Wheat Gave a Startling Exhibition Yesterday of Rapid Fluctuations.

SMALLER SHORTS AT CNCE COVERED

In Corn the Market Was Very Strong at the Opening and Continued Firm Throughout the Session-Stocks and Bonds.

CHICAGO, March 12 .- Wheat gave a startling exhibition today of "grand and lefty tumbling." After numerous erratic evolutions covering Pic range, the market wound up 2% higher for the day. The bullish government report started the advance and seared shorts did the rest. Corn gained bec for May, and oats gained &c, but provision ended wearily with pork up slightly and lard and ribs a trifle lower.

The government report was the whole thing in wheat at the opening, and there being no possibility of any but a bullish construction being placed on the figures an immediate advance of 2c per bu, was not un-expected. May, which closed yesterday at and apparently weak at that, started this morning at from 50%c to 50%c. Notwithstanding such an unusual advance over night, there was less noise and excitement accompanied the little 14c jump on last Saturday morning. The smaller shorts covered their wheat, but the heavy class of chorts looked on the government figures with more than doubt. Still there was no radical reaction during the forenoon, and such evidence of confidence on the part of the bulls kept the shorts on the rack. May slid off during the first ten minutes of the session to 50 kg, but worked gradually back again to 5%,c, and such moderate quantities as were offered for sale up to noon found ready buyers at from 55% to 55%. Cables were higher, French crop damage reports were repeated, and northwestern receipts were light. Bradstreet's visible supply statement did not affect the market to any great extent. It showed stocks cast of the Rockies 1,5%,000 bu. smaller than a week ago, and 72,000 bu. on the Pacific side. European alloat showed an increase of 572,000 bu., the net decrease in the world for the week being 1,334,900 bu. The prices did not give indications of dropping materially, there being shorts willing to take all the offerings of long wheat up to ab ut fifteen minutes of the close at around 57%. During the last moments of the session, however, the offerings became more liberal, and May closed at 56%. ngain to 5%,c, and such moderate quantities losed at 56%c. In corn the market was very strong at In corn the market was very strong at the opening, and continued firm throughout the session, and for the same reason that wheat was higher—the bullish government report. Liverpool market was quoted 1d percental higher, and those matters, together with the bulge in wheat, were sufficient to keep shorts on the anxious seat all day, although the opening bulge was too strong to last, A few trades were made at the opening at 47½c for May, but before any quantity could be disposed of the price was 47c, and it did not take long to break it down to 46%c, with one or two sales at 46½c. The range during the remainder of the day was between 46%c and 46%c, with 46%c the clostween 46% and 46%, with 46% the clos-

Outs were strong also, but it was all through sympathy. Bradstreet's report showed a decrease in outs of 122,000 bu, which could be credited with retaining, if not assisting, the advance. May started 14c to 15c up from yesterday's last sales, at 29c, sold at 29%c, and again at 29%c, where it closed. closed. Provisions were firm, but did not sustain Provisions were firm, but did not sustain their opening promise in the extent of the ndvance. May pork started with trading at from $11.57½ to $11.60, with $11.70 rapidly following, but it declined gradually to and closed at $11.50, or only 2½c over yesterday's close. Armour & Co., it was thought by the pit traders, were supplying through brokers all the demand which cropped up. The English market was quoted firm at 6d advance for bacon and 9d for lard. The hog receipts were $2,000 head, and $40.000 head are estimated for tomorrow, the latter being the controlling factor after the early advance. Lard and ribs opened a trifle higher, but closed with respective losses of 7½c and 5c. Estimated receipts for tomorrow: Wheat, $20 cars; corn, 120 cars; oats, 130 cars; hogs, $40,000 head.

BOOKS AND PERIODICALS.

The well known firm of Francis P. Harper of New York have issued a valuable catalogue of books relating to America. The books listed are nearly all out of print, say the publishers, and of many but a single copy can be supplied. Francis P. Harper, 17 East Sixteenth street, New York.

A very able discussion of the treatment of crime, under the caption of "Shall We Look Backward or Forward in Dealing with the Criminal," has been contributed by Henry Smith Williams, and appears in the March | The minister posed as a local Parkhurst and number of the American Magazine of Civies. Edward P. Powell, writing on "Energy of Legislation," calls attention to the dangers arising from too much legislation. A very critical treatise of the financial question is Mr. James A. Quarles' second paper, entitled "Money, in which he explodes a number of erroneous views now extant regarding the demonetiza tion of silver in t873 and the rise in value of gold. Gilbert L. Eberhart in a paper entitled 'Are American Homes Decreasing?' lenges the truth of the oft-repeated assertion that the number of unencumbered homes in America is becoming less; R. W. Josiyn, dis-cussing "The Single Tax," contends in a very singular argument against the practical operation of that system. Both sides of many leading topics now in discussion are ably handled. Andrew J. Palm & Co., 38 Park

The stage is a condensed picture of life and this is the secret of its wonderful power of fascination. The story of how its pictures are produced is therefore doubly in tures are produced is therefore doubly in-teresting and thus accounts for the peculiar charm attaching to Redfield Clarke's contri-bution, "How a Speciacular is Produced," which appears in the March number of Godey's magazine. The value of the paper is still further enhanced by the superb illus still further enhanced by the superb illustrations accompanying it. The frontispiece in this number, "Sweet Alice," and the faces illustrating the production, "Types of English Beauties," are exceedingly attractive and the beautifully illustrated paper, "Jeanne d'Are and the Heavenly Voices," is full of absorbing interest. Miscellany, poems and fashion department all contribute to enhance a very readable number. The Godey company, 32 Lafayette Place, New York. Short Stories for March contains a num ber of new stories by Frank R. Stockton

Anthony Hope, M. G. McClelland, and other first-class writers, among whom may be mentioned Quiller-Couch, Alphonse Daudet and Arthur Dourliac. There is also a translation from the Italian of Edmondo de Ami Current Literature Publishing company, 52-54 Lafavette Place, New York, Sidney Whitman, author of "Imperial Ger many" and "The Realm of the Habsburgs," contributes to the March number of The Chautauquan a bright sketch of a German watering place, touching with fine humor upon the various phases of life met with there. The series of articles on journalism in the various churches is continued by the Rev. James J. Dunn, who writes of "Jour nalism of the Catholic Church in the United States." Prof. R. G. Moulton, Ph.D., of the University of Chicago, closes his series of three interpretative literary studies by a scholarly article on Scott's "Woodstock" the March number of that magazine. The department Current History and Opinion deals with sixteen of the most important events of the month. The editorial, C. L. S. C., and book departments complete the number. Dr. T. L. Flood, Meadville, Pa. The Napoleon pictures in McClure's Maga zine for March include (besides especially interesting portraits of Napoleon) portraits of Marie Louise, his second wife, and of his son, the king of Rome, and a famous picture of the final scene between Napoleo and Josephine prior to their divorce. Mis Tarbell's paper relates the story of the divorce and the second marriage, and describes Napoleon's crowning measures for the perpetuation of a power now grown as wide as Europe. Marion Crawford, in a "real conversation" with Robert Bridges, author of "Overheard in Arcady," tells the story of his literary life and describes his nanner of writing. lustrate the paper. Mr. Gladstone furnishes an article on "The Lord's Day" wherein he shows, with his accustomed learning, by what authority and with what spiritual in tention Christians keep as Sabbath the first instead of the seventh day of the week, and wherein he indicates the true standard of Christian Sabbath observance. Following this is a series of most interesting portraits of Mr. Gladstone, showing him at short intervals from 6 years of age down to the present time. Conan Doyle supplies a framatic short story of the Franco-Prussian war, and also a short paper relating his per sonal experience in crossing a most difficult Alpine pass in midwinter. Stanley J. Wey-man has a story of the free-handed, high-spirited court life of the time of Henry IV. of France; while, as if for the widest sweep of contrast, Mrs. E. V. Wilson tells a tragic tory of a blizzard on the western prairies. A series of remarkable pictures, drawn from nature, and showing all the parts of a great "ocean fiyer," from the luxurious first cabin to the sweltering stoke-hole, accompany a picturesque account of life "above and below the water line." S. McClure, Ltd., 30 Lafayette Place, New York. Place, New York.

Two striking historical papers appear among the contributions to the March number of Scribner's Magazine. One, "A History of the Last Quarter Century in the United States," by E. Benjamin Andrews, president of Brown university, is the first of a series to be continued through the year, and is in-tensely interesting, being as full of life as the most absorbing romance. The other is entitled, "When Slavery Went Out of Politics," by Noah Brooks. W. D. Howells contributes the first instalment of a new story, "A Circle in the Water;" F. S. King supplies a very inter esting paper on "American Wood Engrav-ing;" Samuel Parks, jr., New York's superintendent of parks, writes very timely on "Bedding Plants," and F. B. Sanborn dilates upon "Thorean's Poems of Nature." Poetry and pictorials are abundant, adding no little to the charm of the number. Charles Scribner's Sons, New York.

Conan Doyle, in the March number of The Ladies' Home Journal, tells what he thinks are the "Literary Aspect of America;" while William Dean Howells is particularly entertaining in his literary autobiography in telling of Thomas Hardy and Tolstoy, and of the greatest if erary passion of his if e. Dr. Parkhurst fulfills the promise of his first article, and is very strong in what he says of "The Unit of Society;" while Mrs. Burton Harrison is instructive in fixing many of the little courtesies of social life, about which every-body likes to be right. Mrs. Jeanette H.

Walworth tells a good southern love story under the title, "The Three Miss Merritts." An excellent glimpse is afforded of the family and home life of Bill Nye, by Augusta Pres-cott. Whether women should be allowed into this spring in hats, wraps and gowns, and the correct shades, are made a specialty by the Journal's fashion editors, and their work weeks past and over 200 people have been and that of the artists, is well done. The Curtis Publishing company, Philadelphia.
The most important feature in the March number of St. Nicholas is a new jungle story by Rudyard Kipling, "The King's Ankus." Mowgli, that delightful boy adopted by the jungle folk, figures in this story, together with the big rock python, Kas, and the black panther, Bagheera. Kaa leads Mowgli to an underground cave, where is a vast treasure of gold and jewels, guarded by an old white cobra. After overcoming the cobra, Mowgli takes from the treasury a jewelstudded elephant goad. But he tires of it, for it brings death to half a dozen of the manpack. The description of a hunt through manpack. The description of a nunt through the jungle by Bagheera and Mowgli will not soon be forgotten. Prof. Brander Matthews contributes a sketch of Hawthorne to his series of studies of great American authors. Prof. Hjaimar Hjorth Boyesen, in "The Boys' War," has a story of boy life in Norway. Came Up to the Expectations in Sensationalism for Once at Least.

NANIMO MINISTER ABUSES A CITY EDITOR

Invelghs Against Him for an Hour and Forty Minutes in the Church on Senday Morning and is Being Sued for Slander.

VICTORIA, B. C., March 12 .- Nanimo has for the past month been the scene of a pitched battle between Rev. Mr. McRae, pastor of the Presbyterian church, and B. Dean, city editor of the Nanimo Free Press. announced sensational themes, drawing crowded houses. In the pulpit, however, he fought shy of his subject, his courage failing him. The Free Press advised him to 'discontinue his falle advance notice or deliver the goods he contracted to supply." Then came a declaration of war between them. He preached upon the unrighteous press. He defied the right of any paper to criticize a minister of the gospel who was a "servant of God," and, spying City Editor Dean in the congregation, pointed the finger of scorn at him and proceeded to arraign him for almost all the crimes in the calendar. For a full hour and forty minutes he poured out a torrent of invectives against Dean, whom he mentioned by name repeatedly, and the paper with which he is connected. His text that evening happened to be a verse from St. Paul's epistle to the Romans, "If it be possible, as much as you can, live peace-ably with all men."

Such teaching was all very well in a general way, the preacher informed his congregation. There were times, however, when one had to demonstrate that he was not a sheep and this was one of them. He wished every one present to understand that he had no hesitation in taking up the gauntlet as the champion of the church against the licentious, sensational, soul-slaying press—in fact, such a contest found him in his element. He held that as a general rule not a paper on the ead, much less a womanly woman, and so thoroughly rotten was the press that one might as well talk of reforming the devil as of purifying it. What was wanted was o kill the present newspapers and build up better ones upon a standard of religious and scientific education. Such a rabid, im-moderate and ill-tempered address was probably never before listened to in an American church and the congregation by turns laughed and hissed at him.

The editor preferred charges against Mc-Rae to the presbytery, which complaint was dismissed, and Dean appealed to the church synod and has commenced a civil suit for slander against the minister, summoning practically the entire congregation to the witness box.

Behind the Bars Again.

H. L. Woolridge, who keeps a saloon on the corner of Fifty-fourth and Dodge streets, again languishes in the county fail. Woolridge was arrested about a week ago upon a warrant issued upon an indictment found by the grand jury against him for selling liquor without a license. He claimed that the parties upon whose testimony the indict-ment was found had previously offered to prevent the finding of the same if he would pay $5. This he refused to do. Balthas Jetter, a South Omaha liquor dealer, secured Woolridge's release by filing a $500 bond which he withdrew yesterday.
