Mr. Rosswater referred to the arrest of Jeroma Coulier for robing he city treasury and said that Detective Cox had been sent after him, and was "still on the way." WHAT CHARGERS IS AFTER.

WHAT CHAFFEE IS AFTER.

Referring to the condition and position of the candidates on the dervish ticket. Mr. Rosewater said: "They all cry Rosewater, thinking to attract the attention of the voters from their records, which stare them in the face. Chaffee has vouched for the integrity of Broatch, and I wondered some at that, for Mr. Chaffee does not feel very kindly over his defrat, and thinks that certain corporation influence was used to give the nomination to Broatch. I did not have to look far, however, to find what occasioned Mr. Chaffee's support of Broatch. The leason was found in the vetoes of Mayor Bemis. Two years ago Chaffee presented a bill against the city for $9,445, claimed to be due the Howell Lumber company, of which he will have a chance to have some little will have a chance to have some little. the Howell Lumber company, of which he is the receiver. The bill was allowed by the council, and vetoed by the mayor, for the reason that the Howell Lumber company owed the city $7,000 and over for taxes and assessments. The bill was passed three times and vetoed by the mayor three times, and Edwards and Jacobsea voted every time and Edwards and Jacobsea voted every time to carry it over the veto. Chaffse wants his bill, and the only way he can see to get it is to elect a mayor who would sign it as soon as it passes the council, and he knows Broatch would do that, just as he signed the $40,000 gas stall before the ink was dry on the resolution of the council ordering its payment, when as a matter of fact one-half of the sum could never have been collected had the case been allowed to take its way in the courte."

Nevertheless he caused sidewalks to be constructed the courte."

Addresses were made by J. J. Points, W. A. Redick, Albert Cahn and L. A. Harmon, all of them pointing out the necessity of united action in an effort to redeem the city from the present era of misrule and extrav-

SEVENTH WARDERS ARE AROUSED. State of City Affairs and Prospect of Reform Interests Them. There was a rousing citizens' meeting last light in the Seventh ward in the hall at 1212 Park avenue. Long before the hour at which the meeting was advertised to be opened a big crowd of voters was congregated in front of the place, waiting for the hall doors to be thrown open and for the speakers to arrive. When the doors were finally unlocked the crowd pushed into the room and filled all the chairs. Those who came to the meeting late were obliged to be ontented with what standing room they ould find in the rear. At 8 o'clock the meeting was called to order and Judge Langdon was elected as chairman. Judge Laugdon, as he took the chair, gave a brief exposition of the objects for which the meet-ing was called. He laid great stress upon the fact that the fight this fall was over the question of whether the citizens would the question of whether the clizens would permit to remain in power men who not only overburdened the citizens with taxes, but robbed them of the money after it had been collected into the treasury, or whether they would supplant them with business men.

Judge Langdon introduced W. T. Redick, who said that he was almost the only candidate on the citizens ludgical tiest who says.

date on the citizens' judicial ticket who could do any campaign work, as four of the others, Duffle, Keysor, Ferguson and Hopewell, were on the bench administering impartial justice to those who came before them, instead of forsaking their duties and tramping and elec-tioneering about the country for themselves. They were typifying that reform which is the battle cry of the Citizens' movement, and which some people have seemed fit to

"They say that reform stands for rot, rant and rank," said Mr. Redick, "but Comfortable Cloaks, not too heavy, or little ones from 2 to 5 years old things. It stands for right, for tuings. It stands for right, for the right that a citizen has to stand before a judicial tribunal before he is sertenced. It stands for the right to worship God according to one's conscience, without having a political horde call one to account. It stands for representation in all departments of the city systems.

city government." Chairman Langdon presented E. Rosewater

Mr. Rosewater began his speech by giving Mr. Rosewater began his speech by giving little resume of Ben Baker's political hisory while he was in Nebraska, speaking of his interesting career in the legislature and in the office of United States district attory. He then touched upon Baker's connec-on with Charles Moster, dwelling on the fact that while Mosher was guilty of perjury, forgery and embezzlement, Baker, although district attorney, allowed him to get away with only a five years' sentence in the peni-tentiary. He told of how, when The Bee had exposed the fact that Mosher was given the freedom of the city while supposed to be in confinement at the county Jail, being even allowed to go to disreputable places. Baker had taken it upon himself to investi-gate the matter, and on the eve of election had offered a letter to the papers of the city in which he sought to exongrate the sheriff who had allowed Mosher Ircedom. Mr. Rosewater said, however, that he had come to the meeting to discuss the issues of the campaign, and not Baker. He stated that when he arrived at the hall he had picked up a paper a week old in which it was stated that Coulter had been arrested in New Or leans. Then, stopping, he turned to the city prosecutor, Shoemaker, who was sitting near v. and asked:

Who went after Coulter?" "Cox." responded Shoemaker, and the

"This may appear laughsble," continued Mr. Rosewater, "but it is a serious matter. It was the sheriff's duty to go after Coulter, and not that of the chief detective, the chief sniveller who is warning the gamblers that they will have to vote for Broatch or be souffed out. He was evidently sent for the purpose of coaching Coulter, to instruct him in the story that the gamblemen in the city hall want him to tell. It is only another hall want him to tell. They maintain that the councilmanic ticket is composed of clean men. In the First ward they have Sam Dubois, who was called by Seavey lazy and worthless. Another is Honorable Jim Alian, the highcockle-lorum of the last legislature. Something like John McDonald, the champion of the labor-ing men who do not labor, he earned his title by riding around on the street cars watching for conductors who knocked down. There is also Mr. Bob Duncan, who threw up an $1.800 position to take an $800 job. Another is the clerk of the garbage master, Christy, who will keep the poundmaster and dogcatcher in line. These are the men who are to retreach to the amount of $20,000. If the citizens' candidates are elected they will say that they would of course have mad-this retrenchment, but if the citizens are defeated and they get in little by little the offices and galaries will be increased until the $20,000 retrenchment will become a myth. "There are clean men in the city hall, but There are clean men in the city hait, but they have spread demoralization through the building. For instance, there is the comptroller, whose salary, and those of his assistants amount to $13,000 a year, and who, with all his force, was not able to ascertain that the license money collected in December, amounting to $125,000, was not finally turned into the school fund by the treasurer until the following April.

HIGH TIME FOR REFORM.

HIGH TIME FOR REFORM. HIGH TIME FOR REFORM.

"It is time for reform, time to drive out the embezziers who are running the city into bankruptcy. The municipal debt is enormous. The bonded indebtedness is $3,000,000. The debt against the smaller property owners which will have to be paid in the next few years is $1,600,000 more. There is a deficit of $568,000 in the school fund. This is a total debt of $5.224,000. Then the county debt will increase this to $6,000,000. Yet they say that it is not time for reform in the city and county governments."

J. J. Points urged the voters of the city J. J. Points urged the voters of the city to lay as de their partisanship and to look after their interests this fall. The fight was on no national issues, but was on the ques-tion whether the city was to be longer gov-erned by the corrupt gang who were in power. W. S. Shozmaker especially appealed to democrats to support the ticket. He warned citizens not to be deceived by the cry of "Rozewater" which was raised by those whom Rosewater had antagonized because he had denounced them for their corruptness. Another democrat, Thomas Flynn, also urged the city, although there is considerably less business in Omaha now than there was four years ago. This fact was causing the Chairman Langdon presented by the control of the audience. That Mr. Rosewater required little, if any, introduction was evident from the handelapping which greeted him as and keeping investors from the city. He exposed the former administration of exposed the former administration of Broatch, which is being offered as an argument for his re-election. He prophesied, however, that the whole gang would be turned down on election day, and that their places would be filled by the business men whose names were on the citizens' ticket. Charles A. Coe confined himself to urging voters to no longer rely on the promises of the republican candidates, but to vote for men who were pledged to run the city on pure business principles. Thomas Swobe, like Mr. Coe, made but a few remarks on account of the lateness of the hour. A Druggist's Complaint.
