Catholic Knights of America Will Not Unite with Kindred Orders.

DECIDED AFTER HOURS OF DEBATE

tained in the Matter-Women's Auxiliary to Be Known as Daughters of Josephine Will Not Be Allowed.

The second day's session of the supreme ouncil of the Catholic Knights of America was called to order at 9:30 o'clock yesterday morning at Chambers' academy. After recelving the report of the committee on returns the convention listened to the report of the committee on laws.

This report, which is one of the most important features of the convention, occupied some time in its delivery and was made by the chairman, P. J. O'Connor of Georgia. Mr. O'Conner prefaced his lengthy report with the statement that the committee had carefully considered several hundred proposed amendments to the constitution. With few exceptions, the suggestions were rejected by the committee, including the proposition to increase the salaries of the supreme officers. In view of the fact that a large number of wives of the delegates were present as spectators, it required nerve for Mr. O'Connor to announce an adverse report on the proposed constitutional amendment to admit females to membership. But he did, amid the laughter of the delegates and frowns of the feminine spectators. Other amendments rela-tive to assessments, duties of officers, beneficiary certificate revision, plan of business, medical examiners' fees, etc., submitted by the Illinois, Virginia, Missouri and Washington state councils, and branches 60, 68, 118, 297, 159, 298, 651, 612, 321, 447, 554, 170 and others, were with few exceptions rejected by the committee report. Minority reports in several instances were filed, but the conven-tion generally ratified the majority report. The proposed change in the constitution, in which the greatest interest centered and which has aroused national interest, was the following suggestion of branch No. 60, to consolidate the Catholic orders:

"That the supreme council, Catholic Knights of America, extend the hand of fellowship and good will to all national Catholic oversity of the council of the cou Catholic organizations, which have for their objects the uniting fraternally of all acceptable Catholics of every honorable profession business and occupation, of giving all pos-sible moral and material aid in its power to its members that have and maintain a benefit fund, of which a sum of not less than $500 is paid on the death of a member in good standing to such decedent's beneficiary. ORDERS IN CONTEMPLATION. "National Catholic organization shall mean istence and objects have been sanctioned by some archbishop of the Roman Catholic church, which possess one or more of the features set out in section 1 hereof, and which have or maintain branches or component parts of such organization or association in two or more states of the United States, or existing branches or component parts in at least one state of the United States, and in addition thereto in some one territory of the United States, or one of the provinces of British America, and organization as herein used shall mean organizations, or association, or associations; that the su-preme council through the commission hereinafter created invite all national Catholic organizations to co-operate with the officers and the commission hereinafter provided, for the purpose of promoting and advancing the interests of all national Catholic organizations containing one or more of the features described in section 1 hereof, with a view to have such rival organization to appoint a com-mission as provided in a succeeding section, with similar powers and for the purpose of effecting a uniformity of action and the fixing and equalizing of rates, etc., etc., and finally to effect a unit by process of consolidation, amalgamation or absorption or to absorb and in such manner as may be for the best in-terest of the parties thereto.

"That there he elected by council, Catholic Knights of America, by ballot, before its adjournment a commission of five who are hereby authorized and di-rected to act in conformity with these laws with power to make such rules and regulations for their own government as a majority thereof may decide, and upon such commission power is now conferred to invite and to co-operate with it and the Catholic Knights of America, all national Catholic organizations for its and their mutual advancement and to prescribe terms, conditions and regulations under which the Catholic Knights of America will agree to act in unison with other national Catholic organizations, and the terms and conditions upon which the Catholic Knights of America will agree to a merger by process of consolidation, amai-gamation or absorption with any other national Catholic organization.
"All agreements made by such commission with any national Catholic organization for the advancement of the interest of the Catholic Knights of America, that may be agreed upon by such commission and like commis-sions appointed by other national Catholic or ganizations, shall be of binding effect and force upon the supreme officers of the Catholic Knights of America, and shall control their actions where such directions of such commisston are mandatory. In the event of the commission so appointed agreeing with the commissions having like power, finding it beneficial to the Catholic Knights of America dation, amalgamation or absorption will prove beneficial to the organization effecting the agreement, then upon such commission making such report to the supreme president, the supreme president shall immediately cause to be printed the terms and conditions upon tion, amalgamation or absorption shall go mission, and the branch within forty-five days from the date of the mailing of the notice of Chairman O'Connor, in behalf of the com mittee, reported adversely on the foregoing proposed almalgamation, receiving encouragement in the way of applause from the anti-federation portion of the convention. Other anticipated amendments not printed in the bulletin, including one from the Fort Wayne branch suggesting that the line be drawn on contractor would result.

At this point Kment suggested that it would be more like business to leave the booths where they were, because they could be repaired and allowed to stand at less excess than the could be removed and the committee recommended that liquor dealers should not be excluded from membership, a sentiment which seemed to meet with favor. It was argued that no discrimination should be made against a man on account of the booths are veritable nulsances and have been since spring opened. They are the favorite resort of "kids," who make them places of bedlam. In almost all cases they have been made unsightly by mischief doers and thieves who have left scarcely a whole window pane.

had completed the reading of his report, the minority filed several objections, and the delegates resolved themselves into a committee of the whole at 2 o'clock to take action on the recommendations of the committee on laws. With few exceptions it is probable that the report as submitted will be adopted especially the objection to federation of all Catholic organizations as proposed by branch 60. There is a decided opposition to the proposed amalgamation.

Prior to the noon recess a motion to hold night session was voted down.

An invitation extended to the Uniform rank

he visitors.

THEY REFUSE TO COMBINE on laws. This was done immediately after listening to a supplemental report of the committee on credentials, admitting Delegate Muliholland of Wisconsin.

It was decided to settle the question in com-mittee of the whole. Ex-Supreme President James David Coleman of Louisiana was uasnimously elected chairman of the committee.

The recommendations of the committee on laws were taken up all scriatin. The first question discussed was on the proposed constitutional amendment to retrench postal expenses by publishing the assessment notices in the official organ of the order. At 3 o'clock a hot debate was in progress over the

After a spirited discussion it was decided to make no changes in the present system of notification of assessments, and the com-mittee report in this respect was ratified. The other recommendations of the committee on laws were with few exceptions endorsed. Several of the proposed amendments were referred to special committees to report upon before final adjournment. The length of the report and number of recommendations pre-cluded the possibility of completing the dis-position of the same yesterday, and it will possibly require a large portion of time at today's session to complete the consideration

It was decided that notifications of sur pensions hereafter will all be sent by reg-stered mail to insure acknowledgment of re-

DISCUSSION ON CONSOLIDATION. When the action of the committee on laws rejecting the proposed federation of the Catholic Knights with the Young Men's Institute and kindred organizations was discussed Louis J. Dolle, president of branch 60 of Ohio, made a strong appeal not to ratify the committee's refusal to accept the proposition as a feasible one. He advocated the amalgamation, believing it would result in many benefits for the good of the order, both in a numerical and financial way. Mr. Dolle made a motion that the report of the committee on laws in this instance be not concurred in. Past Supreme President W. J. O'Neill also spoke in favor of the consolidation of Cath-olic benevolent organizations as proposed. He argued that it would produce social benefits and perpetuate the Catholic Knights instead of absorbing its identity. Young Catholies were desirous of merging into the parent organization, and he believed the amendment would be beneficial and never be regretted. Charles Ott of Texas was in favor of anyhing to increase fraternal advantages. Supreme President Shine delivered an emphatic speech against the proposed scheme. He did not believe it would be judicious. It was true that the social feature of the or-ganization had been somewhat neglected and the fraternal insurance feature made pre-dominate. Amalgamation of the organizations might not be attended with satisfactory reoults, in view of the fact that the physical requirements essential to fraternal insurance night be swallowed in the great social wave onsolidate the organizations to foster the social feature. At the conclusion of the su-preme president's remarks several delegates sprang to their feet and clamored for recogni-

E. D. McGuinness, supreme trustee, Providence, R. I., caught the chairman's eye, and eloquently opposed the amalgamation on the ground that the Young Men's Institute had not submitted any official proposition to consolidate, and in view of that fact it would e showing the white feather for the Catholic Knights to surrender or share its rights with a younger organization. He thought the medical examination could not be successfully passed by all the members of the other organizations who wished to merge into the Catholic Knights. Those in ill health would be frozen out. The insurance feature was the obstacle in the way to the federation. It ould be unfair to share insurance benefits ith those men who were not physically able to pass examination, and it would not be fair to drop them by the wayside.

Friends of the Young Men's Institute ar-gued that the insurance requirements of that order were on a par with those of the Catholic Knights of America. Father O'Keefe of New Mexico favored the consolidation with the Young Men's Institute. He believed in the theory of "united we stand, divided we fall."

SCHEME WAS VOTED DOWN. Mr. Coleman of Louisiana left the chair to lenounce the suggested combination of the rganizations. He said that it was not a question of consolidation or amalgamation, but it meant absolute dissolution of the Catholic Knights of America and a destruction of the bulwarks which it took nineteen years o build. Promises of kindred organizations vantages of the Catholic Knights of America they could do so if they could pass the mel-ical test and retain membership in both organizations. The speaker opposed a surren-der of privileges and the wiping out of the protective features of Catholic Knighthood. He begged the delegates 'for God's sake not to consolidate." Mr. Delle replied, and this precipitated an exhaustive debate which lasted intil 6 o'clock, and during which four exsupreme presidents were pitted in argument. including W. C. Smith of Kentucky, the first president of the organization.

Final action was finally prompted by appetites, and amid intense excitement, during which the federation forces fought for adjournment, the question was put and the scheme to consolidate was knocked out by a good majority. The report of the committee on laws in this respect was thus concurred in, and after rising as a committee of the whole the council took a recess until this morning, when other recommendations of the committee on laws will be considered. M'CABE DECLARED NOT GUILTY. Acquitted of Arson in the District Court Yesterday Merning. After lasting for seven days the trial of

James H. McCabe, charged with arson, has been concluded and the prisoner acquitted and discharged. The verdict, reached about 2 o'clock yesterday morning, was returned as soon as court convened. McCabe had been indicted by the state in connection with Schultz, his partner in the furrier business of Schultz & Co., for setting fire to the store, located in the Withnell block. About 2:30 o'clock on the morning of March 16 the fire was discovered in the cloak store and active efforts were made to check it, which were successful. Later the detectives began to search for evidences of incendiarism, and Schultz and his partner were held for the crime. The main features of the testimony adduced in support of the theory that McCabe, who was the first tried, was guilty were witnesses who were produced show that excelsior saturated with coal oil was found in the building the after the fire; that the partners had carried cans of something, claimed to be kerosen into the store; that packages of furs had been removed the evening previous from the store and considerable insurance had be written upon the stock. The defense offered explanations of these facts. It also had a theory that the coal oil dripped from leaky

Make Viaduct Repairs.

That something immediate be done in reparing the Eleventh street viaduct is urged by all the residents of the south side and by the majority of the members of the city council, as shown by the passage of the resolution to this effect by the city council Tuesday evening.

The resolution was referred to the committee on viaducts and rallways and there is yet no clear idea what its recommendais yet no clear idea what its recommenda-tions will be with reference to the manner in which the work shall be taken up. Only recently was it decided by District Court Judge Ambrose that the railroads and street railway company should bear their propor-tion of the expense of repair in accordance with the terms of their city franchises, but an appeal has been taken to the supreme court. It is the opinion that if nothing is done until a decision of the supreme court in the case is rendered the viaduct will remain closed perhaps another four years. Residents of the south side can bear with no patience such a suggestion and the weight of their complaint is recognized generally by Leaving all other con iderations in the case out of account, the south side people call attention to the fact that there is about $2,300 in the damage fund on account of this viaduct that has not been used and they express their willingness that it be expended on repairs. It would defray almost half of the estimated expense of $5,000. A suggestion by Councilman Prince that the Board of Public Works have the work done and that bills be filed pro rata against the railroad companies and the street railway company meets with much favor among his colleagues and it is possible that it will be acted upon.
