SUGGESTIONS IN THE ANNUAL REPORT

Anxious to Have the Appointment of th State Grain Inspector and Weighmaster Taken Out of the Hands of the Governor.

LINCOLN, Dec. 17 .- (Special.)-A portion of the biennial report of the State Board of Transportation is in the hands of the printers and the document will soon be given to the public. One of the recommendations made by the board concerns the office of state grain inspector. As the law now stands this officer is appointed by the governor, but all his reports are made to and his duties under the supervision of, the Board of Transportation. The recommendation of the board is that the grain inspector and weighmaster be both appointed by the board and a certain sum appropriated by the legislature for their salaries. At present it is a fee office Heretofore it has been run in a very unsatisfactory manner and the board believes that the efficiency of the service would be greatly increased by the action suggested.

There has been of late considerable talk indulged in by Grand Army men in regard to re-electing Hon. Church Howe as depart-ment commander. In Lincoln his re-election has been advocated by Farragut and Belkmap posts. Appearattox post, No. 214, how-ever, appears strongly opposed to this move and at a recent meeting of the post the following was passed:

Resolved, As it is the unwritten law of the Grand Army of the Republic that the high honors of the national and departments shall not be worn but one term by the same comrade, and as the life of one closes with the span of life of our comrade, therefore we, as a post, are opposed to the re-election of any comrade to any office in the gift of the department encampment of Nebruska.

Today Governor Crounse honored the re-quisition of Governor Aitgeld of Illinois for one William Banks, alias Graham, now under arrest at Omaha. On March 1 Banks, in company with John Dutton, William Mc-Gowan and King William, alias Black Hussar, made an assault upon Policeman Cass Smith in Chicago, and robbed him of his star, revolver and pouch for the same. The gang was indicted, tried and convicted in Cook county. Banks subsequently escaped, and has been at large ever since, until cor-ralled in Omaha by Chief Seavey.

In the supreme court James Kelly, plain-tiff in error, appeals a case which the Nebraska Exposition association won against him in the district court of Lancaster county. John W. Percival, water commissioner of Lincoln, is in the supreme court with an appeal involving his rights and powers as such commissioner. Subsequent to his election Percival appointed one Worthington as engineer, and on May 9, 1894, Mayor Austin W. Weir removed Worthington and appointed A. L. Quay to the position. Percival set up in the lower court that the mayor had ded his authority, but the court ruled in favor of the mayor

A mass meeting of Lincoln citizens has been called for next Wednesday evening at the United States court room to discuss the prospect of securing the location of the state fair for the ensuing five years. To the call for the assembly is affixed the signatures of nearly every prominent business man in the Bids for furnishing the material to be used in the proposed extensions of city water mains were opened in the office of the water commissioners today. There were thirteen bidders, and the range of prices showed that there was no very successful combination in the deal. Allen J. Prentice, Chicago repre-sentative of R. D. P. S. Beardsley, stenographer in the office of the Board of Transportation, will leave tomorrow for a visit to La Porte, Tex. Mr. Beardsley has been suffering for several weeks from some temporary allment that necessitates rest and change of climate. During his absence Mrs. Beardsley will per form the duties of her husband's office. It is given on the word of Health Officer Howe that there is less suffering from poverty in this city than for several years in the past, as the charitable ladies are on the alert. He attributes the fact, however, to the favorable weather that has prevailed since early fall, and says he dreads the approach of the inevitable cold snap.

Wayne Y. M. C. A. Workers. WAYNE, Neb., Dec. 16 .- (Special.)-The Fifth district conference of the Young Men's Christian association of district No. 3 of Nebraska, was held at Wayne Saturday and Sunday. The Saturday afternoon and evening sessions were held in the Lutheran church, and after an address of welcome by Pastor Kunkleman and response, those pres-ent listened with interest to the discussion of the Young Men's Christian association work among college and ratiroad men, com-mercial travelers, boys, the Indian and foreign speaking men, which was engaged in by Messrs. Van Gaasbeck, Fisher, Maikell and Lovering. Instructive and helpful meetngs were held for the boys, ladies and men. At 3 o'clock Sunday a men's mass meeting was held at the Baptist church, which was ably addressed by Mr. Haven of Omaha. The farewell meeting at the opera house was well attended and steps were taken to form a young men's bible class, tending towards the organization of a Young Men's Christian association in Wayne, with reading, bath rooms and gymnasium. Heavy Rain at Superior.

B. Fuller, representing the Ashland Mill and Electric Light company, caused 100 injunctions to be placed in the hands of Frank Whitlock to be served on the individual men employed by Swift and Company at their ice plant, restraining them from taking or causing to be taken any water from the com-pany's mill pond.

The cause of this action on the part of the tnill company is peculiar, in view of the fact that the Wahoo was on the raise Saturday night, so the backup flowed into the ice pond of the Swift Company. A great deal of trouble is now anticipated before the matter is finally settled, although Saturday it looked yery much as if it had been quietly arranged.

Statues Erected and Ready for the Forma Presentation Thursday Afternoon Story Showing Two Sides of Champ Clark's Character.

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE BEE. 1407 F Street, N. W., WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.

This afternoon, in Statuary hall, the handsome room formerly used by the house of representatives, a large force of workmen rolled big boxes before the granite bases prepared for the statues, removed the wooden coverings from the marble effigies of Daniel Webster and John Stark, and then elevated and sugar. It is found that the protein on them to their positions. The state of New ordinary meats, fish and milk is readily and them to their positions. The state of New Hampshire contributes these exquisite works of art to Statuary hall. It is not generally known that Daniel Webster was born in New Hampshire, and it is discreditable to the state of Massachusetts that she has not long since claimed space in Statuary hall for Daniel Webster, the greatest statesman ever sent to the American congress by the Old Bay state. On Thursday afternoon these statues will be unveiled in the presence of a distinguished audience. The principal address of the occasion will be delivered by Senator Cushman M. Davis of Minnesota, and it is fair to presume that the oration will be a literary gem, for Senator Davis is regarded as one of the most scholarly men in the senate today.

The senate committee on appropriations has been investigating the cause of the in-creased estimates for the expenses of the Department of Justice, and a remarkable discovery has been made. It appears that the increase of the tax on whisky from 90 cents to $1.10 per gallen has aroused the cupidity of a number of men who could not see enough to tempt them to violate the law at the lower figure. They have become will-ing to take greater risks for the greater gain promised, and the internal officers have been making so many arrests of retailers and others handling "moonshine" whisky in small towns and villages that the ordinary facilities of the courts have not been sufficient to keep pace with them. All through the "moonshine" region in North Carolina, Georgia, East Tennesses and Alabama, violations of the internal revenue laws have been on the increase since the tax on whisky was raised, and it is keeping the government officers on the jump to attend to all the llicit whisky cases that they discover, sides keeping the courts extraordinarily busy in trying those that are brought before

CONCERNING CHAMP CLARK. A newspaper writer came here recently on visit from his home in Michigan. To a local paper he contributes the following interesting story:

There are two sides to the life of every man. Saturday afternoon I was sitting in the gallery of the house of representatives, like David Copperfield, "recording prophesies that were never fulfilled and listening to explanations that were only meant to mystify," when one, whose face to me was a new one, arose and at once began to take a prominent part in the debate. His naturally droll way of saying things that appeared to be funny to every one except himself soon had the house in an uproar. During the course of his remarks, Mr. Boutelle, who has a peculiar way of his own of interjecting sentences into other men's speeches, began his old practice. Although this must be annoying, I felt a little sorry for him when the big blue-eyed fellow turned on him with the savage remark: "You keep your mouth shut. You have more mouth and less brains than any other man who ever sat in the American congress." eresting story:

"I wondered who this savage fellow could be, and out of curiosity inquired of my neighbor. He said: "That's Champ be, and out of curiosity inquired of my neighbor. He said: "That's Champ Clark."

I thought no more of the incident until it was recalled to my mind several hours later by the sight of the big, square shoulders, smooth face, piercing blue eyes and stern jaw of the savage fellow aforesaid. This time I was sitting in a down town restaurant and had just given my order; if the speaker of the afternoon was just entering the door, closely followed by a little a ragged newsboy, with a bundle of papers under one arm and his cap under the other. He had a bright, but pale face, and looked by like one who was undergoing a new experience. I soon grasped the situation, for the big fellow turned, as the little one hesitated and said, in a cheery voice: "Come cut, son, and we'll have a good feast." Thus reassured, the boy followed briskly down the long room and dropped his cap and papers on the floor by the side of the chair indicated by a wave of the big fellow's hand. Champ Clark, member of congress, who is said to have worn two guns in his belt at the age of 16, they being necessary to keep Kentucky pupils within bounds of the rules of a country school; who shot a man while attending the Kentucky university; who was president of a college at 23; who cut a man's throat somewhat for an insult given, and who had just sat upon Mr. Boutelle in vigorous style, was, in addition to all this, a philanthropist. As he watched that boy eat there was more happiness and contentment written in the stern lines of his honest face than I imagine there would be if he had received an ovation from the house of representatives.

This Was Considerable of a Surprise to the Prosecution.

Blixt Has Set Up a Strong Defense-New Connecting Hayward with a Green Goods Gang.

MINNEAPOLIS, Dec. 17 .- Claus A. Blixt, the self-confessed murderer of Catherine Ging, was arraigned in the district court this morning and in a weak voice pleaded not guilty. The state had rather expected a plea of guilty and asked Blixt if he understood what he was doing. He said he did, and the plea was entered. Attorney A. H. O'Dell appeared for him, Blixt having refused to see the attorneys appointed by the court to undertake the case. The case was set for trial January 7 in spite of O'Dell's demand that it was a picture of pity and misery in court, and seemed scarcely able to stand.

The cases against the two Haywards in the municipal court were formally dismissed this morning, the grand jury having taken action. When Blixt stood up at the bar and his below that occupied by Blixt, his accor attorney entered the plea of not guilty County Attorney Nye was much taken back. spoke sharply to the prisoner and asked if he understood what he was doing. Blixt seemed dazed, but finally said, half defiantly, that he did. Mr. Nye was therefore forced to face the probability of the trial of the case, where he had expected a plea of guilty. Blixt made no explanation of his action and the state asked none.

Harry Hayward will be arraigned in same court at 5:30 this afternoon. This hour green goods deal her sister may have been is chosen to avoid the curious crowd which has been watching for the arraignment for several days. The defense will be on the plea of tem porary insanity brought on by the habitual use of alcoholic stimulants given by another for the purpose of provoking the deed. Mr. O'Dell claims to have med cal etstimony which will bear out this theory.

Hayward, he claims, was unable to secure the services of Blixt in the fearful crime

until he had filled him with a pin whisky, taken almost at one dosc. He tends to show that alcohol had a crazing fect ordinarily on Blixt and that in this case the effect was more than ordinary. His past history shows that whisky affects him make him temporarily insane, he claims With this defense Blixt can go on the stand and tell the story against Hayward, and tha story will blacken Hayward more than ever All hopes of Hayward, therefore, that Blix will not testify against him have practically disappeared, for it will be Blixt's aim to have Hayward tried first and convicted, if possible and this will let him off with perhaps a sec ond, or, as the attorney believes, third degree verdict.

ONE OF A GREEN GOODS GANG.

An afternoon paper says: The latest de velopment in the Ging murder case is the ties to the belief that Harry Hayward is th western agent of an eastern green goods con cern whose headquarters are at New York with principal branch at Chicago. The firs clew to this was given by one of the member of the gang whose conscience was quickened murder of Catherine Ging. after the murder Julia Ging, the twin siter of Kittle, who resides at Auburn, N. Y., received an anonymous letter saying that sister had been murdered, and that she had better have the matter search, the letter intimated, would bring th parties to justice. The tone of the letter, a ell as several hints therein, leads the thorities to believe that if the murder ha not been solved as quickly as it was the writer would have furnished evidence enough to lead to the solution of the affair. The authorities of New York did take up the clow, and following it up discovered that the writer was a member of a green goods gang which has been operating extensively.

What additional facts the officers discovered have been kpet secret, but it has been earned that the connection of Harry ward with the organization has been of long standing and that in his series of escapades trict are located, and within thirty days in various parts of the country Hayward has trains will be running to this city from Hayward gave a slight sneer when that official read the document charging him with murder in the first degree, for aiding, abetting, counseling, com-manding, procuring and hiring Claus A. Blixt to kill Catherine Ging. For a few moments only he paid attention, then he turned and looked at the little crowd of attorneys and eyed the crowd with evident interest. Never once did he quail. "What is your plea, guilty or not gullty?

"If the court please," broke in his atbe set not earlier than January 27. Blixt torney, "we would ask until Saturday morning to plend."
"Very well," said the court, "if the county attorney does not object, we will give until Saturday morning at 10 o'clock." That was all. The prisoner was then lodged in the county jail, in a cage directly plice, and, apparently in the best of spirits,

Celebrate Anniversary of Mustering Into Nebraska National Guard. The first anniversary of the mustering of the Thurston Rifles into the Nebraska National Guard was celebrated with a banprevent exposure. The authorities do not quet and dancing party at the armory of claim that this was the main cause of Miss | the company last night. The occasion was made a great deal of by the members of the company, the pomp and ceremony of military life being much in evidence, the armory splendidly decorated with flags and dictment charging him with the murder of the head of the assembly hall was an ex-Catherine Ging, but asked a continuance, cellent picture of the Rifles' patron, Hon, and was granted till Saturday morning next John M. Thurston, who later in the evening, to make his plea. At 5 p. m. court was after the boys, their mothers and sweet-opened, with Judge Hicks on the bench, and hearts had broken bread, told of the heroism Hayward stood before the bar as the clerk and the devotions of the citizen soldier. At 9 o'clock the company members and their lady friends sat down to a bountifully spread board, covers being laid for 125 guests. Upon the completion of the toastmaster, Lieutenant John B. Hayward. commanding, introduced the company quartet, composed of A. Coverdale, F. A. lace, Carl Hoffman and C. M. Righards, who sang a right clever song of welcome, after Lieutenant Hayward had read several letters from absent officers who regretted their inability to attend. gram of toasts would have to be completely ignored and a voluntary program substituted, but the presence of Judge Thurston saved the day. The absence of Colonel Bratt, commanding the regiment, having been explained, the toastmaster was about to pass to some other feature of the entertainment, when the patron of the Rifles made his appearance. The reception which was accorded Mr. Thurston was hearty in the extreme.

He spoke upon the "Citizen Soldier" and eloquently traced the history of "the boys" from the aforetime. He reviewed the work of the citizen soldier in the late Indian campaign on the northwestern border of Ne-braska, and described how boys carefully and tenderly nurtured went out to face a serious condition at South Omahs. They were boys, beardless boys, but they were fired by pure patriotism and love of country, said Mr. Thurston, the same actuating in-fluences that had led the men of '60 into the field for country, that the American flag might still fly in the blue of the sky, that a place might still be reserved for it on the map of the world. He alluded to his connection with the company, and closed with a strong tribute to American citizen ship and the citizen soldier. Chaplain S. Wright Butler felicitously told of the Thurston Rifles and his connection with the company. As usual, the member of the cloth made a happy speech, for he is rapidly acquiring the reputation of being one of the best after dinner talkers in the west. muster into the Nebraska National Guard.
