Exalted Ruler Cronk, in a few well chosen words, told of the objects of the gathering, its deep significance to those left behind to mourn the absent ones. Then the Elks quar-tet, A. J. Van Kuran, E. B. Treat, W. S. McCune and J. F. Barton, sang "Forsaken." by Koschat, a beautifully worded and worthy composition to be sung on such a day. It was sung, too, with deep feeling, musical in every sense. Mr. Jules Lumbard followed the quartet by singing "Light in Darkness." by Horatio C. King, an old friend of the soloist's, and a composition suited splendidly singer's rich bass, Mr. Lumbard being to the in splendid form to do his friend and composer honor.

Golden Link lodge No. 33, Rebekah degree: The lodge of sorrow was then formally ened, the exalted ruler calling upon the officers in turn to respond to sentiments in keeping with the solemnity of the meeting. Rev. Dr. S. Wright Butler, in offering the blessing upon those gathered in annual ses-sion in memory of the dead, spoke feelingly of the lowly vale through which the absent ones had passed. He prayed for a fuller un-derstanding of God, a stronger appreciation of the love which passeth comprehension. "Sancta Maria" was then rendered by Mr

W. S. McCune in a manner that left little to be desired, his rich, sympathetic baritone being particularly adapted to the rendition of Faure's immortal tone poem.

NEAR TO THE DEAD.

getting into the cellar. In front of the box-ing building to the east is the packing house laundry. There is a space of about thirty feet between the two. The fire started at about 7:35, and at 9 o'clock the immense roof of the structure caved in. When it fell the flames shot upward about 100 feet. At this juncture i was feared that the fire would spread to the surrounding buildings, but good engineer-ing and constant work on the part of the firemen and the workmen employed at the plant kept the fire in the one building. The fact that the boxing building is located almost a block from the main plant kept the danger in a comparatively small quarter. The E. Brownlee; senior warden, John Swanson; scribe, C. A. Patterson; treasurer, F. B. Bry-ant; junior warden, D. Jesus, Who, he said, had inaugurated the first lodge of sorrow on the earth. He drew a strong picture between the elks of the forest and the human Elks gathered in sorrow about the open grave, and, as Jesus remarked once how much better a guard, J. H. Ohling; trustees, H. A. Porter, man was than a sheep, he could only recall how much better these human Elks were than those from which the order derives its inspiration. He spoke of the nead with wellconsidered phrase, paid a high tribute to their manhood, their sterling qualities, and said: "They loved as you love and I love; they loved the ecstacy of existence; they have been absent from the lodge room, from from you, from their homes for years. We owe it to them therefore to bring them back to this lodge room in memory and live with them again in sweet sympathy. The years that you have been without them have been leading you toward them. When we shall reach the portiere of filmy lace that an infant's hand can part we ought to remember that it is not so hard to pass be yond.'

"I Cannot Always Trace the Way," music by Dow, was sung by the quartet and was a fitting postlude to Mr. Butler's culogy, which was filled with beautiful word pictures that attracted and held the audience throughout the ten minutes of his talk. In the absence of E. M. Bartlett, on account

Rev. T. J. The exalted ruler called upon the officers to testify if charity and brotherly love had been shown, and then, after proper answers, the "doxol-ogy" was sung, and Mr. Mackay pronounced the benediction, closing the annual lodge of form as the ritual has it. The success of the meeting was largely due to the com-mittee on memorial service, which was com-

Ada Rehan, supported by the regular tock company, returned to Daly's New R York theater last Tuesday night for the season, opening in "Twelfth Night." The "consecrated" Ada is, if anything, more popular than ever, and her really matchless im-personation of Viola was witnessed by a large and fashionable audience. The re-SEARLES å celpts for Miss Rehan's starring tour, which ended last week, were simply phenomenal SEARLES 35 and probably the largest ever known to any or combination since the days of Booth SPECIALISTS. Ezra Kendall, the popular eccentric come dian, is the coming attraction at the Fifteenth Street theater for three nights, commencing Chroniz Nervous Thursday evening, December 6, when he will produce his new comedy drama, "The Sub-stitute." Mr. Kendall still exacts the bucolie WE Private old man, but in his new play better oppor-tunity is given him for artistic work than AND Special CURE was afforded him in "A Pair of Kids." The supporting company is said to be a thoroughly Diseases mpetent one and includes, among others the talented and popular little soubrette, Mis Consultation Free Treatmentby Mail. As a result of the guarrel between Jeffer-Catarrh, all diseases of the nose, son, Klaw & Erlanger and Rosenberg, the business manager fr; Hammerstein's Harlem opera house, Olga Nethersole, Sol Smith Rus-Throat. BOTH---$24.00 FOR This is to be a great year for Victorian Sardon on two continents. Four of the great playwright's works are now running simul-taneously at four of the Paris theaters-a revival of "Mme. Sans Gene" at the Vaudeville, a revival of "Nos Villageois" at the Gymnase, a revival of "Don Quiehotte" at the Chatelet, and "Gismonda," with Sarah Bernhardt in the title role, at the Renais-sance. In this country "Mme. Sans Gene" is now being produced; "Gismonda," with as wax and they harmonize with any sur roundings. We have them in all brass at slightly increased cost.

One important point must not be over looked. These bedsteads have the new swell foot, allowing the clothing of the bed to fall straight to the floor without being 'tucked in." as in the ordinary patterns.

Separate beds are recommended by all physicians.
