Friends of the Alleged Train Wrecker Declare that Unfair Advantage is Being Taken of the LINCOLN. Nov. 26 .- (Special.) -- One more sensation has bobbed to the surface in the Davis murder case. Farmer Yates, the luryman who, a week or so ago became temporarily insone and jumped from a second story window in the Capital hotel, now arises to remark that he was "doped." According to his story, and he is not at all backward in expressing his opinion, somebody, with the intention of getting him off the jury, "fixed" his coffee. It is his idea that this was done by some emissary of the Rock Island railroad, owing to the fact that he had asked certain questions of witnesses which might have indicated that he favored the negro prisoner. The neighbors of Mr. Yates join in statements that he has always been con-A prominent attorney in Lincoln has received vass of the whole of Furnas county, the sua letter from Valparaiso, this county, in which the writer expresses violent indigna-tion over the manner in which Mr. Yates is alleged to have been treated. Yates resides just this side of Valparaiso. The writer says that Vates is in possession of evidence conclusively proving that the railroad company was anxious to have him removed from the jury. Several Lincoln physicians say that they do not believe that Yates has been tampered with, but that he was suddenly attacked with "confusional insanity," produced confinement in the court room and jury There are many strong partisans of the negro, Davis, in this city, who believe that the Rock Island is doing all in its power to supreme court has held that a common carrier is liable in damages only when the loss of life or injury is caused by negligence of the company or its servants, or because of faulty construction or imperfect maintenance of the road. There are already a large number of damage suits against the road, which are awaiting the decision of the Davis jury before being pushed. The Rock Island road has hired attorneys to assist the prosecution and has been diligent in providing detectives to hunt up evidence against the negro.

By tomorrow night it is thought the case will be given to the jury. Arguments of counsel were commenced this morning, Congressman Jesse B. Strode opening for the prosecution. The court room was crowded. He recounted the evidence at some length and went minutely into details. Particular attention was paid to confessions said to have been made to fellow prisoners. Metz and Barrett, and to his ex-colaborer on the Lonsdale farm, Craighead. Judge Strode was followed in the afternoon by J. E. Philpott and Fred Woodward for the state. Mr. Alishuler and Mr. Adams will close for the defense and County Attorney Woodward for the state. FAILED TO PAY HIS SUBSCRIPTION.

Another Lansing theater lawsuit is set for hearing tomorrow before Judge Hall. It is the case of Lansing and Oliver against Lieutenant Governor R. E. Moore, to recover a subscription of $1,000 toward building the Lansing opera house. There are issued a large number of subpoenas for witnesses. The defendant contends in his answer that the theater was not built according to promise and is in many ways unsatisfactory. Gov-Moore has summoned a number of unsuccessful bidders to appear with memoranda they took on which to bid for building the

Today the commissioners of Lancaster cunty cut down the bills handed in by the State Journal for the publication of the de-linquent tax list from $2,466.10 to $1,400. The Journal people contended that they were en-titled to the statutory rate of 10 and 20 cents per description for the list. They had figured their bills on that basis. The com-missioners refused to allow them.

The district court today granted Receiver Hayden of the late Capital National bank permission to compromise a case against H. Wednesday in February, 1896. The election W. Green, a Massachusetts stockholder in the of these officers and delegates must be at bank. He is said to be execution proof and held ten shares of stock, on which he had ceived $650 as dividends. Suit to recover these dividends is pending. Green has offered to compromise by paying $323.33, and the receiver wants to settle on that basis, believing he can recover no more.

Senator Peffer Announces His Choice for Populist Presidential Candidate.

FIRST CHOICE RESTS ON THE GOVERNOR

Now Holding Federal Office in Choosing Lenders for the Coming Campaign

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26 .- (Special .- Senator Peffer is the buriest man about the capitol these days, working early and late in preparing matter for the coming session of the Fifty-fourth congress. He looks forward to a long and laborious session, and in an dicipation of President Cleveland's recom nendation to retire greenbacks is spending much time on that most important question "It would not at all surprise me to see in the president's message a decided stand taken in favor of retiring greenbacks. There is nothing else left for the democratic party to do. That is entirely in keeping with the position in which it has been placed by the president. Farmers and small dealers are not onsidered by Mr. Cleveland as business men the bankers are the business men, and he has gone over to the banks, horse, foot and dragoon. If an attempt is made to retire greenbacks it will devolve upon our people in the senate and house to prohibit buch in famous legislation, and so long as I have physical endurance left to raise my voice i will be found on the side of the plain people protecting their rights by restricting the at empt to take from us greenbacks and substitute national bank bonds, as undoubtedly the scheme is now."

"Have you thought of any one as the nom ince for president by the populists?" The Beeman asked the sentor senator from Kausas. "Indeed I have, I think Silas A. Holcomb governor of Nebraska, would make a strong safe man for that exalted place. His course as governor has been free of entangling

"No one can accuse him of being in steal; or tied up with the money powers. Of course, if it should be decided to take a man from legislative life, then I would favor Senator Allen, also of Nebraska, but I believe our people would be stronger if they would go cutside of those now holding offices and nominate Holcomb. I have seen the governor, but from what I can learn he is a big man. For vice president I would go to Texas and nominate Judge Newgent. who is much the same sort of a man as

"Will the next national convention of the populists reaffirm the Omaha platform?"
"Well," said the senator, "that is a pretty represents our faiths, but I believe in writing platforms that everybody can understand, making them so plain that he who runs may read. Upon the question of coinage the Omaha platform is sound, and that clause will be reaffirmed. Some changes, however, will be made in the preamble. Individually I should prefer a more central location, as St. Louis or Louisville. Our people have got to consider railroad fare, and a frip across the con-linent costs money. You take the representatives of the older parties, and they bave money to burn, their expenses being paid by nterested individuals or corporations. We interested individuals or corporations. We populiets are not so situated. Wherever the convention meets, I look for earnest, conscientious action, a betterment of existing conditions being the slogan of the party of

ime for the assembling of the Fifty-fourth congress comes closer the contentions of rival candidates for places in the houses, and the corresponding right to distribute patronage are put aside for the discussion of what are the republican senators going to do toward reorganization? Are they going to enter into a combine with the democrats who now enjoy fat committees and divide the loaves and fishes, or will they make an effort to take the organization from those at pres-ent enjoying the honors. These questions are not without special significance at this time, for the presidential race is but nine months off, and the republicans recognize the importance of going to the country upon a record that means a betterment of existing conditions, could they have had votes enough o secure the passage of remedial legisla are interviewed there is a growing belief that the caucus of republicans will decide upon an honest effort being made to reorganize the senate without entering into any bar gain with either democrats or populists. Senator Peffer in an interview rather indicated the action of the populists when he said that so much had been said about the populists and republicans getting together that he, for one, would urge concerted actions of the populists and republicans getting together that he, for one, would urge concerted action upon the part of his friends in the sen-ate and attempt organization of the senate along their own lines. If this is done it will complicate matters very considerably, unless the populists should decline to vote unless the populists should decline to vote on the division being demanded by either republicans or democrats, upon the question of electing a president pro tem. Should they do this, then the course is clear for the republicans, for with their forty-two votes against the democrats' thirty-nine they would have a majority of the votes cast, and a

have a majority of the votes cast, and a quorum of the senate would be voting.

It is now understood that Senator John P. Jones will not come east until after the Christmas holidays, which will reduce the populist strength to five, counting Senator Marion Butler with that party. But there is no certainty that Mr. Butler will act with the populists in the organization of the senate, and from little things said, it is pretty safe to assume that Mr. Butler will be invited to attend the republican caucus, when the notities of that caucus are sent out.
