You would never have believed that the nine gingery and athletic young colts who wore Omaha uniforms out at the ball park yesterday were the same identical hired hands that sneaked home through the back streets just twenty-four hours before smarting under the most crushing defeat that has been inflicted on the home grounds this year. But they were, and just how Father William managed to inject so much elixir of life into his hired men during the brief interval while Old Sol was washing his hands in the China seas is a mystery that will never be solved in this world.

But never mind how it was done. It is enough to know that the team put up a gilt-edged article of ball all around, and the cranks enjoyed one of the most gingery and interesting contests that has been seen here this year. True, the score mounted up Into the double figures, but it was by reason of good, clean hitting, and the few errors that were made were mostly of the excusable variety. A noticeable exception to this was Munyun's wretched muff of an easily thrown ball, which cost a couple of runs and gave the fans a huge disgust.

Langford, the new acquisition, made his initial appearance and held down the third bag, while Papa took his favorite cushion on the bench. The new man played a magnificent game, winning the good will of the crowd from the start. He perpetrated a beautiful double in the fourth inning by eating up Traffley's hot ground hit, catching McVicker at third, and then recovering in time to shut off the runner at first. In the ninth, too, he made a running pick-up and throw of an apparently safe hit from Jones bat that was good enough to paste in your

The history of the game constitutes the same story that has been repeated here so many times this season. The home team allowed the visitors to get just far enough ahead so that they had already added it to their list of victories, and then just naturally went in and lambasted the life out of Mr. Burrell and pulled the plum right out of the fire. The crowd liked it, too, and vented their appreciation in a prolonged chorus of congratulation, which was in de cided contrast to the lugubrious howls which went out when the pets were being trampled into the mud the day before. We started the trouble by scoring once in the first inning on Moran's safe hit, which was followed by a base on balls, an out and Munyun's two-bagger. The Philistines went better and counted twice, and after we had drawn a goose egg they repeated the peformance. Three more bases on balls and hits by Fear and Boyle tied the score in the fourth, but the Iowa aggregation came right back at us again with three more. Each team scored three times in the fifth and when the seventh arrived the score was ten to eight against us.

But right here the Omahogs unwrapped bundle of hits that fairly made Mr. Burrell have epileptic fits. Seery opened up with a three-bagger, Moran corked out a single and McVey and Fear followed with a couple of sacks apiece. Then Munyun smashed a nice drop over the fence for four of them, and after McVicker had garnered Pedroes' Langford, Boyle and Whitehill all hit safely. Seery drew a base on balls, but the next two men were fielded out and the side retired with five runs ahead.

The visitors scored once more when Mc-Vicker knocked the ball over the barn for a home run, but Whitehill let out a peg and mowed them down like so many blades of grass in the path of a Kansas cyclone. OMAHA.

MINERS ON THE WAR PATH,

Blow Up Mine Buildings and Roll Huge Boulders Down the Mountains. WARDNER, Idaho, July 7 .- The Coeur d'Alene miners have broken out again. The hills are full of rioting miners and the town is paralyzed. Business is suspended and the sheriff is organizing a posse to defend the mines. At 1:30 o'clock this morning a tremendous explosion shook the town. It was followed by a chorus of derisive yells When daylight came it was discovered that an attempt had been made to blow up the power house and electric light plant of the Buker Hill and Sullivan mines. Sticks of dynamite had been shoved under the build-ing and exploded. The explosion was suffi-cient to wreck the plant completely, although a large part of the building was left standing. The hills above the power house are full of rioters, who make no attempt to attack the town, but have spent the whole morning rolling rocks down the steep mountain side on the power house and mine buildings. Huge boulders, heavy masses of slag and big logs have been bounding down the slope all day, crushing everything be fore them. The sheriff is now swearing in citizens as deputies, and if a sufficient force is secured he will probably attempt to clear the hills. The governor has been notified and will probably order out the militia. Many people are leaving town. It is feared attempts will be made tonight to burn or blow up other buildings.

Idaho Miners Causing Trouble. BOISE, Idaho, July 7 .- Governor McConnel today received word that part of the works of the Bunker Hill and Sullivan mines at Wardner had been blown up. He also wired the president asking that troops be sent into the district.

What the Robbie P-Alix Race at Union Park Demonstrates.

BIG CROWDS FOR GOOD EVENTS ASSURED

Lovers of Turf Sports in This Vicinity Want None but the Best Racing and Will Bar Plow Horse Contests.

The most important event in racing circles during the past week has been the meeting between Morris Jones' little mare, Alix, and Ed Pyle's stallion, Robbie P. This meeting was arranged at the conclusion of Clinton Briggs' Blue Ribbon races in the latter part of June. Alix has a record of 2:07% and Robbie has a record of 2:13, but competent judges believe that he can cover a regulation course in less than 2:10. During the Blue Ribbon meeting both of these horses attracted considerable attention and Robbie P was showing some wonderful bursts of speed in his training heats. The merits of the horses were so thoroughly discussed by their admirers that the owners were prevailed upon to let them go for the gate receipts on July 4. The mere announcement of the match was sufficient to bring out a big crowd to Union park and they were repaid by seeing a good four-heat race. Owing to recent rains the track was in poor condition, and from five to seven seconds slow. However, the horses were started and the track at the scratch was so soft that Alix was nearly thrown and broke badly just after receiving the word. She did not recover until Robbie P was seventy-five yards ahead of her and then the game little mare set out to close up the gap. She was less than a half a length behind as they passed under the wire, aithough Pyle had driven Robbie P to the finish. The time was slow, 2:17, for either horse, but was good considering the track. Although it was a race for gate receipts, it was evident that Robbie P's owner was trying to land the big end of it, and he did have some ad-vantage, as Robbie P is an exceptionally strong horse, as game as they make them and as ambitious as he is game. In the second heat the beautiful Alix took and although Pyle drove his horse off his feet he could not head her, and the finished in 2:15. Alix took the next hear in 2:14, and then Jones claimed the race on the grounds that it was a three-heat event instead of five. Pyle insisted on five heats, and was sustained by the judges. Jones objected on the ground that Alix had not been fitted for racing yet and because of the deplorable condition of the track. The mare is the very apple of his eye, and he would not injure her for half of the state of Iowa. He finally agreed to start Alix again in answer to the demands of the crowd. But he was somewhat hot and told Pyle that he would set the pace and not let him get any closer than he wanted him to. The start was made, and Alix set out on that smooth, deceptive gait of her' which fools so many people, and although Robbie P made a game fight and finish he could not gain on the mare, and hardly made a good pacemaker for her. But when It is considered that there are five and one fourth seconds difference between it must be admitted that Robble P made a good race, and is capable of making the best of the trotters hustle to show him a clean pair of heels. time made in this race was 2:14, but the half mile was traveled in this heat in 1:0514. This race demonstrated that the lovers of turf sports in this vicinity want non-but the best of racing, and no contests between plow horses go. In order to fill in the heats of the principal race a field of 2:40 trotters was started. Two heats were made in 2:47 and 2:47%, and then the crowd began guying the drivers and everyone else connected with the race, shouting derisively every time they scored. The rea-son of this was that there was a good deal of false pretending in announcing this so-called meeting. The people had been led to believe that they were to witness a first-class card of racing, instead of only the match between Alix and Robbie P. It is admitted that these two alone would have drawn just as big a crowd and then no one would have been disappointed with the other races. And another thing the managers of Union park should see to, that is the score card privilege. The card that is palmed off on the public is an abomination and contains many inexcusable mistakes. And the card is not up to date at all, the names of the drivers being entirely omitted. As these cards cost about $7.50 to $8 per thousand and are sold for $100, which is clear profit the advertising paying for the first cost, it seems that the patrons should get better treatment from this source.

There is some little talk of arranging a fall meeting of harness races at Union park. Such a meeting could undoubtedly be made a financial success and if held late enough all the crack trotters and pacers in the west, are now campaigning on eastern tracks, could be induced to stop over for the meeting on their way home for the winter season. But it is just as well to warn the projectors now that they will make a failure and suffer a financial loss, besides injuring the reputation of the track, unless they ar range a strictly first class meeting and do not attempt to palm off a lot of old skates and skins on the public as thoroughbreds. It has been demonstrated that good trotting and pacing races will be liberally patronized here, but track patrons draw the line on Charley Williams, the man who gave Axtell and Allerton to the trotting world and who has enjoyed a meteoric career as a horseman, has about finished his new track at Galesburg, Ill. He held a small meeting at the new course on July 4, and had the satisfaction of drawing a big crowd. If Omaha had have "legged" a little harder Williams might have been induced to come here and recurerate his fortune. here and recuperate his fortune. Whateve faults Williams may have, he is still the most remarkable turfman in the country, and when he guarantees a purse horsemen know that they will get their money. Although he made a fortune out of Axtell and Allerton he lost it, as many a wiser man has done, by trying to accomplish an impossibility. William tried to build up a real city in Iowa.

The Nebraska race meetings scheduled for this season are as follows: Friend, August 7-9; Edgar, August 14-16; Superior, August 21-23; Nelson, August 28-30; Omaha, September 3-8; Geneva, September 4-6; Lincoln, September 10-14; Schuyler, September, 19-29; Systember 10-14; Schuyler, September, 19-22; Syracuse, September 25-28.

Maxim, by Musko, the famous New Zea-land racer, died at Del Paso's ranch, near Sacramento one day last week. The horse's death was the result of injuries received in his stall several days ago. This horse was imported from New Zealand six years ago at a price of $21,000 and he has sired many promising youngsters, who may be heard from in a few seasons.

The lovers of harness racing hear very lit tle about kite-shaped tracks and phenom-enal records nowadays. Like any other fad it has died a natural death, and horsemen are turning their attention to the best methods for improving regular oval courses. Among the new innovations adopted this season is the electric distance and wire flags for timers, which are operated by the official starter; and the elevated watch towers at the time posts, in which the flagmen are locked until the races are over. These men are in communication with the judges' stand by telephone, and they immediately report any foul driving or any other crocked work on the course. The horses are called to the score by a system of electric call bells and the work of the starter is said to be greatly

Will the trotting and pacing records made last year be broken this season? is a leading question among horsemen. It is also pre-dicted that the two-minute mark will be hi by some of the speedy nags. Flying Jib has made a half mile spurt already in 1:01%. and it is confidently predicted that he can go that distance a second and a half faster. Online has shown several quarters in 0:28, and after being driven a couple of warming up miles at Union park the other day, he stepped the distance from the three-quarters peg under the wire in 0:28 flat. Jones says Alix can and will lower her last year's record (2:07%) fully four seconds, and only Mr. Jones knows what this wonderful little mare can do. No reports have been received yet about the work of Directum. Sunol, Saladin, Nancy Hanks, Martha Wilkes, or Mascot, while Guy and Manager might be considered in the list of "phenoms." The pneumatic tire seems to have made a 2-min ute gait a possibility, and some of the record makers will only have to go four seconds faster to accomplish the feat. Fidol is reported to be working quarters in 0:81. Prima Donna, Colonel W. L. Simmons' sensational (2:09%) pacer, is making some fast miles on the eastern tracks. Fly ing Jib is recorded with forty-eight racing heats in less than 2:25, his slowest winning heat being 2:254, which was in his first race, and took place at Grand Rapids, Mich., July 5, 1892. He won $13,700 in purses, and paced thirty-six heats in standard time during his first year on the turf. In 1893 he could not be conditioned until the close of the campaign season, but under these adverse conditions this swift anima paced twelve heats below 2:15 and six be-low 2:10, winding up by making his record of 2:04. He is fit to go this year and Andy McDowell will make the effort of his life to drive Jib under the string in two min utes flat. Orrin Hickok has taken Directum (2:05%) to Cleveland, and will start him first in the grand circuit meeting at De-troit. Hickok reports that Directum is in tiptop condition. The six-heat rule is being enforced on some of the northeastern tracks but it is proving to be very unsatisfactor; to horsemen. Next month should begin the record of making and breaking for this season.

DORRINS WINS THE REALIZATION

Great 3-Year-Old Race at Sheepshead Som thing of a Failure.

NEW YORK, July 7.—The attendance at Sheepshead Bay was the largest of the season today and the betting was heavy The sport opened with the second half o the double event. As soon as the flag fell Cesarion took the lead and was never headed. In the second race Glenmoyne was the choice and justified it by winning easily. The third was an easy victory for Henry of Navarre. In the steeplechase Rodman, the favorite, won easily. The Realization stakes, which is the chief race of the year, for 3-year-olds, was a sorry spectacle this year, for Dobbins won in a common canter in the slow time of 2:55. When the flag fell they were all hot to make the pace. Gwendolyn started out ahead of Dobbins, who was two lengths ahead of Dobbins, who was two lengths ahead of the other four, running side by side. This was the order passing the grand stant at the end of the lirst half mile. Positions were not materially changed at the mile post, although Senator Grady had dropped out of the bunch and was laboring behind. With a quarter of a mile to go Dobbins shot out past Gwendolyn and took the lead almost in a single bound, while Hornpipe, under Taral's hands, came up rapidly. Rey el Santa Anita was caught napping, and the rider had to ride with hands and feet to catch the Keene colt. They had it hammer and tongs, but Hornpipe held on to the end and got second place by a short head. Gwendolyn was fourth, Longdale fifth, while Senator Grady was a very bad last. Results:

First race, Futurity course: Cesarion (7 to 1) won, Sir Galahad (7 to 1) second, Waltzer (13 to 10) third. Time: 1:12.

Second race, Futurity course: Glenmoyne (6 to 5) won, Alax (8 to 1) second, Weinberg (5 to 1) third. Time: 1:30-5.

A TRICK TO GAIN MERCY. Broken-Hearted Lamentations of a Rogus

Father. Before County Judge Henry H. Moore's court opened in Brooklyn on Friday morn-ing, says the New York Sun, an elderly man with a sunburnt complexion, sandy hair and a Scotch burr in his voice that fairly tickled the ear when he spoke, walked into the clerk's office and said:

"I want to see my b-b-b-boy once more.
Boo hoe hoo! My p-p-poor b-b-b-boy."
"Who is your boy?" asked an officer.
"Harry Parker," answered the illuminated stranger. Great tears rolled down cheeks. He was a study in grief.

officer's sympathy was aroused The When Harry Parker was gathered in by the police he was supposed to be one of a gang of experienced English pickpockets that been working the race tracks. Park Parker's misfortune happened on May 15, when Dr. Rice won the handicap. Parker and George Holmes were arrested at the Brooklyn Jockey club track by Detective Mason for helping themselves to a $100 diamend stud that happened to be in the bosom of Reuben Dodd, They were indicted for grand larceny in the second degree and convicted. They were to be arraigned before Judge Moore on Friday When the florid stranger heard from the officer that "his son" be sentenced, he asked to see Judge Moore. The officer took him to the judge's private

What is it you want?" asked Judge Moore. The stranger was shaking with sobs as he "Oh, your majesty, my poor b-b-b-boy! He was such a nice young m-m-man, the hope of my old age."
"Well, what's his name?"

"Harry, your excellency; Harry Parker, may it please you.' "Yes, and he has been convicted of grand larceny, and I am going to sentence him this morning," said Judge Moore. The stranger was heaving with sobs. "Spare him, your excellency! Spare my only son! He was such a nice b-b-boy-boo-hoo-hoo! I haven't seen my unhappy boy for two whole years. He has been wayward when he has been out of my care. Do have mercy or him, and I will bless you all my days. Harry will be grateful, too. He has never been in trouble before, your majest-your honor.

"I understand that he has been in prison before," said Judge Moore, who was a bit "You hurt me when you say that," said the stranger with dignity, "If he has been in trouble before may your honor send him to prison for life."

While this was going on Detective Mason, who had arrested Parker, entered the room. He remembered to have seen the ruddy stranger talking to Parker during the trial.
"Are you married?" asked Judge Moore. "My poor, dear wife is dead," said the man, again bringing out his damp handkerchief and dabbing at his streaming eyes.

He cried easily and without effort.
"Where are you employed?" asked Judge "For business reasons I would prefer not to answer," said the man. "I have been a respectable citizen since I came to this country. A close cross-examination developed the name of one man who lived in Parlem who had employed Harry Parker's father. "Mason," said the judge to the detective, "go to Harlem and see what this man knows about Mr. Parker." The heartbroken parent's sobs ceased sud-ienly. "Your honor, I-I-I will call again," denly. he said, and out he went in a hurry.

When Parker was arraigned for sentence
Judge Moore asked him, "Is your father

'No; he died eight years ago." Parker chuckled when the story of the broken-hearted parent was told to him.
"If that man says he is your father he didn't tell the truth, eh?" said Judge Moore. "Of course he didn't, and he's nothing but an old bungler anyway," said Parker with broken-hearted parent didn't return to claim his long-lost boy, and Parker was sentenced to Sing Sing for four years and "That was the latest trick out," commented a court officer. Boating at Courtland beach,

John R. Lowrey, a wife beater, was tried and convicted yesterday, after which he was fined $90 and costs. Being unable to liqui-date he was sent to the county jail. with bastardy. The officer alleged that several young women in Dodge county wanted to file the same kind of charges against Backer. The prisoner resides Omaha. The case of the city against Andrew Henry was tried in the police court yesterday and taken under advisement until next Wednesday, when the court will hand down an opinion. In this case the defendant is charged with having violated the ordinances of the city by the distribution of handbills and circulars, without first having taken out a license authorizing him to carry on the business. The officers of the Central Labor union have been looking after the defense. The city marshal of Dunlap, Ia., is in the city securing affidavits relative to the character of James Quinn, an erstwhile resident of Omaha and a man who has been slandering some of the church ladies of Dunlap. From the police department the marshal secured affidavits showing that Quinn, while he resided here, was arrested on the charge of forgery and that later he passed a confederate bill at one of the houses of ill fame securing in change the sum of $18 in good money.

Time Allowance Saves the Pride of the British by a Minute.

VIGILANT DEFEATED BY THE BRITANNIA

Beautiful Day to See the Race, but the Prevalling Conditions Were All Favorable to the Success of the British Boat.

HUNTER'S QUAY (Firth of Clyde), July 7 .- In the race for the Queen's cup at the regatta of the Royal Clyde Yacht club today the Britannia was again the winner. She went over the line almost immediately after the gun was fired at 10:30 a. m., and at Cloch Point she had a slight lead, which she increased over the Vigilant.

The course today was that of the Royal Clyde Yacht club, the one sailed over at the Mudbook Yacht club contest on Thursday. In today's race, according to the official rating, the Vigilant having been measured yesterday, the American yacht at 175 tons to the Britannia's 150 tons, allowed the prince of Wales' cutter three minutes. The Vigtlant allowed the Majorie eighteen minutes. The starters were as follows:

Yacht. Rig. Rating. Owner. Handicap. Britannia. Cutter 152 Prince of Wales 3 min. Vigitant. Sloop 175 Messrs Gould Scratch Marjorle. Cutter — 18 min. The interest, of course, centered in the Vigilant and the Britannia. The harbor presented a fine spectacle, as the dull, cloudy early hours of the morning were succeeded by a glorious sunburst which enlivened everything and everybody. During the morning a * light southerly breeze was flowing and this benefited the Britannia. The breeze increased as the time approached, and when the start was made was blowing freshly down the channel. The smart and powerful looking Vigilant lay in Gourock bay until 9:15 a. m., when she left her moorings and began cruising about the firth until the time for the start. The maneuvering for the start was a pretty sight. The Vigilant was luffing along in front of the line, while the Marjorie and Britannia cruised about in the mouth of the When they stayed to starboard in order to come down on the line, the Britannia was pushing into the weather of the Marjorie and was a bowsprit ahead as the gun was fired. VIGILANT STARTED POORLY. The Britannia was over the line almost immediately after the gun fired, closely followed by the Marjorie. The Vigilant made a bad start, being fully three-quarters of a minute behind the Britannia. This was accounted for by the fact that the American yacht had less way on when she came about. Amid rousing cheers and much steam whistling the three yachts bore away short on the starboard tack, and it was soon seen that the Vigilant was closing in on the leaders and lying high up in the wind.

The Britannia had a short hitch about 200 yards out, and had to stand up on the weather of the Vigilant as she drew on, and still had the weather gauge, the American yacht being two lengths behind. Captain Carter of the Britannia was today assisted by Captain O'Neill of the Iverna, and the prince of Wales' cutter had on board sixteen picked men from the Iverna making a total of forty-six men to handle The Vigilant carried a crew of forty-nine men. The Vigilant and Britannia held on to the starboard tack to the Cloch shore without making a tack, the Britannia falling away to leeward. When the racers cleared the Cloch lightwhen the facers cleared the clock light-house they met a slightly more favorable wind, and the Britannia was not only point-ing as high as the Vigilant, but she was drawing ahead. When the yachts ran into more open water, the breeze was breaking the sea into whitecaps, and both the Britan-nia and the Vigilant were heeling over. The Vigilant, to everybody's surprise ashore, appeared to be falling behind. Experts said that she fore-reached very fast and that her centerboard gripped her to windward in a very effective manner. On staying to fotch the Skelmorlie mark, the Britannia slightly improved her lead. The heat down was a marvelous exhibition seamanship upon the part of the captains of both the American and English yachts. Both yachts came on the run toward Cloch, with spinnakers to starboard and lib-tor salls and balloon foresalls pulling splendidly, coming past the Weymss side in a true but softening wind. The Marjorie was following 17 minutes astern. The Vigilant began closing up on the Britannia's stern on nearing the Cloch light-house, but after passing the lighthouse the Britannia again widened the gap between them, and the Vigilant was unable to close the branch the breach.

MADE AN EXCITING FINISH.

At Hunter quay there was a scene of in-tense excitement at the finish. Though the Vigilant was leading, the Britannia seemed to be gaining and it was thought she would pass the Vigilant. But when she could not pass and it could be seen she had won on her allowance, the greatest enthusiasm prevailed.

Captain Hoff handled the Vigilant grandly in the run to Skelmorlie, but he did not succeed in the severe task of enabling her to get a sufficient advantage to allow the yacht to pass the Britannia, as the Inter kept the Vigilant safely weatherbowed. There was great excitement when the vessels were abreast. The great question then was whether the Vigilant could ge home far enough in advance to overc the time allowance. The (Vigilant drew away grandly, but the distance was too short and the Britannia got the verdict
