This Was the How.

In the course of a conversation vesterday an old employe of the gasoline company cast some light on the source of the lamps that the city is paying for, but which have never been ordered by the city council. The employe stated that there were cases where a councilman asked the company to put in a lamp without the preliminary of a resolu-tion, and in these cases the request was usu-ally granted. Councilmen had claimed that the people were in a hurry for the light and they did not want to wait while the resolu-tion was going to the mayor and back again, and if the company would go ahead and put it in it would come out all right in the end. The lamps that have been put in on the per-sonal responsibility of councilmen will be ordered removed and the amount charged for them will be deducted from the company's

THEY MAY MAKE A TEST CASE.

Local Opposition is Promised to Collection of the Income Tax. According to well founded rumors, the fabled disagreement of the monkey and parrot, frequently used as a metaphor expressive of a lively time, is liable to be enacted in Nebraska shortly after the first ON RECORD Monday in March unless the people subject to the income tax change their minds and comply with the federal law. The returns thus far made to United States

Revenue Collector North, by business men, corporations and people who are blessed with a barrel of the "evil root," are very few. In fact, the unanimity with which citizens of means are ignoring the law has caused Uncle Sam to stroke the little bunch of whiskers on his chin with a meditation that is said to be liable to develop into indignation and subsequent action that will resul in a number of prominent but procrastinating citizens being called to account next month. when the time for making returns to the ollector expires. The law requires all who are subject to the tax to make an accurate return of their incomes, etc., not later than the first Mon-

Incomes, etc., not later than the first Monday of March, 1895, and provides that in event of inadvertence so to do the offenders will be compelled to pay the penalty.

Chief Deputy North yesterday said that the results of the canvass to date were very slim. Only a few had responded or even sent for blanks, and the collector does not regard it as his duty to go hunting after people subject to the law. It is their duty to apply for the blanks, fill them out and make returns promptly. Otherwise they are subject to the wrath of the government. On the heels of this official announcement that returns are coming in very slowly is on the neers of this official autoancement that returns are coming in very slowly is an interesting rumor, verified by a citizen of prominence, that many wealthy Omahans are going to ignore the income tax law and push one of their number forward as a martyr for a test case and endeavor to knock out the law on the ground that it is an unconstitutional enactment, It is furthermore said on good authority that several men of wealth residing in this city have agreed to pool their spare coin and create a fund to carry the case to the supreme court of the United States if necessary and fight the income tax measure to The federal authorities, on the other hand, say that they propose to enforce the law with-out fear or favor and regardless of the social position of people who are subject to the in-

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

That incomparable fun maker, Eddie Foy, will make his initial bow as a star at Boyd's theater next Sunday night, when he will be seen as "Cluster" in the fantastic operation travesty entitled "Off the Eearth." Mr. Foy is well remembered here as the principal comedian in the "Crystal Slipper" and "Sinbad" companies, and thousands of our theater goers have laughed till their sides ached at his irresistibly funny burlesque impersona-tions. Eddie Foy has a unique personality of his own. His methods of producing laughter are original with himself, and he has no successful imitators. The character of "Clus-ter" in "Off the Eearth" is one after his own heart, and he fairly revels in it. He simply fills the surrounding atmosphere with until his audience is laughing with him and at him, and all around and about him. Mr. Foy has the advantage of being sur-rounded by one of the greatest extravaganza companies ever organized, comprising nearly hundred people. The scenic environment said to be the most elaborate ever seen in this city. The engagement is limited to four nights, with matinee Wednesday. The sale of seats opens tomorrow morning.

A large, jolly crowd gathered at the armory A large, jolly crowd gathered at the armory last night, and it was not only a grand spectacle, but very interesting—the crowd of sightseers, the gorgeously decorated building and the quaint, old Midway, which is becoming more and more like the original. The grand parade, which opens and closes each evening's festivities, was the wonder of all. Here you see the Congo Free States' Miltary band, the Columbian guards, gray clad Apollos, the coy maidens from the Japanese village, lovely maidens from the Moorish palace. lage, lovely maidens from the Moorish palace, howling savages from Dahomey, bonnie colleens from Donegal castle, flower girls and fakirs from the streets of Cairo, and sturdy medchens from old Vienna, march in brilliant array. The only great Sahara camel at present in the state. All of the booths were well patronized, and while at times the jam was indeed like the original Midway, everybody seemed to be well satisfied. The Midway Plaisance has costainly been reproduced with much cleverness, even to the turnstile at the entrance, the Ferris wheel in the middle, the red coated guide sellers and innumerable other little details that are interesting and amusing. There will be only two more performances, tonight and tomorrow night.

A-special matinee for ladies and children will be given at the Empire at 2:30 today, Rusco & Swift's "Uncle Tom's Cabin" being the attraction. The usual price of 25c for any seat in the house will be in force. The usual Saturday matinee will be given to-

Burglars Loot a Store. Burglars broke into Bishop & Osborn's grocery store on Military avenue at the terminus the Walnut Hill street car line Wednesday night and stole about worth of supplies. They took 500 cigars, a caddy of tobacco, several sacks of flour, a canister of coffee, some tea and numerous other small articles. An attempt was also made to break open the safe, but it seems that the thieves were amateurs and did not accomplish their designs.

Nonstriker Prosecuting a Striker for As sault-Before the Law Benches. As an aftermath of the packing house strike which occurred at South Omaha last summer, several suits have found their wav into the criminal courts of this county. One of these cases is now being tried before Judge Scott, in which James Brabets is his funny antics, his clever mimicry, and being charged with assaulting Christ Nelson. During the strike strike his considered grand jury. He was indicted on two counts, first for committing an assault with intent to do great bodily injury with a dan-gerous and deadly weapon, to-wit: A wooden stick; and secondly, for assault and battery.

At the trial yesterday none of the witnesses for the state testified that Nelson had been struck with a wooden stick, and only one testified that the weapon used was a club. When the state rested the attorney for the defense arose and moved that the first count be stricken from the indictment on the ground that the state had not proven that the assault was committed with the weapon named, a wooden stick. The as-sistant county attorney held that the naming of a weapon was superfluous and that the statutes provided that an indictment should not be invalidated by the fact

Those Three Figures. In answer to the petition of Frank Holou bek, asking for damages from the Swift Packing company for the loss of three fingers. the company alleges that the accident was caused entirely by the negligence of the plaintiff and not by any fault of the com-pany. Holoubek claimed that he had slipped on a wet floor and in falling thrust his hand into a sausage machine, which transformed three of his fingers into wienerwurst The company alleges that in order to carry on its business it is necessary to keep the floor of the room wet, and that when the plaintiff entered into its employ he knew Contesting the Claim.

In Judge Ferguson's court room the National Wall Paper company is trying to obtain a judgment of $720.50 against the estate of George P. Beard. The amount is the aggregate of three bills incurred by Beard before his death and assigned to the plaintiff. The administrator of the estate, plaintiff. The administrator of the estate, Thomas J. Beard, is contesting the claim on the grounds that the plaintiffs had pre-sented the claim to the county court and that it had not been allowed.
