Twenty-one civil suits were filed in Justice Cook's court yesterday afternoon, involving sums ranging from $10 to $100. Ninetcen of them were filed by one large implement firm in the city. The suits were for the purpose of forcing collections of notes given the firm during the last year or two.

Thomas Raff, one of the members of the oodlum gangs who have been disturbing the Fifteenth street mission during religious services, has been lying in the city jall for several days, awaiting a hearing of the charges made against him. The case was partially heard by Judge McGee yestering morning and continued until this morning. Some of the witnesses testified that Raff did not use language attributed to him by the preacher, but on cross-examination it be-came evident they were trying to shield the defendant, and a number of others will be called today. Judge McGee proposes to make an example of witnesses who have deliber-ately lied, if the testimony today will warrant it.

H. B. Straut of Lincoln, Neb., was with ness to a marriage ceremony in this city on Wednesday night, but did not take quite as much interest in the affair as he would have done had the contracting parties been those he was expecting.

On Wednesday afternoon Mr. Straut ap-peared at the office of the clerk of the courts and asked that some of the employes be on hand in the evening with a minister, and explained that his daughter and his prospective son-in-law were coming from the west on an evening train and desired to be married in the evening. Arrangements were made accordingly, and Rev. T. F. Thickstun was present to perform the ceremony. After a thresome wait the party decided that Miss Straut and her husband-elect that bases Stratt and her mispand-elect had been delayed. Just as the father and the others who were to share in the official part of the ceremony were leaving the room Clarence E. Jenkins of Omaha and Miss Carrie B. Dimon of Omaha arrived at the cierk's office, secured a license and were united in marriage. Yesterday morn-ing it was discovered that the bridal party from the west had been delayed and had the marriage ceremony performed at Columbus, Neb.

"box of Topseys," whose presence was almost a divine inspiration to the boys on the previous night, was not there last night, and this was a potent source of disappointment. Many new local hits were made that kept the audience convulsed. The music was much better than the first night, and this was the source of much satisfaction. It required a second appearance for the audience to realize the fact that some of the young men pos-sessed ability that should class them among the top notches on the minstrel stage. This was particularly so of W. L. Douglas, the Eagle laundry man, who, as the "Leader of Company B," captured the boxes and the

The only thing that gives us any hope is the fact that during the last two years we have had all of our cold weather in February. Two years ago the mercury did not get above zero during the first week in February, and last winter we had a solid week of zero temperature, between the 9th and 17th. Dur-ing this time the temperature dropped to about twenty below. But the conditions that made that extreme cold possible do not prevall now. The first week of the month was stormy and snowy, with heavy snows in the south and bilizzards in the north. STANHOPE ROYSTER ACUITTED.

Jury Decides Him Not Guilty of Mur-der at All.

BOONE, In., Feb. 6.(Special Telegram.)-Just a week ago today was begun the trial of Stanhope Royster for murder in the first legree for the killing of E. W. McFarland for the seduction of his daughter. Readers of these dispatches are familiar with the details of the case, which for seven days has been watched by all the spectators the court house would accommodate, crowded to its ut-most capacity. The utmost interest has been manifested, both inside the court house and by the citizens generally, and the sympathy for Royster has been very manifest. The argument has consumed two days. R.

F. Jordan opened for the state, followed by S. R. Dyer for the defense. Then came Judge J. L. Stevens for Royster, and at 4 c'clock this afternoon Major A. J. Holmes, the county attorney, closed for the state. Judge Hindman occupied an hour in delivering his charge to the jury. It retired at 5 o'clock, and the attorneys left the court room. Five minutes later the jury returned, ready to report. After the attorneys had been sent for arrived, the verdict of the jury was given. It was: "Not guilty." There then ensued a scene of the wildest confusion, the crowd cheered, threw up their bets the worms waved handkrephiafs then hats, the women waved handkerchiefs, then a rush was made for the jury and they were shaken hands with and congratulated, as were also the defendant and his wife, who were very much affected. Attorneys Dyer and Stevens were seized by the crowd and the life hugged out of them, so great was the joy of the crowd.

Man. Alleged to Be a Bigamist. CHEROKEE, Ia., Feb. 6.-(Special.)-S. C.

Catron, a traveling salesman for a Marshalltown buggy firm, was brought here last evening by a deputy sheriff charged with being a tos-much married man. The war-rant was sworn out by wife No. 2, who re-sides at Washta, Cherokce county, who says that she has always known her husband by the name of T. H. Dula. Family No. resides at Winterset and consists vife and two daughters, aged 15 and 17 years respectively, and a son who has grown to manhood. Wife No. 2 says that she and Dula (Catron) were married at Sioux City July 4 last, and that her former home was near Onawa.

Catron evidently tired of the charms of his second love and left her at Washta. It was learned that Catron was in jail at Winterset on account of some family trou-ble, and Sheriff Miller was on hand to claim his man as soon his time was out. Catron says that he was never married to the Washta woman, but has not denied that she was his "friend." Wife No. 2 says that when Catron deserted her at Washta, he carried her marriage license away with him. The prisoner has exhibited considerable ner-vousness since his arrest and mays that he expected it. He will be given a preliminary hearing at Washta today. Catron says he has been in the employ of the Marshalltown firm for nine years.

gram.)-The question as to whether saloon keepers can refuse to pay for liquors bought under the mulct law as under the old prohibitory law is soon to be decided. The first case of the kind was raised today in Judge Eichelberger's court. An Illinois li-quor firm sued John Feehan, a saloon keeper, for liquors bought. Feehan filed a demurrer on the ground that the sale of liquors was illegal; that while the mulct law stops criminal proceedings it does not legalize the sale, and consequently the bill cannot be collected. In this action Mr. Stewart seeks to recover damages to the amount of $2,000 by reason of a change of grade on Fourth street. The case was tried once before, and a verdict returned in favor of the city. The case was appealed, and the supreme court reversed the lower court and sent the case back for a new trial. Mr. Stewart has since offered to compromise the case, and his offer has been refreed by the city council. refused by the city council.

The suit was brought to recover the price of three head of horses which Wise sold to the Omaha company for $350. The company wants to return one of the horses, claiming it was not as represented, and Wige insists upon the sale of the three going. The transfer company has a counter claim of several hundred dollars for the care of the horse which it now desires Wise to take back.
