POINTS AND POPPLETON.

Mr. J. J. Points was called upon by mebers of the audience and made a stirring ad dress for fifteen minutes on the necessity of fitness for the offices in the gift of the peo-ple. He said that in local affairs he was the best citizen who placed his citizenship above partisenship. In response to loud calls, W. S. Poppletor made a brief speech, filled with facts and figures showing the criminal extravagance which has characterized the administration of public affairs in Omaha since the dervish coningent got control of the offices four years igo. Mr. Poppieton gave official figures to ago. show that the running expenses of the city are now $116,000 a year greater than they were in 1851, when the present gang of plunderers got into control. He dissected the claims of W. J. The applause which greeted Mr. Kierstead's remarks was as tumultuous as that which met Mr. Miller. When he was seated Chair-man Coburn introduced Charles A. Coe. LOCAL ISSUES ONLY INVOLVED. Mr. Coe said that the issue in the election this fall was not between the republican and lemocratic parties, but was on that which touches the citizens most, their pocketbooks. The dervishes are making a pretense of fight-ing on republican principles, but their real purpose is to keep the city under misrule. They think they are strong enough to The citizens, however, will not be hoodwinked by this republican talk. What they are after this fall is not tariff, or free trade, gold or silver. They are after cheaper gas, cheaper water, cheaper paving. The city is nothing else than a huge mercantile concern, and the people want it run like a mercantile concern. It certainly cannot be run in that way by men for whom a business man would not give $10 for a mortgage on his life. "There is no question of national policy involved in the fight. It is simply a question of bread and butter, of how much taxes we will have to pay." Frank J. Lange was called for a few remarks and he responded briefly. Then D. Clem Deaver was called to the front, but before he had an opportunity to get well into his speech he was interrupted by a burst of ap-plause. The speaker stopped for a moment to allow the hand clapping to subside, but beginning from the rear it appeared to spread to the front of the ball. It finally culminated In a steady roar when E. Rosewater was seen pressing through the crowd to the front. With a few remarks Mr. Deaver finished his interrupted speech and Mr. Coburn at once announced Mr. Rosewater.

Frank Agan lowered his record of 2:65, both 2:05, and the performance was a most creditable one when everything is considered. The track was at its best, but even at that it was probably a second slow. A strong wind was blowing from the north, which made the journey down the entire back stretch bad. That the wind proved a very considerable obstacle to anything like record time is shown by the fact that in almost every heat the last quarter was the fastest of the mile. Robert J made a noble struggle for victory, and Geers drove him out in every heat, but Frank Agan, who was not sent out until the third, won the last three heats, the third and fourth without more than a nose to spare from Robert J. Joe Patchen was the only one of the four pacers who failed to take a heat, but he was clearly out of shape, showing some signs of tameness. Agan won his three heats without a skip. on to speak of Broatch's conduct since he had again obtained a position in the adminis-tration of the city on the fire and police bourd. "Let us see who has attempted to reform and who has thwarted it-the old police commission, or the Broatch and his new one," said Mr. Rosewater. "The old commission, in the first place, succeeded in obtaining Reddell, a tried fire fighter, for the fire depart-ment. Then they got Captain White for the police force, a man whose reputation was that of a first-class man. Vandervoort says that White was a Pinkerton, but I have White's affidavit that he was never in any-way connected with the Pinkertons. Finally they decored from the cline for the set of the set of the they decored from the set of the set they deposed from the police force man whose scandalous conduct was disgracing the serv-"On the other hand, Broatch, Jim Allan and others succeeded in having a law passed which stripped the mayor of all power to enforce the laws, as he is required to do by the city ordinances. When they got into power they put back Haze and Sigwart, who by their disreputable and scandalous con-duct should not only have been fired, but drummed out of the city. They not only put them back, but promoted them. Sigwart, the man who led the Blair can can dance, was made chief. Others whom they could not put on the force they try to reward with office.
