

PUZZLER FOR THE POLICE

One Feature of the Seljan Murder Case that is Not Yet Cleared Up. HOW DID THE BODY REACH THE RIVER

Search So Far Has Failed to Disclose the Means Used to Transport the Corpse of the Murdered Man. Nothing new was developed in the Seljan murder case yesterday. The detective force spent the entire day in an effort to discover how the body of Seljan was conveyed to the river after he was put to death. The search was, however, fruitless.

BLOOD STAINS NOT ESSENTIAL. All the vehicles in the neighborhood have been carefully examined by the detectives for blood stains, but none have been discovered in such a condition. If a vehicle was, however, it need not have been stained with blood. The body might have been carefully wrapped in a blanket or some other covering in such a manner that no blood would have escaped out of the wrapping.

Magic City Gossip. Fritz Duvy has been sent to jail to serve out a fine of $10 and costs for assaulting F. Benkowsky. It appears that both men are in love with the same girl, and after arguing the matter for a time, Duvy proceeded to whip his rival. The trial was before Justice Levy Saturday.

ISH DEEDS AWAY PROPERTY. Done to Defeat Damage Suits that May Be Started. James C. Ish and wife have transferred three tracts of down town property to Mrs. Margaret Ish, and a tract at the southeast corner of Twelfth and Douglas streets to Dr. M. Hager, father of Mrs. James Ish.

STRONG AGAINST ONE MAN. On the strength of the statements that have been made by Chief of Police White is confident that he will be able to convict at least one of the prisoners. This is Bukovec, or Kibovic. He, Cavannah, the sister of Police Drubnik and Mikan are also undoubtedly implicated in some manner, but Mrs. Mikan and Urbanowitch are not supposed to have taken any hand in the crime, although they may have obtained knowledge of it. Mrs. Mikan is evidently worried more about her husband than she is about herself.

GOING TO VISIT THEIR MINES. They Stop Over in Omaha on Their Way West. A party of capitalists interested in gold mining in the Gunnison country were in the city yesterday en route to Colorado on a prospecting tour. The party included Lewis Cavanah of Minneapolis, W. J. Poirer of Canton, O., and D. R. Bundy of Ironwood, Mich. Mrs. Cavanah accompanied the party and insisted upon being counted as one of the members from the ill effects of an unkindly number, as there were thirteen men on the excursion. All stockholders in the mines to be visited, Mrs. Cavanah is a sister of Police Officer Glover and stopped in Omaha to spend the day with him, the first visit since they were children.

THE WONDERFUL BLACK HILLS. All Teachers Should Know. All about the Black Hills—historic, instructive, interesting in every degree than any other part of the west. The Hot Springs of South Dakota are the delegates to the National Educational association meeting at Denver, holding tickets for the trip. The delegates will be returning from the Black Hills. Prof. Clemens of Fremont Normal school, Fremont, Neb., will accompany the party on the excursion party on this trip. Consult him or the nearest agent F. E. & M. V. or Union Pacific railway for further particulars.

PROPOSITION AT SOUTH OMAHA

Proposition to Vote High School Bonds Meets with Some Opposition. The question of voting bonds for a new High school building and to meet the operating expenses of the school is the subject of a proposition to vote high school bonds in the city of Omaha.

W. B. Cheek, president of the Board of Education, in speaking of the bond proposition yesterday, said that a new high school building was absolutely necessary as every school room in the city was overcrowded, and especially the high school. At the commencement of the next term of school there would be 125 additional pupils to enter the high school, and there was no place to put them. If the town was annexed, South Omaha would never get a high school, and parents would be compelled to send their children to Omaha to school. Four more rooms, he said, were needed to relieve the Missouri avenue and the Brown park schools. The third ward school was crowded, and something would have to be done at once.

Other members of the board were of the same opinion as Mr. Cheek. Dave Anderson said that in his opinion it would be better to pay interest on bonds for ten or twenty years than to pay the 20 mill school levy. Anderson thought that the Board of Education had done wrong in entering into the proposition. He argued, should the bonds be voted, the interest on the bonds should be paid for a year or two, and then the Attorney Van Dusen claimed that he was in doubt as to whether bonds could be legally voted to pay the running expenses of the schools. He did not see how the proposition could be carried out.

It has been decided by the Board of Education to have but nine months' school term, from September 1st to June 1st. Other plans have failed; there is no law that would allow the school term to be extended. By doing this it is thought that about $5,000 can be saved.

Went Out to Get a Square Meal. Last Saturday afternoon, when the burglars, Frank and Howard, broke jail, a negro named Amos Terrell also escaped. Terrell was in for breaking into Markeson's saloon and stealing some whisky, cigars and money therefrom. While the police were all out hunting for the robbers, Terrell returned to the city prison and waited until some one returned to look him up again. When asked how he got out, he said that a white negro said to him that he was tired of jail grub and wanted to go home and get a square meal. Investigation proved that he went home, ate all he could get and then meandered back to his cell.

NATIONS FOR THE PEOPLE

Duty of the Patriot to Point Out the Sins that Exist. FOSTERS'S KEY TO NATIONAL GREATNESS

Old Everyday Bible Without Variations is Satisfactory to Pastor of Knox Church—Fifth-month Congregational Church Welcomes a New Pastor. Last evening at the Immanuel Baptist church the pastor, Rev. Frank W. Foster, selected for his text: "The Exaltation of the Nation." In discussing this subject, he said: There you have the key to all national greatness.

It is not conquest, nor Napoleonic diplomacy and daring, or "alertness." It is not revolution, not the wars of York and Lancaster, nor the wars of the emperors, but the simple, old-fashioned, established principle of a moral principle that exalt a nation. A little nation like Holland, when it can train a little band of pilgrims in principles of liberty and equity and send them out to found a nation upon these principles, is of greater worth to the world than a conquering Caesar.

Righteousness is a word which politicians have been trying to relegate to the domain of theology, along with the ten commandments. The world likes to keep justice, if not too strict, and integrity, which are not too precise, but these virtues cannot exist apart from the other virtues which are the chief virtues of a nation. If a nation would live longer than another nation, it would claim the right to exist at all in this enlightened age.

Our national flag represents some Chicago or Baltimore caucus, and not the whole of the population. It represents not union nor justice, but selfishness and cunning. The greatest strength of the nation does not depend upon corn, but character; not upon climate, nor cotton, nor commerce, but upon the moral character of the people. If it elevates the whole people, if it lifts the masses from illiteracy and immorality, if it feeds more hungry and clothes more of the ragged, and houses more of the homeless, if it lessens pain and misery and suffering is lightened and homes are happier and hearts lighter and lives are purer, then this great increase of wealth, this constantly increasing wealth of the nation, will prove a blessing, and the nation will be exalted by it; otherwise this wealth will be a curse.

As in the physical body congestion causes fever, which, if not relieved, will terminate in death, so in the body politic any congestion which causes one part to become feverish is sure to bring death to the body if the fever is not broken. Everybody laughs at the fun incidents which this distinctly American author handles so cleverly with his satirical pen, and with such telling effect; they cannot help it. "A Black Sheep" it is said Mr. Hoyt has mingled humor and pathos with flashes of his brightest wit and bits of his most original stage business in his most crafty manner.

Heading a cast which is beyond all doubt one of the best which Mr. Hoyt has ever gathered together to produce one of his new plays, are Otis Harlan, Joseph Frankau, Joseph Natus, "Big Bill" Devere, Fanny French, and the famous "Hattie" Williams. Agnes Paul, Nellie Butler, Paula Edwards, and a host of specialty artists.

Look at Pearline through the wrong end of the glass, if you will; make all its labor-saving, money-saving qualities appear as small as you like; cut them down one-half;—and still there will be left a place for it in every home and an urgent call for it from every bright, progressive woman. It isn't necessary to exaggerate the virtues of Pearline. Perhaps that couldn't easily be done. But without telling of them all, there's enough to prove it the easiest, quickest, safest and most economical thing you can use, in all washing and cleaning.

PULPIT EDITORIALS

BY REV. FRANK CRANE. Elijah Halford, Gentleman: No one would hate false fame more than the man whose name here appears. But the Pulpit comes neither to bury Caesar, nor to praise him. Suffer, however, a few points that may not be without profit to the youth of this burg. Here is a man who has gone through two professions, each of which is supposed to be so crowded with temptations that a man cannot be a Christian and succeed, and has come out with garments untouched by fire, or smell of shame. You, my young friend, think that your business is to get on from being a boy to a man and a man. All the way up the ladder of journalism climbed this man, from newsboy to editor; all the way up the scale of politics ascended from being a boy to a man and a man. He was chief instrument in effecting the nomination of a president; sailing through seas of simony, cunningly mingling with thieves and blackguards, and yet, amid all, and after all, a sincere Christian. What do you think of that? "To be a church member disbars you from associating with thieves and blackguards, and yet, amid all, and after all, a sincere Christian. What do you think of that?"

Just reflect a moment, young man. Here is the editor of the Indianapolis Journal, chief editorial founder of the Chicago Inter-Ocean, minister of state in the republican cabinet, private secretary to the chief executive, discharging the duties of a minister, a man cultured, traveled, experienced, who during his two years' stay in Omaha rarely missed a midweek prayer meeting, worked hard at his studies, and attended a Sunday school class, actively participated in the Young Men's Christian association, and was the best all around "good fellow" that the city ever had.

My Dear Sir: You are witnessing much talk and activity in this city, and mark the city's citizens of Omaha care nothing for you except as a bagatelle between factional sections. Suffer the Pulpit to say to you that of this partisan war about you the people have only a feeling of deep regret that it should occur. We care not who brought you, whether A. P. or Roman Catholics, or republican, or democrat. We believe that you are capable and honest. What we want you to do is to enforce the law. Before your eyes you see the lawless and the lawless in this place. Watch policemen hobnobbing with lawless men, and mark the agents of law sheltering crime. See for yourself that the Shocum law is constantly and openly violated. The entire policy of this city is to shelter crime and not to suppress it. If, as some threaten, you are only to stay a few weeks, will you not make those weeks memorable for a time in Omaha because of the crime you have enforced? Some men can only become famous by fraud and wrong; you have the rare opportunity to become a name that will live in the history of this city. We ask you to do no fanatical foolishness; don't smear anybody with dirt and burn them; don't make speeches; don't give vent to your anger; don't do anything but enforce the law, but just simply enforce the law. You have no right to obey the Board of Commissioners, nor the council, nor any one else, but the law of the land, and the constitution. You will have hard work to do your duty without the co-operation of those who ought to help you. But try it. Issue orders that any violator of the statute against disorderly houses or unlicensed liquor selling or gambling be immediately arrested. Do this for one month and then if they turn you out, then you will have the sympathy of all the fair and reasonable people of Omaha who know the reason why. But if, under you, things are neither better nor worse than before, we, the people, care little whether it's you or another that is drawing the salary.

There was danger in new era, said the speaker, in the selection of ministers to neglect the word of God in the selection of their texts and sermons, matter. There shall be no more of the kind of preaching, and therein was the danger to the church. Teachers in the schools, while they might employ new methods, were held to the established line of instruction in mathematics, history and sciences, explaining the principles that had been established for centuries. There was a warning that the teacher in the pulpit should stick to the principles of truth that had been the foundation of church and of civilization through all of the ages. "In these days," he said, "congregations demand eccentricities, and preachers accommodate them, but the danger passes into an eccentric preaching loses his hold on the Word of God. In this congregation has a responsibility in keeping the preacher close to the Bible."

Rev. MacAyeal closed his address by urging his congregation to join with him in building up the church, in conformity with the established line for carrying out the book of God's work, as laid down in the plan of books.

OUTING SHIRTS.

Some people like this weather—some don't. We would call it just right if we hadn't fell short on sales of Neglige Shirts. What bothers us most is whether the people wear last summer's shirts patched up, or economize and suffer? We'll find out pretty soon. Shirts will be sold much cheaper from now on—at cost, or even at a loss. Can't sell lovely Shirts, of a big assortment (at such pitiful prices as we mention this season) fast enough, then we'll force 'em at all hazards.

At least two dozen patterns of percale shirts, with collar and cuffs (laundered, pink, blue and dark patterns, at FIFTY CENTS—worth a dollar anyway. About the same amount of pretty designed percale shirts, some with separate collars and cuffs, some with collars and cuffs attached, at SEVENTY-FIVE CENTS. Our former price was $1.00, and some one else's price $1.25.

Quite a collection of French percale dress shirts—striped and polka dot, collars and cuffs detached, lovely fitting at A DOLLAR. Used to be $1.25; others get $1.50 for nearly like that.

Madras, laundered, regular $2.00 values, cut down to $1.25. But if you wish for negligee you have to come and look. We have too many. At 30c—35c—40c—45c—50c—55c and so on.

Can't discriminate. Whatever suits your fancy it is our pleasure to sell. Chances are that we have just the pattern you like. If we haven't with a tremendous stock like that, the man with a handfull of shirts might have it, and you are never too late to get it.
