Gentleman Nearing a Climax. The chances are that the near future will see a professional bicycle thief landed behind the bars of the penitentiary of Ne braska or Iowa, as he is now sheltered by the bars of the jail at Glenwood and has a clear case of grand larceny pending against him in both states. Mention was made in yesterday's Bee of the theft of a bleycle belonging to J. B. Fulton from in front of the Sapp building. Fulton found that the thief had taken it to Omaha and sent it to Pacific Junction, with instructions to the express agent that it be sent to Chicago. In the meantime Fulton had sent out de criptions of the wheel to the town authori-ties all over this section of country, and had received word from the express agent at Pacific Junction that his wheel was was there. He wired back to catch the thief at all hazards if he came around again. Thurs-day afternoon Fulton and Emmet Tinley ent down to Pacific Junction. H. M. Harford of Omaha had a bicycle Interesting Character Sketch of Hon. Wil liam Vincent Allen.

Dr. Albert Shaw publishes in the July Re view of Reviews a critical character sketch of Senator Allen of Nebraska, from which the following excerpts are taken:

The west, far from asserting its claims to oclferously, has paid too much deference to the east. Life is simpler in the west than in the east. Outside of a few large western cities, the absorption in money-get ing is far greater on the Atlantic seaboard than in the Mississippi valley. The western cople have more time to read and to think and they devote themselves much more gen erally than their castern brothers or cousing to a consideration of public questions. There is really no reason, therefore, why Senator Allen of Nebraska should not be supposed to bring as complete qualifications o his task at Washington as, for instance enator Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts But none the less the east must be indulged in its inability to look upon an untried west ern man with other than skeptical and curlous eyes. The country has, however, at length become aware that in this junior senator from Nebraska there has appeared a new personality, full of vigor and power and with the promise of a future that may be very considerable in our world of federal affairs

Long before the year 1900, however, we elleve the people of Nebraska will have discovered that their populist senator stands in pure patriotism, natural dignity, honest nanhood and intellectual power so far above manhood and intellectual power so far above the perplexing and ill-defined bounds that mark the present limits of party programs that they will acquire a genuine pride in him as a public man of the first rank, intent upon the performance of duty and guided by a broad intelligence and a fixed habit of unshrinking application to the task in hand Many members of the senate have had previous experience in the popular chamber at the other end of the capitol building. Others have seen much legislative service as mem have seen much legislative service as mem-bers of the law-making bodies of their states, while others have become experienced in public affairs through one or more terms as state governor. It is not often that a member comes to the United States senate ber comes such experience. It may be observed, however, that the exceptions to this rule tend to become more numerous, and that it is by no means certain that a new class of public men, who reach the senate upon grounds of high persona merit rather than by virtue of their long experience in party manipulation, are the less useful and effective. Senator Allen had not been a politician and had held no politi cal office. The circumstances which necessi tated an extra session to discuss the silver question and that have prolonged the regu lar session with a well-nigh endless sham battle over the tariff, have made Mr. Allen's first year as a senator an exceedingly full and heavy one. No new man at Washington since the opening of the government has ever entered more completely than Mr. Allen has done into the thick of the legisla-tive combat; and no man coming without reputation and as perfect stranger both to men and to methods at Washington has even won his spurs more valiantly or gained the respect of his colleagues more purely and strictly upon the grounds of merit.

FLOATING MONSTERS

Italy Has the Biggest Fighting Vessels in the World.

The biggest armorclads in the world ar the Italian Italia and Lepanto, sister ships each of 15,900 tons displacement. Next t them come the monster English battleships of the Royal Sovereign class, vessels of 14,150 tons displacement. These in turn will be surpassed by the Magnificent and Majestic each of which will displace 14,900 tons. The largest armorciad over which the French flag floats is the Admiral Baudin Carnot, only eighty tons smaller. Ger many's largest armorciad is the Bran denburg, of 9,840 tons. Austria has neve built any armorelads save those of mod-erate dimensions, her largest, the Tegett-hoff, being of 7,360 tons. Spain's largest is the Pelayo, of 9,300 tons. The three United States battleships of the first-class which have been launched are the Massachusetti Oregon and Indiana, each of 10,200 tons dis placement. The Iowa, now building, will b 11,296 tons. There is now a reaction against monster ships. England is the only naval power that persists in the policy of build-ing them, and apparently she is nearing a halt. That the Italians have come to this conclusion is indicated by the dimensions of their latest armorelad authorized, which will have 9,800 tons displacement. The de termination of France and the United State to keep their battleships under 12,000 tons was deliberately taken by each government. after weighing weight against efficiency. In this policy Russia also agrees, the largest of her armorclads in service being the Georgi Pobledonosetz, of 10,280 tons, while her naval constructors regard 12,000 tons as about th proper limit. Of the cruisers now afloat the Russian Rurik is the largest, and probably, takin, all things into consideration, the most pow erful. She is armor belted and is of 10,900 tons displacement, almost 2,000 tons larger than the Blake. The English have author ized two cruisers of 14,000 tons each, being determined to see the Rurik and go her 3,10 tons better. As in the case of armorclad England stands alone in accepting this chal lenge. Her Blake and Blenheim are not onl exceeded by the Rurik, but by the Spanish Emperador Carlos V., which has 9,235 tons displacement. The largest French cruiser in active service is the D'Entrecasteaux, of 7,900 tons, but the Jeanne d'Arc is being enlarged to a total displacement of 8,70 tons. The largest cruiser class of the Italian service, either afloat or authorized, displace 6,500 tons each, which is 450 tons more than Germany's leader, the Kaiserin Augusta. The largest of our cruisers afloat is the New York, of 8,150 tons, while the Brooklyn, building, will be 1,000 tons larger.

They hid in the weeds near the Baptist church they found they were pursued, but when their pursuers caught up with them they showed no disposition to capture them. The fellows broke and ran, but one of them. who gave his name as John Cole, alias John Morris, was afterwards caught by the police and jailed on a charge of larceny from a building. A little while later another man called on him at the city jail and asked to be allowed to talk to him. Marshal Conving recording the from the Marshal Canning recognized him from the description as Cole's companion in crime and threw him inside. Upon searching him a file was found in his pocket, which he had doubtless intended to slip through the bars in order to help Cole out. The second captive gave his name as Henry Hendricks.

Footprints leading to and from made a very commendable showing in the parade on the Fourth, but it is claimed that Colonel Hunter, who was in command, would persons were parties to the crime and have had a much longer column had it not been for a scheme to deplete his ranks. It is alleged that some of those interested in weakening the show of labor strength cunningly arranged to give members of the or-ganization just enough work to break into where his relatives reside. the day's program. and some comrades put a quantity of powder in a can of mud and attached a fuse to it. The powder did not explode quickly and Murphy went to see what was the matter. While he was looking into it the powder exploded with terrific force. The boy's nose was torn off, his cheek bone broken and his left eye put out, and it is probable that he will lose the sight of his right eye also. It is doubtful if he sur-vives the accident. If he lives he will be disfigured for life and probably be blind. Ready to Sail for the Arctics.

turning somersaults. Like the people I read about, we landed in the water, and when the car came to a standstill after its terrifying bumping and crushing I was so frightened that I could scarcely move my arms to keep my head above water. "Near me was a man who kept his head. "'Don't splash around so,' he said, 'You'll cut yourself. The car is full of broken glass. lamps, wrenched rods and rails, and you'll hack yourself to pleces."

"But I thought I was drowning, and I shouted my fears to him. "'Oh, no,' he said, 'we are not drowning; we'll get out of this easily.'

"But it was not so easy to escape as my cool friend assured me. The whole inside work had been shattered, and there was nothing by which we could climb to the win-duws, which were high above us, as our car was overturned, lying on its roof. "We made so many efforts to jump always falling back into the water, that I became exhausted. My friend, however, kept on encouraging me. "Finally, with assistance, I managed lin to the Globe Democrat. "Several cavalry horses were first shod with paper shoes and the effect observed. It was found that not only did the lightness and elasticity of the shoe help the horse on the march, making it possible for him to travel faster and farther without fatigue than horses shod with iron, but that the paper shoe had the property of being unaffected by water and other liquids. These new sheets of paper pressed closely together, one above another, and rendered impervious to moisture by the application of oil of turpentine. The sheets are glued together by sort of paste composed of turp ntine, whiting gum and linseed oil, and then submitted to powerful hydraulic pressure. Paper horseshoes are also made by grinding up the paper into a mass, combining it with turpentine sand, gum, litharge and certain other substances, pressing it, and afterward drying it. But these shoes are less tough and elas-tic than those made of thin sheets of paper fastened to the horse's feet either by means of nails or with a kind of glue made of coal tar and caoutchouc."

> Arrested for Threatening Royalty. LONDON, July 6 .- Thomas Cantwell and

Charles Quinn have been arrested here charged with inciting the murder of members of the royal family. Prior to the re-cent opening of the Tower bridge the pris-oners were found displaying the following oners were found displaying the following placards: "To the Workingmen of Tower Hill: Fel-low Workers—You expended life, energy and skill in constructing this bridge. Now come the royal vermin and rascally poll-ticians with pomp and splendor. They claim all the credit while you are con-demned to the workhouse and to the pau-per's grave in order to glorify these lazy swine who live by our labor." Upon searching the prisoners' lodgings a printing press and a mass of anarchistic pamphets were found. The prisoners will be prosecuted by the treasury officials.
