

HOW SELJAN WAS KILLED

Details Brought Out at the Coroner's Inquest Yesterday Afternoon.

DETAILS OF THE CASE DESCRIBED AGAIN

Jury Unwilling to Go Further Than Simply to Find that the Man Died—All the Prisoners to Be Held—Conduct at the Morgue.

A coroner's jury yesterday afternoon held an inquest over the body of John Seljan in the police court room. The exact words of the verdict were "that from the evidence produced after due deliberation we do find that the said John Seljan came to his death at the hands of some of the hands of some other parties unknown to the jury."

When the verdict was read Coroner Maul stated that the verdict was no verdict, but that as it was signed by all the jurors it had to stand. It then dawned upon some of the jurors that this was a fact and they went to deliberate further and either disagree or reach another verdict.

TWO WISE JURORS. It is alleged that after the jury was drawn two men stated emphatically that from newspaper accounts and from what they knew of the case, added to their own experience, they knew positively that Seljan had committed suicide.

The testimony of Dr. Summers, who made the postmortem examination, also carried little weight in view of their own knowledge. The experienced physician stated positively that after the man had received the blow in his throat he could not have lived more than five minutes, with the probability in view of his dying several minutes sooner.

THE TESTIMONY. The first witness was Max Green, who testified to finding the body of Seljan in the rear of the cottage at 2315 S. 12th street, near the sewer between 10 o'clock and 11 o'clock on the morning of July 2.

GONE DAFT ON THE SPIRITS

Squandered a Fortune and Passing His Old Age in Want and Penury.

PROMINENT INVENTOR IS THE VICTIM

Man Who Devised the Yost Typewriter Abandons His Home to Become the Prey of a Set of Alleged Spiritualists.

NEW YORK, July 6.—Because of his belief in spiritualism and through the impositions of a professional medium, G. W. N. Yost, the inventor of the typewriter, is living apart from his family in a furnished flat on West Fifty-fourth street, attended by a friend and provided with none of the luxuries of life which are necessary to a man 70 years old.

He has expended time and thousands of dollars in pursuing the ignis fatuus which spiritualists have danced before his eyes.

He acknowledges that he is poor and a physical wreck. Yet he still believes in the men who impersonate him, and declares that he is as certain about the things he believes he has seen as he is that there is a heaven.

He was a man of fine intellect, a man who still has a family who are devoted to him, yet is almost deserted, is scarcely able to walk, much less continue his once brilliant career.

The man who was the prime mover in the conspiracy of spiritualists is summing at Ousset Bay, Mass.

The following account is given of the manner in which Mr. Yost became interested in spiritualism.

"I was in Chicago some acquaintance named Yost in that they knew of a young girl named Lizzie Bangs who was able to secure the key and unlock the door of the spirit world by means of an ancient and very credit typewriter machine.

"I visited the medium and found that pieces of paper were appearing on the typewriter without any aid from the operator.
