REMINISCENCES Remarkable Men and Women

By JAMES R. GILMORE "ZOMUND KIRKE." author of "Among the Pines," "Down in Tennessee," Etc. With Portraits and Other Illustrations. James R. Gilmore, during a long life in business, journalism and literature, has been on terms of friendly intimacy with many men and women of note. Possessing an extraordinarily retentive memory, he has a great fund of anecdotes and incidents, derived from his own intercourse with the people to whom Among those who have been his friends and about whom he will write may be mentioned: JAMES RUSSELL LOWELL

Mr. Gilmore lived near Lowell in Camridge for many years and saw him ARTEMUS WARD

Who was in New York in the early sixtles—writing chiefly for Vanity Fair, edited by Charles Godfrey Leiand. It was as a friend quainted with Artemus Ward. JAMES HARPER The founder of the great publishing house; at ne time mayor of New York.

HORACE GREELEY Mr. Gilmore was an editorial writer for the Tribune during the war, and was intimately associated with Greeley in many ways. CHARLES A. DANA

Mr. Dana was managing editor of the Tri-bune when Mr. Gilmore began to write for it, and they have been friends since that time. JULIA WARD HOWE Who was associated with Mr. Gilmore in the editorship of a magazine before the war. FORCEYTHE WILSON A man little heard of nowadays, who wrote some of the finest poems of war-time. He was regarded by Lowell and Emerson as a young man of genius. Wilson died before reaching his maturity as a poet. He was an extraordinary character. He is especially remembered by "The Old Sergeant."

HENRY WADSWORTH LONGFELLOW

Another of Mr. Gifmore's friends, whom he saw much of while living in Cambridge. ROBERT C. WINTHROP The distinguished orator, statesman and law-

Mr. Gilmore has, besides his own recollections, a store of rare biographical material about distinguished men and women, most of it furnished by the persons themselves, for the great biographical cyclopaedia which he has been compiling for many years. This material, much of it antobiographical, will be drawn upon whan necessary for original inci-dents or interesting and fresh facts. From this source Mr. Gilmore will prepare several biographical papers of unusual interest, such yer, who recently died in Boston.

MANIAC COMMITS SUICIDE Frederick Wickhart, an Insane patient comnitted to the asylum two weeks ago from Adams county, last night committed suic de n his room by banging himself with his underclothing. Suicidal mania had never be-fore shown itself in his case, and he was not considered a violent patient. He was 54 years old, and leaves a wife in the county rom which he was committed.

The volume of litigation over the property of David and Tillie May was increased today by a suit begun in the district court by Charles White, a judgment creditor to the extent of $6,272.15, against the Mays, N. S. Harwood, the Frist National bank, the Colimbia National bank and Franklin E. Johnon. Four typewritten pages of the petition are devoted to a description of the realty holdings of the Mays in the countles of Boone, Antelope, Red Willow, Franklin, Frontier, Cheyenne, Kearney, Hayes, Holt, York, Hitchcock, Brown, Adams and Lancaster, and their city lote, the entire property being valued at $400,000. The petition recites the facts in relation to S. J. Tuttle's judgment for $7,888.85, assigned to N. S. Harwood, and penly charges the Mays with deeding Mr. Harwood valuable lands, far in excess of his
