ISH IN THE COURT'S HANDS

Criminal Judge Will Decide Whether Accused Shall Be Admitted to Bail Again.

PRISONER IN THE COUNTY JAIL MEANWHILE

Flutter of Excitement Caused Yesterday by False Rumor that He Had Skipped-He and His Wife Quickly Accounted For.

Considerable excitement was created in the criminal court yesterday on account of the reported disappearance of James Ish and wife, who are out on bail awaiting trial for the murder of William Chapple,

There was a stirring around among officials, and the sheriff's office was notified that officers should at once look up the whereabouts of the Isbs. The criminal court made ar order that the two parties be brought in immediately. It soon became apparent that the excitement was uncalled Ish's attorney appeared and made the statement that both Mr. and Mrs. Ish were in the city and expected to appear in court Tuesday afternoon. Ish soon afterward entered the court room. His wife has been in Fremont visiting with her mother and is to appear and show her right to bail this

Ish was called before the bar of the court and the question of investigating his right to ball was set for 2 o'clock.

"If I become satisfied that there was a willful and premeditated murder, Ish will get no bond; if I am satisfied that it was not willful, he will be allowed to give a bond." After a lengthy argument, beginning at o'clock, the criminal judge announced this as his intended disposition of the case.

James Ish is now in jall waiting the court's decision upon the question of the right to bail under the circumstances of the the Chapple murder case, and considering the enormity of the crime charged. Immediately at the conclusion of the court's announcement Ish was taken in charge by Deputy Mahoney and placed in the jail until his case is definitely disposed of ARGUMENTS OF ATTORNEYS. The argument of the counsel for the state and for Ish proved quite interesting, and was followed by remarks by the court, criticizing the county attorney. He was accused of trying to place on the court the responsibility of saying whether or no Ish should be placed again under bond.

As Ish had just been arraigned for mur-dering Chapple and had pleaded not gullty, it became necessary for Judge Scott to pass upon the oral motion made by Frank Ransom, Ish's attorney, asking for the right to file another ball bond. Mr. Ransom began by stating that the testimony which had been taken before the coroner's jury had been used as the basis on which to bind Ish over to district court, as neither party considered it necessary to take further testimony. complimented the county attorney on having come to the conclusion that the case was a the old story of a husband slaving the seducer of his wife, and expressed his confidence that such a man could never be convicted. He claimed that Ish was released on ball, and properly section of the constitution provid ing that ball may be taken in all murder cases except those in which the proof is evident and the presumption great.

BALDRIDGE CHANGES HIS MIND. County Attorney Baldridge took consider able starch out of the compliments passed upon him by rejoining that when he wrote the letter advising admitting Ish to bail in police court he did this, first on the strength of the testimony taken by the coroner's jury and second, because he understood a preliminary examination would be had in Instead, an examination was waived. besides some new testimony having been since discovered, and he now thought no ball should be taken.

Frank Ransom remarked that the state was making the case out one of homicide instead

The court grew angry and dilated upon his freedom from all outside influences. He thought an effort was being made to make decide whether or not Ish should have bail with the consequent responsibility. He told the county attorney that the state prosecutor knew nothing of trying murder trials, and wound up by explaining t the audience, awaiting with breathless inter the next turn of the case, how free h was from the influences of money, so that however rich Mrs. Ish, the mother of James Ish, or any one else might be, still it could not affect his decision in the least.

The court took the testimony of the core ner's jury and the statement of the county attorney concerning his new witnesses for consideration. Ish's attorney is making a desperate fight to find out what this additional testimony, on which the state banks so heavily, consists of, and has asked to be allowed to see the statement when completed.

EIGHT SENTENCED TO HARD WORK Men Before the Criminal Court Are

Fred morning and sentences were pronounced. Fred Niece was convicted of obtaining whisky from S. S. Lanyon by forging the name of Liveryman Jackson to an order for 85 cents worth of the liquid. Niece was sentenced to a term of one year.

Harry B. Coode, a bookkeeper for the Heyn Photo Supply company, was sentenced to seven years for embezziement. Two other cases against Coode are to be dismissed. The embezzlement of $150 was proven, but Coole is said to have gotten away with $1,200. The manner in which he covered up his tracks is pronounced a master job by the state. His operations were instrumental in breaking up the firm's business. Coode fled about a year ago when his peculations were discovered. The death of Mr. Heyn had given him considerable opportunity to carry on his operations.

John Stock for the crime of forgery was

MANUFACTURERS EXHIBIT.

Association Abides by: Its Decision Not to Display on State Pair Grounds.

At a meeting of the Manufacturers and Consumers association of Nebraska in the rooms in The Bee building yesterday afternoon the matter of holding the regular annual exposition this fail was taken up and discussed at great length. The past two years the association has made its exposition a parof the state fair, but owing to the treatment accorded the manufacturers by the state fair board the two organizations agreed to part company last year. The manufacturers requested the board to carry out its promises, but the board refused, and at the close of the last state fair the association voted in the Over into the small hours of darkness will future to go it alone. At that time the state fair boys be working tonight to get the goods fair was located in Lincoln and it was expected that it would remain there. The secretary presented plans for a building 100x200 feet, with the estimated cost. It is proposed to put up the building on some vacant lot down town where it would be easy of access. After a thorough discussion of the matter the subject was re-ferred to a committee consisting of M. C. Peters, A. J. Vierling, L. M. Rheem and the secretary. The committee was instructed to look into the subject still further and report at a meeting of the directors of the assoclation to be called in the near future.

A coat like this and a white or fancy vest at a small cost makes a desired change of dress for little or nothing so to speakprovided-a coat is not of the ordinary sloppy kind the usual summer coat seems to appear. Our coats are finished, cut and made as good as these, sold as fashionable clothing.
