Kensington and Afternoon Teas, for the Time at Least, Give Way to the Bieyele Craze-Society Notes.

The weeks that have followed the Easter season have not been remarkable for their social brilliancy, and in fact the spring season promises but very little gavety for the next few weeks. An occasional lunch, kensington or dance is all that has occurred to relieve the rather oppressive quietude.

The particular fad at this present season seems to be bicycling. There is no doubt that during summer evenings wheeling will be one of the favorite amusements. The interest in this particular sport seems to have already reached the height of popularity in a results to the commandant. certain well known neighborhood, where it has been noticed that every family has its representative, but in some instances one could see every member riding their hobby.

It was in this same neighborhood that a barrister of national reputation, now living in Chleago, took his first lessons, with all the neighborhood for an audience, and the words of admonition and advice he received Failing to learn by himself, called a coachman of one of his neighbors and asked him if he wanted to earn a dollar course he did, so together they started with the best of results, so that at the end of the evening he felt almost as though he was a professional. The second evening he ventured out alone, but when he reached the corner, what was his horror and dismay to see another blcycle coming down that cross street toward him and at full speed. ross street toward him and at full speed.

He shouted at the top of his deep voice.

"What is the matter with you? Do you want the whole street?" The approaching bicyclist seemed not to notice the remark, when the barrieter called out again, "Turn out there; won't you? I am a beginner." In a breathless way the other one answered. "So am I." The inevitable collision was one of the many amusing incidents witnessed.

wheel ran away with him down an incline. He yelled to the driver of a passing vehicle to turn out, for he was running away and could not stop himself. It is needless to say that the man turned into the curbstone and Mr. K. reached the bottom of the hill in safety, but there fell off, sustaining no injury except a slight hurt to his dignity.

One man said. "I don't see what people are thinking of. They walk out into the street just as if they had a right to be there and some one is always trying to cross just as I want to turn a corner. There ought to be a law against it-a law that would compel pedestrians to remain on the sidewalks where they would not be in the way of those who really have rights in the streets. And there are others.

A man occupying a high position in South Omaha, together with his wife, are the latest recruits. Each started out to learn without the other's knowledge, the man practicing in back yards and side streets, his wife taking private lessons and eventually going so far as to order her wheeling suit. All of the neighbors were let into the secret by both neighbors were let into the secret by some parties, and they waited in patient expect-ancy for the time when, to one another, they should display their proficiency on the wheel. Jordan-Moore.

The prettiest wedding that society has graced for a number of months took place at St. Matthias' church Wednesday at high noon, in the midst of a large and fashion-able congregation, which had gathered there to witness the marriage ceremony of Miss Helen Bushnell Moore, second daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Richard Channing Moore, a pretty and attractive brunette, who has been a favorite in society circles for several seasons, and Mr. Harry Gibson Jordan, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Jordan of St. Louis, who is well known in the business world. who is well known in the business world, as well as socially, and who is as popular as is his charming bride. The interior of the church was beautifully

The interior of the church was beautifully decorated with Easter lilies, carnations, palms and smilax, and in the soft light shed from the chandeliers, presented a very pretty scene. The bridal party entered the church to the organ strains of the bridal chorus from Lohengrin, played by Mr. Arthur East. It was preceded to the altar rails by Dr. Doherty, the officiating clergyman, and the ushers, Mr. Will Pease, Mr. Charles W. Martin, Mr. J. M. Baldrige and Mr. Charles Howe. Then followed the two pretty bridesmaids, Miss Grace Allen and Miss Predericka Wessells, who wore dainty white organdie gowns, erimmed profusely in lace, and made over pink satin.

The Montexumas Dance.

Last Thursday evening the Montegumas gave their closing dancing party of the season. It was quite well attended, there being upwards of fifty couples present. Twenty numbers were danced. The many friends of the Montezumas will undoubtedly be de-lighted to hear that it is not the intention of the club to disband, and they may rest assured that they can enjoy themselves as guert. Surprised the Boys in Blue

The Thurston Biffer were completely taken by surprise last Monday evening, when they eturned to their armory, after their regular weekly drill. Captuin Foye marched his out of the armo'y with as much haste precision as though he were going to and precision as though he clear an obstruction at some dangerous scone ordered, and a few of the man were rejucing critical scrutiny of the officers. Such, however, was not be case, as the inspection caremonies were held on Douglas and Fifteenth slastic bystanders, with highly gratifying

Interest in the competitive drill Monday night was heightened by the fact that it wa participated in by all the members of the company. It usually requires some time for a new man to acquire sufficient confidence in his own abilities to volunteer for a competition, but Captain Mulford, knowing the experience to be particularly beneficial to baying the smallest amount of confidence occasionally assists a man's resolution by n giving him a chance to escape the ordeal ncreasing thereby interest in the drill both within the ranks and among the spectators It was a long line, therefore, that began the drill Monday night. The first half consisthe lifty of the inexperienced new men and the careless old ones, was soon down. The rate of reduction then fell off gradually unti-but six men were left. The eix, however, seemed both determined and competent and made a stubborn fight. But they went down one by one before the assaults of the enemy until Sergeant O. G. We want ladies and gentlemen to sell and teach this system in every town and county throughout the west. Send for circular.

Any one living within 35 miles of Omaha who cannot leave home to attend this Academy can have this system with full instructions at their homes free of charge by getting four other pupils at $10.00 per pupil. By a little canvasing four scholars can easily be had. Experienced dress makers once seeing this system will use no other. Teachers wanted.
