TRINITY CATHEDRAL SERVICES. At the early morning service at Trinity cathedral the church was crowded, nearly 400 communicants receiving the sacrament from the bishop of the diocese. Right Rev-erend George Worthington, and the dean of the cathedral, Charles H. Gardner. But if the church was crowded in the morning. It was packed and jammed at the 11 o'clock service. Chairs were placed in all the sistes. two and some places three deep, yet the crowd could not be accommodated, and, while hundreds stood, other hundreds were compelled to turn rejudantly away.

The decorations were exceedingly effective and beautiful, filles of course predominating in the color scheme. And they were every-where; about the base of the pulpit, enclosing the litany desk, nodding their snow-white heads from the baptismal fant, about the choir stalls, illuminating the altar with their light, while at the base of the raredos were dasies, their preily color of yellow blemling finely with the stately flowers that rose and fell with the deep tones of the organ, in silent sympathy seemingly with the devotional spirit pervading the cathedral of the diocese of Nebraska.

service, much in complinaent to Mr. J. E. Butler, who labored indiffitigably for a perfect ensemble, and he came as near securing It yesterday as has been attained in Omaha or the west. A good deal of the music was new, finely elaborated, in keeping with its churchly character, and the choir sang the numbers with splendid effect. There was no attempt at the morning service to mar the beauty of the ensemble work by solos, which was thoroughly appreciated, although the quartet, Miss Coon, Miss Bishop, Mr. Wilkins and Mr. Lumbard, were heard to good advantage in the anthem, "God Hath Appointed a Day," by Tours. The Hallelu-jah Chorus from "The Messlah" was also rendered in a musicianly manner, the choir, in its tempo and attack, showing most careful rehearsal. The festival communion service in D. by Rev. H. H. Woodward, was new to the congregation, the religious character of the work and the artistic bandling themes being favorably remarked. Butler, who was at the organ, has so greatly improved in his technique, and has so visibly broadened in his playing that his labors of yesterday were not without full compensation from an artistic standpoint. His playing of the offertory in D miner, by E. M. Lott, was a fine prelude to the service of song and thanksgiving that followed 3 o'clock the children of the cathedral being given with entire credit to the Rejolee," by W. J. C. Putnam Cramer, who had taken his position in the tower. Then fellowed the processional hymn, "Welcome, Happy Morning," but beautifully decorated with Easter lilies offered an invocation, but there was no ser-mon or address. There were recitations by Bertha Clark, Ivan Mann, Sidney Taylor, the childish zest which adds so much to the character of such entertainments, and taken with the songs with which they were the Savier of man, His death on the cross, resurrection and ascension, in a manner that appealed to the interest of the children well as to the adults who were present. At the service the choir rendered several authems, some of them of an elaborate character, but all chosen with especial reference

The interior of All Saints' church presented a beautiful sight to the Easter worshiper yesterday morning. The entire eastern portion of the large auditorium was completely banked with lilies and paims. The altar was entirely surrounded by the profusion of Baster foliage, while the organ loft, the choir and the restrum, and the reading desks were practically hidden. Though the floral decora-tions were exceedingly lavish, they were in the greatest possible taste. Every decoration was symbolical of the day, and the Easter lily, which blooms for this day alone, and which, of all the products of the flowery kingdom, has been selected as the emblem of the resurrection, shed its fragrance into gram was very elaborate and was rendered by the regular surpliced choir. The services opened with the processionals, "Christ is Risen," "Christ, Our Passover" and the Te Deum in B flat, by Dudley Buck. Then followed the jubilate by Sullivan, an anthem, "He is Risen," the kyric and gloria, both by Tours, and the hymn, "The Strife is O'er," Dr. Mackay preached on the resurrection. After the sermon followed the hymns, "Awake Up, My Glery," by Barnby, "O. Saving Victim," by Mason, "For All Saints," by Barnby, and the recessional hymn, "Ten Thousand Times Ten Thousand." The church was filled to its utmost capacity, many lis-

The parts were well balsneed, however, the basses being a little heavy perhaps. The "leads" in the fugue passages, notably in the brilliant "Gloria in Execisis" of the communion service, and also in the "Magnificat" of the evening service, were promptly and well taken. The cherus work throughout was excellent and the shading exquisite, and special mention should be made of the chanting of the Psalter. The solo work of Miss Bowen and Messra. Todd and James Stephenson, jr., in the anthems was capital, and the organ accompaniments especially Psalms, were particularly good, and his playing of the Bach fugues after each service was much appreciated by the congregations. Lovely flowers graced the altar, rivaling in purity the spotless white hangings. Delicate borders of smilax were ranged on hangings of pulpits and lecturn, while wreaths of the same encircled the pillars and cornices of the road screen. An abundance of Easter lilies, scattered about the sanctuary and choir, completed the floral embellishments, the whole being given brilliant effect by the soft light of many candles.

ST. PHILOMENA'S CATHEDRAL. Every seat in St. Philomena's cathedral was occupied when the first notes of joyous song signaled the beginning of pontifical high mass at 5 a. m. The scene was brautiful and inspiring. The spotless marble of the altar glistened with reflected light, its terraces were banked with cut flowers and Easter and sprays of smilax entwined the columns of the tower. As the mass proceeded, the shadows of night rapidly vanished and ere the right reverend bishop bestowed the pon-tifical blessing the rays of a dancing Easter sun penetrated the building.

Mass was celebrated by Rt. Rev. Bishop Scannell, assisted by Fathers Kelley, Carroll, Galvin, O'Callahan, and two fathers from Creighton college. Fully one-half the con-gregation approached the sacrament. Brown's jubilee mass was rendered by the choir in a faultless manner. The solo parts were taken by Messrs, James C. Swift, James Rush, Charles Moriarty, and John Brennan comprising the Philharmonic quartet, and Mrs. T. A. Cobry and the Misses E. and G. Croft and Philomena Swift. In both solo WESTMINSTER AND KNOX. At Westminster Presbyterian church no elaborate program of Easter exercises had been arranged, although the services were beautiful and impressive, by reason of their simplicity. The altar was completely hidden by a mass of lilles and paims, but no other decorations were visible. I believe that capital and wealth, through combinations and other means, sometimes gain an undue advantage, and it must be conceded that the maintenance of a sound currency, may, in a sense, be invested with greater or less importance to individuals, according to their condition and circumstances. It is, however, only a difference in degree, since it is utterly impossible that any one in our broad land, the or poor, whatever may be his occupation, and whether dwelling in a center of finance and commerce or in a remote corner of our domain, can be really benefited by a financial scheme not alike beneficial to all our people, or that any one should be excluded from a common and universal interest in the safe character and stable value of the currency of the country.

In our relation to this question we are

In our relation to this question we are all in business, for we all buy and sell; so we all have to do with financial operations for we all earn money and spend it. We cannot escape our interdependence, Merchants and dealers are in every neighbor hood, and each has its shops and manufactures. Wherever the wants of man exist business and finance in some degree are found, related in one direction to those whose wants they supply, and in another to the more extensive business and financial which they are tributary.

FLUCTUATIONS FELT EVERYWHERE

FLUCTUATIONS FELT EVERYWHERE.

A fluctuation in prices at the seaboard is known the same day or hour in the remotest hamlet. The discredit or depression in financial centers of any form of money in the hands of the people is the signal of immediate loss everywhere. If reckiess discontent and wild experiments should sweep our currency from its safe support the most defenceless of all who smiter in the time of distress and national discredit would be the poor, as they reckon their loss in their scanty support, and the laborer and workingman, as he sees the money he has received for his toil shrink and shrivel in his hand when he tenders it for the necessaries to supply his humble home. Disguise it as we may, the line of battle is drawn between the forces of safe currency and those of silver monometallism. I will not believe that if our people are afforded an intelligent opportunity for soher second thought they will sanction schemes that, however cloaked, mean disaster and confusion, nor that they will consent by undermining the foundation of a safe currency to endanger the beneficent character and purposes of their government. Yours very truly, GROVER CLEVELAND.

SERMON TO THE TEMPLARS. Dr. Sanderson Preaches to Members of Mt.

Calvary Commindery. About seventy-five uniformed members of Mt. Calvary commandery No. 1, Knights Templar, attended the Trinity Methodist church last evening. To them, grouped in front of him, the pastor, Rev. F. H. Sandersen, in the uniform of a Sir Knight, delivered his sermon. In front of the pulpit hung the sign of the order, a red cross, of geranium blessoms bordered with smilax. All about the altar were scattered lilles and ferns. The particular adornment, however, was a repre-sentation of a marble cross, entwined with green creepers and with lilles hanging from the arms. The cross was raised from the floor and at the head of the flight of steps that led up to it was seated a miniature winged angel in white. A background of black furnished a proper contrast.

The singing of the choir was very good and the offertory solo by Miss Jessie Zeller was a feature of the program. Dr. Baetens rendered several selections on the violin, a particular one being a double number, a melody in F. by Rubenstein, and "Spring Song" by Mendels Dr. Sanderson urged his companions to

CHANCES OF A REHEARING

Justice Jackson Likely to Resume His Scat at the October Term.

COURT MAY NOT GRANT THE PETITION

In Case of a Vacancy on the Supreme Bench a Rehearing Would Probably Be Delayed Beyond the Christmas Holidays if Granted.

WASHINGTON, April 14.-The determination of the appellants in the income tax cases o secure a rehearing before the full bench of the United States supreme court on the points on which the court divided has caused a renewal of interest in the question of Justice Jackson's health and the possibility of his return to the beach at an early day.

Late advices from Judge Jackson's home, at Nashville, are that he is constantly improving, and, that, barring a very annoying cough, his physical condition is fairly good. The rate on bluestone from Omaha to Packson his physical condition is fairly good. It is also stated from the same source that he expects to be able to resume his duties as a member of the court at the beginning of the October term. There remains only a little more than a month of the present term, and it is not suggested that he may refurn for this brief earled. In the present the most of the present to and from that city.

The rate on bluestone from Omaha to Packet a to a desirable to the concurrence of the Mexican Contral. supreme bench has taken his stat before he was confirmed by the senate. Congress will not convene until next December, and under no circumstances would the senate be likely to pass upon a nomination of this magnitude until the Christmas holidays. Action might, indeed, be postpaned much longer, and it possibly would be if the predelictions of the nomince should be opposed to the income tax, as the senate is committed to the law. It is also suggested that a justice who had not participated in the first hearing might feel a delicacy in sitting when the case was under consideration the second time. It is quite possible that the petition for a rehearing may not be granted. The court's rule of procedure in such cases is only to grant such petitions upon the request of a member of the court who has voted in opposition to the wishes of the petitioner.

Senator Chandler of New Hampshire was asked today for his opinion as to the sug-gestion of Assistant Attorney General Whitney, that the constitution might mended as to provide for the imposition of firect taxes, and replied: "To amend the constitution it is necessary to secure a twothirds vote of congress, and then to have the amendment ratified by the state legisatures. I think it would be impracticable do it. There never have been any amend-ments of the constitution except of a negative character; none providing for modes of government.

Furthermore, I do not think an amendment of the constitution is needed to secure a valid income tax law. It can be had by apportioning the tax among the states in proportion to population, and I am inclined to think that since the decision of the supreme court there will be an effort in that direction at the next session.
