What the Musical Courier Says,

The effort of striving to perfect a delicate piece of mechanism becomes manifest to the expert judge most effectively in the mechanism itself. Take the Hardman plane of today as an instance, and it will prove in its own tonal power and quality and in the refinement of its touch that it has reached a high rank among artistic musical produc-tions. It is really not necessary for Hardman, Peck & Co. to make more than a mere announcement of the fact that they make the Hardman plane, and then the piano itself by virtue of its own virtues Exclusively sold by the Mueller Piano and

THE OMAHA SUNDAY BEE. NEWS FROM COUNCIL BLUFFS

OFFICE. - - NO. 12 PEARL STREET Disappointed Lover Uses a Revolver to Intimidate His Girl.

FIRED ONE SHOT AT HER FOR FUN

he Readily Consented to Marry Him Until the Police Arrived and Took Her Admirer and Ilis Revolver Away.

Clarence Latham now knows not only how feels to have his most ardent protestations f love rejected, but that the iron beds and stuffy confines of a cell in jail are a poor substitute for the spring mattress and open window of his home through which the cooling breezes blow these hot June nights. What he doesn't know about these subjects he will doubtless have plenty of time to study out by the time he breathes the free air again.

For some time he has been smitten with the charms of Miss Wyman, who lives at the corner of Avenue B and Twenty-sixth street. The young woman in question is said to posses more than the average share of those graces which make her sex attractive. Clarence fell a victim to her charms and pressed his suit in and out of season, but with very indifferent results. All his assurances of love and effection were rejected, but he never despaired of winning the object of his adoration. Last evening he went to the home of Miss Wyman to press his suit, determined not to take no for an answer. She talked to him a while and he renewed his vows, but Miss Wyman gave no indication that she had hanged her previously expressed opinion on the subject. She gradually led him out toward the front door, thinking to avail her-self of the first opportunity to bid him good This was about 11 o'clock.

The couple stood on the steps for a few minutes while Latham debated the question of a prospective wedding with her. He finally informed her that if she did not promise to marry him he would kill her, and suiting the action to the word Latham pulled a revolver and blazed away.

WHERE THE POLICE CAME IN. Miss Wyman's screams and the sound of he explosion brought all the drowsy neighbors to the scene, but Latham was too quick for them. He grabbed his intended victim and dragged her into the house and shut the door, not knowing at that time whether she was injured or not. The neighbors telephoned for the police, but as Latham was inside with a revolver in his hand they were afraid inside

While all this was going on outside Latham was pressing his suit with more success than formerly, so far as securing promises were concerned. Miss Wyman had not been injured by the shot, but was so thoroughly frightened that she was willing to promise her suitor anything, particularly as he still held the insure him being present when wanted. revolver in his hand.

It took some time for the officers to reach the scene, and Latham was improving it by pouring into ears that appeared to be more willing listeners than they had ever been before the love which filled his soul and over-flowed into the adjoining room, thouroughly convinced of the efficacy of a revolver in love

His dream had a rude awakening, for Officers Easdale and Weir appeared on the scene and insisted that Latham accompany them to jail. By a flank movement they disarmed him and put the nippers on his wrists. Then came the hardest blow of all. The revolver-created love took wings and the fair one, who a few moments before had under duress consented to be his bride, sisted on accompanying the officers and filing an information against him charging him with shooting with intent to kill.

The two officers, their prisoner and Miss Wyman boarded a motor for up town and the implaint was duly signed and sworn to. Miss Wyman returned to her home, none the worse for her experience beyond a severe shock. The | yard. ber hair, but did not even graze the skin,

RAN OFF WITH THE WITNESS

Kennedy Finds Itself l'adly Left. What looks very much like a put-up job came to light in the course of a trial in few relatives, the ceremony was performed Justice Cook's court yesterday. Mike Ken the complaining witness being George Simpson, who was found lying near Harrison street one afternoon about a week ago almost dead from a terrific beating he had received at the hands of Kennedy. Simpson was not fit to appear in court yesterday afternoon, for he has not been right mentally since the beating took place. He was out of his head yesterday and his physician had stated that he had doubts of his ever getting around

When the case came up for a hearing Fulton volunteered to go down to the Woman's Christian association hospital, where Simpson has been kept, and bring him up to the court room. Tinley said all right, and Constable Alberti, whose business it was to see that

Simpson was on hand, agreed to let Fulton An hour or more passed, but Fulton did not reappear, and neither did Simpson. Officer Murphy happened in with the intelligence that he had just seen Fulton coming back on a car from Omaha. But Fulton did not call around at the court room to explain himself, and at the hour of evening adjournment Justice Cook, Constable Alberti, T. C. Dawson, who represents County Attorney Saunders, Marshal Cauning and every one else connected with the case were in a fumfendant Kennedy, and Emmet Tinley, attorney for the prosecuting witness Simpson, alone seemed to be enjoying their usual equanimity. Neither of them indulged in any apparent anxiety, although they both denied having had anything to do with Simpson's disappearance. The theory which has been figured out by parties interested is that the eleven horses which Kennedy had in his possession when he was arrested are come. possession when he was arrested are some-how to blame for the present state of offairs. Simpson attached them the other day, claim-ing he had an interest in them. Up to yerterday he was the only one who apparently did have any interest in them besides Ken-nedy. The theory is that Gable, Thiey and Fulton got together and decided that as the horses would ultimately belong to them anyway they might as well cut across lots to their possession, instead of working for them.

well he did it the developments of yesterday afternoon show. This thing of running witnesses off into an ther state, however, is pretty serious business, and there was a consultation between Justice Cook, Marshal Canning and Judge Smith of the district court yesterday afternoon as to what steps ought to be taken toward maintaining the dignity of the court and at the same time bringing Fulton to justice, in case he had transgressed the laws, as at first sight he appeared to have done. the Elkhorn train started, at 6:10 o'clock, Marshal James Anderson chased him several miles with the patrol wagon, and he accordingly felt considerable interest in seeing that he did not get away without at least a trial. He started for Omaha yesterday afternoon to look for Simpson. Just before the train started he ran across his man, with his arms loaded down with bundles, and nipped him just as he was clambering upon the car step.

It is probable that an information will be filed today charging Fulton with compounding a felony. Simpson was taken to the Woman's Christian association hospital and Marshal Canning stayed with him all night. An officer will be with him from now on until he has a hearing, to Notable Coincidence in the Credentials of Drs. Copeland & Shepard-New Cases Every Week That Prove the Quality of Their Methods.

Dr. W. H. Copeland was president of his class at Belleview Hospital Medical College, where he graduated, the most famou nstitution of its kind in this country. Dr. Shepard's credentials are no less abundant and unqualified. He was presi-dent of his class at Rush Medical College, Chicago, the most noted medical school in the west. Also, member of the Iowa State Medical Society, and of various other medcal and surgical associations.

Both gentlemen, after thorough hospital experience and practice, have devoted their lives to the practice of their specialties, with what success the daily papers show.

Mrs. Flora J. Copeland, 3731 Avenue A. Council Bluffs. Council Bluffs.

"When I went to Dr. Shepard a few weeks ago I was weak and tired out from Catarrhal Disease and the sufferings that go with it. I had been this way for two years and got worse each spring for I found that the winter season always spread and deepened the disease A constant headache over the eyes, piercing the temples and running down the back of the neck gave me more agony than I can tell. It was with me day and night—pain, soreness and heaviness all through the head. I was too nervous to sleep much. The throat and nose were inflamed and sore and my eyesight seemed to be falling. The eyes were watery and blurred with specks floating before the sight and deep pains around the eyebails. My breath gave out so that walking caused a rapid action of the heart with panting and suffocation. I lost appetite and had the feeling of a general giving way of the system. Under treatment my headache yielded almost at once, and the blood-cleansing

CASE OF MISTAKEN IDENTITY,

Alleged Robber on Trial at Creston Prepared for a Strong fight. CRESTON, Ia., June 8 .- (Special Telegram.)-The preliminary examination of George E. Metcalf, charged with robbing the American Express company and the Q of $400 while acting as joint agent for these companies at Thayer, was continued today until June 27, the defense asking for the continuance, desiring to get witnesses from Kentucky, where Metcalf claims he was born. The man employed at Thayer went by the name of Neal Florence, but the companies claim that Metcalf is the man. The defendant asserts that it is a case of mistaken identity. The case is being bitterly contested and is creating much interest. The System Badly Depleted by Catarrh-Had All the Signs of Serious Lung Disease.

Mrs. J. C. Weineman, Blair, Neb.

Mrs. J. C. Weineman, Blair, Neb.

"I have been taking treatment with Dr. Shepard for a chronic aliment which had previously been regarded as consumption, and I want to give him credit for a skillful and successful handling of my case.

"What first impaired my health and got me on the down grade, physically, was a chronic catarrhal poisoning that seemed to fill my whole system. This began a long way back, some ten or fifteen years ago, I began first to notice it in my head. My nostri's would swell and close, first one and then the other, with a constant pain above the eyes so bad at times that I could scarcely raise my head. Then my throat became dry and raw and the catarrhal mucus began to drop from my head coughing with what seemed to be a settled inflammation of the bronchial tubes, attended with a burning pain under the breast bone, shooting pains in the side and shoulder blades, and a feeling of feeverish heat and soreness all through the chest. Gradually this feverish pain and discomfort seemed to settle principally in my lungs, and what was at first a dry, hervous hacking at the throat became a wasting and debilitating cough.

"I grew weak and began to suffer greatly."

I grew weak and began to suffer greatly from night sweats, evening fevers and chilis, loss of voice and difficult breathing. To deepen the complication indigestion from paartial failure of the stomach and from paartial failure of the stomach and bowels set in with extreme nervousness.

"When Dr. Shepard first took hold my weight had fallen to 116 pounds and I was shrinking every day. I now weigh 144 pounds, with practically perfect health, and no sign or symptom about me of my former malady. In view of this great change it is no wonder that I feel some enthusiasm over the treatment that did the work."
