FRINGE OF SOCIETY JUST ABOUT REACHED

Louise Bennett Gives a Birthday Partyswell Wedding in Cass County-Events that Have Marked the Near Approach of Canme Days.

It has been a week of commencements and on all sides hosannas have been ringing for the sweet girl grads and their masculine brothers. The exercises at the High school commencement were upon a high order, in keeping with the standing of this school in the educational world.

It has also been a week of going away on the part of pretty nearly everybody who is anybody, and by next week, with the Brown-Wyman wedding over, society will have reached the edge of the season.

School teachers are busily engaged in packing trunks and the outgoing trains for the next few days will be filled with "birds of passage," to return when the shadows lengthen and the days grow short.

Sinety-Four's Class Day "Imitation is suicide," declared Emerson and with this for its motto the class of '94 entered the High school four years ago, narrowly escaping suicide in competition with '93, but always holding their own. The individuality of the class reached its culmination in its class day exercises at the First Congregational church Tuesday afternoon, which were a complete breakaway from class day traditions, and although somewhat con-ceited, as senior classes are apt to be, the program was thoroughly delightful. Inter-spersed throughout were musical selections spersed throughout were i by John Brown and others.

From this time henceforth, decreed Miss Mand Kimball in her pronunciamento, shall class days dispense with class prophecies, class songs and class poems. This is the era of originality, a quality never exhibited in the High chool until the advent four years ago as freshmen of this year's graduating class. Everything that '94 had ever done, Miss Kimball continued, had been tinctured originality. Art in the shape of birds and names carved upon new deaks had reached its some under the fostering care of the class, but unfortunately when the faculty endeavored to discover, that they might en-courage, the budding genius he had modestly declined the recognition which they wished to give. She then predicted glowing futures for the variously-inclined pupils of the class, ending by declaring that in the years to come the members of the class of '94 would be the source of all that was beautiful and sublime Following this came an oration by Tenny-son Elmer, "Shall We Lead or Follow?" eloquently pointed out how incumbent it was upon his classmates to decide what they would do in the future. To succeed they must strive and have something to strive

Norwood Ayers' pastel, "Ships that Pass in the Night," was a clever word-painting in which he graphically compared the worldpeople to ships that pass each other without throwing out a life line to the sinking one or saying "Ship, ahoy" as the wind carries them past one another.

Miss Mabel Kelley's part of the program was entitled a "Threnody," in which she told of the tribulations of a school life, despite the fact that one's school days constitute the happiest period of existence. Continuing her song of lamentation, she said that no sorrow was so great, no fact so hard to accept as the realization which comes sooner or later to so many scholars that they are mentally inferior to some other classmate.

In opposition to Miss Kelley's threnody William I. Battin offered consolation by stating that although we must all accept the fact that we are not equally endowed, still by unselfish struggling for others and earnest application of our will power to the devlopment of our true selves we can raise the national standard and perhaps achieve unexpected anticipations, During the course of the program Shubert's "Serenade" was well rendered by a class quartet, composed of Fred Teal, Erwin Davenport, Will Battin and Arthur Pratt. In Local Musical Circles. One of the most delightful musicales of the season was given at the home of Miss Cora Hoyer, Thirty-first street and Redick avenue, last Tuesday night, in honor of her sister, Mrs. Marchessault of Ashland, Wis During the evening the following program Instrumental, Prof. Rowe song, May Marchessault; recitation, Mrs. Mc Clanahan; song, Mrs. Shepard; instrumental, Mrs. Eastman; song, Mr. Laurie; instru-mental, Mr. Shepard; recitation, May Marchessault; song, Mr. Diffin; instrumental Mrs. Merrow; song, Miss Hoyer; song, Mr.

Shepard. The guests were more than delighted with the singing of Mr. and Mrs. Shepard, who were recently members of the Tuxedo comwhich has appeared many times in this city. After the musical features of the evening had been completed a delicious lunch was served, and when the party dispersed each guest was presented a box of Miss Hoyer's choice home-made candies.

Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs Hulse, Mr. and Mrs. Merrow, Dr. and Mrs. Shepard, Mr. and Mrs. Eastman, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lawrie, Dr. and Mrs. W. O Henry, Mr. and Mrs. Bryce Crawford, Mr and Mrs. A. A. Pleasant Surprise. A very delightful surprise party was given by Miss Lillian Paul at her residence on Parker street Friday evening of last week by her lady friends. She was taken to the house of a lady friend to spend the evening and on returning home she was greatly sur-prised in finding Miss Bailey, Miss Palmer and Mrs. Paul receiving the guests.

After a short time spent in conversation the surprised lady indulged in a number of games with her guests. This was done after a nice supper, which was served by Louise Bennett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Bennett, celebrated her fifth birthday Friday by inviting a number of her little friends to spend the afternoon with her at her father's residence, Twenty-second and Dodge streets, from 2 to 5. The little hostess was quite equal to the occasion and received her guests with a pleasing dignity was very charming, afterwards direct ing the play of her little friends. As souvenirs of the occasion each little guest eccived a pretty box of bonbonniers and a flowers. The guests Louise Northrup, Anna McCague, Henrietta McCague, Dorothy Snyder, Margery Snyder, Heath Vaill, Edna Damon, Arris Damon, Cecelia Johnson, Eva Hayward, Hazel Hayward, Ciara Thurber, Katie Kehoe; Masters Howard and Frank Brown of Lincoln, Mas-ter Harry Wade. In addition to the little folks Mrs. Bennett entertained Mrs. Wade Mrs. Northrup, Mrs. Richardson of Chicago, Mrs. Damon, Mrs. Brown of Lincoln, Mrs. McCague and Mrs. Snyder. Outing of the Pudd'nhead Club. The Pudd'nhead club decreed a new fashion at its last meeting and inaugurated it formally on Friday evening. It was a motor-ho party. One of the handsome new motors of the street railway company was chartered and sent over the company's lines at a speed that cast the dust on competing at a speed that cast the dust on competing tally-hoes. No decorations were needed to heighten the charm of the electric vehicle, engineer who has been sent to Omaha to in-but motions of the club were numerous and catchy. Over a group of intercated gossipers were the words: "Nothing so needs reforming as other people's habits." Near a quartet of school teachers who discussed how to be happy though elseted was a printed scroll, with this strange reflection: "Take the case of any pencil sharpened by a woman; if you have witnesses, you will find she did it with a knife; but if you take simply the aspect of the pencil, you take simply the aspect of the pencil, you will say she did it with her teeth." On the left of the smokers vestibule were the warning words: "When I reflect on the number of disagreeable cigars I have smelt, I am moved to lead a different life," Facing the conductor was the pithy advice: "When angry count a hundred; when very angry, Coupled with the hilarious suggestiveness of Pudd'nhead mottoes was a Cleveland horn of the vintage of '92. Though pos-sessed of a sickly pallor, it improved on short acquaintance and vociferated in Gabrielistic tones.

The itinerary included the park, Walnut Hill and South Omahs, and occupied two and a half hours. It was a novel and enjoyable affair.

The party consisted of Mr. and Mrs. Roudebush, Mr and Mrs. Turner, Mr. and Mrs. Turner, Mr. and Mrs. Turner, the Misses De Volt, Thorngate, Dysart, Carney, Scott, Towne, Misses Donnegan, and Misses De Cou, Dr. Dean, Messrs, Cassell, Hornback, Kissane, Hornstein, Barker and Bond.

Swell Wedding in Cass County. One of the prettiest weddings of the season in state social circles was solemnized Friday in Cedar Creek, Cass county, the town having put on a gala day appearance in honor of the event. The high contracting parties were Miss Susie A. Sayles, the accomplished and beautiful daughter of Hon. George A. Sayles, a resident of Cass county for more than thirty-five years, and Mr. Robert A. Fudge, a descendant of one of the oldest and most exclusive families of Covington, Va., who owns a large plantation in Allegheny county, where he is extensively engaged in tobacco growing.

The marriage ceremony was performed at the lovely old home of the bride's parents by Dean Burgess of the Episcopal church. an old and valued friend of the family. The groom was attended by George E. Sayles, who returned from his alma mater to be best man for his sister's husband. The oride was exquisitely gowned in a cream corded silk, entraine, short sleeves and V shaped neck, the gown being richly trimmed in fine old point, wearing a spray of orange blossoms in her hair and corsage. Miss Ida Sayles, sister of the bride, filled the po-sition of bridesmaid and wore a gown of pale green silk, beautifully garnitured with lace. The wedding march from "Lohengrin" was played by Mrs. Willard R. Keefer (born Cooley) of Alvo, Neb., aunt of the bride, the bridal chorus being chanted by Mrs. Keefer, assisted by Misses Eva and Ritta Sayles and Masters Rex and Earl Keefer. The presents were numerous and valuable, nearly 100 guests being present at the ceremony, many prominent people from Omaha, Lincoln, Plattsmouth, Chicago and Cleveland being in attendance.
Following the ceremony a well appointed wedding dinner was served, an orchestra discoursing pleasing music throughout the dinner service and later furnishing inspira-tion for those who desired to dance, the groom and bride reviving an old Virginia custom and leading the grand march.

Congratulatory telegrams were received from prominent friends and relatives all over the country, Julius S. Cooley of Omaha, uncle of the bride, being present and deliver-ing a congratulatory speech. After the festivities the bridal party left for the east and will stop a week in Chicago, their honey-moon being spent at Coney Island and White Sulphur Springs, near the groom's old home in Virginia. They will be at home after In honor of Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Guthrie

Mrs. Charles E. Squires gave a very pretty Kensington Tuesday afternoon at her home, on Twenty-fifth street, from 2 until 5. One of the pleasing features of the afternoon was the strife over the word "Lambrequin" on the part of the guests to see who could make the most words out of the word in twenty minutes. Mrs. Parrott won the prize, having made seventy-nine words in the time specified. In addition to this fea-ture Miss Colpetzer, Miss Van Kuran and Mrs. Estabrook sang and played splendidly, Mrs. J. Dickey made every very happy with her recitations.

Among those present were: Mesdames

FIFTH IOWA CAVALRY. Those Present at the Reunion in Omaha Last Week.

One of the pleasant episodes of the Iowa Grand Army of the Republic encampment at Council Bluffs last week was the getting together of a few members of the Fifth Iowa cavalry. On Wednesday morning the old Fifth, that is, all who could be present, held an informa where, for two hours past experience and general talk of life since the war were the topics of conversation. A very pleasant time was had by the old veterans of the war, but of course, it was at parting a sad sight see these men about to separate probably no see each other again until the last great muster-in in the other world. Those present were General W. W. Lowe late colonel of the regiment; Major J. C. Wilcox, assistant surgeon; George S. De-Witt, T. F. Lewis, late assistant surgeon

Art in Furniture.

Among our late studies in old French furniture is this Chiffonnier with its double well front and its antique prow like supports to the mirror. It makes a very beautiful piece of furniture executed in bird's eye maple or curly birch, and with trimmings of polished brass in Eighteenth Century designs.

These 1894 patterns mean nothing until you stop to recall the fact that they were all designed in the early days of the business depression when low price was the first and last consideration. They are simply "Studies in Economy," and such values may not reappear in the furniture business in the next half dozen years. If you have a single furniture need, sup-
