DUNRAVEN TELLS HIS STORY [FOR

Says He Expected His Course Would Lead to Strong Criticism.

INSISTS CHARGES WERE WELL FOUNDED

Made the Complaint Against Defender at the Time the First Race Was Sailed and Asked for a Remeasurement.

CARDIFF, Wales, Nov. 21.-A number of prominent residents of this city tonight publicly presented to Lord Dunrayen a silver model of Valkyrie III. The inscription on the model's base, which was approved by Lord Dunrayen, is as follows:

Presented at Cardiff, November 21, 1895, to the earl of Dunraven, K. P., by his neighbors and friends, in recognition of his gallant efforts to bring home the America's cup." Lord Dunrayen, replying to the gentlemen who made the presentation, said that this occasion was one of the happiest moments of his life, and added: "I have passed through a very trying experience and I adopted a certain course because it was my plain duty. I fully realized that this course was likely to be widely misunderstood and that it would entail upon me much annoyance and anxiety. I anticirated that my words would be twisted, my actions misunderstood and all sorts of false motives attributed to

"Some highly imaginative people seem bent upon trying to delude themselves and others into the belief that in taking the course it was necessary for me to take I was actuated by some feeling of animosity against the American people. Others accuse me of be-ing the victim of pique, spite or passion, and the strange delusion of all is the storm of indignation passing over the United States at my alleged treachery in formulating a charge from the safe distance of 3,000 miles; that astonished me and I resent it, for it would have been mean and contemptible. I have done nothing of the kind.

'I am unwilling to enter into a discussion of these subjects, more especially as every-thing I say or do is by some curious mismisunderstood by the press of America. It is, however, due to you who have paid me the highest possible compliment in expressing confidence in the belief that I acted in a way not unworthy of the honorable traditions of British sport that I should say a few words on the subject of the complaint I made that Defender sailed the first race more deeply immersed and consequently with a longer water line than according to the measurement she was entitled to

"I have not made an accusation against anybody. I mentioned a fact which I believe to be true, and which I still believe to be true, namely, that Defender sailed the first race more deeply immersed than when she was measured the day previously, and I gave my reasons for so thinking. Of that fact I have not the slightest doubt. Whether am right or wrong is a matter of opinion and must, I fear, always remain so, seeing that the only possible opportunity of ab-solutely proving or disproving the justice of my complaint was not utilized.

"It is absurd to pretend I was actuated by spite or pique because my vessel was beaten, for I made the complaint before the first race was started to Mr. Latham Fish, a member of the committee, who was also Defender's representative on Valkyrie. I gave him my reasons for my belief in words almost identical with those I used in the pamphlet. I asked that both vessels billity. He says he is standing before the be remeasured immediately, marked externally, and that the committee take charge fense, and invokes vindication of the honor of them until they were remeasured, that of the owner of Defender, the New York fair grounds. They were separated, how-being surely, as every man of sense must Yacht club, and the American people. I ever, before they had done much damage

I had no notice to that effect, but I put Mr. Fish on board the committee for the purpose of laying my complaint before the purpose of laying my complaint before them, and obviously they were informed, for they acceded to a portion of my request, though, most unfortunitely, not to all of

"Obviously also, Defender's people must have known all about the matter, as I madhe complaint and referred the question he committee through the representative Defender, and, naturally, he must have told

"I, myself, in the presence of three or four other gentlemen, had a long talk on the subject with the official measurer of the New York Yacht clob. There was ALL KNEW OF THE CHARGES. "There was no concealment in the matter. The official measurer, all the people belong about my complaint, and I think the attempt now made to prejodice me in the eyes of two countries by accusing me of making from the security of my home an entirely row the security of my none at each row charge which I did not dare to make out the other side of the Atlantic, a charge stigmatized as a most gross and deliberate insult, are uncalled for.

"If it is an insult now, it was certainly equally an insult when it was made and I cannot but think thus violent hurricane of indignation would have carried that con-viction had it burst over my devoted head at the time the complaint was made, while I was in America and could have stood up for myrelf.

'I have been criticised here at home, to and it has been said: 'Though you did make a complaint six weeks ago, the matter had dropped out of sight. Why revive it? I quite agree that it might be better to let the matter drop; it did not constitute my reason for withdrawing from the contest and I should not have alluded to the water line complaint if I could have avoided it, but I could not. I published the facts here before the committee reported upon them to the New York Yacht club and the club published the report in a New York newspaper. Why those interested in Defender did not insist that immediate steps be taken to prove the groundlessness of my complaint, I do not know. Why the committee does not take the steps I cannot tell. I could do nothing to justify my complaint.

"I cannot understand men saying I had no right to make a complaint against Defender. That is to say, I ought to have trusted to the absolute accuracy and integrity of men of whom I knew nothing, and have disbelieved the evidence of my own senses, backed by the opinion of other people. I don't think so, but that is a matter of opinion. ONLY FAIR CRITICISM.

"Granting that an owner is justified in making such a complaint, the only fair criticism I have heard is that I ought to have taken more vigorous action. It has been said that I should have refused to start in the first race until the vessels were remeas ured, and have broken off the contest alto gether. I was not justified, in my opinion in taking so serious a step. The race was about to be started, some 60,000 people were on some 200 steamers, and I should have had to get my boat out, pull aboard the co-mittee vessel, refuse to start, and have be accused of unwillingness to sail because the weather was not suited to me and a thousand other things, and certainly of deliberat rudeness toward a great multitude of people who had paid to see the race. You must clearly understand that I could do nothing myself to prove the justice of my complaints. The committee alone had the means and the power, and it was possible only by measthe power, and it was possible only by measurement under circumstances precluding the possible only by measurement under circumstances precluding the possibility of alteration of the load water line length. Nothing was to be gained by refusing to start. My object would have been as entirely attained had the vessels been taken charge of and remeasured after the races as before. "Now, gentlemen, is it not strange that, if my complaint can legitimately bear the helinous complexion now placed upon it, no indignation was expressed when it was made in September. READY TO COME TO AMERICA.

"I cannot grasp the situation. The man aging owner of Defender in a letter read at the meeting of the New York Yachting club on Monday last assumed full responsi-

The hall where the presentation of the ell ver model of Valkyrie III took place was de erated with flowers and photographs of Val kyrie and Defender. Upon the arrival of Lord Dunraven and his daughters from Dunraven castle they were met by a large pricession representing the various public bodies of the town. They were accorded the heartiest reception. Fully 250 guests were in attendance and the greatest enthusiasm prevailed at the Lord Tredegar presided at the presentation, instead of the mayor of the town, who was unavoidably absent. Lord Tredegar in making the presentation address said that when he read Lord Dunraven's pamphle giving the detailed account of the last races for the America's cup, he thought it was most natural and sensible, and when the exraordinary feeling was shown in America, h was astonished because what Lord Dunrayer aid in the pamphlet was only a repetition of what he said on the spot. Then, in the midst f cheers he presented the model to Lord unrayen as a testimonial of the pluck shown in trying to bring back the cup.

BROWN WANTED TO SHOOT IT OUT Trouble Between Horsemen Nearly

Today Creveling and a friend were walking down Olive street and Brown jumped from a passing street car and made for his late antagonist. As he approached Creveling he pulled a big revolver from the waistband of his trousers. John Reilly, a horseman, grabbed Brown's arm and prevented him from shooting.

"Now, don't do that," said Creveling, as he saw the gun. "Let's go down to Tom Kelly's and fight it out l'ke a couple of men."

"All right," acquiesced Brown, and the party started for Kelly's. Arriving there, Brown refused to give up his gun, although Creveling begged him to do so for nearly an hour.

Brown refused to give up his gun, although Creveling begged him to do so for nearly an hour.

"Let's get in a carriage," said Brown, "and go somewhere and shoot it out at the end of a handkerchief."

"That might do for you," Creveling replied, "but I've got a family to look out for. If it's fight you want, I'll give it to you, but I'd rather buck against a pair of issts than a pair of revolvers."

After three extempts to shoot at Creveling, Brown was placed under arrest and his gun taken away.

"What he has got against me 1 don't know," said Creveling to a reporter, "unless he's mad because I ruled him off the Karsas City race track. I got him the job there starting at $25 a day. I was in the judge's stand and Al Shores, the horseman, preferred charges against Brown and his brother for blackmailing horsemen. The Brown brothers were going around to different men saying if they did not give them money "Curley" would leave their horses at the post. These charges were substantiated, but so as not to give the meeting a black eye I asked that they be dismissed, and the matter was hushed up. Since then Brown seems to have had it in for me, but I'll get the big duffer yet and give him all the light he is looking for."

maka Comes Close to Getting Into the Western League Cleenit. CHICAGO, Nov. 21.-Although Columbu and Toledo were voted into the Western Base Ball league today, the question as to who is entitled to the franchises kept the magnates busy. At the early session Columbus was taken in unanimously. When the vote on Toledo was taken it was found the representatives of the three western cities were not in favor of that city. Upon the second vote, however, Minneapolis flopped to Toledo. The question of franchise was then taken up, and it was found Dixon and Talbott, J. J. Sheppard. Bert Dasher and Tom Loftus were apolicants for the Columbus franchise. Four of the six magnates were in favor of Loftus. Brush wanted Bert Dasher and Loftus to buy the franchise between them and Goodnow voted in favor of Sheppard, and so the matter is still in the balance.

J. W. Gunnels was the only applicant present for the Toledo franchise, and was willing to pay $2,500, providing he could get it for five years. The committee, however, will only grant him the franchise for one year, which he refused to accept, and being disgusted with the manner in which the league transacted its business, left for home tonight.

LEA WILL PLAY AT LEFT EXU.

Princeton's Captain's Sudden Change Due to Heran's Weakness. PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 21.-The last practice preparatory to the Yale game has been held. While the students are not overconfident, they are unmistakably of the in a victory for Old Nas-au, unless symething very unexpected happens. The sensation of the season occurred when Captain 'Biffle' Lea changed from his regular position of tackle to that of left end. This is due to the marked improvement in the playing of Tyler at tackle. After mature deliberation on the part of the coaches, it has been decided that Tyler is too valuable a man to stand along the side lines. This decision was also made by the fact that left end has been a weak point all the season. Heran was outplayed completely in the Cornell game, and as he is not now in the best condition, it was thought he would not styngthen the line against Yale. Lea has played end before, and although he will be a little new there, it is thought that Yale will make no great gains around him. in a victory for Old Nascau, unless semething

PASSION AND PREJUDICE ALLEGED New Trial Asked for in the Creighton

The St. James Orphanage is apparently not satisfied with the recent breaking of the will of Joseph Creighton, by which i was deprived of some thousands of dollars worth of property. In consequence, a motion was yesterday afternoon filed in the district court for a new trial, in which fifty-one reasons are advanced why the verdic; in the case should be set aside.

While the greater portion of these reasons ensist of alleged errors in rulings and the some which are peculiar and which disclos the lines which were drawn in the trial One of these reasons states that the verdict was the result of "passion and prejudic against the Catholic church." Another say: that the opposing counsel went outside the record and "appealed to the religious pas-sion and prejudice of the jury by dilating on alleged wrongs done by the Catholic nurch in Mexico, Italy, France and Eng land. WORN OUT BY WORRY AND WAITING

Son's Acquittal Reached Him. NEW YORK, Nov. 21 .- Almost at the minite that the foreman of the jury declared that David F. Hannigan, who shot Solomon Mann, the seducer of his sister, was "not guilty" of murder, William Hannigan, the aged father of the prisoner, closed his eyes in death. This was the tragic ending of the troubles of the Hannigan family, which seem o have multiplied since the death of Loretta Hannigan last summer from the result of oriminal operation which Mann procured During the past few days of the long drawn out trial, old William Hannigan, worn out by his daughter's disgrace and the strain of waiting for the decision of his son's fate has been gradually sinking, and tonight he died b fore the news of his son's acquitta could reach the family. When the judge asked the foreman whether the jury had agreed upon a verdict,

"We find the defendant not guilty, ipon the ground of insanity." The prisoner's wife went into hysterics. Attorney Brooke then asked for Hannigen's clease, but the judge said: "I would al-nest be guilty of man-laughter myself if I should discharge him. I think it best himself and his family that he should binself and his family that he should be taken care of properly somewhere until he recovers from the excitement of the trial and what may follow." Shortly afterward Judge Ingraham said that Hannigan could be taken in the custody of the sheriff to see his father, to be brought back again to the Tombs. When the prisoner left the court he was cheered by a large crowd. It was 11:45 when he reached home and found his mother beside his father's body. The verdict had been announced at 11:19, and at 11:15 the elder Hannigan had died.

ANOTHER WEDDING IN HIGH LIFE. Stillman Rockefeller Nuptials Not So Elaborate as Its Predecessors.

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.-Miss Elsie Stillnan, daughter of Mr. James Stillman, was married at 3:30 this afternoon to William G. Rockefeller, the son of William G. Rockefeller, the Standard oil magnate. The ceremony was at St. Bartholomew's church, and Rishop Potter officiated, assisted by the rector, Dr. David G. Greer, In comparison with the recent weddings in the Vanderbill and Whitney families, today's was rather unostentations and less distinctively an event for fashionable society. The church decor-tions were not claborate, though rich. The bride entered the church on the arof her father. She was preceded by the ushers, John D. Rockefeller, jr., D. Humer

McAlpin, Walter N. Bliss, Richard Von Wyck, Oliver Y. Jennings, James A. Still-man, Jr., and Evart Macey, Then followed the bridesmalds, who were Miss Isabella Stillman, the bride's sister; Miss Rockefeller, sister of the groom; Miss Annie T. Morgan. Miss Caroline Morgan, Miss Edith Morgan and Miss Edna Barger. The ceremony was selemnized with a full choral service, and the wedding march from Lobengrin was a feature, the musical program being under the direction of Dr. War on, organist at the church. The bride was attired in white satin, trimmed on the corsage with point lace applique. Her vell was of tulie, edged with a deep border of point lace. She carried a prayer book instead of a bouquet. The bridesmaids were costumed in gowns made the mode of Louis Seize. The skirts were of white silk, the coats of white broade, igured with pink and finished with pink velvet belts and collars. The vests were of white tolle. Their hats were made with Tam O'Shanter crowns of white brocade ilk, with black velvet brims, trimmed with six black plumes. After the marriage a reception was held at the residence of the bride's parents, where Mr. Rockefeller and his bride received under a bower of palms in the drawing room. The bride's family gave her pearls and the bridegroom diamonds. Mr. Rocke-feller's gift to his bride was a diamond brooch. The bride's father gave her a house on Madison avenue. Among the gifts were silver vases from President Cleveland and Secretary Lamont.
