

DECORATION DAY AT LINCOLN

Public Business Suspended and All Joined in the Work.

GREAT CROWDS AT WYUKA CEMETERY

Various Grand Army Societies Take Part in the Observation of the Occasion—Programs at Other Points.

LINCOLN, May 30.—(Special.)—The weather was threatening but Decoration day was generally observed, and the streets along the main thoroughfare at Wyuka cemetery attested the fact that the patriotic sentiment of the people had not in the least abated. Public business was suspended, the celebration proper was in charge of a joint committee of Farragut and Appomattox posts, and the Woman's Relief corps. Wreaths of evergreens had been prepared and the contributions of flowers were generous. All during the forenoon ladies and children were at Grand Army hall, corner Twelfth and N streets, to receive them.

At 1:30 p. m. the main procession moved from the corner of Twelfth and O streets to Twenty-first, where all the school children were grouped, and from there cars were taken for Wyuka cemetery. The principal exercises were held at the Grand Army of the Republic burial lot. This included depositing memorials for unknown dead by the Woman's Relief corps, and Sons of Veterans, appropriate music and the Grand Army of the Republic ritualistic services. Decorations by committees closed the services. There was no memorial address, which was an innovation on old-time celebrations, but it had been decided by the joint committee to dispense with such address, and the result was not disappointing. One of the pleasant features of the observance was the appearance of the Sunday school children. They formed along Q street, and on the appearance of the main body of the parade, gave a flag salute, and sang patriotic songs. Different schools were dressed along different blocks, and the showing they made was quite attractive. The Elliott school met inside the cemetery grounds, in open ranks, near the little bridge. It was remarked by all at the conclusion of the exercises that the observances of the day had been as elaborately carried out as at any other previous occasion.

CAPITOL OFFICES CLOSED. The offices of the state departments at the capitol were closed all day. Quite a number of the state officers are at different parts of the commonwealth, where they go to deliver addresses. Governor Holcomb is at Broken Bow.

The procession to the cemetery formed as follows: Flowers containing flowers; Farmers' and Merchants' colored band; Company D, First regiment, Nebraska National Guard, thirty men, commanded by Captain W. M. Decker; Lincoln Light Infantry, fifty men, in command of Captain Campbell; Farragut drum corps; Farragut and Appomattox posts, and veterans, numbering 220; Post Commanders James Stevenson and Porter Helge; Woman's Relief corps, and Daughters of Veterans, forty-eight in number, commanded by Mrs. P. M. Vaughan and Mrs. Francis E. Price.

Captain Joseph Teeters officiated as marshal of the day. A noticeable feature of the parade was the large number of aged veterans in line, many of whom were much cheered by the march. The ritual services were performed at the cemetery by Commanders Stevenson of Farragut and Porter Helge of Appomattox posts. The bugler was Master Eugene Linderman. Following is the program, which was carried out: Bugle calls; invocation; reading of general orders; music by glee club; depositing memorials for unknown dead by Woman's Relief corps and Sons of Veterans of Veterans; music by the glee club; Grand Army of the Republic ritualistic services; song, "America," decorated in the old fashioned way, which can never be improved by ornate elements or modern ostentation.

The exercises at the unveiling of the monument consisted of a vocal selection by a male quartet, address by Rev. W. H. Buse, and ritualistic exercises by the Ladies of the Grand Army of the Republic. The monument was unveiled by Miss Ida Piper of the Daughters of Veterans. It is a plain shaft of blue Vermont marble resting upon a rectangular base of the same material with a square foundation of lime-dressed granite about three feet in height. The monument is dedicated to the Memory of the Unknown Dead, May 30, 1896. On the east and west sides of the shaft near the base are cut the badges of the Grand Army of the Republic and Ladies of the Grand Army of the Republic, respectively. Dr. Buse's address was very fitting and appropriate, and though delivered in the rain, was listened to with close attention by a large and eloquent audience. COUNTY AFFAIRS DISCUSSED. Commissioners of Northwestern Nebraska Hold a Convention. OPENING OF SECTION LINES A THEME. Amounts to Be Paid for Land Condemned for that Purpose One of the Points in Order.

NORFOLK, Neb., May 29.—(Special.)—An important meeting of county commissioners of northeastern Nebraska has just been held in this city. The attendance was not as large as was expected, but an exceedingly interesting and instructive session was held. Contrary to the views expressed by a number of papers, there is no politics connected with the object of this association, it is simply a desire to get together and discuss the manner of conducting county affairs in the best manner and of securing uniformity of administration of county affairs. Some of the subjects discussed were in relation to the opening of section-line roads and the amount paid for land condemned for road purposes; the manner of purchasing lumber, bridges material and supplies, the annual equalization meeting and methods pursued, delinquent taxes and how handled, and the manner of assessing land.

It was decided to change the name of the association to the County Commissioners and Supervisors Association of the State of Nebraska, making it a state association instead of simply North Nebraska, as heretofore. The next meeting will be held at Lincoln on the second Tuesday in December, 1936.
