Fairmount park was never in better shape for the use of the public than yesterday, and It has seldom had any more generous pat-ronage. The rain had settled the dust and evold the air, and dozens of private picule parties from Omaha and Council Bluffs en-joyed themselves. The motor company was unable to carry all the passengers even by running twice as many trains as usual.

The business men of Council Bluffs, who through their Merchants' and Manufac-turers' association, are working zealously for securing better mail service, do not get much support from the local paper, which whines so pitfully for home patronage. That paper says "the movement for better train servtoe has failed." The business men, how-ever, have too much nerve to endorse any such pulling down of the flag, but will stay in the fight to the finish, and are expecting nothing short of complete victory.

Grant Heath, an umbrella mender, stopped at the residence of C. R. Hannan on South Eighth street yesterday and was given the job of fixing an umbrella. Not long after he commenced he quit, and announced that the job was beyond him. When the owner of the umbrella examined it she found that the handle, which was of some little value, was missing. She immediately notified the police and Heath was arrested. At the sta-tion he admitted that the handle might be in his grip, but said it got there accidentally. William Dodd, a farmer working some distance east of the city, ran up against a "nickle in the slot machine" at the corner of Broadway and Bryant street yesterday afternoon. He blew in about 60 cents bet-ting on the green before things came his way, and when the green finally won the five nickles which he expected to land failed landed in the city juil, charged with dis-

Barbar, a colored man from Omaha. was at the head of a red hot procession that wended its way down Sixth avenue, armed with revolvers and other weapons, and if a rope had been handy the chances are that before morning Mr. Barber's ebony form that part of the city. He chased the little 11-year-old daughter of William Flynn, a Union Pacific conductor, who lives at 1011 Sixth avenue, making an indecent exhibition of himself and making insulting proposals to her. In her fright she screamed for help and her father's attention was attracted.

Inside of three minutes a crowd of twenty five neighbors was on the brute's trail, and as the chase went on the crowd increased. At the corner of Fourth avenue and Sixteenth street, where he was finally overtaken, there were fully 100 people, and cries of "String him up" and "Go get a rope" were heard. The young man who caught him was a tall fellow armed with a big revolver, and as he turned the fellow over to Mr. Flynn, the father of the little girl who was insulted, he remarked: "He was a good runner, and wouldn't have stopped if it hadn't been for the gun."

Mr. Flynn yanked the fellow up the street the coat collar, raining down blows upor his head and face until it was hard to tell whether Flynn's hand or the darky's face was the bloodier, Flynn had to go to Dr Seybert's office to have his fist dr the darky's face was a mass of blood. A close watch was kept of the city fall all last night to see that the neighbors of Mr plan and lynch Barber.

GREAT CROWDS VISIT LAKE MANAWA

Constable Made an Ineffectual Raid on Colonel Reed's Drink Dispensary. Yesterday was a red letter day for Manawa. The facilities for reaching the lake were never so perfect and were never taxed to such an extent. During the day and evening Colonel Reed's motor trains carried 10, 000 people. The greater part of them were from Omaha and adjoining towns. It was a good natured crowd and easily handled, and it took in all the side shows and pleasure resorts. The Chicago Ladies' Military band furnished music for the afternoon and evening. Many of their selections were very fine, and were heartly encored. While the crowd was great at all times, it was not great at any one place. Every boat on the lake was in service. The fine breeze made magnificent sailing, and everything in the shape of a sail was affeat. The Manhattan beach people estimate that their steamers carried 2,000 people across the lake. The bathing was fine, and all the suits and bathing facilities of the beach were in use. Only two incidents occurred cut of the ordinary all day. That eminent reformer and staunch prohibitionist, Billy Beck, organized to materialize. When he voiced his woe in a raid on Colonel Reed's bar at the busiest take were loud and profane he was calmly thrown outside by the bartender and calmly thrown outside by the bartender and been given out that a raid was contemplated, and about forty of Reed's friends got in ahead of the constable and carried away every bottle and original package in the companies. Money for farm loans at low place and hid them until the danger was over. When Beck came down to glut his vengeance there was nothing but plain pop and cigars on hand, and the constable was sent away empty-handed. After an interruption of a few minutes the bottles found their stock is being sacrificed at any price to sell. way back to the accustomed places and the popping of corks went on as merrily as ever. It is reported that the incident came very near having an exciting sequel. It is said that a crowd of out of town picnickers, whose supply of beer was thus untimely shut off, organized and laid a plan to quietly take Beck out into the lake and duck him. It was not executed and the incident was quickly forgotten.

A slight accident happened at the Manhattan beach boat landing. The movable apron, which dropped a short time ago and let a lead of people slide into the lake, repeated its performance and deposited about twenty men, women and children into the water. The water was about six feet deep and the most of the people went in over their heads. All were fished out before they were in the water a minute, and there was no danger of a drowning. The accident was casioned by the jar of the landing steambeats knocking out an iron pin that holds up the outer edge of the hinged platform. The thing will be anchored permanently hereafter, so that a repetition of the disaster occur. Yesterday afternoon, with a number of ther boys of about his age, Smith was indulging in a celebration. They had burned their stock of cannon crackers, after which they concluded to burn some powder. An old fruit can was secured. Into this a lot of powder was poured, which Smith ignited by applying a match. There was a puff of smoke and several boys shot out into space, rolling and tumbling upon the pavement. With the exception of Smith none of them were severely injured. He, however, was frightfully burned about the head, hands and arms. In addition to this, his scalp was cut to the skull by the rough edge of the tin can as it went flying through the air. Latest Chart Showing Sailing Distanc's Provokes Seme Surprise.

NOT WHAT APPEARANCES INDICATE

Hawaiin Islands Not Sp Desirable for Coal Station Purposed in the Light of Scientific Research as at First supposed.

WASHINGTON July 4 .- (Special.)-The last monthly chart issued by the hydropraphic Bids should not be accompanied by cash. office of the Navy department is devoted to an explanation of the sailing distances bean explanation of the sailing distances be-tween various points in the North Pacific schools where coal is desired, with the scean. A number of facts in distances are set forth, which, although at first sight appear to be remarkably at variance with generally accepted opinion, are, upon examinamander Sigsbee, the hydrographer, has prepared and issued this latest chart in compliance with the requests of a number of leading Pacific pilots, who desired to be informed as to the distances between the various points of prominence in the North

The principal point from which calculations are made is Brito, Nicaragua, which is the western terminal of the proposed Niccaragua canal, and which, if that project is brought to a consummation, will be a port of much prominence. The shortest distance between Brito and Yokehama would be the sc-called "great circle" between those two points, but this is impracticable as a sailing route, for the reason that the American are of the circle passes over the southern por-tion of the North American continent, through California, emerging into the Pacific ocean at a considerable distance above San Francisco. The shortest practicable distance therefore would be by a route due west from Brito to a point in the ocean where another great circle can be found with a direct course to Yokohama. This route is 7.145 knots, while the "great circle" is only 7.022 knots.

PECULIAR FACT DEMONSTRATED. From Brito to San Francisco the distance is 2,700 knots, and from San Francisco t Yokohama it is 4,536 knots, making the dis tance from Brito to Yokohama via the port of San Francisco 7,236 knots. It will thus be seen that the distance from Brito to Yokohama via San Francisco is only ninety one miles longer than by the shortest practicable circle distance from Brito to Yokohama, a statement which at first appearance seems almost incredible.

Commander Sigebee says that the announce ment of this fact will prove of vast interest to the pilots of the North Pacific ocean, for the reason that many shippers will be glad to take advantage of the science of the distances and in making the voyage from Nicaragua to China will stop at the Golden Gate. This makes it possible for steamers to put in at San Francisco for coal or to carry a cargo from South America to San Francisco, where it can be discharged and a new American cargo can be taken on for the trip to Yokohama. ANOTHER PECULIAR CASE.

Another striking announcement that made by the figures on Commander Sigsbee's chart is that the sailing distance from Brito to Yokohama via San Francisco is shorter than the route from the same points by way of Henolulu. By a perusal of a map of this portion of the Pacific it will be noticed that Honolulu is only a short distance south of a straight line between Brito and Yokohama, while San Francisco appears to be a greater distance north of the same line. Yet the distance from Brito to Yoko-hama via the California metropolis is 374 knots less than by way of Honolulu. The dis-tance from Brito to Honolulu is 4,210 knote and from Honolulu to Yokohama it is 3,400 knots, making the shortest practicable route This caused a call for a doctor and seventeen | from Brito to Yokohama via Hopolulu 7.610. which is 374 knots in excess of the 7,236 knots-the distance from Brito to Yoko-G. Miles, 1829 South Tenth street, piled a hama via San Francisco. Thus it is obvious lot of powder into a hole in the ground about that there is another advantage which the route via San Francisco has over that by match and a lighted firecracker. His face way of Honolulu.

Commander Sigsbee also shows by his hart that the route from Brito to Hong Kong via San Francisco is only twenty knots in excess of the shortest practicable distance from Brito to Hong Kong without the advantage of a stop. This will be shown by the following official statement:

CHOICE OF ROUTES. The shortest practicable route from Brito to Hong Kong, 8,740 knots; Brite to San Francisco, 2,700 knots; San Francisco to Hong Kong, 6,060 knots. Therefore the distance from Brito to Hong Kong via San Francisco is 8,760 knots, an excess of only twenty knots over the shortest practicable circle distance. Another remarkable statement which is drawn from this chart is that he route from Brito to Hong Kong via Honolulu is 367 knots in excess of the route from Brito to Hong Kong via San Francisco. This is derived from the following figures: Brito to Honelulu, 4.210 knots; Honelulu to Hong Kong, 4.917, making the distance from Brito to Hong Kong via Honolutu 9.127, which is 367 knots longer than the route via San

This latest map issued by the bydrographic office is said to be the most interesting chart that has been published for some time, and it is probably the most important one in view of the statements which it contains. It is said that it will no doubt do much good in said that it will no doubt do much good in bringing San Francisco into prominence as a shipping center, as well as an advantageous port for coaling purposes.

From the above table of distances it would appear that Honolulu and the other ports in the Hawaiian islands are not so essential for coaling stations as the friends of annex-ation have claimed them to be. Should the opening of the proposed Nicaraguan canal be accomplished the port of Brito will at ongain prominence as a shipping point, and if the friends of the canal enterprise are suc-cessful the table of distances prepared by Commander Sigsbee will play an important part in the navigation of the South as well as the northern portion of the Pacific COAL FOR INDIAN AGENCIES.

The Indian office has issued advertisements calling for bids for furnishing coal for a large number of the Indian agencies and schools throughout the country. These bids will cover the entire supply of coal for the Indian service to be used during the fiscal year 1896. The adventisements are to be inserted in a number of papers in the west, but a large part of the distribution will be made through the Indian agents, who will be furnished with copies of the advertise-ment and directed to supply the coal merhants and dealers in their neighborhoods. For a long period, it was the custom For a long period, it was the custom to advertise extensively in various daily papers circulating in the vicinity of the agencies, but lately the Indian office has been restricted in inserting process of this kind, and hence the greatersportion of the distribution must be done by the Indian agents. OMAHA GENERAL MARKETS. Condition of Trade and Quotations on Staple and Fanor Protuce. There was very little doing in the market for untry produce and the commission houses for the most part closed up early. So many people go out of the city on the Fourth of July that the demand for country produce, instead of being increased, as is the case on most other holidays, is really lighter than usual. The feeling on the arket was generally weak.

Holders of eggs are not feeling very strong and some of them are talking a lower market. Those who have any number of cases on hand are not refusing 9½c, and are glad to sell at at price. An occasional sale of choice bright tock, in single case lots, is reported at 19c. Quotations: EGGS—Choice stock, 91-c.
