Commission company of South Omaha in a story of how Moody got fleeced out of the money while on a visit to Denver, and after just held on to the money to prevent any losing the money he stopped the payment of possible loss. The North Platte bank tried the check. From affidavits in the case it seems that some time ago Mr. Moody visited payment began suit to recover it. The jury brought in a verdict for the full amount. Denver, and in the course of his wanderings around the city, stopped into "Scapy" Smith's place on Market street. This place is conducted as a cigar store, but in the rear of the store there is a small green covered table over which many of the hangers on while away their time in ascertaining the value of four aces and full houses. This is what they were doing when Moody dropped in. He wanted to be sociable, and after inquiring the limit of the stakes and the ante he pulled out a wad of green-backs and took a hand in the game of poker. He met with varying success for a time, until finally he drew four queens. He was aure that this was a winning hand, and he determined to spring a coup on the mountaineers. He would just give them a touch of high life, so to speak. He didn't have money enough to play as high as he wanted money enough to play as high as he wanted to, and offered the check. None of the players would cash the piece of paper, but that the process of paper, but the whole amount on the hand. When it came to a show down it was found that one of his opponents held four aces, and he scooped in the big pot, while Mody didn't have money enough to buy a night's ledging. He protested that the game was not on the square, but to no purpose. The check was turned over to Mr. Meyer, who sent it to South Omaha for collection, but before it was paid Mr. Moody protested against payment, and now mayer is trying to bring the was paid Mr. Moody protested against payment, and now surger is trying to bring the aid of the courts to his assistance to recover the cash. In his own behalf, Moody alleges that he is not a gambler, and is unused to the dark ways of running up a cold deck. In the afternoon Moody's attorney presented an affidavit from the defendant to the effect that he had been drugged to each effect that he had been drugged in one of the saloens near Smith's place and did not know anything from 2 until 5 o'clock on that Justice Smith charging Kelly with practicing day. He is of the firm belief that some of medicine and surgery without first having Smith's gang spotted him as a victim on his procured a state license as required by law.

Stolen by the Hired Man. Frank Baker is a well-to-do farmer living near Pender, Neb. He conducts his farm on had a husky hired man in his employ. One day last week Pakes breaked a first week Pakes breaked a firs money making principles, and until recently day last week Baker knocked off from work for a few days, and with his wife, went to visit some friends, leaving the hired man in charge of everything. The hired man improved the opportunity, caused by the ab-sence of his emplayer, to largely increase his bank account. He loaded up a bunch of fine, fat hops and took them to Winside, where he sold them at a good figure. Then he went back and stofe about everything of moveable value in the house, packed all in a box and shipped them to Omaha. He came the goods. Constable Allen was at the depot with a writ of replevin, and a warrant for the arrest of the hired man, but his bird was too wary, and failed to show up, so he had to take the goods and let the thiof get away. The hogs were located in the South V.; H. A. Thurton, Le Omaha stock yards, where they were repleved by Mr. Baker before they could King, Papillion, G. > Considerably Pared Down-A jury in Judge Blalr's court awarded Frank Johnson $1 yesterday for the damages ie sustained on account of being arrested by Officer Arnold on June 2, 1893. On the above date Officer Arnold was patroling a beat in the lower end of the city and he alleges that he saw a man wandering around n an aimless manner. He says that the man old not give his name or any account of himself, so he sent him to the police station for safe keeping. Friends of Johnson soon seured his release and he was not prosecuted under any charge. Sometime ago Johnson filed a suit for $1,000 damages against the policeman and his bondsmen and secured the werdict as stated.

Commissioners Again Postpone Selection of a New Fire Chief.

The selection of a new chief of the fire department is still in prospective. The Board of Fire and Police Commissioners held another executive session yesterday afternoon, but when the doors were opened they announced that no action had been taken and that the matter stood exactly where it did before the meeting. There was evidence of a decided difference of opinion on the faces of the members, and they hurrically separated after the manner of men who had entirely failed to get together. when Mr. Redell first arrived in Omaha it was expected that he would be elected at once. It is now claimed that Mr. Strickler is not prepared to vote fer Mr. Redell, and as Mr. Coburn makes no secret of the fact that he is for Mr. Salter the matter will be allowed to hang fire until Mr. Smith recovers from his recent injury and can be present. Mr. Balter's friends are exerting all their influence in his behalf. Mr. Redell went back to Chicago last night.

The popularity of Chamberlain's Congress themedy and the high esteem in which it is held leads us to believe it to be an article of groat worth and merit.
