman's hair in a way that would strike some people as funny, but when he lets go of the globe no one has time for anything else but to watch its course. He has all kinds of curves and plenty of speed besides, and barring the second inning, he toyed with the big boiler makers like a cat with a mouse. After the fourth, when the Rourke family played tag with each other around the bases and never quit until they had piled up the rem higher'n your head, Varson Whitehil showed up and trun them over just like ice wagons. Still they retained that exasper-ating reticulation of motion, and the rolling mill boys were as helpless as ever, and the consequence was they got a most unmerciful wolloping. It was good enough for them, however, and will probably teach them that they have wandered off a little too far from

IT WAS ALL OVER THEN.

Up to the fourth inning, however, it was as pretty a strife as one could wish to see, but after that it developed into the most megatherium circus on the road.

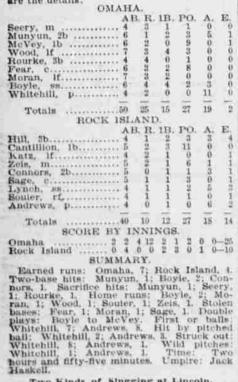

The Illinoisians went to pieces like a pie dom with Algernon Andrews' curves, and for a time they resembled a lot of little boys in

One inning will answer for a sample of their general work. It was the fourth and here it is,

That young Bulgarian artist called Wood because there was no more mud left, started with a safe swat past second. Papa Rourke smashed one down to Governor Hill and the governor snatched it up and fired it over the Eighteenth street fence, and Captain Sage said he was bughouse-whatever that is Of course the Bulgarian scored, while Papa lumbered on to second. Andrews took a big fancy to Foxey Fear and he put him on first base just out of the fullness of his heart Buster Moran joited Papa home with a safe and Patricus Boyle sent another over Spike Kennedy's cupola and five runs were in. Judge Lynch then proceeded to grab up one of his feet instead of the ball that the Parson had basted down to him, Seery took a walk, going to second on Soneir's error, which also let Munyun to first, and McVey hit a long high fly out to Zeis. As it floated over him Zeis snatched a few of its tail feathers, but that was all. Then Wood belted Mr. Andrews for another single, Rourke got hit with the ball, Lynch made another error, and so did Hill, then Moran connected for a couple of bags, Boyle upper out and Mitchell cross-countered. Lake's dog run under the grand stand, Le Helsley lost his jack, the peanut stand took fire, Mrs. Allen's baby fell in the oatmeal can, the police took off their stars and hid them, and the crowd stood up as one man and two women and screamed murder for two hours and sixty minutes. Oh, I tell you it was perfectly awful. Papa Rourke staggered around the grounds under a mammoth grin like a man with the palsy, while Harry Sage simply wrapped himself up in a mantle of dark blue gloom, and sat down on the bench and shed teardrops as big as brickbats. He did so long to be back

That was all there was to the game. Here are the details:

Two Kinds of Singging at Lincoln.

LINCOLN, May 5.—(Special Telegram to The Bee)—Lincoln won her third game from Quincy this afternoon after one of the most notable slugging matches ever witnessed on the home ground. The game was not decided until the end of the last half of the teath inning, and then only by a close decision of the umpire that nearly resulted in a free fight. The one great feature of the game was the heavy slugging of both teams, singles, doubles, triples following each other with bewildering profusion. Each club knocked its opposing pitcher out of the box, and McCarty's home run in the teath inning, the first of the season, won Lincoln the game and enabled her to retain her place at the head of the association. Quincy played in its usual luck until the fifth inning, when the boys from Illinois opened with a single and two doubles. In the seventh Quincy made eight runs and earned five of them, by five singles and three three-baggers.

Umpire Kent's decision in the tenth inning was extremely close. Quincy had two men out and three men on bases. Bushman sent a hot grounder to Pequigney, who was prevented from handling it quickly by the man running from second to third. He managed to throw the ball to Ebright, who caught it at almost the instant that Fisher, who had been forced from first, reached the second bag. It was a close corner, and upon the umpire's decision hinged the result of the game. The unpire declared Fisher out, and in an instant several burly Quincyltes were hovering over his head with threatening gestures. The crowd anticipated a fight, and a hundred men were over the fence and around the little group in a monight. Manager Hickey ordered the grounds cleared and a hig policeman stepped in between the umpire and the angry men from Quincy. It is but fair to say that a large number of those who saw the play believe that the umpire should have given the base runner the benefit of the doubt. Score:

The game was too one-sided to be interesting, and the frequent battery errors had a tendency to mar the sport. Graham, the little colored catcher of the south siders, played his position in commendable style, his running catch of a foul fly from Marquette's bat in the second inning being one of the best features of the game. The Metz crowd started in with a pitcher about the size of a banama, but the husky Y. M. C. Robinson pitched a very effective game for the Christians, but was also very wild most of the time. pluckily to the end they were unable to

The Christians commenced their run getting in the second inning, when four hits, a base or two on balls and a must of a thrown ball by Quinlan produced seven tallies. Crawford cracked out a home run with the bases full and Abbett followed with another on the next ball pitched. They batted out three runs in the third and an additional quintet in the fourth and kept up the music at intervals all through the game.

Battery errors were mainly responsible for saving the Metz boys from a whitewash, as they could only find Robinson for two scattering singles. Score:

Omaha Tennis Lovers Neglect a Chanc

All the devotees of the game in the city had been offered the free ise of the courts on the opening day, but the offer was apparently either not known of, or not appreciated. In any case it was not taken advantage of. For an hour or two during the afternoon all the four court were in use, but it was the members who were using them, and not the outsiders. A few spectators were there, but they were mainly the personal friends of a few of the mainly the personal friends of a few of the members.

When there has been a tournament in progress on these courts the people of Omaha have generally been more or less ready to pay a dime to see the play, but it seems that when there is not a dime to pay they do not care to watch. Yesterday there was a game in progress which was about avinteresting from the spectators' standpoint as any tournament game, save that there was nothing depending upon it. For the most part the players had their rackets in their hands for the first time this season, but it was not often that one would notice any strangeness in the way they handled them. Cullingham and Hart were opposed by C. H. Young and Roy Austin, and their play was pretty, to say the least.

The courts were in excellent trim and the grounds altogether presented a very neat grounds altogether presented a very nea appearance. There is every reason to sup pose that the club has a prosperous season

WINNING UNDER A FALSE NAME.

Trotting Mares Belonging to an American

BERLIN, May 5 .- A sensation has been caused in German sporting circles by the seizure of three trotting mares belonging o an American named Kneebs. It appears that Knerbs has been winning a number of rotting matches in this country and that be has won prizes in money to the amount of 2,250 marks with Bethel, one of his mares by running her under the name of Nellic Kneebs and declaring that she had never before won a match. > Two Brothers Play Dr. Jekeyll and Mr. Hyde by Letting the One with the Jail Sentence Go to the Pen.

Some months ago Joe and Charley Davis were caught in the act of burglarizing a shoe store on South Thirteenth street, and were taken into custody by the officers. In the police court both of the boys waived examination and went up to the district court and were tried at the February term. On the trial the fact was developed that Joe was rather a good boy on general principles and that he had been led into temptation by his brother, Charles, who was proven to be an all around crook. The result of this find-Ing was that the jury concluded to charge Joe with petit and Charles with grand larceny and burglary. Such a verdict was returned, and when the boys were called in for sentence the former was fined $100 and costs and the latter was given a three-year term in the penitentiary.

Both of the boys went back to jail, where they laid the lines toward forming a plan that came within an ace of giving both their freedom.

It so happens that the boys are twins, aged about 17 years and look as much alike as two peas. In fact in past years even their most intimate chums have been unable to tell them apart, and time and again one has been taken for the other. This similarity has caused the officials about the isil no end of trouble and was what almost set them free. Friday was the date for taking Charley Davis to the penitentiary, and at breakfast time as he was making his rounds through the corridors. Jalier Miller informed the young man that he would be expected to start in doing time for the state. Charley replied that he would be ready to start at any time when the sheriff was ready. Soon after this the sheriff called at the jail and found a man awaiting him, but instead of feeling sad, he danced with joy when he spoke of the long sentence that was in store for him. In parting from the other inmates of the jail he remarked that he would not stay in prison three years, as he intended to be a good boy and get out on short time. The sheriff thought never a moment did he have an id-v that he was taking the wrong man away.

At the prison the boy was received by the warden, and was registered as Charl. Davis, and was assigned to a place in

He admitted that he was the brother who was entitled to the penitentiary sentence, and that the man who was adjudged to pay the fine was the one who had been taken to the state institution. He said that the scheme had been put up some days ago, and would never have been known if he himself had not tipped the Mounted Officer Shoop at once went to the scene of action, where, after something of pull off his men.
