ALL RIGHT IN A LIGHT WIND

Defender Shows Her Sailing Qualities Under More Strenuous Circumstances.

BEAT VIGILANT HOWE NINE MINUTES

that Defender has had in New York waters against Vigilant today only furnished more evidence that the new hoat is better than the old in light weather. They sailed over a triangular course outside of Sandy Hook, and were tested in pratty nearly every kind of sailing. They started out before the wind. Before they had gotten half way on the journey of the first leg of ten miles they were sailing with the wind over the quarter. Before they got to the end of the first leg they were even more closely hauled. On the second leg they were reaching free and tacking, and on the final angle they were able to head to the home mark with a fairly well lifted sheet.

The result left no doubt as to the respecttive qualities of the boats in the kind of weather that prevailed, but that weather was of the lightest character. At no time did the breeze blow harder than twelve knots an hour, and it fell at times to four. On the run out before the wind at the start Vig. of the race was coming up strong from the the run out before the wind at the start Vig-llant not only held her own for a period, but at the end of four miles was well abeam of, Defender. This run was made with spinnaker set and drawing, under which conditions, it is almost universally conceded, Vig-Hant is the fastest boat in the world. She showed these same qualities here as well as on the other side of the Atlantic. When it came to the point, however, where, because of little shift in the wind, spinnakers had to e hauled in and booms hauled inboard. Defender instantly shot ahead. She kept ahead and was never afterward overhauled during the entire thirty miles, unless it might have been on certain little portions of the course where the wind dropped to almost nothing. It those places seemed as though Vigitant picked up, but The run bethe gain was inconsiderable. tween the marks shows that Defender gained

NO NEW SAILS. It was expected that Vigilant would show up with new sails this morning, but it turned out that she had only time to make a few alterations in the canvas that she used on Saturday. One improvement there certainly was in her outfit, the cleaning of her centerboard. A diver was sent down to examine the centerboard yesterday while the boat lay inside of the Sandy Hook horseshoe. He found it covered with barnacles and grass. The board had not been touched for polishing purposes when Vigilant was docked at the Erie basin for the cleaning of her hull, because there was no room to lower it for examination. This improvement, when the diver had finished, was no small one. It. together with the change in the cut of her sails, made the boat do better without doubt than she did on Saturday. Yet, the only time she gained on Defender was when she had that same old champion centerboard hauled up and it was of no use whatever. Defender appeared in Just about the same form as she showed in the first race. Trifling improvement was made in her block work, and a small cut was taken out of her club topsail. If there were any improvements in form it was in Vigilant, and that makes Defender's performance more remarkable. Directly after the start the racers found themselves dead before the wind. Down went Vigilant's spinnaker boom at the first sign of a dead astern wind and it was not a minute later that Defender followed suit, while Vigilant met with a mishap at the start, a small sloop getting in her way. She was on the starboard tack while Defender was still on the port. Defender came around just before the line was reached. but refused to give way to the old boat, which; because she was on the starboard though there would be a collision, but the older boat by courtesy waived her right, and went about to the port tack, passing in under Defender's lee quarter until she Vigilant at once raised a flag of protest, but no notice was taken of it at the time by the committee. The yachts went over the line with jib topsails flying and continued up to the time that the spinnakers DEFENDER GAINED QUICKLY. After the spinnakers were hauled in Defender began to go ahead. Within the space of a mile from the time the spinnakers were hauled down Defender was a good sixteenth of a mile ahead. Rounding the first mark, despite the fact that Defender had some little distance to go, she perceptibly gained on Vigilant, making a very pretty turn with-in twenty feet of the buoy, and went away on the starboard tack with sails quite full in She was very quick coming up in the wind, and as the main sheet was hauled aft, she held her head up and went very quickly through the water, close hauled, making the course southwest in a wind that had died down to about six miles an hour. Vigilant did not go so close to the buoy, but she went around it just as fast.

Jib topsalls were run out at the beginning of the second leg and as the wind freshened a little bit the contestants presented a pretty picture. At 2:20 Defender found she could not weather the second mark, so she went about to port, and, as there was a bit of a breeze at the moment, she showed how she could spin around from one tack to the other. Defender stood on this tack for three minutes, when she came around to starboard while Vigilant held on to her old starboard tack. At 2:44 Defender tacked to port, Vigilant still holding on. At 2:54 Vigilant went around to port, always showing herself to be from seven to ten seconds slower in tack-ing. Defender came along in fine style and passed the last buoy at 2.50:11. Vigilant did not get around until 2.57:25. They came home without a tack home without a tack, a point or a point and a half from the wind. On the stretch Defender only gained more and the finish took place amid a great bellowing of whistles and the firing of cannon and the tooling of horns from the collection of steam yachts and excursion boats that were gathered about the line. The official time was: Defender, 4:19:30; Vigilant, 4:28:47. Thus Defender wins by nine minutes and seventeen seconds At II o'clock, the time set for the start,

After the warning signal, fired at 11:14, and when both boats maneuvered, the gun for the start was fired. At 11:24 Defender was in best position. At 11:24:30 she swept over the starting line and Vigilant, chasing her engerly, made her formal start at 11:25:10, or about forty second behind the leader. Just before the two boats went across the line they brought out their balloan jib topsails. De-fender seemed first to gain by this movement. The great racers being thus started, the ex-cursion fleet and pleasure craft hurried off with them, keeping well to Iseward. Both yachts were carrying main sails, club sails and stay sail. The sky was cloudy and the wind was west southwest, about twelve miles

DEFENDER GAINED STEADILY. At 11:33 Defender's crew sent up her bal-loon jib and at that time she was increasing the distance between horself and Vigilant at the start. The sails on each boat were draw-ing well, and those of Defender fitted her more exactly than they did in the race on Saturday.

At 11:38 a. m., as seen from Far Rockaway. to be leading Vigilant by a minute and twenty-two seconds. Five minutes later observers from the Long Island coast lost the two boats from view as they sailed off straight into the ocean southeastward. At 11:45, nearly half of the first leg of the course appeared to have been sailed. Defender had nearly, if not quite, a mile of clear water between her-the boats were sailing and by the direction of the wind that the contest of the day would be an excellent test of the reaching qualtities of the contending yachts. Vigilant was a trifle more tender than Defender. Out where the boats were the breeze was fitful betwen noon and 12:30, for an occasional flutter of the big sails was observable.

At 1:02, unofficial time, Defender rounded the turning point at the end of the first ten rolles. Two minutes and either records miles. Two minutes and eighteen seconds later Vigilant came around the stake boat.

CARRIES HER CANVAS WELL.

In the race away from the first turning boat it seemed clear from the Highlands, where the vision ranged nearly across the course of the yachts, that Vigilant was gain-ing on Defender. Having squared well away America.

NEW YORK, July 22.—The second trial that Defender has had in New York waters trained by the total to their work it was evident again that Defender was stiffer than Vigilant. The new boat carried her canvas easily, while Vigilant bested over so that the ripples were running along her port rail. Both yachts stood on the starboard tack toward the Jerseinst Vigilant today only furnished more sey coast and made one long leg of about twenty minutes. It became evident that the second turning point would be close under the Jersey shore near Asbury Park. Defender was well to windward at 1:44 and both were on the port tack. Five minutes later the two yachis went about on the star-board tack and made another leg toward Asbury Park. Jib top sails were upon both yachis at this time and Defender seemed about three-quarters of a mile ahead.

At 2 o'clock the breeze freshened, hauling somewhat to the southwest. Defender caught it first and gained some distance on Vigliant. Defender went about on the starboard tack at 2:20 and headed in shore, Vigilant still holding on to the long leg. At 2:49 Vigilant went about on the starboard tack, standing o the turning mark. Meantime Defender on the starboard tack, was making a wid turn, going fully a quarter of a mile inshore from the turning stake. At 2:50 Defende had rounded the second mark. At 2:57 V|g| west. FINISHED WITH A RUSH, At 3:12 Defender was off Scabright and sailing like a witch. Both yachts were at the time sailing steadily under the influence of a full beam wind out of the west, blowing At 3:15 neither yacht had tacked since rounding the last stake boat. Defender, it the lead, was beeling so that her bronze kee could be seen to windward flashing in the sunlight. Astern, Vigilant was beeling at a sharp angle and the accompanying flotilla of tugs and boats hurrying along with cheers their whistles.

At 3:26 Defender was off the Highlands and about a mile in the lead. At 3:36 De-fender was close on to the finish line and the Vigilant was off the Highlands. So the boat Defender rushed on to close the contest, and with her canvas drawing beautifully sped over the line of finish at 3:44:20, while the defeated Vigilant was through a long lane of every variety of craft while the victor was easily making her way to port. Nine minutes and fifty seconds after the victor had finished Vigilant went over ment on the Question of Ratio. CHICAGO, July 22.-The Horr-Harvey debate on silver was resumed at the Illinois club rooms this afternoon. There was a fair attendance. Mr. Horr opened the dispute with a written argument, touching the impossibility of maintaining a fixed ratio between gold and silver. As the result of experience all of the civilized nations of the globe had discarded silver as a standard money. It was useless to exploit long tables of ratios to show whether a double standard could be maintained. The world had proounced against silver.

Mr. Harvey said he had been called on by letters and telegrams to give statements by Blaine, Ingalls and others concerning the demonetization act. He said that the time at his disposal in the debate would not admit of it. Taking up Mr. Horr's eulogy of Senator Morrill, delivered on Saturday, he charged that Senator Morrill erred in saying that no sliver dollars had been coined for forty years prior to 1873. Mr. Harvey read from the re-port of the director of the mint, showing that silver dollars in greater or less amounts had been coined nearly every year. The fact was that Mr. Morrill was a bank stockolder with a bank stockholder's prejudices.

He called on Mr. Horr to explain. Mr. Horr said that Mr. Morrill had not meant to say that not a dollar had been coined, but that none to speak of had been. At most it could be said that Mr. Morrill had made a mistake. Mr. Harvey in his book had made a mistake, and a bad one, in stating the amount of silver which had been coined during the life of the government.
