Favorable Response to the City Council's Plea for the Men Who Struck.

PACKERS WILL RE-EMPLOY THEM

But this Will Only Be as They Are Needed -What the Managers Said-Young Woman Fires Two Shots Vainly

at Her Lover.

Messrs. Bulla, Ryan and Mees, the special ommittee from the city council to wait on he managers of each of the packing houses and request them to take back all South Omaha men who had not been offensive in their conduct during the strike, made the rounds of the packing houses yesterday. A reporter for The Bee accompanied the committee.

Manager E. A. Cudahy was the first gen leman seen. He said: "Our old men obected to being given three, four and five days work, and we now propose to work the entire force six days in the week. This, of course, will greatly reduce the number of men we will employ, but those who work will get in full time. Insofar as giving work to South Omaha men who went out and who behaved themselves as respectable citizens, we are doing that very thing. But the men who came here and went to work during the strike will be kept just as long as they want to stay. The men who went out tell me they had no grievance, and while I am satisfied that many of them stayed out through fear, I cannot discharge the men who were faithful to me to give places men who deserted me without cause. am taking back the old men just as fast as I have anything for them to do. At the ment to more men than we really needed, and since that time business has not been increased by the strike. Business is bound to be dull for a time, and there will not be much work to give out. We shall, of course, give South Omaha men the preference from now on. The people of South Omaha were good to us, and we feel that the interests f the business men of South Omaha and hose of the packers are in common."

The committee next called upon Manager Talliaferro of the Omaha company. He said his idea was to help the South Omaha men first, and especially those who are married Mr. Bulla explained that the committee only recommended that such men be taken back who were worthy, and who had not created any disturbance during the strike. "We are doing that very thing," said the manager. "Many of our men staid away from the plant olely through fear and we know it. We are taking back the old men as fast as we can use them. It will be a hard winter on the laboring men of South Omaha, I tried to impress this fact upon the men before they went cut, but the leaders called them out and that settled it. Last winter we gave con-siderable for charitable purposes, but this year we will not give a penny. We can't afford it since the men have thrown us out of so much business."

Manager Foster at Swift's said that he was only employing a very small per cent of new "I presume I wrote 100 letters and elegrams during the strike," said he, "dis ouraging new men from coming to South Omaha. I have said all the time that I pre-ferred to have the old men back, and I do. Before the strike occurred I was carrying a force of butchers that could do about twice as much as I had for them. They were all good men, and most of them had been with me so long that I did not want to let them go. Some of them were working on a guarartee and made good wages whether there was any work or not. Since the strike i have no use for so large a force, but what men I do put on in the future will be South Omaha men. I don't think of but one or possibly two men who worked for me before the strike that could not get back if I had anything for them to do."

Manager Noyes of the Hammond company said he would most certainly give preference to the old men in the future. The men who were there could remain, but as soon as business would warrant it, he proposed to take back the old men as he could use them. He said he was only employing a very small cang now who were not at work in his house before the strike.

Mr. Flood, who was secretary of the executive committee of the strikers, when told of the resolution passed by the council, said that he wanted the people to understand that the resolution was not introduced at the solicitation of the men who had not been taken back to work. "We can take care of our own jobs, see; them packers will never take back a man they don't want, and we know it. All this resolution business is buncombe, and will not aid us fellows a little bit. The packers will never take some of us back unless they have to. It must be the store keepers who have made the request, for it wasn't any of the gang that is out."

Kate Ruff, a woman who has figured in the police court in South Omaha before, was arrested last night for firing two pistol shots at her lover, Will Kring. The couple were walking along the railroad tracks coming from the Cudahy packing house, when sud-denly Kring broke away from the woman denly Kring broke away from the woman and disappeared. She fired two shots after him, but neither of them took effect. man named Kennedy happened to be passing about that time and thinking the woman was crazy rushed in and took the revolver from her. By this time the police were making a hot foot chase for the scene. Chief Brennan placed the woman under arrest and locked her up. Kring disappeared and left for Omaha.

At the police station the Ruff woman admitted to a reporter for The Bee that she had been drinking some, but said she fired the shot to scare "her Willie." She also said that the man who took the revolver from her stouck her over the eye. Kennedy, who took the revolver, still has it. About a month ago the same woman chased her lover out of a room on Twenty-fourth street with a revolver. She was arrested at the time and paid a fine of $5. In addition to this Judge Christmann told the woman to stay away from the Magic City.

MAJOR HALFORD'S ACCOUNTS.

Picayunish Economy and Spite Work of the Democrats. Comptroller Bowler of the Treasury department got in another lick at the Harrison administration, says the Washington correspondent of the Chicago Record. II is not a very dignified exercise of authority, but it appears to give some people considers. ble satisfaction, particularly as it strikes very close to the ex-president himself. Ex-Secretary of State John W. Foster and Elijah W. Halford, ex-private secretary to the president, are the victims. The arrangements for the presentation of the American side of the Bering sea arbitration were in charge of Mr. Wester. A few weeks before the expira-tion of the Harrison administration Mr. Halford was appointed paymaster in the army and detailed to go to Paris as disbursing officer for the party. The American mem-bers of the arbitation court were Judge Harlan and Senator Morgan. Judge Blodgett of Chicago was one of several distinguished counsel, and Mr. Foster took with him several clerks from the Department of State and J. Stanley Brown of the bureau of eth-nology, who was for several years a special agent of the government at the seal islands, and married the daughter of President Gar-

Under instructions from President Harri-son, Secretary Foster fixed the compensation of the civilian members of the party and made a per diem allowance for those who held official positions, which was to cover all their hotel bills and traveling expenses. These allowances varied according to the these amovances varied according to the rank and the duties of the persons for whom they were made. To the members of the court they were liberal in order that they might appear and live at Paris in a manner becoming the dignity of their mission. The clerks and translators were given enough to cover all the legitimate expenses they might incur. Each person was given a letter of instruction, in which the amount of his al-lowance was stated, and he was informed that it would be necessary for him to render an itemized account. This action was taken under the authority of the act of congress which provided that the appropriation for the expenses of the tribunal should be expended "under the direction of the secretary

Paymaster Halford paid each member of the party his stated allowance at the end of each month until he was recalled, a few weeks before the arbitration tribunal ad-journed, and then handed over the funds to Mr. Foster, who acted as disbursing officer the remainder of the time.

Comptroller Bowler has held the accounts under advisement for more than a year, as the court adjourned in the summer of 1893, and a few days ago rendered a remarkable decision, in which he holds that the secretary of state had no authority to grant a per diem allowance to Major Halford and the clerks, and requires that the latter shall submit an itemized statement of their expenditures and couchers for the same for his inspection, in order that he may determine whether they were proper. He does this under a section of the revised statutes which requires all expenditures of government money to be so reported, with certified vouchers, etc. He makes an exception, however, of Senator Morgan, Justice Harlan and Judge Blodgett for very peculiar reasons. In other words, the little fishes must report how they ex-pended their money, but it is not necessary for the big fishes to do so.

And as for Major Halford, under section 1,269 of the revised statutes he is not entitled to any expense whatever except his pay and the regular allowance for mileage, quarters, fuel and forage granted under the law to officers of his rank in the army. That is, instead of having his expenses paid, Major Haiford is entitled only to 10 cents a mile for traveling expenses, $48 a month for quarters, $2 or $3 a month for fuel and hay and oats for two horses, and, being the disbursing officer of the party, Mr. Halford and his bondsmen are held responsible for the reimbursement to the government of all the money that is not accounted for, for which itemized statements and vouchers are not furnished. Ex-Secretary Foster is accountable in a like manner for whatever money he disbursed after Major Halford returned

It is impossible for the clerks of Mr. Halford to furnish the statements and vouchers required. Under their instructions they were not required to keep an account of their expenditures nor obtain receipted bills and they did not do so, and Mr. Halford is thus held in debt to the government for $5,000 or $6,000 and Mr. Foster for $1,000 or more. When Comptroller Bowler was Informed that the instruction and arrangements of the secretary of state in this case were exactly similar to those in previous cases of the kind, and followed the practice that has always prevailed in the Department of State when government officials have been sent abroad on public business, he replied that he was not governed by precedents in his decision, but by his own interpretation of the law. He does not care what the practice has been. His predecessors in office may have differed with him in opinion, but if so they were wrong and it is time that such errors were corrected and such practice stopped. The secretary of state, he holds, had no right to issue such instructions as were given, and Major Halford had no right to obey them. He should have called upon the comptroller for instructions, as it is the duty of that officer to interpret the laws of congress regarding the expenditure of public money, and the secretary of state has nothing to do with it.

The delegates to the monetary commission, which met at Brussels last year, and their clerks and disbursing officer had precisely the same instructions and per diem allow-ances as those given the party that went to Paris, but their accounts were allowed by Comptroller Bowler without question, and the law appropriating money for their expenses was framed in almost exactly the same language. Other accounts of like nature have been passed during the administration. When money is to be disbursed under the direction of the secretary of state or any other cabinet officer the law has always been construed to mean that his discretion and approval were final. But Comptroller Bowler thinks differently, and Secretary Gresham, with whom he consulted before rendering the decision, agrees with him. The only recourse open to Major Halford is to appeal to congress and secure the passage of an act con-firming the instructions of Secretary Foster and authorizing the comptroller to allow the accounts as presented. NEW YORK'S NEW BRIDGE.

Ground Broken for the Blackwell's Island Structure-Its Benefits.

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.-Ground was broken at the New York end of the new Blackwell's island bridge, which is to furnish the Long Island railroad an entrance into New York City. There was no ceremony about it. The first act was performed by an engineer and gang of men who were set to work marking out the location for the pier on the New York side at the foot of Sixty-fourth street. The bridge will have a capacity of four railroad tracks if need be, besides a roadway and foot walks on either side. The spans over both channels of the river will each be 855 feet. The span on the island will be 635 feet between the centers of the plers. The distance between the centers of the two extreme plers will be 2,855 feet.

It will reach squarely across the river, touching the Long Island shore at Ravens-wood, and forming a junction with the Long Island railroad at Sunnyside, midway be-tween Long Island City and Woodside. The approach on the Long Island side will be by a steel viaduct.

It is calculated that passengers from Union Station, at Third avenue and Sixty-fourth street, New York City, can reach Manhattan Beach in forty minutes without changing cars. This is a reduction in time of more than 50 per cent. By most of the present routes there are disagreeable changes.

When the New York and New Jersey bridge is completed the Long Island road will be able to tap directly all the great roads centering in New York.
