ANNOUNCEMENTS.

The distinguished actor and dramatist, Milton Nobles, and a powerful supporting company will be the attraction at the Boyd this evening only, presenting Mr. Nobles' famous play, "From Sire to Son," in which he has made so decided a hit. Milton Nonot looked for. bles, as Alfred Armitage, under the assumed name of John Oakley, makes a truthful westerner of the 69s. He takes the part of a California gambler, whose life is a part of the history of the days of the gold fever. Dollie Nobles, whose sweet face and sympathetic voice make her hosts of friends. Mabel Armitage, wife of Alfred, and later as Mabel, the daughter, and is especially acthe daughter, Mabel, in the third act. The plot of the play "From Sire to Son" is interesting, and the interest increases from the murder scene to the culmination in the interior of a Rhenish castle, in which some very realistic acting is done. Milton Nobles is not only sustaining his past reputation, but is adding to it by strengthening the cast fornia, and its cordial praise by the entire press of San Francisco. One able critic there pronounced it the ablest play yet writ-ten by an American dealing with Califor-nia life and character. Another makes note of the fact that Mr. Nobles is the only playwright to date who has been able to write a California play without dragging in a Chinaman as a principal character. Old favorites are always sure of a heart; welcome, and we know no actor who occu-ples a warmer place in the affections and esteem of our theatergoers than Mr. J. K. Em-met, the "Fritz" of pleasant memories, who comes to the Boyd on Wednesday and Thursday next. This season he will present the lovable German hero in his new play, called "Fritz in a Mad House." Mr. Emmet will be supported by an excellent company of well known and popular players. The play will be produced on a scale of general ex-cellence. The cast includes: Miss Emily Lytton, Baby Spencer Sinnott, Florence Foster, Miss Germaine, Miss Ware, Messra, Hud-son Liston, Francis Kingdon, George Middleton, Harry Coffin, David Rivers and others The sale of seats will open at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Mr. Alfred Bradley, the well known business manager of Alexander Salvini, arrived from San Francisco yesterday. Salvini appears at the Boyd on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of part week. Wednesday of next week.

Mr. Alfred Bradley, the business manager of the Salvini company, arrived from Denver last evening. The popular romantic actor is now on his way east from a phenomenally successful tour of the Pacific slope. The production of the new romantic comedy entitled the "Student of Salamanca," which proved the sensation of the engagement in San Fran-cisco, will be presented for the first time in Omaha on Salvini's forthcoming appearance at Boyd's opera house. The engagement is at Boyd's opera house. The engagement is for three nights, commencing next Monday night, and Mr. Bradley is able to announce the following repertoire of plays: Monday. "Den Caesar de Bezan"; Tuesday the "Student of Salamanca," and Wednesday, the "Three Guardsmen" Among the more important productions during the coming apring there are perhaps few that will attract the there are perhaps few that will attract the attention which will undoubledly be accorded Mr. Salvini's first appearance in Hamlet, for JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Jan. 14 -Allen . Richards, republican representative from Tonsilitis, which was aggravated by a wound received in the neck during the war, caused is death. He was born in Pennsylvania in 1833, fought through the war in the Nincty-ninth Ohio infantry, with which he made a good record, and came to Missouri in 1869. He was a prominent Mason, Odd Feliow and Knight of Pythias.

Business for the Past Year Not at All Dis- Union Pacific Receivers Will Not Let Go Their Grip.

They Will Resist All Applications for the Appointment of a Separate Receiver to Look After the Oregon Lines - Railway Gossip,

The receivers of the Union Pacific have decided to resist the application of the consolidated mortgage trustee for a separate receiver for the Oregon Short Line & Utah Northern. The lines upon which the resistance will be made are still the subject of debate with the receivers, but matters are to the brief of the receivers. Judge Thurs-& Navigation company matter pushed along several days so that he will not have to re-main in Portland more than a week. He will probably leave for the west January 20, should he fail to have the first hearing

Elkhorn Lays Off a Train.

Today the Elkhorn will abandon what s known as the Fremont-Omaha local train for the reason that business does not warrant its further continuance. This train is known as Nos. 23 and 24, No. 23 leaving Omaha for Fremont at 4:55 p. m. and returning arriv-ing in Omaha at 7:50 p. m. This train made no connections with any train from Frement and was intended to take care of the business between Fremont and Omaha. But an imperative demand to cut expenses has necessitated pulling off this train.

LAST SAD RITES.

Body of Charles F. Goodman Consigned to the Grave. The funeral of C. F. Goodman took place yesterday afternoon from his residence at the corner of Tenth and Dorcas streets. It was one of the largest funerals that has been neld in Omaha for a good many years, the streets in the vicinity being fairly blockaded with vehicles. During the ceremonles the spacious residence was crowded with the friends of the deceased, there being hardly an old family in Omaha that was not repre-sented at these last sad rites. The services, under the suspices of the Knights Templar, were conducted by Rev. Turkle, azalsted by Rev. Lipe, and were at once impressive and The pall bearers were: Byron Stanberry, Samuel Burns, W. S. Strawn, W. T. Robson, Gustave Anderson, H. P. Duell, Ch. Hartman, and D. H. Wheeler, E. K. Long was commander and James W. Maynard, prelate. The remains were laid at rest in Forrest Lawn cemetery. There were many beautiful floral offerings, among which was a plece from Capital lodge, the Masonic organization of which Mr. Goodman was a member. This consisted of a Master Mason's emblam, a floral tribute in the shape of a square and
