AFFAIRS AT SOUTH OMAHA

Fourth of July Celebration Was a Decided Success. ONE THOUSAND PERSONS IN THE PARADE

Exercises at Synodicate Park Where Speeches, Music and Games Held the Crowd—Program Carried Out in Detail—Magic City Gossip.

The 119th anniversary of the nation's birth was fittingly celebrated by South Omaha citizens yesterday, and, strange to relate, no serious accidents or fires marred the pleasures of the day.

All interest centered in the Young Men's Institute celebration at Synodicate park, of which elaborate notices had been given. A street parade, announced to start from the Young Men's Institute hall on Twenty-fourth street, between N and O, drew a large crowd.

Twenty-two societies were represented, but the ranks in many were only partially filled. It had been expected that about 2,000 persons would turn out in the parade, but owing to the rain, there were but 1,000 in line when Marshal McCann gave the order to march.

Q street, thence east to Twenty-fourth and north to D street, the entrance to the park. Hon. George L. Miller and T. J. Nolan, Esq., Dr. George L. Miller and T. J. Nolan, Esq., notwithstanding the heavy rain of Wednesday night, the park was in fine condition. The ground was damp, but there was no mud. As soon as the crowds got inside the grounds they scattered, consequently a small change in the printed program was necessary.

The contractor who is putting up the Mahoney building at Twenty-fifth and N streets does not read the weather reports. When work on laying the brick foundations was stopped Wednesday evening a quantity of water was left in the gutter at the corner, completely blocking the catch basin.

After the sun came out Thursday forenoon and dried up the mud holes all the street crossings, the merchants along Twenty-fourth and N streets decorated the fronts of their places of business. Many of the store fronts looked very neat, others only showing small American flags. Taking it all together, the streets mentioned were fairly decorated, considering the fact that no united attempt had been made by the citizens to do honor to the nation's birthday.

suspected of doing the job has been arrested. Miss Alice Havens leaves for Boston, Mass., on Saturday, to represent Nebraska at the international convention of the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor.

Wednesday evening Mrs. William K. Reeder, residing in a cottage opposite the Reed hotel, left her baby in charge of a little girl and went to a dance at her neighbor's. The children upset the lamp and set the house on fire. The prompt arrival of home company No. 1 prevented any serious loss to the cottage or contents.

Next to being lost sea there is nothing that brings on the pangs of thirst quicker than bicycle riding. The hot sun and the constant inhalation of dust quickly parch the throat and makes the hiker long for the next stop for refreshments.

HOW OMAHA CELEBRATED

People Went to Picnic in Shaly Places or to Witness Athletic Sports.

DAY AROSE BATHED IN OCCIPUS SHOWER

Save of Fireworks Less by Half Than that of Last Year and the Noise on the Streets Correspondingly Less—Features of the Day.

Seldom has a national holiday been marked by as little stir and feature in Omaha as yesterday. It was in all respects the most uneventful Fourth for many years and during the day not even the fire alarms that usually follow the path of the small boy and his fire-crackers disturbed the monotony of the city.

The downpour of rain which disturbed the early morning slumbers of Omaha people brought a momentary disappointment to hundreds who had planned for a day's outing. But the rain which began falling at 4 o'clock, lasted less than an hour and the clouds were all dissipated before the rising sun.

It seems that picnics were the order of the day. There was no general celebration, and few were greater people on the streets than usual. An early morning trip along the suburban streets disclosed scores of wagons decked out with flowers and ribbons which were waiting for parties of pleasure seekers to the various shady resorts which surround the city.

One of the most remarkable features of the day was the extraordinary falling off in the sales of fireworks. Most dealers report that their sales were less than half what they were last year and the street sales in general were very light. The amount of noise on the streets was not in comparison to previous years. Last year the shooting began during the last week in June and on July 3 and 4 it was almost dangerous to walk the streets in the business part of the city.

Many who preferred to spend the Fourth in a quiet manner took advantage of the cool recesses offered by Hanson park. At an early hour families and individuals began to arrive, and up till a late hour the park thronged with thousands of men, women and children. At lunch time tables were set at a premium, and many refreshment houses were seen spread upon the smooth lawn of the park.

At Courtland Beach. The exceedingly heavy rain of yesterday morning caused Manager Arthur's face to lengthen perceptibly as he came from his room in the Merchants hotel, and it doubtless caused also several thousand excursionists to regret that they had not previously arranged to come to Omaha to spend the day at Courtland. It turned out to be a glorious Fourth. The sun coming out about 10 o'clock, cleared the clouds from the sky and from the face of the manager of Courtland beach. Picnic parties laden with baskets and camp utensils began to enter the grounds by 10:30 o'clock, and a continuous stream was kept up until after the evening performances were over.

The advertised program was carried out to the letter. The concert, day and night, was given by the Courtland Beach band were one of the principal features to lovers of good music. The unrivaled Pullman, who is known throughout the city as "the living equine," standing erect upon a hollow wooden globe only twenty-eight inches in diameter, rolled off in a perfectly horizontal position, ten inches wide from the base of the globe, and then across a cable five inches wide for a distance of fifty feet while free feet and arms were held outward as well as forward. He gave free exhibitions to the multitude, as did the royal Moorish troupe of Arabs under the management of the famous "The Flying Saucers" of athletes, acrobats, tumblers and gladiators is the largest and most perfect organization of gymnasts ever under one management.

The Tyrolese warblers will be at the beach on Sunday. The Salvation Army caught the spirit of the Fourth of July, adding the religious to the patriotic sentiment. Last evening the Omaha corps, with the assistance of the Council Bluffs corps, paraded the streets, the features being as announced yesterday morning.

It was remarked that this was the only Fourth procession in Omaha. During the afternoon the Salvation Army sold ice cream and other refreshments beneath the shade of the trees on the lot east of the barracks and the patronage was large. Restaurants Busy with Excursionists. The city offices of the various railroads remained open until noon yesterday, when the city passenger agents and their assistants drew down the blinds and proceeded to enjoy the national holiday.

Minor Celebrations. Robin Hood camp of the Woodmen of the World at Florence picnicked at Pries' lake yesterday.

Profited by Spirit of the Day. Judge Berka held a short session of the police court yesterday morning and was very liberally inclined toward the small aggregation of drunks and vagrants who filed up for consideration. They were allowed to go out and celebrate on promise of good behavior and several of the prisoners whose time was nearly up were allowed to go on the balance of their sentences were remitted.

Two Declarations of Independence

Independence is sublime. Long live independence! Picture the difference between our forefathers, suffering oppression and tyranny, tolling for the luxuries of kings, princes and lords, deprived of freedom, and you who enjoy liberty, freedom of speech and a member of a government, and not a subject of a king.

Picture the difference between a merchant under the pressure of a dictating power and ourselves, free to do as we please and independent of money-lending sharks.

We sell a $12.00 suit for $6.75. Who can prevent it? Of course we don't desire to go on record that we're rebellious, losing money just to convince that our goods are bought for spot cash only, and therefore could dispose of them as we please.

But as we mentioned in our last issue—500 of one kind, 300 of another—suits is more than we ought to have now—at this stage of the season. They're worth $12.00 a suit, well worth every cent of it, if times were not so devilish hard.

But to loosen a purse nowadays requires sacrifice—Six Seventy-Five—for a $12.00 suit seems to fetch 'em, judging by the crowds of yesterday and a day before. We got into the secret and are glad of it.

Light mixed all wool Cassimere 3-button cutaway sack, and navy blue serge, single and double breasted sack fashion. Won't fade; linings and trimmings extra good, neatly tailored and precise fitting.—The best you ever had for $12.
