Will Grant in a Railroad Accident Which Caused His Death. A private telegram to Dr. Denise yesterday announced the death of Will Grant, at Summit. N. J. Mr. Grant graduated at Princeton last pring with Alken, Denise, Ludington, and others of Omaha, who will be shocked by this sad news. His death resulted from a railroad accident. His father, George W. Grant, was also seriously injured at the same time, having lost an arm. At last accounts he was still living. Young Grant was a nephew of Mrs. Mere-dith and Mrs.Dr. Denise. He had many friends in this city, having spent his boyhood days here. JERSEY CITY, N. J., Feb. 1.-William A. Grant, who together with his father, George W. Grant, was struck by a drill en-

evening, died today. Mr. Grant sr., is still alive, but it is not certain whether he will recover. Abram Westerhall, who was in charge of the en-gine which struck the Grants, says the two men started to cross the tracks obliquely with their backs toward him, and so near his engine that he could not stop in time The engine passed over the men, cutting off young Grant's legs and his father

SAVED BY A GOOD EYE. Douglas Street Merchant Comes Near Being Fleeced Out of His Money. Thursday a well dressed young man went into a Douglas street business house and Shoe Sale that is Positively Without calling for the proprietor confidentially told him that he was broke. If he could raise some money he would soon be all right and could get plenty of coin from his eastern home. He told the merchant that he was stopping at a first-class hotel and offered him two magnificent diamonds as collateral, saying that he wanted to borrow $700 on them The merchant was favorably impressed with the man's appearance and told him to leave the gems with him and to call again in the afternoon. In the meantime the merchant took the diamonds to a jeweler and was informed that they were worth from $1,200 to $1,300. He at once decided that $1,200 to $1,200. He at once decided that he had a good thing and concluded to let the stranger have the money. Promptly at the hour agreed upon the stranger made his ap-pearance and asked the merchant if he could accommodate him. He said that he could and he pulled out the stones and a roll of crisp bills, which he began counting. The stranger correlessly nicked up the dismonds leather soles, insoles, counters and heels with hub goring, in medium, wide and narrow toe, plain or tipped, in all sizes from 6 to 11, made to retail for $3.00. Your choice $1.50 Ladies' fine dongola button shoes in any style of toe you want; really made to retail for $3.00. Bright, clean new shoes, all sizes, $1.50 a pair. crisp bills, which he began counting. The stranger carelessly picked up the diamonds and the merchant, who was keeping one eye on him, saw him make a peculiar move, which excited his suspicions that all was not right. After he had counted out the money he held out his hand for the stones before paying over the cash. When the stones were given him he REAL $4.00, $5.00 AND $6.00 SHOES FOR $2.50 AND $3.00. At this price we offer a number of new styles in ladies' and men's fine custom made shoes, on all the popular styles of toes in high grade leather. These are not broken lots or odds and ends, but fresh, desirable cash. When the stones were given him he concluded to examine them again and found that they were nothing but cheap paste imita tions of the geninue articles which he had let the man take a few moments previously The merchant made an attempt to catch th would-be swindler, but the man ran out o the store and fled down an alley. He was fol lowed to the yards near the Douglas stree bridge, but there all trace of him was lost The police were notified, but they have been inable to get any clew to the fellow icenses this year, and it is possible that this amount will be increased by $2,000 or $3,000 nore, as several saloon keepers, whose trade consists mostly in beer, have signified their intention of applying for licenses as soon as he weather moderates. There were sixteen fewer licenses issued this year than last, the were 237 and in 1894 being 224. In 1893 there were 237 and in 1892 242. Some of the city officials have argued that from this gradual decrease the city will receive less from this source of revenue next year than it did this, but members of the police commission think that the lowest mark has been reached and that the number will be greater nex year.

At the last meeting of the board it was contended by some members that if $400,000 was asked for the council would be sure to cut it down on the supposition that the board would be certain to ask for more than was really needed to run the department. Several members who are desirous of expending as little money as possible this year favored the proposition of asking for $450,000 for that reason. Cramblet's object in endeavoring to persuade the board to ask for 8 mills of the levy was in line with the same thought. He argued that if the board asked the council for that proportion the council would cut it down to about 6 mills, which would make the ap-propriation in the neighborhood of $400,000. proposition of asking for $450,000 for that propriation in the neighborhood of $400,000. But now the members think that the council is of the the opinion that the appropriation is too great and will reduce it. One of the members in discussing the matter spoke as follows: "The council appears to be of the opinion that the public schools can suffer al-most any cut, even to the point where it would be necessary to shorten the school year by is of the the opinion that the appropriation two or three months. The members seem to ever traveled cn. The conductors, stewards, waiters and porters I have found to be unithink that it would be possible to run the schools only five or six months if they decided formly to do so. They do not seem to realize that if school year is made shorter than nine months the city will lose the state apportionment. This, however, is a fact. The statutes provide that the city shall receive the apportionment only on the condition that the schools are kept open for nine months of the year. Last year we received as our share $44,000, and this year we expect to get about $30,000. The appropriation that we ask for will run the schools not to exceed nine months and any decrease will necessitate the shortening of the school year. If this is done we will lose the state apportionment and this will compel the shortening of the school year for another month, at least."

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

Flaky

Other members talk in the same strain. They say that they desired to obtain the appropriation this year and without a fight appropriation this year and without a with the council. On that account they had needed to get through a school year of nine months. Heretofore the appropriation asked for has invariably been greater than was absolutely necessary and has always been cut down. The council the members claim is of the opinion that the same tactics are being pursued this year. The indications are that if the appropriation is cut down there will be a big fight before the matter is finally settled, both in the committee room and the council chamber. Board members think that they have done everything that could have been expected of them in asking for an amount that would just carry them through the year. If this amount is cut down they have given expres-sion to the intention of fighting it all the way through.
